The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) A large measure of discretion as to the exact hours of work is left to the presiding officer of each court, under the general control of the District Judge. So long as there is no reason to believe that that discretion and that control are not wisely exercised, Government are not prepared to interfere in these details.

(b) The actual closing hours no doubt depend upon the business coming before the Court on each day.

WATER CESS, KOREGAON

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention is drawn to the fact that Bagait water cess is being recovered from the cultivators of Koregaon in Satara District this year, even when the people have not availed themselves of the dam water, and even though the dam was not in a working order ;

(b) whether complaints in this connection have reached Government ;

(c) if so, whether Government proposes to remit the cess so recovered ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a), (b) and (c) There is only one bandhara in the village. An application for remission of the water rate on it was received from the landholders, but was rejected. The water rate was duly recovered. The applicants did not carry out the usual repairs to the bandhara.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : May I know if the application was rejected on account of usual repairs not being carried out ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No, that is not strictly speaking the reason. The reason why the water rate was recovered was that there was no water in the pat.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : May I know if the water rate is recovered even though there was no water available ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : There was water in the pat, and water would have been available but for the omission on the part of the cultivators to dam it up by replacing the bandhara.

PRINCE OF WALES SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mr. LALJI NARANJI (Indian Merchants' Chamber) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Indian seamen are admitted to the Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute in Bombay ;

(b) if so, the number of Indian seamen admitted to that institute during the last two years ;

(c) whether the building of the Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute was raised out of public subscriptions and whether the Indian public subscribed a large sum towards that building fund ;

(d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, whether any Indian has ever been appointed to the Committee of that institute ;

(e) if the answer to (d) be in the negative, whether they intend to appoint an Indian gentleman to that Committee ;

(f) whether any separate annexes for the Indian seamen are attached to the Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute, as was contemplated at one time ;

(g) if the answer to (f) be in the negative, the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a) and (b) The Institute, though undenominational in character, does not cater specially to the needs of Indian seamen. They do not accordingly resort to it.

(c) Yes. Certain sums were received from Indians, but the majority of the subscriptions came from the Western India Turf Club, European Firms and Europeans.

(d) No.

(e) According to the Rules and Regulations of the Institute, the Members of the Society consist (for the time being) of the Committee and also any person, firm, company or public body who have paid a subscription or contribution of Rs. 30 or upwards to the Society in the year expiring on the previous December. The Committee consists of nine persons elected by members of the Society and eight ex-officio Members. The nine members to be elected by the subscribers of whom two-thirds shall belong to the Church of England, are elected annually at the Annual General Meeting of the Society. No Indian has so far been elected by the subscribers.

(f) No.

(g) Certain monies subscribed for the purpose of erecting a Lascars' Memorial Home have been kept apart and have accumulated. A Committee has recently been appointed by Government to examine the question of the proposed Indian Sailors' Home in Bombay and its report is awaited.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : As regards the reply given to (a) and (b), it is stated there that the Indian seamen do not resort to it. May I know if they will be admitted if they resort to it ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Yes. They will be admitted according to the rules and regulations of the Institute.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: Are the rules and regulations such that the Indians will be able to go there?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I have already given an answer "that the Institute, though undenominational in character, does not cater specially for the needs of Indian seamen." It is undenominational in character.

Mr LALJI NARANJI: As regards (c) it is stated that the majority of the subscriptions came from the Western India Club, European Firms and Europeans. Is the majority taken including the Western India Turf Club? Do Government regard the Western India Turf Club as a European body?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Government express no opinion on that point. The question was asked by the honourable member and the answer is given.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: I want to know from Government whether the majority of subscriptions is arrived at including the subscriptions of the Western India Turf Club?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I have not seen the figures, but I can say that the Western India Turf Club must have contributed a substantial amount.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: Is this majority of subscriptions arrived at including the subscription of the Western India Turf Club, considering it to be a European body?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I am afraid I cannot definitely answer that question, because I will then have to look at the subscription lists of the Institute. The Western India Turf Club is not a European institution, as my honourable friend knows; it is cosmopolitan.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: What I want to know is, this is included here as if it was a European body, and.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I follow the honourable member's question. In that case, I shall have to ascertain what were the subscriptions from the Western India Turf Club and others.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: Cannot Government have some voice in this matter?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Government are not concerned with the management of the institution. It is managed, as described later on, according to the rules and regulations. Government have no voice in the matter. If the honourable member sees the answer to (e), he will see how the institution is managed.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: I will come to (e) later, but before that, Government seem to be under the impression that the majority of subscribers to the Western Indian Turf Club are Europeans?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Where does the answer infer that the majority of the subscribers are Europeans ?

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : Answer to (c).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It says " Certain sums were received from Indians " but the majority of the subscriptions came from so many sources.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : When you consider (c), (d) and (e) together I believe that Government take it that because the majority of the subscribers are Europeans, Indians are not admitted on that committee.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : If the honourable member will see, he will see the constitution of the committee from the answer to (e) in which Government have no voice.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : Then, how was the voice of subscribers given that two-thirds shall belong to the Church of England ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I have not the remotest idea. It is not done by Government. It is an institution independent of Government.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : As to (g), who are the members of the committee ? What are their names ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I speak from memory ; different institutions have been asked to send their representatives, and I believe the honourable member's Chamber has also been asked to send a representative to this committee.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : The honourable member does not know the names of the members ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : No ; I cannot recollect them.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : How many Indians are there on that committee ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I ask for notice ; I cannot recollect it just now. It is a representative committee, which is constituted by asking representative bodies, to send their representatives, so far as I remember now.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : As to (f), I wish to know from the Honourable the General Member whether a part of the institute could not have been set apart for the Indian seamen ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : As I have already stated, the institution is managed by a committee over which Government have no control. Under the circumstances, I regret I am unable to follow the question.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Then, would the Honourable the General Member make enquiries from the managers of the institution whether Indians cannot be provided with a separate part as suggested ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I may be able to make enquiries if the honourable member will give me notice.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: This question was put for that purpose ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The question was very clear and the answer has been given. If the honourable member wants further action to be taken, Government will make enquiries. But they have no control over the institute.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Does not Government pay any contribution towards this institute ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Yes; we do pay a contribution.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: How much ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I will just find out and let you know.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: But inasmuch as Government does pay something, does not the Honourable the General Member think Government is entitled to say something in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I see the Seamen's Institute is down for Rs. 1,200. I do not know whether it is the same institute as this. I cannot be dead certain.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Dead or alive, will the Honourable Member make it certain ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Yes.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: So far as I know, that is the only Seamen's Institute which gets a grant from Government. There is no other institute.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: No, no. So far as I know, the Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute is not the same as the Seamen's Institute. There are two. There is another Seamen's Institute, in addition to the Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute. The Prince of Wales Seamen's Institute is the one which is in the Sailor's Home, which will now go.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Is it so very difficult to find out to which institute Government pays a grant ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: No.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN: May I know whether the majority of the Indian seamen are Mahomedans ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I am afraid I cannot answer that question straight off.

PERSIAN LECTURERS

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the number of Persian students in all Government Colleges in the presidency is smaller than that of Sanskrit students;

(b) whether the pay of Persian lecturers was brought a few years back on a par with that of Sanskrit professors on the ground that the mental strain involved in teaching was the same in both instances ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The pay of lecturers and professors in the Educational Department is fixed not with reference to the subject they teach but with reference to the Service (Indian Educational Service or Bombay Educational Service) to which they belong and the number of years which they may have served in it. The allocation of the present posts in Sanskrit and Persian to particular Services was effected after a consideration of their importance and of the academic qualifications and experience of the men who held the posts at the time. The question of mental strain involved in teaching has nothing to do with the matter.

A. V. SCHOOLS IN SANAND AND GODAVI

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total population of Sanand ;

(b) the total population of the village of Godavi near Sanand ;

(c) the number of recognised Anglo-vernacular schools in Sanand and Godavi separately ;

(d) the number of pupils in each such school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) 6,979.

(b) 1,946.

(d) None at Sanand ; 46 in the Godavi school on 31st March 1927.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Is it not a fact that Government have refused to recognise the existing Anglo-vernacular school at Sanand, which is a taluka town and which has a population of 6,979, while they have given recognition to the one at Godavi, which is only a small village with a population of 1,946, and that two-thirds of the students who attend the Godavi school are from Sanand and they have to walk all the distance from Sanand to Godavi ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The discretion is with the Director of Public Instruction, and I will require notice of the very important question of my honourable friend.

EXCISE DEPARTMENT : GUJARATI-SPEAKING INDIAN CHRISTIANS

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of clerks in the Excise Department from the Gujarati-speaking Indian Christian community ;

(b) why a larger number of clerks from the community are not appointed even though there are many graduates and matriculates amongst them ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: (a) One.

(b) Because only three applications were received during the last three years.

REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Revenue Department has any control over Registration matters in their administration in the Secretariat and in the mofussil;

(b) if so, in what respects and for what reasons?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: (a) and (b) The Honourable Member is referred to No. 6 of the Devolution Rules made under sections 45-A and 129-A of the Government of India Act and item No. 13 in Schedule II annexed thereto, under which Registration is a transferred subject. It is administered by the Honourable Minister for Forests and Excise. The papers of this Department pass (in the Secretariat) through the Secretary, Revenue Department, and in the districts the Collectors have also been appointed District Registrars in addition to their duties as Revenue officers.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT: SURVEY NO. 299 OF PAL

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether in survey No. 299 of Pal, taluka Chorasi, district Surat, there are houses built in 1861 before the Land Revenue Code was passed;

(b) whether it is a fact that survey No. 299 was subsequently included in the village site of Pal in 1914 and assessment levied from the people;

(c) whether it is a fact that Government had agreed to forego the assessment after revision settlement;

(d) whether it is a fact that the assessment was not remitted at the time of revision settlement;

(e) whether it is a fact that the request of the people to the Collector and Commissioner to remit the assessment after the revision was rejected;

(f) whether the people have appealed to Government in this matter;

(g) if so, what steps they intend to take in the matter to redress the grievances of the people.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) There is no proof that the houses in survey No. 299 of Pal were of a date anterior to 1879, the year in which the Land Revenue Code was passed.

(b) The survey number stood in the name of one Ranchhod Dahya in the year 1911-12; in August 1912 he resigned it absolutely in favour of Government. It was then entered in the Government records as Government waste. From then onwards the villagers, whose houses stand on the site, have been paying direct to Government the Kiraya equal to the annual assessment, i.e., Rs. 32 plus the local fund cess.

(c) and (d) No.

(e) and (f) Yes.

(g) As the survey number has been entered as Government waste, Government are entitled to charge kiraya calculated at the rate of 2 pies per square yard, as they do for other similar lands. The full annual kiraya amounts to Rs. 110, but only Rs. 32 are being charged at present. As the villagers have been treated leniently, Government did not consider that they had a grievance.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is the honourable member aware that statements have been made by some very old persons residing in the village that the houses in question were built on this survey number before 1879 ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not so aware.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : As to (c), is the honourable member aware that there is a remark in the Panipatrak of the village of Pal that permanent remission will be given for this survey number when the revision settlement takes place ? My question in (c) was whether it is a fact that Government had agreed to forgo the assessment permanently after revision settlement. The honourable member's answer is " No. " My supplementary question now is this : Is the honourable member aware that a remark has been made in the Panipatrak of the village of Pal that permanent remission will be given to the people when the next revision settlement takes place ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not aware of any such remark in the document referred to and it is extremely unlikely that Government would have given any such undertaking.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : But is it not a fact ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I must have notice to find out whether the remark referred to by the honourable member exists in that document, the " Panipatrik."

EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS : SALES OF LAND

Mr. L. M. Deshpande on behalf of Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware—

(a) that Darkasts, transferred to the Collector for sale of immoveable properties are kept pending for a considerable time as compared with Darkhasts in which sales are effected through the civil court itself ;

(b) that they are in many cases returned unexecuted to civil courts on the ground that the properties do not fetch at an auction a price up to the amount fixed by the Collector as upset price ;

(c) whether they propose to take any steps to amend the departmental rules so as to remove these evils and expedite the proceedings before the Collector in execution matters.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) It is probable that execution proceedings in cases transferred to Collectors occasionally take longer than proceedings executed through the Civil Courts themselves, but Darkhasts are not kept pending unnecessarily by the Collectors.

(b) Darkhasts are seldom returned to Courts unexecuted on the ground that the upset price fixed is not reached in auction.

(c) No. Government do not consider that there is any need to amend the rules.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OFFICE : SEPARATE ORGANIZATION

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state whether they have received from the Honourable the President of the Legislative Council any proposals for a separate organization for the office of the Legislative Council ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : The answer is in the negative.

PENSIONS : PAYMENTS AT NASIK

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that there is a clerk called the Pensions Clerk in the office of the Head Accountant at Nasik, whose main duties are connected with the payment of pensions ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the system of accounts and the working of treasuries in the matter of payment of pensions have become much simpler owing partly to the establishment of branches of the Imperial Bank where payments of pensions are made ;

(c) if the answers to (a) and (b) are in the affirmative, why it is necessary in a comparatively small town like Nasik to fix five different dates for the payment of pensions, and whether it is possible to curtail the period so as to enable pensioners drawing pensions over Rs. 22 to draw their pensions earlier than at present ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The information has been called for.

PENSIONS : PAYMENT AT NASIK

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many pensioners draw their pensions at the treasury at Nasik ;

(b) how many of them draw up to Rs. 7 ;

(c) how many of them draw from Rs. 8 to Rs. 13 ;

(d) how many of them draw from Rs. 14 to Rs. 22 ;

(e) how many of them draw from Rs. 23 to Rs. 40 ;

(f) how many of them draw from Rs. 41 and above ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The information has been called for.

FOREST TREES, MANDVI : MALARIA

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will the Honourable the Minister in charge of the Department of Agriculture be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the climate of Mandvi, district Surat, is very malarious ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the proximity of the Forest area is the chief cause of Mandvi being so malarious ;

(c) whether the Collector of Surat has recommended the cutting down of all forest trees within a radius of five miles from Mandvi ;

(d) whether Government have considered this recommendation and if so, what decision they have arrived at ;

(e) when will the forest trees round about Mandvi be cut ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) The Collector of Surat recommended that the residents of the town should be allowed to cut and clear the undergrowth within a radius of half a mile of Mandvi.

(d) Does not arise.

(e) The residents of Mandvi have been permitted to cut the undergrowth within half a mile of Mandvi town and keep it clear afterwards. They have not availed themselves of this concession yet, but it is open to them to do so whenever they like.

PLATFORMS AT KAYAM TALAO, AMALSAD

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether one Jhinabhai Lalbhai had built a pucca platform in Kayam Talao Falia of Amalsad, village of Jalalpore Taluka of the Surat District ;

(b) whether this platform is about 20 feet across ;

(c) whether this platform is being used for keeping free drinking water and for sitting by people ;

(d) whether this gentleman has been ordered to remove this platform ;

(e) whether it is the policy of Government to discourage people from providing conveniences for the public ;

(f) if not, what object of Government is in ordering the gentleman referred to, to remove the platform ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes ; but the platform was built upon Government land forming part of a public road and without the previous permission of the Collector.

(b) It is 15 feet in diameter.

(c) It is used by the people for sitting only.

(d) Yes.

(e) No.

(f) The order of removal was passed as the person concerned had occupied Government land without permission.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it because there was any objection to allowing the platform to remain there ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I cannot say, but that was not the point for consideration.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it because it was built on Government land that Government want it to be removed ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It was an encroachment on Government land. That is why orders have been issued to have it removed.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it an encroachment by a private person for his own use ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is an encroachment, whether it is for his own use or for the use of any other person.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Has not that person done what Government ought to do, namely, provide a convenience wanted by the people ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is no part of Government duty to provide such platforms.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it not the duty of Government to provide such a convenience for the people ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is the duty of the local authorities.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is it not a fact that in certain instances such encroachments have been allowed by Government on payment of a nominal occupancy price ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : There have been a few cases of that sort where there were special circumstances.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Cannot this case be treated on the same basis ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I should think not : evidently not.

GAMTALAO TANK, SITHAN VILLAGE

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to give the following information about the Gamtalao tank in the village of Sithan in the taluka of Olpad in the Surat District—

(a) the area of the tank ;

(b) the area of the land assessed to it for himayat ;

(c) the himayat assessment on the tank ;

(d) whether the embankment of the tank is in good condition ;

(e) the number of pipes on the tank and the condition in which each is at present ;

(f) whether the tank is at present deep enough ;

(g) when was the tank last repaired, what repairs were done to it at the time and what was the amount spent on those repairs ;

(h) what is the condition of the tank at present ;

(i) whether complaints have been received from the people about this tank ;

(j) whether Government have decided to put this tank in a good state of repair ;

(k) if so, when will they repair the tank and what repairs will be done and how much amount will be spent on these repairs ?

(b) 21 acres and 34 gunthas.

(c) Rs. 31-12-3.

(d) This has sunk at some places.

(e) The tank has three outlets which require petty repairs, such as renewing the head walls, etc.

(f) The tank has silted up to some extent but still holds sufficient water for irrigating the greater portion of the area commanded by it ;

(g) The tank was last repaired in the year 1907-1908 at a cost of Rs. 598. The repairs consisted of putting the outlets in workir g order, strengthening the bund and constructing a masonry inlet.

(h) The tank is generally in fair working order, but does not irrigate the whole of the land assessed under it as explained in answer to (f) above.

(i) Yes.

(j) Yes.

(k) Repairs costing about Rs. 1,325 and consisting of (1) raising the bund to a uniform level, (2) petty repairs to the outlets and (3) raising the F. S. L. of the tank will be taken in hand after the plans and estimate, which are under scrutiny, are sanctioned.

RECORD OF RIGHTS : SAHIJPUR BHOGA

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is true that though the record of rights of Sahijpur Bhoga, a village in North Daskroi Taluka of Ahmedabad District, being a Government document should be kept in the possession of a Government servant, the talati of the inamdar of that village is allowed to keep the record in his possession ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, what precautions have been taken against the said record being tampered with by the inamdar against the interests of the cultivators ;

(c) whether they intend to keep the said record in their possession in order to safeguard the interests of the cultivators against the encroachments of the Inamdar ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes. As the survey has been made for the first time, the record has been kept in the village for current reference and it will be removed to the Taluka Record Room after some time. The record has been allowed to be in charge of the inamdar whilst it is in the village.

(b) The Circle Inspector, the Mamlatdar, and the Prant Officer, when visiting the village, inspect the record and verify every new mutation before it is incorporated in the Index of lands. Disputed cases, if any, are decided by these officers according to the rules. This procedure is considered to be a sufficient safeguard against any tampering with the record. Besides this, the inamdar's talati has been appointed a village accountant under section 16 of the Land Revenue Code so as to give him the status of a subordinate revenue officer.

(c) No.

HOUSING LOAN TO BAWA JHINABHARATI MOTIBHARATI

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the houses of Bawa Jhinabharati Motibharati, situated in Nada's Bhagol of Sanand Town, were heavily damaged by the stormy rainfall in July 1927;

(b) whether the said Bawa Jhinabharati Motibharati applied to the Mahalkari of Sanand Mahal for a housing loan for the purpose of reconstructing his houses;

(c) if so, the amount of housing loan paid by Government to the said Bawa Jhinabharati Motibharati?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) One of the two houses owned Bawa Jhinabharati was partially damaged.

(b) No.

(c) As the Bawa has neither security to offer for a loan nor capacity to repay one, his case has been recommended to the Relief Committee for a free grant.

LAND REVENUE, VIRAMGAM: DEMAND AND REMISSION, 1921-1927

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state in a tabular form separately for each of the years 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927—

(a) the total revenue demand in each of the villages of the Viramgam Taluka in each year giving the actual revenue demand and arrears in each case;

(b) the supension or remission of land revenue, granted by Government to each of the villages of the Viramgam Taluka in each year;

(c) the total revenue demand and the total suspension or remission granted by Government in the whole of the Viramgam Taluka in each year?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a), (b) and (c) A statement containing the information required by the honourable member is placed on the Council Table.

COUNTRY LIQUOR LICENSES : FIXED-FEE SYSTEM

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether there was a proposal before Government to discontinue the auction system of disposing of country liquor licenses and to reintroduce the fixed-fee system which was formerly in practice;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, who initiated that proposal;

(c) who supported the said proposal and what were the grounds used in favour of supporting them;

(d) whether it is a fact that the Commissioner of Excise and the Excise Minister supported that proposal and that it is intended to put in practice for the official year 1928-29;

(e) if the answer to (d) is in the affirmative, what were the reports of the Commissioner of Excise and the Excise Minister on the subject and whether Government will place those reports on the Council Table ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) to (e) The Commissioner of Excise proposed that the auction system should be discontinued in the Panch Mahals and East Khandesh districts. There was no other proposal before Government for abandoning this system. Government were unable to accept the Commissioner's recommendation. They are not prepared to place any papers on the table.

BEGGARY

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the steps, if any, taken by them since inviting the opinion of public bodies on the report of Mr. O. H. B. Starte, I.C.S., regarding beggars;

(b) whether they have received any definite proposals from the Bombay Municipal Corporation;

(c) the names of institutions, municipalities and local boards that have submitted their opinions so far in regard to the prevention of professional beggary in their respective areas;

(d) how many of the principal bodies have expressed their views in favour of effectively checking professional beggary;

(e) whether Government have considered the desirability of introducing preventive measures in localities amenable to their introduction;

(f) if so, when and at what places do Government propose to start such measures;

(g) if not, what further steps do Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) No steps have been taken by Government as Mr. Starte's report is still under the consideration of Government.

(b) Yes.

(c) The opinions of mofussil municipalities and local boards were not invited on Mr. Starte's report and out of the 13 bodies whose opinions were invited on the report the following bodies have submitted their opinions on Mr. Starte's report :—

The Bombay Municipal Corporation.
The Salvation Army.
The Bombay European Relief Association.
The Helpless Beggars Relief Society.
The Bombay Humanitarian League.
The Society for the Protection of Children in Western India.
The Seva Sadan.
The Bombay Chamber of Commerce.
The Indian Merchants' Chamber.
The Bombay Millowners' Association.
The Marwari Chambers of Commerce.
The Social Service League, Limited.

(d) Eleven.

(e), (f) and (g) No definite reply can be given until Mr. Starte's report which is still under the consideration of Government is disposed of.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : How long will it take to dispose of consideration of Mr. Starte's report ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (Inaudible).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have not followed the Honourable Minister's reply.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It is a question of finance.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : How long will it take to get finances from the Government ? (Laughter).

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I refer the honourable member to the Honourable the Finance Member.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : As regards (d), may I know the names of the eleven principal bodies which have expressed their views in favour of effectively checking professional beggary ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I do not remember all heir names.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI (Indian Merchants' Chamber) : Sir, I want to make a personal explanation. The Honourable the Home Member said the other day that the fact that the fingers of the weavers were cut off was a lie and I mentioned that casually in my remarks. I can prove to him that it is not a lie but that it is a fact. I can prove that from the book "Ruin of Indian Trade and Industries" by B. D. Basu. On page 110 of that book you find the following :—

"It is recorded by Bolts that the Indian weavers, "upon their inability to perform such agreements as have been forced upon them by the Company's agents universally known in Bengal by the name of Mutchulcahs have had their goods seized and sold on the spot to make good the deficiency ; and the winders of raw silk, called Nagoads, have been treated also with such injustice, that instances have been known of their cutting off their thumbs to prevent their being forced to wind silk."

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Mr. President, the honourable member's quotation itself proves that the statement, which he made and which another honourable member repeated, was a lie. What is stated in that book—I will tell you something about that book later on—is that these men, the winders of raw silk, cut off their own thumbs themselves in order to avoid being compelled to make muslin. The honourable member said that it was the Government that cut off their thumbs to prevent them making muslin. Could there be any two stories more diametrically opposite to each other than these ? That lie has been repeated times without number by people who have not taken the trouble to find out what the facts are. As to the book itself, the facts are simply these : the man who first told the story which the honourable member Mr. Lalji read was a Dutchman : his real name was Bolst, not Bolts. He was a servant of the East India Company : he was grossly oppressive and was dismissed and deported from India back to Europe. By way of taking revenge, he wrote the book from which various persons have quoted, it is full of malicious statements of which no proof is given, and it is not a book on which any reliance whatever can be placed. Yet even that book itself diametrically contradicts every word that these two honourable members have spoken in this House.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : I will read further than that....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not think I would allow a discussion.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Sir, the Indian National Herald of to-day contains full description on the subject. The Honourable the Home Member should peruse it and then say whether he is a liar or I am.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The honourable member Mr. Lalji Naranji wanted to make some personal explanation. I allowed it. He has made it. There is also a statement made in reply to that. I would not allow a debate or a controversy on that.

The discussion on the Supplementary Demand for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Scheme will now continue. I think the honourable member Mr. Baloch was in possession of the House.

(Discussion on Supplementary Demand No. 14—Additional funds required for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Scheme resumed.)

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Sir, before I continue with my remarks, I wish to ask the Honourable the General Member to let me know what has been reported by the committee appointed to visit the Sukkur Barrage.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I think, Sir, the explanation was given to this House during the general discussion by some members of the committee themselves and I do not understand what the honourable member means by asking this direct question again. He knows very well that the committee has not reported and that only one honourable member has given us his opinion and the letter has been placed on the table of the House. The information was given in answer to a question. The information was given further in the general discussion and still the honourable member persists in asking the same question.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: The honourable member Khan Bahadur Bhutto, a member of that committee, told me that he had sent his report and that it was before the Honourable the General Member.

Anyway, Sir, the work was started in 1923 on the Lloyd Barrage four years ago and still not one stone was put in the Barrage Circle till the 1st of February last for the foundation of the Head Regulator. Up to that time there was not a single foundation stone laid. If there was any work done, it was after February 1927; it was then that the contracts were given and the work was started. During these four years in the Lloyd Barrage circle excavation work was being done, and when I asked a question as to how much of the work was done by contract, and how much departmentally, the reply that I got was that the time and expense involved in the collection of the information would be great, and no useful purpose would be served by supplying the information. I notice from the Blue Book that the dredger has excavated 17½ lakhs of cubic feet, but no information has been given to me as to what has been the expense incurred by Government on the hand labour. How do Government say that the information will serve no useful purpose? Is it the intention of Government that we who come to this Council should not know how many lakhs and crores are wasted? There is a well known saying in the vernacular that "if the dancer does not know how to dance he blames the ground," and the unwillingness of Government to give a reply to my question shows that there is something wrong there. As I said, for four years nothing was done: work was started in 1927-28, and when I asked a question as to how much of the work was done by petty contractors, the reply given was that it was not done by petty contractors. But I know from enquiries at Sukkur that work for which rates of Rs. 20, Rs. 35, and Rs. 40 are paid is done by petty contractors at Rs. 7, Rs. 8 and Rs. 10. If the Honourable the General Member does not admit it, then I think it will be necessary to have another enquiry committee appointed to find out whether what I say is true or not. The amount of work done by the dredger during four years is 17½ lakhs of cubic feet, and the rate comes to Rs. 40-8-0 per 1,000 cubic feet. In the course of four years work worth Rs. 87,000 has been done at the rate furnished by Government. The cost of the dredger was, I think Rs. 52 lakhs or Rs. 56 lakhs. The interest charges on the amount for four years, at 6 per cent. will be Rs. 14 lakhs. The establishment charges for the dredger may safely be taken at Rs. 1,00,000 per year which comes to Rs. 4 lakhs in four years. Calculating upon that basis, it will be seen that excavation work of 17½ lakhs of cubic feet has been done, worth Rs. 87,000, whereas the expenditure has been about three quarters of a crore. When the dredger was ordered, it was stated that the excavation work will be done by the dredger in the

[Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch]

Eastern Nara system, but from page 128 of the Blue Book we find that owing to the heavy cost of dredging, it has been decided to abandon the use of the dredger and to do the work by means of dragline excavators. If the dredger cannot do this work, and the work on the Lloyd Barrage is given out on contract, what is the use of this dredger, and why are Rs. 1,00,000 spent on its establishment charges ? I may mention that on one occasion I spent three days and on another occasion one day in looking round what was going on, but I never saw the dredger working. It was only when the Viceroy was there that a pretence of working the dredger was made ; the dredger was belching forth large volumes of smoke, and removing earth from one place and piling it on another place. The fact is, Sir, that the dredger cannot work in clay soil. Therefore, I ask, if the dredger is not capable of doing the work, why is it still imposed on us ? Why not scrape it, and abolish the establishment ? If this dredger and similar superfluous things are dispensed with, I think it will not be necessary for Government to ask for this grant of Rs. 14½ lakhs. On the second occasion, about five or six of us including myself, Mr. Haji Abdulla Haroon, M.L.A., went to see what was going on ; there was the editor of the " New Times " with us. We went there at about 5 or 5-30 p.m., but there was no officer there, there was not even a surveyor, or a mistri even. There was only a concrete mixer, but that was not working. Everything was being done by hand ; the sand and cement were loosely piled up in an indifferent way.

Now, coming to the Lloyd Barrage circle, let us see what the establishment is. There are one Superintending Engineer, two Executive Engineers, one for the Right Bank and another for the Left Bank, an Executive Engineer for the quarries, another who is called the Electrical Executive Engineer, another for the dredger and another for the railway and one for Communication. I think in all there are 7 Executive Engineers. And of course, an Executive Engineer's dignity demands 3 or 4 Assistant Engineers under him ; otherwise he will not be an Executive Engineer, and the Assistant Engineer, in his turn has to have surveyors under him, otherwise he will not be an Assistant Engineer, and so on it continues. I also wish to point out to Government how the money is being spent. I say it is spent with closed eyes, in the same way as it was being done when there was war between Germany and England. At that time those in charge had only to say " Give the money ", and it was given without consideration. I submit that this is not war time, and there ought not to be this huge expenditure. Mr. President, I come now to another point.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is the honourable member likely to take a long time ?

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I will take a pretty long time.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I want to draw his attention to one particular thing, that if he presumes that he can discuss the whole general matter under the head 55, he is mistaken. This is only a supplementary demand under that head. The general discussion has taken place, and on each item or head, as it was brought up, the House had a right to speak. But the discussion now should be limited to the supplementary grant; and honourable members cannot travel over all the wide range of the whole head "55".

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: Sir, this supplementary demand of 14½ lakhs is for all the various heads, such as buildings, special tools and plant, etc. Therefore, I may be allowed to discuss all those heads.

I come now to the quarries. There are three quarries; one for big stones and two for small stones. There is an executive engineer in charge of the work and under him are three Assistant Engineers and various overseers. I wish to warn Government that they should see that no leakage takes place. The officers may certify that 1,00,000 square feet have been got ready and despatched, but when the stones reach the stores the quantity on checking may dwindle to 50,000 square feet. Then, when questioned about it later, Government may say that the officers have gone, a new General Member has come, and it is impossible to do anything.

As regards the establishment employed on this preparation of blocks, I was told in reply to my question in the Council that it would take a long time to work out the establishment charges and Government were not prepared to do it. But I wish to give an instance as to the way in which this establishment is doing their work. At first they used to manufacture hydraulic blocks. I brought some pieces of the blocks in the last February session of the Council and demonstrated that they were so very useless that they were broken to pieces with the fingers. When such a useless work was going on, why did not the responsible officers detect it and remedy it during full three months? Then they switched on to cement blocks, which they said it was found to be cheaper. But it took four months of experiment for them to understand it. I want to ask whether the Barrage is a training school for Engineers. I know that stones can be managed even cheaper, though Government have replied to my question that stones are costlier four times. I challenge Government to prove the truth of their statement. One and a half miles away from the place, near Rhori Canal there is plenty of raw stones available which can be cut to the proper size by hand and supplied to the department. Instead of getting the work done by hand, they have bought a large amount of machinery to make these blocks. Most of them are now lying idle, although in reply to a question put by me Government told us that they were doing full work. I myself am a contractor who gets stones cut by machinery. But I know it is not cheaper to cut soft stones by machinery. It will be so if it is marble granite or other hard stone. But hand-cut stones from Sukkur are sent to Karachi, where they compete with machine cut stones.

Then, as regards buildings....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, he is going into the details of the budget.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Buildings costing 23 lakhs have already been put up, and still they require one lakh more. The Chief Engineer says that water will be available just two years hence, then why an additional cost of Rs. 4 lakhs be incurred on further buildings ? More accommodation could be managed by putting up tents. Government have come forward before this House to demand 14½ lakhs as a supplementary grant. But they do not try to curtail their expenses. If you look at the expenses, what do you find ? You will find that many bungalows are provided for Government officials. One bungalow is provided for the Chief Engineer at Karachi because he cannot bear the heat of Sukkur, onei s for the superintending engineer at Karachi. Why should bungalows be provided for Barrage engineers at Karachi. These bungalows are well furnished and in this way Government is spending lot of money over this item.

Mr. H. DOW : Sir, I rise to a point of order. The demand under discussion has nothing to do with buildings and the honourable member is referring to the expenditure on buildings.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Well, I checked the honourable member in the beginning on this point. But the honourable member pointed out that this supplementary grant does refer to buildings.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : No, Sir. It does not refer to buildings.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then I think the honourable member is outside the scope of the demand which is before the House. He should, therefore, speak on this supplementary grant.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, I rise to a point of order. I think the honourable member is entitled to introduce the same discussion that has taken place on the previous occasion under rule 32 of the Standing Orders. I would refer you to rule 32, sub-clause (3). It says :—

" Supplementary or additional estimates shall be dealt with in the same way by the Council as if they were demands for grants. "

I submit, Sir, according to this rule, the honourable member when discussing the supplementary grant, is entitled to discuss in the same way as if it were an original demand. In this case it may not be necessary for the honourable member to discuss points which have already been discussed. But as a matter of principle I submit that no honourable member should be restricted in this way. It will be a precedent, and with that view I bring this fact to your notice.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think if that rule is understood in that wide sense, it would really cost the House a tremendous amount of time, which can be well saved. All that the rule directs is that the procedure for the supplementary grants would be the same as if they were original grants. It refers to the procedure only. The discussion should be limited to the grant asked for.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Sir, last time the honourable member, Mr. Harrison, had kept a plan showing the places where the work is going on and showed that at eight or nine places excavators were working. For this excavation work which can be supervised by upper subordinates or assistant engineers why should two or three executive engineers be posted at every one of these excavation places where three or four excavators are working together ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not know whether the honourable member is to the point. Will the Honourable the General Member point out as to whether it is so or not.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, strictly speaking we are asking for a reduction in the Tools and Plants.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Coming to the question of establishment, I find that this department is overstaffed. There are so many superintending engineers, assistant engineers and executive engineers, and also the upper subordinates and the lower subordinates. I do not understand why Government should incur so much expense on this huge army of a staff. Government keep such a vast staff and then they come to us asking for Rs. 14½ lakhs as a supplementary grant. You will find that there is one Chief Engineer, there are five superintending engineers, 22 or 24 executive engineers, 106 assistant engineers, 120 upper subordinate engineers and 210 lower subordinates, besides this there are a number of mistries, chowkidars and muccadams, etc. : I do not understand why Government should have such a large army of engineers and others. They should try to curtail the expenses in this respect.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I again notice that the honourable member has gone outside the demand.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I would only urge that the Honourable the General Member should try to curtail the expenses.

Mr. B. T. DESAI (Bombay City, South) : Sir, I rise to oppose this grant, because I find from the explanation given in the statement that the figures are not very clear. I have made complaints from time to time that this House should be supplied with correct and detailed figures but no notice is taken of it. I would just refer to the first item under which a demand for Rs. 11 lakhs is asked.

And what is the explanation that is given ? " Excess of Rs. 11,55,000 under ' Works'—This is mainly due to the following reasons." Now, I think the reasons given are as vague as the demands for grants also. " Greater progress than anticipated has been made on works in the Lloyd Barrage Circle. " What does this convey ? What is the greater progress on the works ? In what direction it has been, we are not supplied the information. What is really the amount that is required for this " greater progress "? It is very well to say, whether there is progress or not, there is greater progress. What are we to know ? Where are we to get the figures from ? What is the real work they want to do ? It is not put before us. Then, how are we to judge whether there is greater progress or whether there is a greater bungling in the matter ? You know, Sir, very well that against the Development Department, times out of number complaints had been made with regard to the figures that had been submitted, and it has been found out that the figures were absolutely unreliable ; the information that was given from time to time has been proved to be false, and admitted to be false. And, Sir, how are we expected to give our sanction to a grant of this kind when there is no definite thing put before us ?

Well, refer to the second reason ; this is of the same type. What is the second reason ? " Greater part of the work done on the head regulators in the last year has been paid for during the current year. " Now, Sir, what shall we say with regard to the persons who are a party to framing the budget and putting the figures before us ? Had they not intelligence enough to understand that a certain part of the work that would be done last year was to be paid for in the current year, and how is it that this mistake, this excess thing, has come into existence ? Well, Sir, any one who has some reason at his command would not like to sanction anything only on the flimsy ground given here. What is the explanation ? I would like to know. Why could not they anticipate that a particular thing which had been done in the past year had to be paid for in the current year ? And why was it not shown in the budget at the proper time ? No explanation whatsoever.

Then, Sir, if we proceed a little further, you find this : " The cost of the arch centres and cills and grooves for the regulators, which was provided for in the last year's budget, will be paid for during the current year. No provision for this was made in the current year's demands as it was expected at the time of preparing the budgets that they would be paid for during the year 1926-27. " Now, Sir, what was the real expectation ? We do not know. Why did they expect that it was to be paid in 1926-27, and what was the reason why they were practically wrong in their expectations and they now come forward and say that these are to be paid in 1927-28 ? No explanation whatsoever, except this vague explanation, this vague thing, that is put before the Council. Now, Sir, the next is : " Some works "—mind the words " some works " " e. g., downstream left guide bank, pitching the upstream side of the first apron of the regulators, are proposed to be done during the current year for which no provision was made in the budgets. " Now, they say " some works. " What are they ? What kind ? What is the explanation given ? Nothing. They think, Sir, the Council is meant simply for them to come down and throw at our faces anything and everything they like, and we should pass it. If that is the idea of Government, they are much mistaken, and Government must be prepared for any information that may be asked for and that opportunity must be given to verify the same. Then, Sir, it is stated : " The cost of constructing and maintaining cofferdams has been heavier than that provided in the budget. " Why are they heavier ? Why have they exceeded their estimates ? On what grounds ? No grounds whatsoever. You must accept because they say so, and therefore, you must pass their demand. That is very presumptuous on the part of the people who come forward and ask that this should be sanctioned. Then, Sir, we go a step further, and you find : " Construction of third batch of 30 coolies lines, the necessity for which was felt long after the preparation of Schedules of Demands for 1927-28." Now, Sir, it is absolutely presumptuous to put things like this before us and ask us to pass them. Seven heads are given before us, which they call estimates, which are no estimates at all, but which are absolutely vague and do not give us any idea whatsoever as to the necessity of the amount of Rs. 11,55,000 which is shown as excess under works.

Therefore, Sir, unless facts and figures are put before us in very clear terms, and unless we are convinced that these things are necessary, we should not give our sanction to the grant that has been asked for.

Well, Sir, then we go on to the second item "Establishment." It first was 27 lakhs and odd. Now it comes to Rs. 8,000 more. And what is the explanation ? "Excess of Rs. 8,000 under 'Establishment.' This is due to greater expenditure than anticipated on leave and deputation salaries of officials payable in England." The less said, the better, Sir, about this item. I would only say that the explanation is unacceptable, because it ought to have been anticipated long before this.

Then, the third item is tools and plant. Here, I would draw your special attention to this. Now, tools and plant was Rs. 6,16,000 ; that was provided for, and now tools and plant is Rs. 1,77,000 ? May I ask those who are concerned with this, how is it that they thought that they will spend Rs. 6,16,000, and how is it that they are reducing that item ? When you placed before the Council this Rs. 6,16,000, really on what facts you gave the figure ? But you know, Sir, very well from the disclosures that have been made in the Development Department as well as from the complaints that I made last year with regard to tools and plant that certain tools and plant of more than Rs. 10 lakhs were bought, the major part of which has been lying idle, which have not been found of use and the Honourable Member in charge of that department says "Yes, we will go into the matter and make enquiries" and in the face of that there is a demand for Rs. 6,16,000. It was just like this. It appears that tools are ordered out much in excess and perhaps they are going to meet with the same fate as the mild steel bars which had been ordered out in excess in the Development Department, and perhaps there may be many other cases which will be exposed, but I warn Government not to mislead us with such figures. Be plain. Be honest. Be straightforward. Be sincere if you want this grant. Otherwise it will be refused.

Then comes "Excess of Rs. 3,16,000 under "Suspense." The note reads :—

"This is due to the reasons explained below :—

(i) Transfer of the total up to date expenditure in the Quarries Division from 'Works' to 'Suspense' for the purpose of capital block account which is classified under 'IV-Suspense.'

We do not know what jugglery there is, but there is something which ought to be made very very clear and I think it is a matter which requires some enquiry.

(ii) Revised requirements of spares, etc., for dragline excavators the cost of which is in the first instance debited to the head 'Suspense' before they are issued for works.

[Mr. B. T. Desai]

(iii) Additional funds required for the composite concrete blocks which are being manufactured for the head regulators and barrage works and are not likely to be issued before the close of the current financial year. They will be used after April 1928 and their cost charged to 'Works' after that date.

This is, I say, monstrous. Is this the reason in explanation of the supplementary grant ?

Then, Sir, so far as the first budget item is concerned, there was no pensionary charge at all, but now the pensionary charges come to Rs. 4,29,000, and the explanation as usual is this :—

(d) Excess of Rs. 4,29,000 on account of pensionary charges. When the budget for 1927-28 was framed, the rules in force required that pensionary charges on account of establishment employed on irrigation works should be wholly provided for under the head '15-Other Revenue Expenditure financed from Ordinary Revenues' at the rate of 9 per cent. of the total cost of irrigation establishment. According to the modified rules since prescribed by the Government of India, these pensionary charges are now to be provided for under the irrigation major and minor heads at the rate of 14 per cent. of the cost of establishment. As these revised orders were issued after the current year's budget was passed by the Legislative Council, no provision could be made therein for these charges under the head '55.'

If no provision was made there, it would have been only transferred to this head. Why should Government come forward for an additional supplementary grant ?

The last explanation is :—

"Out of the excess of Rs. 14,69,000 mentioned in paragraph 1 above, a sum of Rs. 50,000 is covered by savings to that extent on the provision for other irrigation works in Sind and the Deccan made in the voted grant under the head '55.' The net excess on the voted grant under this head is, therefore, Rs. 14,19,000. A supplementary grant for Rs. 14,19,000 is, therefore, required and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested thereto. To cover this amount, loan savings under 'Other unproductive works' will be temporarily utilised during 1927-28 and an equivalent amount will be borrowed from the Government of India next year to cover the expenditure permanently."

The less said about all these things the better. The only thing I find is that there has been an amount of jugglery with figures, nothing clear, nothing definite has been placed before us and such a demand ought to be refused on the ground that we are not put in possession of full facts on which we can decide. The main grounds against this grant are that very many complaints have been made that this Sukkur Barrage Scheme is going to be a dismal failure, as dismal as the Development Scheme, and that it will be used in order to distribute land and keep certain votes for Government.

Mr. C. S. C. HARRISON : Sir, I think I ought really to confine myself to the criticisms which have a direct bearing on the demand before the House, but I hope you, Sir, and the House will bear with me if I touch on the points raised by honourable members opposite.

I have heard that the honourable member from Karachi (Mr. Baloch) describes himself as the 'Tiger of Sind,' and we have heard such vehement words from him that at times they sounded like the roaring of a tiger, but may I remind the honourable member that Sind is a very bad place for tigers ; there is no cover, it is a desert country and tigers do not like sparsely covered tracts. It seems to me from the course of his speech that the honourable member has realized this and as a consequence he has been trying to create a good deal of undergrowth as cover for himself. I should like to cut away this undergrowth and entirely remove the brushwood that he has attempted to plant.

The honourable member first of all raised the question of a lack of control. I deny, Sir, the charge of laxity of control. I would ask the honourable members who formed the committee that visited Sukkur last year whether they found any token whatever, any indication whatsoever, of lack of control ? The honourable member said that the authorities were allowing the question of establishment to drift on and that the incidence of cost is now 28 per cent. I refute his insinuation and the accuracy of his figures.

I will give the figures for each year up-to-date. In 1924-25, when the works were in their infancy, the percentage was 22·6 per cent. and included establishment of all sorts Revenue and Medical, as well as Engineering. In 1925-26 the incidence was 14 per cent. In 1926-27 it was 22·7 per cent. For the whole of the period 1923 to 1927 it was 19·8 per cent. From 1927-28, up to the end of December 1927 (it may be taken to apply to the 31st of this month) it was 19·9 per cent. and from the commencement of the work to the end, the total will be 19·9 per cent. Excluding the Revenue Officer's and the Medical staff, the through percentage to day is 18·9 as against the honourable member's figure which is approximately 50 per cent. out ! The permissible limit according to rules is 24 per cent. In the face of this, can I be accused of extravagance ?

Further, it may interest the House to know what our establishment charges on this work are as compared with the Sutlej Valley Project where labour is cheaper and the establishment is paid at a lower rate owing to a very large number of subordinate engineers being available in the Punjab. In the Punjab the establishment incidence is Rs. 4·9 per acre to be irrigated. Our incidence is Rs. 5·4. There is a difference of 0·5 rupee per acre which is accounted for by two facts ; (1) that the lower engineering staff is cheaper in the Punjab than that in Sind and (2) because in the Punjab there is a far greater percentage of permanent staff employed on the construction works than in Sind. We have a very small percentage of permanent staff employed on the works, and therefore the incidence in the increase of cost by engaging temporary establishment must be greater than by employing permanent staff. That directly accounts for the Rs. 0·5 per acre increase in the charges. So far as regards the question of establishment.

The honourable member has stated that there was not a single stone laid on the Barrage up till the 1st of February 1927. I am very glad he has got one fact more or less correct, but may I inform him that since then many lakhs of cubic feet of masonry have been laid ? Early in February was the time when we expected to start laying our masonry in the river. I may point out that, although it seems to be quite the order of the day for some honourable members to attempt to deride the efforts of Government in works of this nature, we forge forward in our humble efforts and in the course of one year (1927) we created, I think, a world's record for the amount of masonry placed in any one work in a short season. Between January and the end of May we placed no less than 3¾ million cubic feet of masonry of all sorts and, as I have remarked, I believe that rate of progress has never been approached anywhere else in the world. That, Sir, is the credit we take as regards the rate of progress.

The honourable member also referred to the high rates that were being paid to the contractors. He has been a contractor himself, even if on a very small scale, I would ask the honourable member what he himself did when he took up contracts ? I would ask him whether he did not sublet them himself, and whether he did not get a higher contract rate than the rate he gave to his petty or sub-contractors ? Such must ever be the case. The large contractor has to make advances and he runs a big financial risk, whereas the petty contractor has not to take that risk. The large contractor must therefore be paid a higher rate, and nobody knows that better than the honourable member himself.

We then come to the question of the dredgers. Their working is, I think, a bogey raised as a sort of aftermath of the Back Bay reclamation, and it crops up every year. The honourable member asks why contractors were employed to do the work which the dredgers were expected to do. I have tried to explain before why in the first year the dredgers were unable to do the work expected of them. The dredgers were got to do work which it is impossible to do in any other manner. If the honourable member from Karachi, who has been a contractor will come forward and undertake to remove the silt from the cofferdams when there is 10 feet of water, I shall be only too pleased to give him that work at Rs. 35 per 1,000 cubic feet. He criticises a rate of Rs. 44 per 1,000 cubic feet for the work by dredgers and says it is about five times higher than it should be. But, as I said, I am prepared to give him that work at Rs. 35 per 1,000 cubic feet for next year's working. Of course he must first of all give us a large deposit, as an earnest of seeing the work through, so that the future progress of the work may not be jeopardised. I submit that it is impossible to do that class of work except by these dredgers, and I reiterate that these dredgers are absolutely necessary. This year, for instance, though we purchased the dredgers to excavate the foundations, on the Right Bank they had actually to take the silt from the river and put it inside our confferdams instead of removing it from the cofferdams. Had it not been for the dredgers we would have been behind hand with 6½ spans of that great work. The honourable member further mentioned that the dredgers were of no use because they were not used on the Eastern Nara cut. I mentioned last year, and I think the year before that, that we had no idea of using them primarily on the Eastern Nara cut. They were never bought for that purpose. It was merely to reduce the overhead charges that it was at one time suggested that they be used on that cut. I explained that the work was risky, for, if the river level fell, our dredgers would be high and dry and would not be available for work during the cold weather. I hope this point will not be referred to again.

[Mr. C. S. C. Harrison]

Then we come to the question of the quarries. The honourable member made a statement that he heard rumours that there was a discrepancy of 50 per cent. between the quantities paid for and the quantities received on the work. If he has heard any such rumours, I should like to ask him to disabuse his mind of them. I assure him that the materials are paid for after delivery on the works. Only measurements are taken at the quarries for the purpose of giving advances to the contractors, or to indicate what the progress is on the quarries. The weighment is done on the railway weigh-bridges which are on the works. At the quarries we only measure the cubic contents, but it is only on the works that the material is weighed.

Then the honourable member talked about cement blocks. He has been given a good deal of detailed information on this in reply to questions that he has asked up-to-date.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: Mr. President.. ..

Mr. C. S. C. HARRISON: Sir, I do not wish to yield.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member does not yield.

Mr. C. S. C. HARRISON: The honourable member also harped again on the question of using lime blocks as against cement blocks, and I think he indicated—he did not say directly—that we would not use any of the blocks which were made out of lime mortar. I should like to assure him that we have not got one single block which will not be used. But we have found it cheaper and more convenient to make cement blocks. If we are not making further lime mortar blocks, it is because they are no longer useful to the works, but every single block so far made will be used. The cement blocks are only required for protecting the bed of the river. We do not want stone blocks for the purpose. In the first place, I say, we do not want them, and even if we wanted them we could not get them. The quantity required is very large, and I deny the statement that you can get stone blocks at equally cheap rates. It will cost three times as much to get these stone blocks to the works as to get the cement blocks, and I think the honourable member is well aware of it. You have first to quarry ten-ton stone blocks on one side of the river only, and then get them from the site of the quarry on to the works on both sides of the river and it would be impossible to do this at the same rate at which we can prepare the cement blocks on the spot where they are wanted.

Then we come to the stone dressing shops; the honourable member stated that they were lying idle. But may I point out to him that we have turned out, during one year, a very large quantity of stone that will compare favourably with that done by the plant used for the construction of New Delhi? By the time we have completed our work we hope to give a world's record for output and, as pointed out in reply to a question, the rates at which we are working are correct, and they have been passed by audit.

[Mr. C. S. C. Harrison]

Then, Sir, the honourable member from Karachi spoke about dragline excavators. I was very disappointed with his remarks, because they revealed his utter lack of knowledge of these big machines, which I think everybody in Sind ought to take an interest in. He spoke about the excessive staff employed on the excavators. May I inform him that these big machines each replace 2,500 coolies, and that it must therefore take more than one man to handle each ? I would ask honourable members to look at the question of mechanical excavators from the point of view of a unit of machinery replacing so many thousands of human hands. Work has to go on night and day, therefore we require an adequate staff for each machine.

The honourable member for Bombay (Mr. B. T. Desai) started off by saying that this House has been given false information about these works. I deny that statement most emphatically. No false information has ever been given in the Blue Book about the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction work, and never will be. The honourable member has not understood the paper before him. He has taken great deal of useless trouble to read out every word that is printed in that statement, and so bore the House. He could have easily understood the question at issue had he gone to any of the members of the Standing Finance Committee for explanation. This matter was discussed in detail by the Finance Committee, and he could have got that information first hand from any member, Mr. Lalji Naranji or anybody else. Yet, he has tried to make out that we have put forward a stupid demand.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Is the word ' stupid ' parliamentary ?

Mr. C. S. C. HARRISON : I said that he has tried to make out that we have put forward a stupid demand.

Further, the honourable member from Bombay seemed to be getting rather fuddled with the financial question at issue, because, he complains that we have held over expenditure from one year to another. He pointed out in criticising the items that we have held over some expenditure from one year to another ; for example that centerings and other things were paid for in the current year. That is exactly the point raised by some other honourable members.—I am not sure—whether the honourable member Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch did so or not. I think he said " Do not come to us for a supplementary grant ; hold over payments till next year. " I might point out to this House that we come for a total demand of Rs. 14·69 lakhs, and I might further point out that I have had to refuse my officers' requests for another Rs. 11 lakhs, which means to say that I am holding that sum over till the next financial year. We do admit that we hold over what we can, because that saves the interests for a period of six months, but we cannot do this to excess. I must submit that the supplementary grant we are now asking for covers the items that were put into the budget and placed before the House last year, and of which, as the Honourable the General Member stated Rs. 25 lakhs were cut off, because in the past we found that we were not working up to our budgetted figures.

[Mr. C. S. C. Harrison]

That is the only reason why we have had to come before the House for this supplementary grant. I may inform the members of this honourable House that this year, including the eleven lakhs which we are carrying forward, we are only Rs. 80,000 out on a budget figure nearing Rs. two crores. Honourable members of this House will realise that it is extremely good budgetting.

Mr. H. DOW : Sir, I move a closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept it.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I have no remarks to make, Sir.

Question put and demand granted.

* Grant for expenditure incurred during the current year on the Harvey-Nariman case.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Mr. President, I have to ask for a supplementary grant of Rs. 60,800. Now, Sir....

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, I rise to a point of order that the demand is not in order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : But the Honourable the General Member has not yet completed his remarks.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I thought he had put the demand before the House.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, I was going to make a speech.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, I submit that before a discussion takes place on this demand the point of order should be settled whether this demand is in order or not. My submission is that supplementary demands are usually made under rules 31 and 32, and that unless the Honourable the General Member proves that the demand is made under any of those rules, he cannot place the demand before the House. If you look, Sir, at rule 31, you will find that it provides only for an excess grant.

Rule 31 reads :

"When money has been spent on any service for which the vote of Council is necessary during any financial year in excess of the amount granted for the service and for that year, a demand for the excess shall be presented to the Council by that Finance Member and shall be dealt with in the same way by the Council as if it were a demand for a grant."

I take it, Sir, that the Honourable the General Member does not put the demand under rule 31, because there is not any previous grant which has been exceeded, and if there has been such an excess, the honourable member to put forward such a demand is the Finance Member. I take it, therefore, that perhaps the Honourable the General Member desires to put it under rule 32. Now, I would invite your careful attention to rule 32 and its wording :

"An estimate shall be presented to the Council for a supplementary or additional grant."

[Mr. K. F. Nariman]

(I lay particular stress on the word "estimate") only under two circumstances specified in sub-clauses (i) and (ii). Sub-clause (i) is :

"(i) (when) the amount voted in the budget of a grant is found to be insufficient for the purposes of the current year;"

I do not think that that clause arises. Sub-clause (ii) is :

"(ii) (when) a need arises during the current year for expenditure for which the vote of the Council is necessary upon some new service not contemplated in the budget for that year."

I do not know if the Honourable the General Member wishes to bring forward his demand under this sub-clause. But I beg to submit that he cannot under any of these. It cannot be under rule 31, because there was no original grant and there was no excess on the original grant, and if there had been, the demand would have come from the Honourable the Finance Member and not from any other member. As it is not coming from the Honourable the Finance Member, I take it that the demand is not made under rule 31. Under rule 32, according to its wording, prior to such a contingency arising there ought to have been an estimate showing that such an expenditure was likely to arise and how the estimate was prepared. In this particular case, I would ask the honourable House to consider that the Honourable the General Member is not placing before the House an estimate. The amount has already been spent during the last year and he only wants a sanction from the honourable House after the amount has been spent.

Now, Sir, I would also draw attention to another circumstance, namely, that the contingency for this expenditure occurred in October 1926, when the sanction for prosecution was given. The sanction for prosecution is dated 29th October 1926. One of the conditions of sanction being that Government shall defray the expenses under certain conditions. We need not go into those details now. But the point is that the contingency for this expenditure arose in October 1926 when the sanction was granted. After October 1926, in February 1927 a duly prepared budget was presented to the honourable House where the ordinary item of expenses on law officers, which usually covers expenditure of this description, was included. The budget includes an item for law expenses, which includes the engagement of lawyers or engagement of counsel in criminal cases. In the revised estimate we were told that there was an increase in the expenses on pleaders engaged in mofussil in ordinary criminal cases. Therefore, Sir, there is an item in the budget of every year which includes expenditure of this description. Now, as this contingency arose in 1926, why was it not provided for in the budget of 1927-28 which was before the honourable House and in which there is an item providing for expenditure of this description ? If that provision had been exceeded, under rule 31 a grant would have been asked by the Honourable the Finance Member. If we had sanctioned an ordinary grant and it had been exceeded, expenditure on that head had gone beyond anticipation, under rule 31 the Honourable the Finance Member could have come before the House for a supplementary grant. Then, rule 32, as it includes the word "estimate," rules out any supplementary grant for an expenditure already incurred. Look, Sir, at the note issued by the Honourable the General Member. It is distinctly stated that the expenditure has already been incurred, and he only wants a subsequent sanction from the House for this expenditure. This is not an estimate. I submit therefore that this demand is covered neither by rule 31 nor by rule 32. Besides it is not an unforeseen expenditure. The essence of supplementary demand is that it should relate to an unforeseen expenditure, an expenditure which was not anticipated at the time of the budget. Only such expenditure as was not anticipated at the time of the budget can be included in a supplementary grant. When Government gave the sanction in October 1926, they must have foreseen this. And if this expenditure was not included in the budget under the item of expenses on law officers, it is for the Honourable the General Member and the Government to explain why it was not. I think, Sir, that this is not a demand which is covered by rule 31 or 32, and therefore it is not in order.

Mr. G. WILES: Sir, I understand that the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, has raised a point of order asking under what section this demand is made. I may say that it is made under rule 32 (1), sub-section (ii) which says:

"a need arises during the current year for expenditure for which the vote of the Council is necessary upon some new service not contemplated in the Budget for that year."

I submit, Sir, that it is not true that the necessity for this expenditure arose in 1926. The contingency arose after the judgment was delivered by the magistrate. Then only we knew that this expenditure would fall on the general revenues. If I remember rightly the Finance Department refused to make any provision in the budget without an estimate. There was no estimate of this expenditure nor even a certainty that any expenditure would be incurred, and therefore this provision could not be made.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: When was the judgment delivered?

Mr. G. WILES: The judgment was delivered in January 1928. I submit, therefore, that this is a new service not contemplated in the budget for 1927-28.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DAULATRAM: On a point of information, Sir. Was not the judgment delivered before the present budget was presented?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is budget for the next year.

Mr. G. WILES: I understand that the honourable member also urges that this is not an estimate, since it relates to expenses incurred. But a demand can be made even for expenditure already incurred. Merely because the amount has already been spent, can there not be an estimate? If the argument were accepted, it would prevent the House from even regularizing expenditure incurred in anticipation of a grant. But the House constantly passes such supplementary demands. That argument is an absolute reduction ad absurdum.

I submit, therefore, the demand is perfectly in order under rule 32 (1) (ii).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like to hear the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, on this point.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South): Sir, I would admit that the contingency for this expenditure did arise in October 1926, when the sanction of the Government of India was received. It is dated the 29th October 1926. After that the resolution of the Government states:

"prosecution should be launched at the cost of Government. If the charge is proved against Mr. Harvey, the cost has to be borne by Mr. Harvey."

Therefore, the initiative cost, according to that sanction was to be borne by Government and I submit that from October 1926, when the prosecution was launched according to the sanction, the Government started the expenditure and actually began spending from that time and the whole expenditure was over by the time the judgment was delivered. I submit that there was no presentation of an estimate and therefore no supplementary grant can be demanded. This is something like asking for an expenditure already incurred. Consequently, the expenditure which is already incurred would be included in "Miscellaneous and unforeseen charges." That is the reason why we have been asked to provide Rs. 5 to 6 lakhs under this head. I, therefore, asked the Honourable Minister when he made a demand under the head of "Miscellaneous and unforeseen charges," to state definitely for what purpose this amount is required. But he only tried to explain away by saying that the amount was provided to meet contingent expenses. In the present instance, I may submit that no estimate was submitted at all. If any amount has been fixed for a certain purpose and if it is found that the amount has exceeded, then the Honourable the Finance Member under rule 31 can ask for a supplementary grant. This is an original item and has been brought before this House after the expenditure was incurred, and which amount was not provided in the budget for 1926-27.

Mr. G. WILES: Sir, I can only say, that even if I were to admit that the honourable member is correct in his statement that we ought to have made provision for this amount in the budget for 1926-27, the fact before this House is that we did not do so. That is the only fact which is relevant in this case. We did not make budget provision and we have, therefore, to ask for a supplementary grant.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Sir, I want to support the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, in his views.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. There is no question of supporting the honourable member, as he has only raised a point of order. I think the point of order raised is certainly important and intelligent and would have carried, if that one important and the only argument of the honourable member, the Secretary, had not been convincing. He says: "That the need under rule 32 (1) (ii) for this demand arose after the budget for the current year was prepared. I think that is a very strong argument. The judgment of the magistrate really decided the issue; and the resolution referred to by the honourable member does not decide the issue for the purpose of the Finance Department. The Finance Department is concerned with account intricacies which they have to adhere to; and accordingly they could provide for the expenditure after the judgment. Had Mr. Harvey lost the case, the Finance Department could not have asked for this supplementary grant. I think the honourable member, the Secretary of the Finance Department, is right in pointing out that the contingency for the demand only arose after the judgment was delivered. Under these circumstances the demand is in order.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Another point of order Sir. It seems to me that here this amount of Rs. 60,000 is already voted, I mean to say, so far as the Development Department is concerned, there is the statement that "the total expenditure incurred by Government amounts to Rs. 60,800 and sufficient savings to cover the cost are anticipated in the current year's voted budget grant under the head Bombay Development Scheme, as increased by the supplementary grant voted by the Legislative Council at its last September-October session." That is to say, the money is spent out of the expenditure sanctioned for the Development Department, and the wording of this demand differs from the wording of the several demands for grants which have been made. It is stated that the money has been already voted upon in the Development Department. So, if any money is required, really the demand ought to be under the head of Law Officers' Charges, 24-Administration of Justice. So far as the Development Department is concerned, there was a large amount sanctioned in the original budget. Also in the supplementary demand the amount was sanctioned, and this money has been expended out of the money already sanctioned by the vote of the Council. So, so far as the Development Department is concerned, the expenditure is really already voted upon and sanctioned. Now, if really speaking, this is another expenditure belonging to another department, then, Government ought to come forward by a proper demand under the head 24-Administration of Justice, to which the Law Officers' Charges belong. I take it that this thing is placed before the Council as a matter of indulgence as it were, that is, in order to afford this Council an opportunity to discuse this matter, it being an important matter. Otherwise, it must be regarded as a grant properly belonging to the Administration of Justice, not the Development Department.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Does the honourable member mean that, if this supplementary demand was not placed before the Council for its sanction, Government would be right in including that amount as amount sanctioned in the budget and that they would not be constitutionally wrong ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think that is what one would gather from the honourable member's remarks.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No, Sir. I mean that is an expenditure belonging to the Development Department. That is the point I was making. If it is regarded as an expenditure belonging to the Development Department, as an item of that department,.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I can assure the honourable member that this demand is not made with a view to raise a discussion on that question. They have made it because they are bound to. Does any honourable member wish to speak ?

Mr. G. WILES : Do you wish me to speak, Sir ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Well, if the honourable member wishes to say anything, he may.

Mr. G. WILES : I only have to say, Sir, that if the honourable member were right in his argument that Government need not have come to this House for this demand, since the amount can be met from savings, I have no doubt the departments of Government would be only too delighted. It is the Finance Department that demanded that they, the Development Department, should come before this honourable House with this demand, as it is a new service, not contemplated at the time of the budget.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : As a matter of fact, I do not think there is any point of order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Mr. President, during the two debates that we have had in this honourable House, this session, a good many facts have come to the knowledge of all honourable members, and I will ask your forgiveness and that of the honourable members if in the remarks that I have got to make I may have to repeat what I have already stated during this very sessions. But, while making this statement, I think it necessary to relate very shortly the facts and events which led up to sanction being given, resulting in my having to come to this honourable House for this supplementary demand. I will have to take you back some years. I will not go further back than the June-July sessions of 1923. During that sessions a question was asked by an honourable member who no more happens to be amongst us, but the reply was not given in the House as the House was prorogued. In response to a request, the answer was sent to the honourable member informally. The relevant part of the question was (f) of the question : "" Do official records show that wrong size was ordered ? " meaning mild steel bars. The answer was " No ". That answer was admittedly wrong, and in a subsequent sessions, in answer to another question, I will show that the correct answer was given. (Mr. K. F. Nariman : That was also wrong.) Now, Sir, the next step is the August sessions of 1924. My honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji tabled a resolution which was not moved in this House, but the importance of which was recognised by Government, and for all practical purposes accepted. It was a resolution to appoint a committee to enquire into the activities of the Development Department as to how far and in what directions such activities should be continued or eliminated. I have already read out the whole of this resolution to the honourable House at this very sessions. This resolution was sent to the advisory committee, then sitting, as a special reference. On the 23rd October the same year, 1924, my honourable friend Mr. Nariman asked a question in Council about mild steel bars. I will not detain you by reading out the whole question and the answer. I will just give you the gist of it. He wanted to know whether steel bars had been ordered out, whether the required bars were of the size of $\frac{5}{8}$ths inch, and whether the $\frac{5}{8}$ths had been changed into $\frac{7}{8}$ths and the bars had become surplus. In answer to that question, we admitted that a mistake had been made, that $\frac{7}{8}$ths inch bars had been ordered out instead of $\frac{5}{8}$ths bars, and we went on to explain that 800 tons of these $\frac{7}{8}$ths bars had been used and the rest would be for sale if the programme was curtailed.

On the very next day (this was a mere coincidence) my honourable friend moved a resolution in this House by which he required the appointment of a committee to inquire into the whole administration and working of the Development Directorate, to suggest ways and means of effecting retrenchments and to report on the advisability or otherwise of continuing the schemes taken in hand. On a former occasion, during this session, I read out the resolution tabled by my honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji and the resolution moved by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman, and I then contended (I think I rightly contended) that there was very little difference of substance between the two. During that debate, in October 1924, I pointed out to the House that Government had given effect to a similar resolution moved by my honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji and that resolution was at that time under the consideration of the committee, and therefore Government did not see the necessity of appointing another committee. It was then brought to the notice of Government during the very debate that the committee to which Mr. Lalji Naranji's resolution had been referred did not have, amongst its members, members of this honourable House. Government offered to appoint a few honourable members to the special advisory committee. But still Mr. Nariman's resolution was passed by a few votes. On the 31st October, that is, within six days of the passing of that resolution, Government offered to appoint my honourable friend Mr. Nariman and several other members to the special advisory committee. Mr. Nariman refused to take advantage of the offer on the ground that the reference contained in his resolution was of a wider character than the reference contained in my honourable friend Mr. Lalji's resolution. Personally, I could see then and I can see now very little difference between those two resolutions, but suffice it to say that this special advisory committee, which was entrusted with the task of enquiring into the administration of the department, was the committee that ultimately reported on the Back Bay Reclamation Scheme, and I contend that if the reference was as narrow and was as limited as my honourable friend would try and make out, how was it possible for the committee to go in for such an exhaustive examination of the activities of the Development Department in Back Bay and produce a report which has been most useful both to Government and the public ? I further state that that very committee, under that very reference, is still in existence and is examining our Suburban Development Schemes. I mention these facts to show that the reference to the committee was not limited, was not confined to any narrow issues as was then contended and has since been again contended by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I rise to a point of order, Sir. All these matters have been twice placed before this House by the same Honourable General Member. Is it, therefore, open to him and is it in order for him to bring these facts forward in an examination of other questions such as the discussion of this item ? Similar matters, I think you, Sir, will be pleased to observe, were raised in the Legislative Assembly. Your ruling on this point may save so much time of the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I am glad that the honourable member has raised that point of order. The questions of Back Bay and the Development Department affairs and the Harvey-Nariman Case have really come before this House more often than they need have come and I was only wondering myself as to how far the Honourable the General Member would like to go into such details in presenting the demand before the House. The point of order rather helps me in one way. If I allowed the Honourable the General Member to go into all these points, then it would be very difficult for me to draw the line when other honourable members speak on the subject. I would, therefore, again prefer to give the same advice to the Honourable the General Member which I did to the honourable member from Karachi, that his remarks should be strictly limited to the demand before the House.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : As a matter of fact, Sir, all the matters I am presenting before you are relevant, but I should certainly take your advice and if it is the wish of this honourable House, I will curtail my remarks by not going into them in detail but by simply putting them before the House as mere facts.

The next point is that in the debate of 3rd March 1925 my honourable friend Mr. Nariman, for the first time in this House, made allegations of corruption, and in reply to that debate I made a most sincere offer to him in this very House and on more than one occasion during this session. I have read out my very words. Again, suffice it to say that I asked my honourable friend to come and let me know any cases of corruption, if not in this House, privately, and I promised him that I would give him satisfaction in the investigation of those allegations of corruption provided those allegations of corruption were of a specific character which I could investigate. I heard nothing from my honourable friend for several days. I waited for a month and a half, and I will again remind honourable members that the Secretary wrote a letter to my honourable friend offering him what I considered a most sincere and generous offer, viz., Government offered to appoint an officer of high judicial attainments to investigate any charges of corruption Mr. Nariman might have to make. We asked him for assistance not in the interest of my honourable friend but in the interests of Government. I am ready to confess that we wanted his assistance not because he was a non-co-operator. No, we wanted to take his assistance because it was in the interests of the department and in the interests of Government. But, Sir, may I state once again that that offer was refused—the offer of the appointment of a high judicial offer to investigate any allegations of curruption that my honourable friend might have to bring forward. I will not weary the House by reading out the letter nor will I weary the House by summarizing Mr. Nariman's reasons for refusal.

Then, Sir, we come to the Mears Committee. There again my honourable friend was invited to give evidence and to supply information upon which he based his speech of the 3rd March 1925. While giving evidence he made a certain number of allegations of corruption which were not specific, except one allegation, the allegation that mild steel bars had been ordered out of a wrong size deliberately with the object that Mr. Harvey who ordered out these mild steel bars would gain by way of commission and with ulterior motives. Well, Sir, naturally Government could not, after evidence of this character, sit down with folded arms and, if they had, this honourable House would have had justification for saying that Government were trying to shield their officers. Here was a specific allegation made before a responsible committee, before which my honourable friend knew he had no protection. In this House he has absolute protection.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY A. LALLJEE: I do not understand why should he not have protection before the Commission.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: He knew that he had no protection because he is a lawyer, and you are not.

Mr. President, my honourable friend made these statements with a full sense of responsibility, and I say that the one specific allegation he made was not proved. An explanation was given in this House, but he repeated the allegation. I ask honourable members to consider the position of Government. Well, I will tell you what Government did do. I am prepared to lay all the cards on the table of the House; there is nothing for me or the Government to hide.

An Honourable MEMBER: Now.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: All through. We asked our officers to go and give their written statements to the committee and to explain all allegations, even if the allegations were vague, and certainly the specific allegation of corruption. Our officers naturally wanted to know whether the committee would express an authoritative opinion on the specific allegation of corruption made by the honourable member. Government were not in a position to answer that question. The officers did go to the committee, and did give their explanations, but when it came to giving an authoritative opinion as to whether the allegation of corruption was right or wrong, the committee did not say anything. Mr. President, I had to give my evidence before the Mears Committee that very afternoon. I was not aware of any questions that might have been asked to the officers of Government. After my examination was over, one of the members of the committee asked me a straight question. The question was whether I knew that allegations had been made by the honourable member Mr. Nariman against an officer of Government, and what steps I was prepared to take to prove or disprove those allegations. Naturally, I turned round to the committee and said that Government could not prosecute, but if the officer of Government, who believes himself to have been defamed, asks for sanction to prosecute, I would like the views of the committee, since the committee was appointed by the Government of India, and I am afraid I cross-examined the committee instead of the committee cross-examining me. But I did wish to know from the committee how this matter should be cleared up. The committee stated that they were not prepared to express an authoritative opinion on the allegations. One member of the committee said that Government should take steps to see that Mr. Nariman proved his allegations. Another member of the committee said that Mr. Harvey should be allowed to do what he pleased. The third member of the committee expressed no definite opinion.

An Honourable MEMBER : And the fourth ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : There was no fourth member.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The committee expressed those opinions ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Yes, they are in print ; they were made in public before the Mears Committee.

Well, Sir, the very next day, that is on the 25th of August 1926, after the officers had been before the Mears Committee, Mr. Harvey applied for sanction to prosecute Mr. Nariman, for the specific allegation he had made about the purchase of mild steel bars. He contended that the specific allegation made against him was incorrect, that his reputation would suffer, and he asked Government, as the protectors of the characters of their officers, to give sanction. He further asked that the privileges to which he was entitled under the rules of Government should also be granted to him. Now, Sir, this application of Mr. Harvey, in the ordinary course, went on that very day to the Solicitor to Government, who forwarded it to the Advocate General, and Government had to make up their minds on the advice tendered by their legal officers. The legal officers stated that the statement was defamatory. Well, Sir, I would like honourable members to realise exactly the position of Government at that time. The honourable member Mr. Nariman had been admittedly given opportunities of giving Government assistance to prove his allegations of corruption. The honourable member repeats that one allegation which he had made in this House, the only specific allegation, before the Mears Committee. The Mears Committee do not express an authoritative opinion, but on the other hand one of the members of the committee very clearly expresses the opinion that Government should see that steps are taken to prove or disprove the allegation. The other member states clearly that Mr. Harvey should be allowed to do what he pleases.

An Honourable MEMBER: What about the opinion of the third member?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That has already been stated.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Government themselves had examined that allegation about corruption in regard to mild steel bars, and they had found from the tender itself that the honourable member Mr. Nariman was wrong when he stated that 5/8" had been intentionally changed to 7/8". The explanation that it was done by mistake had been given to this House. Government could express no further opinion. Who was then to express an opinion? And, Mr. President, I seriously ask honourable members to reflect what their opinion would have been if Government had taken no further steps and my honourable friend Mr. Nariman had come to this House and pointed out to us "Here you are, I make this specific allegation; further, two members of the committee have asked that Government should clear them up; and you have taken no steps." He would, I imagine, have roared and said that Government were guilty of shielding their officers. And, Sir, the only action that Government could take was to allow Mr. Harvey to clear his character or allow Mr. Nariman to prove that the allegations he made were right. Government gave the sanction.

Now, Sir, I think all honourable members are acquainted with the resolution passed by Government, and I need not take up further time of the House by reading it. I will only state that the resolution was guided by the Government Servants' Conduct Rules. I do not know whether honourable members would like me to read out those Conduct Rules.....

....(Honourable Members: Read the resolution giving sanction). I have been asked, Mr. President, to read out the resolution giving sanction. It reads:

"The sanction asked for by the S. E., Housing and Suburban Circle to institute a criminal prosecution against Mr. K. F. Nariman, B.A., LL.B., for defamation for certain statements made by him before the Back Bay Enquiry Committee is accorded. The proceedings should be instituted at the cost of Government, but if the complaint is dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, the cost should be borne by Mr. Harvey."

You must read this resolution in conjunction with the application made by Mr. Harvey (which preceded the resolution), in which he asked for sanction to prosecute on one specific allegation.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

Sir, to cut matters short—I am glad to see there is a tendency in this honourable House to finish this debate as soon as possible.....

Honourable MEMBERS: No, no.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Then, Sir, it is a one-sided arrangement: I have to curtail my speech, but my honourable friends are to be allowed to speak at any length. That is not the understanding, Mr. President, that you gave me to understand. At any rate I will not take much longer. Do honourable members want me to read out the rules ?

(Honourable members: Yes.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Only that particular rule.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: There is only one rule, and it reads:

"A Government servant may not, without the previous sanction of the local Government have recourse to any court or to the Press for the vindication of his public acts or character from defamatory attacks. In granting sanction to the recourse to a court the local Government will in each case decide whether it will itself bear the costs of the proceedings or whether the Government servant shall institute the proceedings at his own expense, and, if so, whether in the event of a decision in his favour, the Government shall reimburse him to the extent of the whole or any part of the costs. Nothing in this rule will limit or otherwise affect the right of any Government servant to vindicate his private acts or character."

That is the rule, Sir. Now, let us come to the judgment, the position being that if Mr. Nariman proved the charges of corruption against Mr. Harvey, Mr. Harvey was to bear the cost; if Mr. Nariman failed to prove those charges of corruption, if the court held that those charges were not justified, Government was to bear the cost.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE: You had already paid him before the judgment.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Part of it; we have not paid the whole.

Now, Sir, I will try to summarise the judgment very briefly so far as it relates to Mr. Harvey and so far as the Magistrate has held Mr. Harvey not guilty of corruption.

The Magistrate states that the main gravamen of the charge is that the alteration of 5/8" into 7/8" was made deliberately by the superintending engineer in the indent prepared by the Executive Engineer out of corrupt and ulterior motives. The point for consideration is whether the complainant did so with a corrupt or dishonest motive. The question for decision is whether this alteration or addition to the indent was made by Mr. Harvey deliberately out of corrupt or ulterior motives.

According to the Magistrate, Mr. Nariman's contention on this point is that these bars were wrongly ordered and far in excess of any actual requirement for any purpose and with a view that manufacturers should make a profit in order that Mr. Harvey may get secret commission. It was also Mr. Nariman's case that Mr. Harvey and other officers formed a group or an association of persons who took secret commissions from merchants and contractors.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

The Magistrate states that though he holds that the complainant ordered excessive number of bars and of a wrong size, it does not necessarily follow that he did it out of corrupt or dishonest motive. It may have been made through error of judgment, incompetency, carelessness or negligence or wrong calculation or because he acted on the slip of Mr. Hamid. Only if the proposition advanced by Mr. Nariman that there was a combination or conspiracy on the part of these higher officers, namely, Messrs. Sykes, Harvey and Hamid, could it be held that it was done out of corrupt or dishonest motives. The evidence, states the Magistrate, before him is not sufficient to warrant such a conclusion. There may be suspicious circumstances but they could only be matters of vague suspicion, not entitled to any serious consideration. He found nothing adduced before him to show that there was a combination or group of officers who took secret commissions from merchants and shared in the secret profits.

The Magistrate further states that not one of the several witnesses called by Mr. Nariman makes any allegation of corruption against the complainant personally. On the contrary, the Magistrate goes on to quote the evidence of a witness who described the precautions taken by them to protect themselves against Bara Sahebs like Mr. Harvey or some other persons coming down upon them. This would show that, Mr. Harvey at any rate had nothing to do with Mr. Hamid in the matter of bribes in regard to transactions referred to by this witness. The Magistrate held therefore that there is no evidence to prove any such conspiracy or combination or association of higher officers including Mr. Harvey.

The Magistrate continues that there is also another obstacle to the acceptance of Mr. Nariman's suggestion of corruption and that is the p ocedure observed in the ordering of the bars. That did not rest with Mr. Harvey at all. Mr. Harvey had thus nothing to do with the acceptance of Shalebhoy Tyabjee's tender or of the placing of order with English manufacturers. On the evidence therefore the Magistrate states that he must hold that the plea of justification fails.

I find, Sir, that we are nearing tea time, and as the House a e anxious not to go into further details, I will say no more. I will only ask honourable members to realise the feelings of an officer who honestly believes himself to be innocent and who has been publicly accused of corruption. It is all very well to say that it is one of the duties of a public officer to hear criticism, but I would ask honourable members to realise that if Government servants are liable to be accused of corruption when they are really innocent and if Government refuse to give any protection it will be difficult for Government to get men who are really desirous of maintaining their reputation. With these words Mr. President I will ask for the grant.

Question proposed.

(After recess)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, Government are in the habit of incurring expenditure without the sanction of this House. They consider that this House, as it is constituted at present, will not come in the way of sanctioning any expenditure that they make.

Now, there were very queer arguments advanced by the honourable member, the Secretary of the Finance Department. I do not understand him. It has been clearly stated in the note that has been supplied to us :

"Government decided the suit against Mr. Nariman should be instituted at their cost."

This decision they arrived at in October 1926....

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, may I know if the honourable member is in order ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is that an indirect way of questioning my ruling ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : No, Sir. I want to say that Government decided to institute the suit at their cost and they should have made provision for that cost and should have taken the sanction of this House for meeting the cost. I do not think that money was going to fall from heaven. Money, of course, Government can have only with the vote of this House. The suit was instituted at the cost of Government and the Honourable the General Member has already told us that some part of the cost has already been paid before the judgment was delivered. I, therefore, do not understand from what source this money came. Did it come from the budget, or did it come from the savings ? Where did the money come from ? This is the way the Government are spending the money. The Government feared very much that if they had put the proposal in this connection, the House would not have accorded its sanction. Therefore they went out of the way and adopted this novel procedure of incurring expenditure in anticipation of the sanction of this House. Now, they have come to us for our sanction. If you look at the note supplied to us, you will find the heading on that note is : "grant for the expenditure incurred during the current year on Harvey-Nariman case." This procedure is clearly a wrong one.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The honourable member is not in order in speaking in the manner he is doing. I have ruled that the Government or the Honourable the General Member was in order in asking for the grant in the way in which he has asked. Therefore, that question cannot be brought under consideration again.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, I bow to your decision. I want to submit that when Mr. Harvey asked Government for the permission to prosecute the honourable member of this House, Mr. Nariman, Government accorded their sanction. At that time it was no business of Government to finance that prosecution. I think it was the business of Mr. Harvey to launch the prosecution in order to clear his character. Government ought not to have taken the cause of Mr. Harvey and gone out of the way by giving Mr. Harvey all the facilities in prosecuting an honourable member of this House.

The Honourable the General Member says that the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, did not give them help in proving his allegations. By a resolution of this House, the Honourable the General Member did give an advisory committee. The Honourable the General Member stated that at that time the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, could have co-operated with Government and proved all the allegations. But I submit, Sir, that the honourable member, Mr. Nariman was asked to serve on an advisory committee. Mr. Nariman was perfectly right in refusing that offer. He was again asked to appear before a person of high judicial attainments like a criminal. That is the reason why the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, had to refuse the offer of Government. When Government did not succeed in inducing the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, to prove his allegations, the Honourable the General Member or the Government compelled him to prove these allegations in a different way by giving sanction to launch this prosecution. They compelled him to prove these allegations in a court of law. I would say that the offer made by Government to the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, to appear before a judge, was tantamount to the fact that Government regarded him as a criminal, because he was trying to go into the secrets of the Government officials of the Development Department. Instead of taking his assistance in a proper way, they have compelled him to prove his allegations by prosecuting him. I think if the honourable members of this House are prosecuted in this way, it will be very difficult for them to perform their duties for their constituencies which have returned them to this Council. Sir, what was the condition under which this prosecution was sanctioned? If the complaint would be dismissed, Mr. Harvey would have to bear the cost. (The Honourable Sir Cowasji Jehangir : That is not the wording) " Subject to the condition that in the event of the complaint being dismissed ' due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, ' the cost should be borne by Mr. Harvey. " Now, this additional condition that they have put in, namely, " due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, " cannot be put down according to the Government Servants' Conduct Rules, which the honourable member has read. I think they have gone out of their way, gone beyond the rules, and made a special case of Mr. Harvey and given him all facilities. The rule talks of the case being decided in the favour of the complainant. There is nothing about proving the allegations in the rule. But the honourable member Mr. Nariman has come out unscathed from the trial. I think the intention of Government—I cannot attribute motives—but perhaps the launching of this prosecution must have for its object the curbing down and endeavouring to cow down a member like the honourable member Mr. Nariman. But I think Government is mistaken in supposing that a man of the stamp of Mr. Nariman could be cowed down into submission by such prosecution, and Mr. Nariman has come out with flying colours from the ordeal to which he was subjected by Government. And now, though Mr. Nariman has come out successful in this ordeal, still we are asked to defray the whole cost of Mr. Harvey from the Government coffers ! This, of course, is a way of "cutting it both ways." If they wanted to prosecute Mr. Nariman, they ought to have come before this House and asked us whether this prosecution should be sanctioned or not. But the Honourable the General Member at once decided to prosecute him without taking the sanction of this House as regards expenditure. They ought to have come here before the House and said that the character of a Government officer of a very high position has been questioned and, therefore, they desired that prosecution should be undertaken. Of course, money was to be refunded later on. But on a hypothetical case, they ought to have taken the sense of this House for the purpose of launching this case. Instead of doing that, they launched the prosecution, the case lasted for a very long period of time, and I do not know what money has been spent on it. I think this Rs. 60,800 is merely a very small amount in comparison with the actual cost Government has incurred. The Chief Presidency Magistrate, or the Magistrate who tried this case, may be drawing a salary of Rs. 1,200 or Rs. 1,500, I do not know their salaries, then the salaries of the clerks and so on, if all this expenditure and the waste of public time is calculated, I think the loss to this presidency is enormous. I think it was no business of Government to give such special privileges to this officer without taking the consent of this House. Unfortunately, they have incurred this expenditure, and now they come and say "You must pass it," and perhaps it is said in some quarters that if this amount is not passed by this House, His Excellency the Governor may have to restore it. That is a queer argument. According to the constitution, any amount, as far as a reserved subject is concerned, can be restored by His Excellency the Governor. Government have kept this as a reserved subject in order that any grant may be restored in this department. Originally, I think this ought to have been in the Public Works Department. This Development Department ought, therefore, to have been a transferred subject, in which case this House would have had greater control over the expenditure, and such scandals that have come out would not have happened in the course of these five or six years, in which ultimately the general taxpayer of the presidency has been saddled with a subsidy of Rs. 32 lakhs. This is not a common joke. We in the mofussil are being starved and taxation is being increased in the mofussil and rural areas, and for getting a lakh of rupees from one taluka the people have to be dealt with so severely as perhaps may be the case in Bardoli and other places where revenue assessment is increased. Now, when such is the case of the poor peasant, and just now a heavy contribution is taken from them, and the result has been that Rs. 32 lakhs,—not a small amount, perhaps proceeds of one whole district, the land revenue of one whole district, would not be more than that,—will have to be paid by whom ? By the poor people who are starving for bread in the mofussil areas. Now, such is the condition, and therefore, it was the duty of Government rather to set their house in order. If the allegations were made, why did they not themselves take any steps ? Why did they not make enquiries of their own accord ? They have got a big C. I. D., which they could have utilised for the purpose of unearthing the secrets of this Development Department and its workings. Clue was given to them by an honourable member of this House. They could have taken it, and they could have put their C. I. D. dogs,—C. I. D. people,—on that. Of course, they are not dogs but watch-dogs. Government generally call them watch-dogs because they find out and unearth secrets from various places. There is a big department of C. I. D., and I think they could have unearthed so many matters that were brought to the notice of Government in this connection. But they did not do it, because high officers of Government were involved and perhaps many other things would come out which would be unpalatable to the high officers of Government, and therefore, what did they do ? The honourable member Mr. Nariman appeared before the Mears Committee, a committee appointed by the Government of India. It was not a committee that was put up without a proper constitution and the object of that committee was to unearth the secrets of this department. Now, before that committee the honourable member Mr. Nariman appeared as a witness. Non-co-operator as he was, he appeared before that committee and gave out all the details that he knew. And what have Government done ? Instead of setting their house in order, they have come back and questioned the members of the Mears Committee and asked " What can Government do to vindicate the character of their officers against whom those allegations have been made ? " Now I think instead of making enquiries into all the allegations, which was the duty of Government, they go in a round about way and take up the unusual procedure of approaching the Government of India and getting their sanction for this prosecution, instead of going the right way. Now ultimately they have been compelled to admit that it is necessary to make investigations and they have been compelled to accept a committee of this House for going into this subject. If that had been done before, the present trouble would not have arisen. I know how for a period of three or four months my honourable friend Mr. Nariman was ill and still he had to undergo this ordeal ; as an indomitable worker in the public cause, he has gone through this ordeal and he has come out of it unscathed and victorious.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member is repeating his arguments.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Therefore this is a matter in which Government have incurred this expenditure without the sanction of the House and without taking the House into their confidence and therefore it is the duty of the House not to pass this grant. Several questions have been asked about this very matter but the replies given have been evasive. When the Honourable the General Member has thought it fit to persecute and humiliate an honourable member of this House, we, the representatives of the people who have elected us, ought not to acquiesce in such persecution and humiliation and we must therefore reject this grant in toto. Voting for this grant is nothing but acquiescence in this persecution. I am sure no honourable member with any self-respect will vote for it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I suppose many honourable members would like to speak (although for the present one or two stood up in their places) and stand up in numbers when probably I would be feeling differently as regards continuing the debate. With a view to curtail lengthy discussion I should like to point out to the honourable House that really speaking, to my mind, there are two very important issues on which the debate ought to go, viz., whether Government were justified in sanctioning the prosecution; and secondly, whether the judgment justifies the demand made to-day. These are the two important issues. The other details which have often been talked out should not be repeated here. I hope that honourable members will speak briefly on the subject on those lines and allow as large a number as wish to speak to address the House. The honourable member from Karachi, Mr. Bechar.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, after Government having done their damnest to persecute in a spirit of utter vindictiveness a political opponent, and after the damning judgment that has been delivered against the whole conduct of the Development Department by the trying magistrate, I should have thought that Government would not have had the impudence, the cheek and, if I may say so, the barefacedness to come before this honourable House and ask them to sanction the sum of Rs. 60,800 which they have spent to finance this case. Sir, the Honourable the General Member was kind enough to read to us the rules for the conduct of public servants, and he tried to justify the position taken up by Government. The rule which he quoted to us states that if any public officer is defamed then the Government could give sanction to the officer defamed to go and vindicate his conduct in a court of law and that it could be done either at his own expense or at the expense of the State or in the alternative if he won the case, the Government could consider as to how far they should reimburse him for the expenses incurred by him in that behalf. First of all, I should like to touch upon the point as to whether the charges made by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman in the discharge of his public duties did constitute defamation of the officer. That point has been sufficiently and very lucidly cleared by the learned magistrate who tried this case and who has held that there was no defamation at all.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not know whether the honourable member is right in arguing on those lines, I do not know whether he has read the judgment (Laughter).

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: It appeared in all the important Bombay papers and I have read it.

Anyway, the question arises whether Government was justified in making that expenditure in the very beginning. The rules do not compel Government to incur expenditure at the very initial stage and in the long speech which my honourable friend, the Honourable the General Member, delivered here, he did not indicate to us any reason why Government went out of their way and incurred all that expenditure and committed themselves to the extent that they did. Now, Sir, they are trying to present to this House a fait accompli that we have already made this expenditure. It is now merely a question of book entries. They are in this way trying to misguide and mislead honourable members in their private conversations and say that the House was already committed to this expenditure by a certain act which impliedly gave consent to the prosecution. I hope that these methods of the official whips will not deceive anybody and I ask the Honourable the General Member to produce the slightest evidence on record to show that directly or indirectly this House was ever a party to the sanctioning of the prosecution, whether in the form of a demand for grant or by any other means. Therefore, all those honourable members whom the Government are trying to beguile by saying that the House was already a party to it, will be exposed to the fullest extent.

It has been argued that the officers of the State have got to be protected and that unless that protection is given to them, no good men will come forward to join public service. Look at that question. That question is more or less analogous to a case that arose in the Karachi municipality. A member of the Karachi municipality in the course of a speech suggested that one officer of the municipality had done certain acts which had landed the municipality in a lot of losses and that the way in which he (the officer) was doing his work raised serious suspicions; upon this the officer asked the municipality to give him sanction to prosecute that particular member of the municipality. The managing committee said "it is not our affair. If you have been defamed, we have no objection to your going to the court and clearing your conduct." That officer went to the court and the case was ultimately decided in favour of the municipal councillor. The relevant point I wish to bring to the notice of the House is: did the Karachi municipality pay one single pie to the officer in order to enable him to have his conduct vindicated? Not a bit of it.

Now, Sir, one point clearly emerges from the whole case, namely, whether the charge that my honourable friend Mr. Nariman made in a general manner was proved or not. The magistrate himself has said that no explanation is forthcoming as to the real cause, the real intention about the ordering of those bars. He says, it may be a mistake, it may be corruption. I think that the burden of proof should have fallen upon the person who prosecuted to prove that Mr. Nariman had made that charge in order to malign that officer. On that point the magistrate states clearly that that was not so. Not only that but the fact that there was something wrong in doing this business was proved by the circumstantial evidence of the number of frauds that were perpetrated upon the Development Department.

Leaving aside the legal aspect of the question, do Government, after all this public indictment, consider it reasonable or fit to come before this

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

House for a grant of this expenditure ? If Mr. Harvey had won the case, I could have understood Government coming to this House and saying " Our officer has won the case ; Mr. Nariman's lies have been exposed, and therefore it is proper now for this Council to sanction the expenditure." Then our heads would have been a little low, and we would not have had this courage to tell Government that it is wrong of them now to come before this Council for sanction to the expenditure. On the contrary, the honourable member Mr. Nariman has won the case, and yet we are being asked to sanction this expenditure. Since this case has gone on, on one pretext or other, already this presidency has borne the burden of paying Mr. Harvey for no work that he was doing during the latter part of his stay in the Bombay Presidency. If this is taken into account, Mr. Harvey has already got more than Rs. 60,000, and on the top of that we are being asked to give Rs. 60,000 more. Sir, the only possible inference that I can draw from the attitude which Government have taken up in coming before this House to sanction this grant is that they feel so sure of their majority in this House. However rotten the whole proposal may be, however fraudulent the whole affair may be, they know that they can get majority to vote with them by the power and prestige which they possess in their hands, by the power of patronage which the instrument of Government places in their hands ; I believe most sincerely that they deliberately misuse their power and gain a majority. Otherwise, I am sure they would never have been able to get a majority on the question which was discussed in this House yesterday....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. That is a digression.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Very well, Sir, but I feel strongly that justice and righteousness is on this side of the House, but ultimately they will get a majority of votes on their side, for so long as we have people to say " For me it is not to reason why, but to simply do and die," Sir, insert the word " vote " for " do " and it comes to " For me it is not to reason why but to vote and die." Now, Sir, that is the position of the official bloc and some flunkies, miscalled representatives of the people ; will simply go on the instructions of the official whip and vote in the " Ayes " lobby, but, Sir, that verdict will not be endorsed by the public at large. If you want to get at the real judgment of the House on this question, I say, exclude all the official members. You will then know what is the true verdict on this question ; otherwise, I most strongly repudiate that judgment. I will challenge Government to go before any impartial tribunal and establish whether their case is right or wrong.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : On a point of order. May I know whether the Honourable Member in charge is prepared to place the opinions of the law officers of Government on this question before the House. He has referred to them, and the Parliamentary practice is that when a Minister refers to any document, it must be placed before the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is no point of order.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : It is a point for the Chair to decide, whether the documents should be placed on the table.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have given my ruling once before that documents so referred to should be placed on the table.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Does that not apply in this case also ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I suppose the same principle would apply.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South) : Mr. President, I must confess that I am in rather an embarrassing position, when I speak on this subject. When the subject was broached in this House, I had considered my position for a long time, and if it were not for the personal references that the Honourable the General Member has made, which render an explanation on my part necessary, and if it were not for the fact that this House has to go into the question with all the facts before it, which I expected the Honourable the General Member to give, but which he has not done, I would not have inflicted myself upon the House.

First and foremost, I must once again repudiate, and I repudiate it as emphatically as I can, the suggestion which has been repeatedly made again to-day by the Honourable the General Member that opportunities were given to me by the Government to place my facts before a properly constituted tribunal and I refused that offer. Evidently the Honourable the General Member suffers under a belief that by constantly repeating what he says is the true state of affairs, he might be able to create a favourable impression upon the public mind. Therefore, I repeat what I have already stated, whilst making my position clear on the one rupee cut, that it was the Government who were absolutely reluctant to allow any non-official member or any independent tribunal to pry into the affairs of the department, and that was the reason why the affairs were kept secret from the public eye ; and I had made it quite clear that I was quite willing and prepared, non-co-operator as I was—because I have not taken this to be a political subject but as one which concerns the public welfare, which concerns public funds—to set aside my scruple as a non-co-operator and to co-operate with the Government, but they did not want to accept it, because they did not want ugly facts to be brought to light. They were certain that any independent enquiry of the description I was asking for would bring to light ugly facts ; but they have not been able ultimately to keep the facts from the public. It was on account of that that they did not accept the suggestion for an independent, impartial non-official enquiry, and I would only trouble the House with the sort of reply that the Government gave me and my reply to that, once and for the last. The Honourable the General Member referred to the correspondence and said " I am not going to state the reasons why Mr. Nariman refused the offer." I know Sir, why he did not state the reasons why I refused the offer. If he had read out.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : On a point of personal explanation. I said that I did not intend to summarise again the objections of my honourable friend Mr. Nariman, as I had done so on a former occasion.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, in the course of the correspondence, to which more than one honourable member has referred, what was my offer to the Government, and what was the offer of Government to me ? My offer was that a non-official committee consisting of the members of this House, selected by the Government themselves, should be appointed to investigate into the administration and the affairs of the Development Department. Once again, the Honourable the General Member brings forth the resolution of my honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji, knowing full well the difference between the two resolutions. I asked for an investigation and enquiry into the past ; my honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji confined himself to the future activities of the department, to see how far and to what extent those activities should be continued or curtailed. That is the difference, which any dispassionate reader will see ; still the Honourable the General Member does not see it. Again, I will quote the kind of offer Government made to me :

"Government are prepared to extend to you, in pursuit of this enquiry, the same facilities as are given to Government servants who may be incriminated, namely, permission to be present when evidence is being recorded, to cross-examine witnesses and to see documents which are admitted as exhibits by the enquiring officer."

I still am not in a position to know what the meaning in this offer was. Why was I, who was clamouring for an enquiry, placed in the position of a Government servant who may be incriminated ? That was the position given to me, and I was to examine such of the documents as were to be produced and to cross-examine witnesses that were to be produced by the department. They thought that if I accepted that offer everything would be all right. I am glad, Sir, that after all I did not fall into the snare which Government had prepared. The snare was that some sort of enquiry was to be made to save their face before the public and to say : "We have made the enquiry which Mr. Nariman demanded ; nothing has come out ; the department is fully vindicated ; and all the allegations are false." That was the tactics of Government to which I refused to submit. From the manner in which difficulties were experienced even in a court of law for the production of documents and registers and files, I am certain that if it were not for the enforced production under processes of law, none of the documents would have been produced and none of the witnesses would have been forthcoming. Now, what was again my offer ? I said that I would not mind even if a Government officer were associated with the enquiry ; I only insisted that four non-official members belonging to the House selected by the Government should be associated with that Government servant in the enquiry. That Government servant might be the president or chairman of the enquiry, but I only wanted that Indian non-official members should have the opportunity to assert their rights to enquire into the matter. That right the Honourable the General Member was not inclined to concede. Now, I again ask if there was no difference between the advisory committee and the investigation committee which I called for. The advisory committee is still sitting, is still functioning. If the Honourable the General Member did not see the difference between the functions of the two committees—why, as I pointed out, only the other day another investigation committee....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: It is not an investigation committee, Sir.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: This is a matter which may be referred to that advisory committee....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, the honourable member is making an incorrect statement of facts. He knows that it is not an investigation committee.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: Still, the Honourable the General Member does not want the non-official members appointed by this House to investigate into it. See the mentality: To-day, after all these facts have been found out, he is still anxious to keep it out of the public eye from the ratepayers and the persons who have subscribed thirty crores. He will not allow them to investigate. What do you presume from that? They will not allow us to investigate the matter, because they know the more the investigation the uglier and dirtier will be the facts. This is not the way you are going to preserve the prestige of Government. All these are bound to come out, if not to-day, after some time. You cannot shirk enquiries by members of this House by simply refusing them the right to enquire.

Now, Sir, coming to this question, I do appeal to the honourable members on both sides of the House to take it from me—I have said before and I repeat it again—that I have no malicious motive or malicious feeling towards anybody, either an official or a non-official. I have been found by the magistrate not to harbour any malicious motive. Only in the discharge of what I consider to be a public duty, because I am convinced that the matter must be taken up in the public interest, that I urge this point. I hope honourable members will not misunderstand me. I bear no sort of malice or ill will towards this gentleman because he thought fit to prosecute me and put me to so much expense and trouble. Not at all. If I was convinced even to-day, after this long time and in view of all the material now available, that Mr. Harvey deserves to be compensated, I would have been the first to come before the House and ask the House to pay the compensation. I want honourable members to understand that I oppose this grant because in justice, on the merits and in equity, I believe this grant ought not to be made. In order to convince the House of the reasonableness of that conclusion, I must place before the honourable members a few facts, which I expected the Honourable the General Member to place, because, in a complicated matter of this kind, I know those honourable members particularly who are not acquainted with the complicated procedure of Government, will not be able to understand what the accusation was, what the charges were and what the allegations were and how far they were true.

[Mr. K. F. Nariman]

Now, the Honourable the General Member in a long speech merely tried to justify the position of Government so far as the granting of the sanction was concerned. More than three-fourths of his speech was devoted to try and justify Government, that Government did not do anything wrong in giving sanction to Mr. Harvey to prosecute. Well, I will remind honourable members on this side that there are two opinions on that question. I for one am of opinion that this prosecution was not bona fide; it was intended to suppress a political opponent; it was intended to gag opposition; it was intended to ensure that Development matters are not brought out any further; and it was intended to scare away the public critics so that nobody should dare to come forward to criticise public servants. That is my honest belief; I may be right or I may be wrong. But, apart from that, the question before the honourable House is not whether Government were justified in granting the sanction. That is not before the House. Probably Government has got a better case to justify their position in granting the sanction to prosecute. But the question before the House is the sanction of the expenditure of the prosecution which runs to Rs. 60,800. Now, first and foremost I ask honourable members of this House who are associated with courts of law—I am very glad an eminent gentleman connected with courts of law has been introduced into this House for this debate, and I ask even that honourable member—to say whether in the course of their experience in courts of law, a complainant losing his case has been awarded his full cost. Supposing, Sir, that the officer concerned had applied for sanction to institute a suit in the civil court for defamation—it may be for Rs. 20,000 or a lakh—and supposing that he had filed that suit in a civil court, and the discretion had vested with the civil court to award the cost, would the court have awarded the cost under the same circumstances? That discretion is now transferred to this honourable House, and I hope it will exercise the same judicial discretion which a judiciary would have exercised. I do ask the honourable member who was introduced to-day—we all welcome him—whether, if he himself had been the judge to decide the case, in dismissing the suit he would have awarded the cost to the plaintiff. I want the honourable member to give his opinion. I know, Sir, the position in which he is placed certainly imposes upon him certain duties, but in spite of that I am prepared to take his decision, because I know, whatever position he is in, he will certainly give the opinion which he honestly entertains.

Now, Sir, coming to the facts of this case. What was the case regarding the mild steel bars? I fear that ninety-nine persons out of hundred, at the end of this drawn out trial, probably do not know exactly the situation as regards these mild steels bars. I expected the Honourable the General Member, when he introduced this demand, to give the history of the case about mild steel bars, how these charges were levelled. In order to do that I hope the House will grant me some time. I shall try to be as brief as I can. In order to understand the situation it is necessary to understand the procedure that prevailed in the department with regard to the purchase of stores. Now, Sir, the procedure with regard to the purchase of stores ought to be known to the honourable House in order to really understand the gist of the charges and the substance of the charges.

These things, I am sure, the Honourable the General Member, so far as the facts are concerned, will admit. We are dealing with the Housing Scheme. According to the procedure of the Housing Scheme, a programme was chalked out every year for the purchase of materials required. For instance, there are 207 chawls to be completed within seven or eight years, so many at Worli, so many at Naigaum and so many at DeLisle Road. Now, I shall deal with the programme for 1922-23. It was decided that particular number of chawls would be built during the year 1922-23 and the executive engineers were directed to prepare a list of materials that would be required for that year. One of the materials required was mild steel bars. Accordingly two executive engineers were asked to prepare a list of how many and of what dimension the steel bars would be required. After nearly five or six months, after submitting the statement to the superintending engineer, it was again submitted to the executive engineer for reconsideration. After four or five months' deliberation, they ultimately prepared a list showing the requirements of mild steel bars for that year. It was the duty of the superintending engineer, Mr. Harvey, after these lists are submitted to him, to prepare one consolidated list of the requirements and forward that statement to the Materials District. Now, so far as this matter is concerned, a list was prepared and the consolidated statement was sent by the superintending engineer, Mr. Harvey, to the Materials District for purchase of the materials. That was on 5th August 1922. Three days after the consolidated statement was sent by Mr. Harvey, for reasons which are not explained as yet, he sent a letter to the Materials District stating that in addition to the consolidated statement, which he had already forwarded, he would require further 80,000 bars of $\frac{7}{8}$" for that particular programme. Now, Sir, I will ask the indulgence of this House to follow this letter very carefully. It says :

"In continuation of this Office letter No. .... dated the 5th instant, I have the honour to inform you that in addition to the number of bars as shown in the list sent to you with my letter under reference I shall require for piles at Worli 80,000$\frac{7}{8}$×19 rods by ....October 1923.

You will, therefore, observe that 80,000 more bars were ordered out three days after which would cost about Rs. 3 lakhs. When a consolidated statement was prepared with great care and when every item was provided for, what was the necessity for the additional 80,000 bars immediately after three days ? When this matter leaked out, a question was asked in June-July 1923 whether it is a fact that wrong sized bars were ordered. The reply given by the Honourable the General Member was that "It is not true, no official record shows that wrong seized bars were ordered." That was a false reply. But later the Honourable the General Member admitted that the reply given in July 1923 was wrong. (The Honourable the General Member shakes his head.) I find that the Honourable the General Member is shaking his head, which means that he denies having admitted this fact....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : The reply was not given on the floor of this House.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Well, I do admit that the reply was not given here in this House. It has also got a history behind it. For six months after the question was asked, he was trying to shelve the reply for a considerable time. But the honourable member pressed him for the reply and when the Council was about to prorogue he gave a reply outside this House. He would have avoided giving this reply, but he could not do so, as the honourable member pressed him for this.

In the first year, that is, in 1921-22 also the superflous bars were ordered out, but in the second year this large quantity was ordered out absolutely of a wrong size. So, you will find the first reply given by the Honourable the General Member was false.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : May I ask the honourable member,—I am sorry to interrupt him in his speech—would it not really save the time of the House if he drew from the judgment such evidence as he wants to deal with rather than try to take the evidence of witnesses after witnesses and criticise it in the way he is doing ?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, unless the House gives me a little indulgence, as the matter is a little complicated, and unless I get a chance of discussing some facts briefly, I will not be able to convince the House on these points. I was telling the story about the mild steel bars of the wrong size. When asked, the superintending engineer gave a reply that he himself had nothing to do with the placing of the order. He tried to throw the responsibility on the Indian subordinate. We shall find stated in the reply that the superintending engineer did not himself order out the wrong sized bars, it was the supervisor who ordered them by a mistake. This was admitted when the matter came up before this House for discussion as well as before the Mears Committee.

In the first statement in October 1924 I did make certain allegations. I only wanted an explanation as to why the wrong sized mild steel bars were ordered. Then, when no explanation was given, again in 1925, when they stated that the steel bars were ordered out by mistake, I stated that the public refused to believe that such large stores, superflous stores, were ordered by mistake and that there were ugly rumours in the city and the whole of the presidency that superflous stores were ordered, in order to get some secret commissions. That is how this insinuation came into the debate in March 1925 because Government could not explain as to how these mild steel bars were ordered out by mistake, and, as I say, I appeared before the Mears Committee, and when the matter came before that committee, I gave them all the information in my possession. On the one hand, I had made those allegations in the open Council, not only those allegations, but various other allegations, and the Government had denied that and they tried to explain that it was a mistake and that the wrong size bars were not ordered.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : What did the magistrate hold ?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I am coming to the magistrate presently. Coming now, Sir, to the Mears Committee, I might state in more detail in order that the House may appreciate the position in which I was placed. It was the Government who first introduced this subject about the allegations against the Development Department. The very first witness was Mr. Mackie, the Secretary to the Government, who introduced all sorts of records including the debates of this House and all the debates which have taken place here in regard to the allegations were introduced before the Mears Committee by the Government itself through their Secretary, and before I was examined, the committee questioned Sir Lawless Hepper with regard to those allegations. I will read out the question asked and the answer given :

Q.—" I should very much like to know what have you to say with regard to the allegations made against your department ? I take it that you deny the charges of corruption levelled against your department by the honourable member of the Council ? "

A.—" Sir Lawless Hepper : I repudiate them absolutely. "

So, the position was that even before I was examined before the Mears Committee this whole fact was introduced by Mr. Mackie, the Secretary, and the Director of Development was questioned about it and he repudiated it. So, I was in the position of a person who had made allegations which were denied by Government and the department, and I was asked to prove them. And the letter, the invitation, which the committee sent to me while inviting me to give evidence, I hope the honourable members will kindly bear in mind as it shows in what position I was. The Secretary of the committee wrote asking me " to give me (the Secretary of the committee) by letter the names of all the officers of the Development Directorate who received secret commissions, with dates and all particulars of the contracts and the names of the manufacturers giving the secret commission, the amounts so paid, and any other details in your possession. What the committee want is information upon which you base your allegations which you made in March 1925 in the Legislative Council, and any further information which you may have obtained since that date. " It was on this specific request from the Secretary of the committee requesting me to give all the details of the secret commissions, information I may have in my possession, that I was asked to come before the committee and state my facts. I may also state, Sir, that other members who tried to introduce this subject before the committee were distinctly told that unless all the information about these allegations had been put before them specifically, the committee was not going to enquire into the matter. Coupled with the specific letter, which, by the way, was not placed before the law officers of Government who gave advice in this matter, under which the prosecution was sanctioned, this letter was not mentioned at all even before the court. Now, Sir, I went before the committee,—and I again want honourable members to understand the position clearly,—and if the honourable members read that part of the statement before the committee, they will find, Sir, that even in spite of the specific request of the committee, the statement that I submitted before the committee was absolutely fair, not charging anybody specifically, but I repeated what I stated in the Council in the following words : I refer to the last statement about ugly rumours. This is part of my written statement. These were the words :

"I may tell the Government quite frankly and openly that there are ugly rumours in the City and the whole of the presidency that Higher staff and Officers have been receiving secret commission from the manufacturers and this is the reason why in this instance the Department has incurred a loss of Rs. 3 lakhs. That is the reason why stores are indented in large quantities than are necessary and stores that are not required are also ordered out. If you go to the Surplus Depôt, stores worth Rs. 6 lakhs or more are lying undisposed of. The last statement was re-echoing the ugly rumours that were prevelant throughout the City. As stated above..if Government had conceded the public demand and started an immediate and prompt enquiry there and then, perhaps most sensational revelations might have been disclosed. But even at this late stage, I can place before the committee all the materials that I have been able to collect not with a view or desire to cast any aspersions against any individuals of the department, but primarily with a view to enable an independant investigation to find out the truth, and if sufficient materials are disclosed to take such action as the committee thinks propér. All along my appeal to Government has always been for an investigation of certain allegations to find out the truth.".....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I must once again rise. I am not quite able to understand and follow the honourable member, and I think I am bound to ask as to what it is that the honourable member is trying to prove. Is he trying to show that what he has asserted and alleged he was entitled to and was justified in doing so ? If that is so, I do not think that that is the point before the House. If he is trying to show that the prosecution should not have been sanctioned, I hardly think that he is approaching the question. If I allow the discussion to go on in that manner, I do not think we shall be able to finish this debate for many days to come. As I have said, the justifiability of the prosecution and the justifiability of the Government coming before this Council for a grant are the two points, and I think, the honourable member should limit his remarks to those two points.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : If this honourable House does not want to hear the facts relating to the prosecution and the charges that were levelled in order to show that what I have stated was proved before the court, I, Sir, certainly do not desire to take up the time of the House against the inclinations of the House. But I do feel that in a case of this description, unless I am permitted a little indulgence to show what the position was, it is impossible for the honourable members on this side to understand as to what the real position is, whether the charges which were made by me and the allegations which I have made were proved or not even according to Government.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is not the point before the the House. The point before the House is, whether Mr. Harvey has failed, or succeeded in eradicating his character, and not whether the honourable member Mr. Nariman was successful in disproving the case against himself.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : We want to know all the facts that led to the prosecution of the honourable member.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not know whether that would be in order. The question before the House is whether Government were right and, as I repeat it again, justified in sanctioning the prosecution.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE: So far as I understand it, Sir, Mr. Nariman has to prove whether the Government were justified in sanctioning the prosecution. If that is so, I think he should be allowed to place before us the facts to show whether Government had a case for sanctioning the prosecution.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No, the honourable member Mr. Nariman has not to prove whether Government were justified but Mr. Nariman has to prove that Government were not justified in sanctioning the prosecution. Anything relevant to that would be perfectly in order.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I am sorry, Sir, I have not made my position absolutely clear on this point, but if you had only permitted me to proceed a little further, I could have done so.

Upon the subject matter of the first charge against me, namely, that I stated in the written statement that there are ugly rumours in the city and the whole of the presidency that the higher staff and officers were receiving secret commissions, I did not allege that any particular officer had received secret commissions—that either the complainant or anybody else had received secret commissions. That was the only charge regarding secret commissions and I can prove from the judgment as well as from other records that that charge that there were rumours of secret commission has been proved according to the judgment of the magistrate himself who has held that there was no specific charge against Mr. Harvey.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: References from the judgment would be more to the point.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: Unless I point out how the charge has been framed and what are the circumstances in which the charge has been framed it will be difficult for me to point out that these items of the charges have been proved. This is the first item which formed the subject matter of the charge, namely, that in the written statement I stated that there were ugly rumours in the city and the whole of the presidency that the higher staff and officers were receiving secret commissions. There was no specific charge against any particular officer or Mr. Harvey. I refer to page 64 of the judgment. The learned magistrate says that it should be borne in mind that Mr. Nariman did not openly prefer a charge of corruption against Mr. Harvey. That is very distinctly stated on page 64.

Coming to these rumours, the learned magistrate also held that the rumours have also been proved, he has held that there were ugly rumours in the city and the whole of the presidency that the higher staff and officers were receiving secret commissions. This appears on page 40 of the judgment wherein you find:—

"The allegation by Mr. Nariman that there were ugly rumours in the city as well as in the whole of the presidency that the higher staff of officers have been receiving secret commissiongs has been proved by Mr. Nariman," etc., etc.

[Mr. K. F. Nariman]

I do not mind which way the voting goes but I want the honourable members to know the facts as they are. They are complicated facts and unless the details are gone into, it will not be possible for them to know the real facts.

Therefore, according to the judgment, there is no specific charge against Mr. Harvey. According to my statement that there were ugly rumours in the city as well as the whole of the presidency that the higher staff of officers were receiving secret commissions, I wanted these rumours to be investigated by a committee and I wanted that the officers should be punished only after such investigation and only if the rumours proved to be true. I do ask the honourable members on this side and even on the opposite side whether, after the specific letter which I received from the committee asking me to give the information in my possession in an impartial and dispassionate statement which I placed before the committee duly appointed by Government and before which constitutional tribunal, Government desired me to place these matters for investigation, they consider that my action in going before that committee and submitting my written statement before that committee was in any way objectionable.

The rest of the charges I have not the time to go into, but I would quote only one passage to refute the Government's charge that when they corresponded with me, I refused to help them because I did not accept the tribunal they had appointed. In their letter the Government itself rebukes me for not discharging my duty as a citizen and for not placing before the tribunal appointed by Government all the facts and information at my disposal, mind you, they wanted only the information ; they did not want us to investigate the allegations. Then the responsibility shifted from me to Government and Government would or would not investigate the allegations as they liked. The letter states :—

" In addition to the allegations of fraud, you have stated in the letter that if you had sufficient time at your disposal you would have given instances after instances of misappropriations of funds which in ordinary circumstances would have resulted in proceedings in a court of law. In short, you possess information relating to numerous criminal offences and the right duty of a responsible citizen, if such information is at his disposal, is to inform the authorities in order to have the guilty parties dealt with and punished. If you offer this information to the authorities, the responsibility for investigation will be shifted to them and you have refused them such information. "

This is the letter addressed by the Government to me. Still before the Mears Committee, in order not to give Government any more occasion for any kind of excuses for such a rebuke, I do go before that tribunal appointed not by the Bombay Government but by the Government of India and do the very thing which the Government ask me to do, namely, I do the duty of a good citizen to place information ' at his disposal ' before the tribunal and then the responsibility would shift from the person in possession of the information to the Government. After that, I say again, the Government sanction this prosecution. Therefore, I say again that I am justified in drawing the inference that the prosecution was launched with the double object, either to counter opposition or to stifle adverse criticism. Of course, the result of the prosecution was quite the reverse of what Government anticipated. They had anticipated quite a different result, but I do not want to gloat over the result. I do not want to dilate upon the other matters at all. The first charge I have disposed of. The rest of the charges, about 6 or 7, all rested upon this position, whether the mild steel bars were intentionally ordered, of a larger size than required and of a larger quantity than required, or not. I would ask the House to distinguish, and those who belong to the legal profession will appreciate that in a case of this description you have got to distinguish, between statement of facts which constitute the allegation and the inferences. When a man is called upon to prove allegations, he is called upon to prove statement of facts on which the charges are based. On the same statement of facts, on the same premises one may draw one inference and another may draw another inference. When allegations are sought to be proved, it is understood that the statement of facts must be proved, and inferences may be drawn by one person in one way and by another person in another way. Here I must state that so far as the statement of facts, the allegations in the case, are concerned, especially with regard to the mild steel bars, I have proved them conclusively, not only to the satisfaction of the court but even to the satisfaction of the learned counsel who appeared for the prosecution, who had to admit that so far as the facts are concerned they have been proved, and the only question was whether the inferences drawn from those facts would be justifiable. The difference between me and the Government, since the date that I raised this question in the Council in 1924, as the Honourable the General Member has pointed out, was whether these mild steel bars were ordered out by a bona fide, innocent mistake, or, as I have alleged, they were intentionally ordered out of a wrong size and in a larger quantity than necessary. If you read the questions and answers, when first the allegations were made, there is no question of commission. I stated "You have ordered out intentionally mild steel bars of a wrong size, involving a loss of Rs. 3 lakhs to the department." They said it was all a mistake. So, the matter went to a court of law, and the plaint there is that it is due to Mr. Nariman to prove his allegations. If you refer to the application of Mr. Harvey to the committee itself, if you refer to all the other documents on which sanction was granted to prosecute, the sanction was primarily granted on this, that Mr. Nariman's statement that the officer intentionally ordered out wrong size bars is per se defamatory. Then the question as to why such an intentional order should be made came up before the committee. I stated that from my point of view it was in order to favour some manufacturer and make a profit out of it. That was my explanation. Five or six times, repeatedly, Sir Frederick Hopkinson wanted me to come to the position that it was a mistake. Six times Sir Frederick Hopkinson repeated "You say it is not a mistake; it is intentional?", and I said "I maintain, as I have a right to maintain, that it is not a mistake, and I would not yield to Sir Frederick Hopkinson's pressure of various cross-examining questions to get an admission from me that it had been a mistake. If I had stated that it was a mistake, the matter would have ended. Simply because I adhered to the position that it was not a mistake, this prosecution was launched. I would ask honourable members to refer to the plaint. The plaint of the complainant was based on this. Of course it contained a statement about ugly rumours, but he does not say that he specifically charges me on that account. The plaint further says "The complainant is one of the higher officers referred to by Mr. Nariman. So far as the allegations are concerned, they are two-fold. He charges me with intentionally ordering out a larger quantity of mild steel bars, and I submit these imputations are false, and these imputations should be proved." He further states "I myself did not order out wrong size bars, but they were ordered out by the supervisor: it was a mistake by the supervisor and not by myself." So I was called upon to prove facts; so far as the allegations are concerned, three things: first, that the order was not a mistake and that he intentionally ordered out superfluous bars and of a larger size than necessary, and that it was done by the complainant, Mr. Harvey himself, and not by the supervisor. All these three statements of facts, which constitute the allegations, leaving aside the inferences to be drawn from those allegations, I maintain I have proved and conclusively proved, and as I said not only to the satisfaction of the court but also to the satisfaction of the learned counsel for the prosecution, who would not make such an admission unless it was driven into him. With regard to that, I would refer honourable members to this part of the judgment. On page 40 of the judgment it is stated:

"It cannot be denied that $\frac{7}{8}$" bars were not required for piles, and yet they were ordered. The allegation, therefore, that stores not needed were ordered is proved."

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The judgment says:

"It is equally untrue to say that.....were ordered."

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: On page 40 of the judgment, the magistrate says:

"It cannot be denied that $\frac{7}{8}$" bars were not required for piles and yet they were ordered. The allegations, therefore, that stores not needed were ordered is proved,.. though it may be that the complainant tried to save the loss."

Again on page 43 of the judgment, the magistrate says:

"In my opinion, there was no necessity at all for ordering out these bars."

Again on page 46 he says:

"The evidence of the documents put in as exhibits also proves that there was no necessity to order out so many bars in excess at that period. Even the placing of order for the 30,000, bars locally was not proper. The point, however, is if Hamid asked for them, he could never have asked for equivalent."

The judgment goes on to say:

"In short Hamid's statement on this point is absolutely irreconcilable with that of Harvey's."

The judgment further says:

"If the order had been placed with the High Commissioner instead of locally, there might have been a saving approximately of Rs. 46,000.

[Mr. K. F. Nariman]

Now, Sir, coming to this question of supplying misleading and wrong information to the Honourable the General Member, who supplied that wrong information to the Council, the learned magistrate remarks as follows, on page 49 of the judgment :

"It is indeed a very serious matter to furnish incorrect explanation to the General Member, knowing that the latter is bound to act upon it and make a statement in the Council fully relying upon those recommendations."

Now, Sir, I say if the House wants to come to a conclusion whether it is an intentional or a bona fide mistake they have got to see the conduct of the officer concerned. If it was a bona fide mistake, nothing would have been easier for Mr. Harvey to come forward and state it was a bona fide mistake, and Government could have stated "We are sorry for the mistake." But why twice, once to the honourable member privately and once openly to this House was false information given ? What was that false information, which the court held subsequently to be false, and the complainant himself admitted it was so ? The false information was that the complainant himself had nothing to do with this order, but that it was the mistake of the supervisor whilst trying to prepare a statement of the consolidated indent. And all the time the complainant had in his possession the letter written by himself, signed by himself, sent to the Materials District, ordering out 80,000 bars of this particular size. On that letter the order was based ; still all along he created an impression before this House and the Mears Committee that it was the unfortunate Indian supervisor who made the mistake in preparing his statement, and he as a superior officer magnanimously took upon himself the responsibility for the mistake, when, as a matter of fact, in the course of the enquiry it turned out that it was written by himself. Still, he had the courage to state what was admittedly false. With regard to that, the learned Magistrate's judgment says :

"Mr. Harvey's statement is inconsistent with his subsequent admission. . . . . It is equally untrue to say that . . . . . bars were ordered out on account of the mistake of the supervisor. The orders for these bars were placed after receiving instructions from Harvey, as per letter."

So, even that part of the allegation that it was the Superintending Engineer who placed the order was literally and strictly proved not only by oral evidence but by a letter signed by the complainant himself, who was deceiving everybody keeping himself in the background and throwing the responsibility on somebody else. Now, Sir, the other part of the allegation was that superfluous bars of the wrong size were ordered and ordered by the complainant. It is not true that the supervisor was responsible. I have shown that all these allegations are proved, and if I am allowed to go into details I will show how from time to time the complainant changed his ground, making one statement now and another later, so that even with the most eminent counsel engaged for him by Government it will be difficult for him to get out. My inference was that it was intentional. In view of the facts at my disposal, that in the previous year in 1921-22, 2,000 tons were ordered when only 300 tons were required, and in the year 1922-23 80,000 superfluous bars were ordered by means of a supplementary letter after the whole thing was complete, my inference was that this was intentionally ordered with ulterior motives. That was my inference ; that was not an allegation ; that was not a statement of fact. The learned magistrate does not say that my inference had no basis at all ; he says it may be one of the causes ; he says it may be a mistake, an error of judgment, and it also may be that it may be due to corrupt motives. He says that he would not come to the conclusion of the defence that it was only due to corrupt motive and not to anything else. Now, I will read that part of the judgment :

"The accused's next suggestion is that if bars of the wrong size were ordered and ordered in excess, it could only be so because the officer received secret commission. It may be one of the reasons, but that is not the only reason for doing so."

I do not want to criticize the judgment.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : You have been criticizing all the time.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I have not been criticizing. In the learned magistrate's opinion, it may be one of the reasons, but there may be other reasons- it may be a mistake and all that. Now, I ask honourable members of the House to look at the situation not like lawyers but like ordinary laymen. After the superintending engineer has duly placed the order in writing, he subsequently gives false information to the House. First of all he puts himself clearly out of it and shifts the responsibility on to others. What does all this show ? Considering the system prevailing in the department, considering that superfluous bars were ordered, that some officers were receiving secret commissions, what does it prove ? The learned magistrate says that the defence has been very considerably handicapped by the fact that this prosecution and enquiry was launched three years after the allegations were made. The allegations were made in 1924, and I was called upon to prove them in 1927, with the result that all the relevant documents both official and private had disappeared. The learned magistrate remarks about the disappearance of the documents.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is that quite relevant or very necessary ?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Quite necessary. I would not take more time of the House than is necessary. When so much is made of the fact that no evidence was adduced, it is necessary to show why it was not possible to adduce evidence. At page 63 the magistrate says :

"Mr. Nariman has all along complained and rightly complained that he has been severely handicapped by the institution of this case long after the alleged defamation took place. Most important documents which could have thrown a flood of light are missing. The Slip of paper of Hamid is missing, the Pile Manufacture Register which would show the size of Bars used for Piles is missing, Palnitkar's origina ldraft is missing, Intermediate statement prepared by Hamid is missing, the Stock Book of Material District is missing, Shalebhoy Tyebji's books are not forthcoming and the Counterfoil of cheque drawn by Manekchand Jivraj for Rs. 5,000 is missing."

That is a small list of the missing documents given in the judgment. But those who followed the proceedings from day to day would have found that documents required by the defence were found to be missing, sometimes by very curious accidents, but the very documents when required for the prosecution were produced. I am not exaggerating facts. I am sorry a certain name has been introduced: I would not have mentioned it, but for the fact it is mentioned in the judgment. I urge before honourable members that the only evidence that could be adduced in allegations of this description relating to private transactions was the books of accounts. Nobody was going to come forward, neither the receiver of the bribe nor the giver, to say that he received the bribe or gave it. It is only after the books of accounts are got at, that any admission will be made. Now, whatever that may be, for one reason or other the books of accounts are not produced or made available in the court. Therefore, the court has rightly passed remarks on the expiry of three years. But what appeared to me more strange than the books of accounts was the disappearance of the bank account of this particular firm. A very extraordinary statement was made by the bank clerk that the ledger account of the particular firm was missing from the bank, and the explanation—I ask honourable members to take note of it—the explanation was that the bank gives away to the Salvation Army their own old records as wastepapers and by some mistake this important ledger book of 1923 or 1924, containing this account, alone was by mistake given away to the Salvation Army. There are several other things. I would point out that even from the official point of view this transaction was questioned. Even the Secretary of State has sent a despatch very severely censuring the Department. According to the Public Works Department Code any articles of foreign manufacture are to be indented from the High Commissioner. In spite of that rule in the Public Works Department Code a large order for 50,000 bars was placed locally without any explanation, at a price higher than that ruling in the market or that which would have been paid if ordered through the High Commissioner. The magistrate has held that there would have been a saving of Rs. 46,000 if instead of being placed locally this order had gone to the High Commissioner. All the orders for purchase should be sent to the High Commissioner. Even the learned magistrate has passed severe strictures against Government for not observing the rule of placing these orders with the High Commissioner. But the most important point, which the Honourable the General Member has not referred to, is this. What arrangements were made with regard to the sale of the surplus bars. Direct evidence was produced in the court of law that Rs. 5,000 were paid as a bribe when the sale of these bars was effected. The learned magistrate did hold on the evidence that one Manekchand Jivraj did pay Rs. 5,000 as a bribe. This amount was not directly paid to the complainant (Mr. Harvey), but the evidence showed that that amount was paid to Mr. Caldwell. You will notice that the transaction was put through on the same day when the complainant returned from leave. That transaction was effected by Mr. Harvey. But you have to bear in mind one remark of Mr. Caldwell. He told to the customer: "Gentleman, you wait till the Burra Sab returns. The transaction will be put through on the Burra Sab's return. "....

[Mr. K. F. Nariman]

By Burra Sab he meant Mr. Harvey.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, I rise to a point of order. Does the honourable member wish to convey that the magistrate also held Mr. Harvey being guilty of corruption ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If the honourable member can point out from the judgment as to how the magistrate has held on that point he would be relevant.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, I shall read for the information of this House the passage from the judgment which is on page 49. It runs :

" I may state that there is no evidence to show that Mr. Harvey was paid Rs. 5,000. But the evidence led is in my opinion of such a nature as would lead to the inference that Rs. 5,000 was paid to someone for bringing about this transaction.

From the evidence it appears that Manekchand Jivraj had put in a previous offer for the tenders but he was told by Caldwell that he had no authority to put the transaction through and that the " Burra Sab " meaning Mr. Harvey will put it through after his return. He waited till Mr. Harvey returns and wrote to him a letter dated 20th October. He went with the letter to Mr. Harvey direct and the transaction was put through and completed on that day. The terms of the agreement were approved of by Mr. Bell but Mr. Harvey lightened some of the clauses.

On the 29th October Maneckchand Jivraj drew a cheque for Rs. 5,000. He was asked to produce the counterfoil of that cheque. He has preserved all the other counterfoil books except this one. He said he must have mislaid it somewhere and he would look for it. He was asked by the Court to produce it whenever he found it. He was examined at the end of November but he has not yet produced the counterfoil.

Mr. Nariman received certain information and he applied to this Court for seizure of the book of Maneckchand Jivraj. Mr. Nariman accompanied by one Motilal went to Maneckchand Jivraj's shop and asked him to produce his books of account. Maneckchand Jivraj appeared to be unwilling to do so but eventually produced them. In going through the books of accounts the entry of Rs. 5,000 was found debited to the Development " Haste M. J. " (i.e., by the hand of Maneckchand Jivraj). When this was discovered Maneckchand Jivraj said " it was necessary to do such a thing when dealing with the department " and he asked Nariman not to harass him. He took Motilal aside and asked him to speak to Nariman requesting him not to trouble him (Maneckchand Jivraj) saying " such a thing is usual with merchants. "

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Does the honourable member mean to suggest that the magistrate held Mr. Harvey guilty of corruption also ?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I have made it clear in the first instance. I would ask the Honourable the General Member to point out to me from the whole record that I have charged Mr. Harvey, or A or B. of having taken bribes. I have charged the officers in general. Even the magistrate stated that Mr. Nariman had not charged Mr. Harvey as an individual. There were officers in that department, who were charged of the corrupt practices and included in them was Mr. Harvey. The magistrate also remarked " It should be borne in mind that Mr. Nariman did not openly prefer a charge against Mr. Harvey."

I would like to bring one important point to the notice of the Honourable the General Member. There were many other points with me to prove further allegations but the learned magistrate refused to go into other allegations which were brought forward in the court. The learned magistrate stated " I do not want to go into merits and demerits of other charges except those made previously".

I would also tell this House to remember that the Honourable the General Member has appointed a committee to go fully into the practice of corruption. He said " that this was not the place to go fully into the question; it was a matter for the committee to enquire into." The Honourable the General Member has pointed out that the other matters should be decided by the committee appointed by this House a few days ago. Is it in anticipation of the good result that may come out of the committee, that the Honourable the General member comes before this House and asks for a supplementary grant of Rs. 60,000 and odd, to meet the cost incurred in the prosecution case ? I would submit, Sir, that a committee has been appointed to go into the further question and is it fair that this demand should be made by Government at this stage ? The learned magistrate was asked to go into other facts in my possession, but he did not decide to deal with them. I have got the facts and records from their own department—the reports from the engineers—to show and convince this House and anybody outside this House that Mr. Harvey himself cannot be exonerated. He can be charged—if not of corruption—of the conspiracy to cheat and defraud. There is sufficient material to prove, but I do not want to go into that at the present moment. There is one evidence of the assistant engineer in the department itself. I know that the assistant engineer knew that there was something wrong going on in the department and he, therefore, brought this fact to the notice of Mr. Harvey. Mr. Harvey, instead of righting the wrong, removed the assistant engineer from the department, making things easier than before. This evidence was produced in the court, but it was not accepted as there were no sufficient materials to prove. But I shall however encroach on the indulgence of this honourable House and would ask the honourable members just to remember this fact. I would, therefore, say that Mr. Harvey cannot be exonerated at all. I have got sufficient proof to show that, but it will be necessary to bring many other matters in this debate outside the merit of this question. There are some honourable members who have a soft corner for the Honourable the General Member personally. There are some honourable members who think that, after all, it would be such a heavy burden upon this officer that if we demand that he shall pay the costs, it may ruin him, it would be his ruin, and we must go to his help, and several other such sentimental things. At the same time, I want to say that there are some honourable members in this House who have some sympathy or soft corner for the person who was made the victim of this prosecution. I appeal to all of them not to have any other consideration apart from the merits. Even after hearing me, if the honourable members are satisfied that Mr. Harvey deserves this consideration, deserves this concession, which is an exceptional concession, which has not been given to any other public servant, so far as I know, after having launched the prosecution, after having afforded the officer every facility and every advantage, and in spite of his failure in the prosecution, to reimburse him for the costs,—I do not think there are many instances, I do not think there are any instances that we are aware of. We know, Sir, several instances where prosecutions have been launched ; sometimes Indian officers have been attacked, sometimes European officers have been attacked. But it is always understood,—and that is what the Public Servants Conduct Rules show,—that if the result is unfavourable to the officer, the officer is made to pay the costs, according to that rule by which the Government is bound as well as anybody else. According to that rule, the resolution should have been that if Mr. Harvey's case results unfavourably to Mr. Harvey, that is, if he fails in his case, he should be made to pay the costs. That should have been the wording. If they had adhered to the Public Servants Conduct Rules, the condition in such cases is that if Government pays the cost of the prosecution in the first instance, it has to recover them from that officer if it results unfavourably to the officer, that is, if he fails in the prosecution. That is the wording which the resolution should have followed. That wording has been twisted in order to accommodate a particular favourite officer, and that wording has been made "If Mr. Harvey fails due to Mr. Nariman's proving his allegations." Even with that restricted interpretation, which I say is wrong in law, they are not entitled to change the wording if they are bound by their own rules which they have enacted. If the result is unfavourable to the officer who has launched the prosecution, he is bound to pay the costs either in law, equity or any other thing. But, as I said, if the House will permit a little encroachment upon their time, I may give only a few instances which will show to them or to the committee which has been appointed—I do not mind any committee, you may have your own officers on it, I do not mind the personnel, I only want an impartial and honest tribunal to hear my facts dispassionately, they may be the Honourable the Home Member, or the Honourable the General Member, or gentlemen who may be non-official members of this House, or who may be gentlemen even outside this House, I only want a dispassionate and impartial and honest tribunal to hear my facts and then come to the conclusion if Mr. Harvey cannot be blamed, apart from the irregularities which I had pointed out, for supplying absolutely false information to a responsible Member in the Government and misleading the whole House on that false information, afterwards admitting that "I did supply false information." I do not want to go into all that, although it is an irregularity for which I know honourable members will consider he had very lame excuse. Why has no action been taken even departmentally against the officer for such a grave neglect of duty, for supplying absolutely false information to the Honourable the General Member, admittedly false information? Therefore, I say, Sir, that some officers have been very lucky in obtaining favours because they are favourites and against them no action is taken. Against others, especially Indian officers, even for less irregularities they have taken more severe action, more severe steps, departmentally. Now, Sir, coming only to three or four instances, where I will prove from the records about the conduct of Mr. Harvey, because the learned magistrate has not decided the point.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There are only five minutes to the time for the House to rise, and the honourable member has already spoken for nearly two hours. Would he require more than five minutes.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I do not wish, Sir, if the House has no desire to hear them, to go on with them, and if, as I stated before, the House does not want to hear all I want to say.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member ought to conclude his speech at half past six.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : If you will permit me, Sir, I should like to know if, under the rules, on a discussion of this description any time limit has been imposed by the rules....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : None at all ; but every honourable member is expected to take reasonable time ; and indeed there is limit to that " no time limit. "

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : My submission is that, if under the rules of the constitution the right has been given to a member, particularly in a case of this description when a grant is asked for, that there should be no time limit, my humble submission to you is that there could not be any time limit imposed on such a discussion. Of course, as a suggestion from the Chair, it can very well be considered. But so far as any ruling is concerned, in the matter of a right of an honourable member given by the constitution there should be no time limit....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member may speak on for days if time permits, provided he is relevant and strictly relevant, and it will be my duty now to see that he is strictly relevant.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : As I stated before, I might state again that if I am irrelevant, I am certainly bound to obey the ruling of the Chair and will curtail those remarks. But, so far as the time limit is concerned, I think the right of an honourable member, particularly in a case of this description, is not limited by the rules or the constitution, and I hope you will excuse me for not taking up the suggestion. Now, Sir, coming to the point I was referring to,—I want to utilise these five minutes in referring to those instances,—I asked the Honourable the General Member as to what has become of the definite statement which I made the other day with regard to the special area of the Worli chawls, wh[illegible] I stated that the Superintending Engineer had deliberately and [illegible]who wa[illegible] tionally allowed smaller areas to be given, so that it may have an [illegible]have on the cost. I asked if it was true,—and I state again that it is true,—that the very same Superintending Engineer, with a view both to deceive the Government as well as this side of the House, made a recommendation for the acceptance of Major Purcelle's alternative design upon the same conditions as for the other contract although a separate condition had to be fulfilled. I said that that condition has not been fulfilled, the chawls are there, the area is less, room space is less, and the Honourable the General Member promised that he would make enquiries immediately into the matter and let the House know what the position is. I am prepared now by the records to show that their own Executive Engineer had reported that per floor 319 square feet were less. If that is true, I ask the honourable House to consider the position as to why the Superintending Engineer recommended the acceptance of the particular contract varying the conditions. He did it in order to show that the cost is less in order to make the difference between that tender and the others. There was a sort of device whereby the area of the chawl was shown as less. This fact was not disclosed to Government while recommending the acceptance of the tender, and not having that fact before them, they were made to sanction that particular tender. And I do ask honourable members who are lawyers : Is it not a case to prove that there was some arrangement between the contractor and the engineer, whereby they misled both\the Government and the public by suppressing the material facts and conditions about the quotations and space which tenderers had to fulfil ? Has that matter been inquired into ? If it is challenged, I am prepared to go to-morrow to any engineers and show from their plans and records that this is true. We have had no reply so far as that allegation is concerned. That allegation I am referring to, because it was this particular Superintending Engineer who is to be rewarded with a gift of Rs. 60,800.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would advise the honourable member not to go into many instances of that kind. I suppose he has got hordes of them.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I am going to point out only three or four. (Laughter.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member has taken sufficient time. I do not want really to be forced to exercise the general powers that I possess in regard to regulating the business of the House. I think sufficient latitude has been given to the honourable member who has spoken for two hours, and if he would, I think he ought to conclude his remarks now.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I do not want to say anything further in that case.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Does not the honourable member want to say anything further ?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : I have a lot to say but since I have to submit had dling of the Chair, whatever the view may be, and if the Chair ments me to conclude my remarks in five minutes, it is not possible for me to do justice to the matter in five minutes. As I have said, I want to show that Mr. Harvey does not deserve this concession, and that cannot be done in five minutes considering the enormity of the evidence and the number of instances I have got to go through. Incidentally I may point out with due deference to the Chair that the Chair's remark that I have already taken two hours is not exactly correct. I have so far had about 1½ hours only and, therefore, if the Chair permits me half an hour more....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am sorry if I said that the honourable member had taken two hours. I would, however, once more request the honourable member to conclude his remarks within five minutes if he can possibly do so.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: It is not possible.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Does the honourable member proceed with his remarks?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I do wish to proceed with my remarks but only if half an hour more is allowed to me.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not think it will be in the interest of the House to give the honourable member half an hour more.

Honourable MEMBERS: To-morrow, to-morrow.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Do I understand that the honourable member Mr. Nariman does not wish to proceed?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I have made my position absolutely clear. I do wish to proceed for half an hour more.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I have made my position perfectly clear that I do not intend that the honourable member should have more than five minutes more; if he wishes to take those five minutes, he may or he may conclude his remarks just now.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: May I point out, Sir, that your decision is this that there is either no time limit or there is time limit.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The last Standing Order XII (7) contains the general powers of the President and says:—

"The President shall have power to regulate the conduct of business in the Council in all matters not provided for in the Act, the Rules or the Standing Orders."

I think in a matter like this, in which I know the whole country is interested, sufficiently great latitude has been given to the honourable member, but there are several other honourable members who wish to speak, and I think if the honourable member Mr. Nariman will be persuaded to limit his remarks to five minutes more, I shall hold the Council on for five minutes more, but if he cannot, I would request him to conclude his remarks.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I have already submitted that it is not possible to conclude my remarks in five minutes. I again repeat that I want to address the House for half an hour more, but if the Chair rules that I cannot do so, I have got to submit to the ruling of the Chair.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Chair's ruling is that the honourable member cannot be given more than five minutes.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I submit to the Chair's ruling and therefore I do not wish to proceed any further. At the same time I must enter my protest that I do not think that the ruling is constitutional.....

(Cries of "Order, order".)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. I think I understand my powers and I think in this particular instance, I have given sufficient latitude to the honourable member and I therefore accept his submission to the ruling of the Chair and adjourn the House.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: Before you adjourn the House, Sir, I should like to know whether the Honourable the General Member will place before the House the observations submitted to the learned Advocate General and his opinion thereon.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is that document to which the honourable member refers?

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: The advice the Law Officers of Government gave in this matter.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I said that Government acted in accordance with the advice which their Law Officers gave, namely, that the statements made by the honourable member Mr. Nariman were defamatory. That is all I stated.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: I want to know whether the Honourable the General Member will be pleased to place on the table of this House the opinion or the advice which he said he had received from the Law Officers of Government.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: For sanctioning the prosecution.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: If I mistake not, the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani asked for the Chair's ruling on that point.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Mr. President, this is a question of principle and therefore I regret that since I have not quoted from any document but merely given the House to understand that we took legal advice and acted on that legal advice, I cannot comply with the honourable member's request. I may have stated just as well that I took the advice of a Commissioner of a certain Division. That does not bind me to place the report of that Commissioner on the table of the House and similarly the statement I made does not bind me to place any legal opinion that Government may have taken on the table of the House. That is the principle and, acting on that principle, I regret I cannot place on the table of the House any legal opinion obtained by Government.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Any papers referred to during the course of discussion in this House, I think, the House is entitled to see.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think I shall have to see the ruling which I gave the last time and refer to the remarks made by the honourable member in his speech with reference to the legal advice, as they will be typed. I will give my ruling to-morrow.

The House is adjourned to 1-30 p.m. to-morrow, Thursday, the 15th March 1928.

S.S. "TUKARAM": COMPENSATION TO FAMILIES OF THOSE LOST

Mr. R. S. ASAVLE (Bombay City, North): Will Government be pleased to state whether any monetary help was given to the members of the families of those who lost their lives in the S. S. "Tukaram"?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Government have no definite information. An appeal for funds to relieve the distress of the relatives and dependants of those missing has been made by a Local Committee of which the Collector of Ratnagiri is a member.

COASTAL STEAMERS: WIRELESS

Mr. R. S. ASAVLE (Bombay City, North): Will Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the advisability of enforcing the adoption of wireless on the steamers running between Bombay and Goa.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The question of re-scheduling the voyages as exempted voyages for purposes of the Wireless Telegraphy Rules is at present under the consideration of the Government of India and the Government of Bombay have already made certain recommendations to that Government in consultation with the Shipping and other interests concerned.

REVISION SETTLEMENT: ALIBAG TALUKA

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL on behalf of Mr. A. M. ATAVANE (Kolaba District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many notices with one-fourth fine under sections 148 and 152 of the Land Revenue Code for the recovery of increased assessment were issued in the Alibag Taluka of the Kolaba District;

(b) how many distraints and how many notices of forfeiture also were issued for the same purpose;

(c) whether the increased assessment in the Alibag Taluka for 1925-26 is calculated and shown as remitted in the village papers of the taluka for the purpose of section 104 of the Land Revenue Code;

(d) if not, whether they intend to give the remission for the year 1926-27;

(e) whether they are aware that the supplementary notices under sections 102 and 103 of the Land Revenue Code were published in different villages of the Alibag Taluka in September 1926, i.e., a month after the notification of introduction;

(f) whether it is a fact that valuable distrained articles are allowed to be old for trifling sums in auction, for instance gold bangles weighing 5½ tolas were sold for Rs. 42;

(g) whether it is a fact that the Dharawadh Nivaran Committee of Alibag is following a perfectly lawful and peaceful movement for giving vent to their discontent at the revised rates under the re-revision of the taluka;

(h) whether they intend to reconsider their decision in the matter of the revised rates in re-revision of the Alibag Taluka and thus give due redress to the grievances of the people?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) 766 notices were issued under section 152 of the Land Revenue Code for the recovery of increased assessment. Fines under section 148 of the Code were ordered in 685 cases.

(b) Distraint of movable property was made in 70 cases, but sales took place in 49 cases only; in the remaining cases the arrears were paid before the date of sale. 250 notices of intended forfeiture were issued, but in no case was any land actually forfeited. In two cases lands submerged by tides and of no use to their occupants were forfeited, but this had nothing to do with the agitation in connection with the revision settlement;

(c) The second revision survey rates were announced in the Alibag Taluka in July 1926. The assessment at the old rates had already by then been levied and recovered for that revenue year. There was therefore no occasion to show in the accounts the new rates and consequent remissions under section 104 of the Land Revenue Code.

(d) No, because as stated in the reply to (c) above, only the old rates were collected in 1925-26.

(e) Notices announcing the revised settlement sanctioned by Government were published in all the villages concerned before 31st July 1926 according to sections 102 and 103 of the Code. Owing to certain modifications made by Government in the rates and groups originally proposed by the Settlement Officer, a supplementary notification was published in September 1926. Revision settlements are, however, held to have been introduced in the year in which the provisionally sanctioned assessments are announced under section 103, and not in the year in which any modifications in the assessment are brought into operation.

(f) Yes : in some cases because people who attended the auctions were dissuaded by interested persons from bidding up to the full value of the goods put to auction ;

(g) So far as Government are aware the movement has now entirely subsided.

(h) No. Government do not admit that the people have any legitimate grievances.

TOLL CHARGES : WEST KHANDESH

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE (West Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state-

(a) whether they are aware that toll charges in West Khandesh have been recently increased ;

(b) whether they are aware that between Dhulia and Jalgaon the distance is about 56 miles only ;

(d) whether they are aware that between Dhulia and Pimpalner, a distance of about 47 miles, there are three toll bars and three rupees are recovered from each motor car that passes by the way ;

(e) what the reasons for increasing the toll bar rates from eight annas to one rupee per motor car are ;

(f) whether they are aware that these rates discourage motor traffic?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) No. Toll charges in the West Khandesh District have not been increased; the rates are charged in accordance with the sanctioned schedule.

(b) Yes. The distance, however, is nearer 57 miles than 56.

(c) There are five toll bars between Dhulia and Jalgaon and an ordinary motor car has to pay in all two and half rupees. Five rupees is the charge for a heavy motor vehicle as the rate fixed for this conveyance is rupee one against eight annas for a four-wheeled motor car (a touring car or light lorry).

(d) There are three toll bars and the charges are as given in (c) above, i.e., a touring car has to pay Rs. 1-8-0 and a heavy motor vehicle Rs. 3.

(e) The rates have not been increased.

(f) Does not arise.

AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATIONS

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE (West Khandesh District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many agricultural associations there are in the presidency;

(b) whether each taluka has such an association;

(c) what grants Government make to these associations;

(d) the total amount of these grants;

(e) whether any association has not yet received its grant for the current year;

(f) if answer to (e) is in the affirmative, why those grants have not been paid up;

(g) whether it is a fact that Government intend to discontinue these grants from the next year?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: (a) 80.

(b) No.

(c) Government bear half the annual cost per taluka on account of the pay, travelling allowance and leave and pension contribution of the fieldman or kamgar, the distribution of the seed and manure, field demonstrations, etc., up to a maximum of Rs. 1,000 on condition that the other half is borne by the association.

(d) A statement showing the total amount of the grant made to these associations since 1922 is placed on the Council Table.

(e) and (f) Of the 80 associations 35 have been paid their subsidy; 23 have not applied, while 22 have not hitherto been paid for want of sufficient budget provision. This deficiency has since been made good and the payment will now be made.

(g) No, but owing to the financial stringency, it will be necessary to discontinue or reduce the subsidies in some cases.

Statement showing the total amount of the grants made to Taluka Development Association since 1922

Year	Number of Associations	Total amount of grants made
		Rs.
1922-23	11	8,500
1923-24	38	23,582
1924-25	48	24,312
1925-26	59	23,627
1926-27	74	33,344
1927-28	80	*26,402

*Payment made till February 1928.

THE S.S. "JAYANTI" AND THE S.S. "TUKARAM"

Mr. S. K. BOLE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of the victims of the s.s. "Tukaram" and the s.s. "Jayanti" which were lost on the Konkan coast;

(b) whether any compensation is given to the relations of those who were drowned in the tragedy ;

(c) whether they have made any enquiry regarding the tragedy ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a) The number of lives lost with the s.s. " Sant Tukaram " and the s.s. " Jayanti " is 101 and 99, respectively ;

(b) No compensation has been paid by Government. They have no information whether private charity has been forthcoming and if so to what extent.

(c) Government appointed a Marine Court of Enquiry to inquire into the circumstances attending the loss of the s.s. " Jayanti " and the s.s. " Sant Tukaram " and the reports of that Court are under consideration.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : May I know whether the danger signals regarding the storm were hoisted in time ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : How does it arise from the question ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Ships have sunk on account of the storm.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I must ask for notice for any details of that sort.

NATIVE CRAFTS LOST IN STORM

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of the native crafts that were lost owing to the recent storm on the Konkan coast ;

(b) the number of men that were drowned ;

(c) whether any search was made for those who were not found ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a), (b) and (c) A statement supplying the necessary information is placed on the Council Table.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES, POONA: RENT

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD (Poona City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total amount of rent per month paid by Government in the year 1927 for buildings in Poona taken on lease for Government offices;

(b) the number of buildings taken on lease;

(c) the amount of rent paid for each building;

(d) the built area of each building;

(e) what procedure is followed by Government when they select buildings for Government offices;

(f) who is responsible for the selection;

(g) whether Government call for any offers by public advertisements before making a choice of the buildings and fixing the rent;

(h) whether they are aware that the rents paid by Government are far in excess of the rents paid by private persons in respect of the same kind of buildings?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) to (h) The information has been called for.

SUKKUR BARRAGE: ASSISTANT ENGINEER, QUARRIES DIVISION

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a certain gentleman who was in charge of a Donkey Corps in Mesopotamia and in charge of a Pathan Gang in the Development Department, was employed as Assistant Engineer in the quarries division in the Sukkur Barrage on Rs. 450;

(b) if the reply to the above be in the affirmative, what were the qualifications entitling him for employment as Assistant Engineer in the Sukkur Barrage;

(c) whether it is a fact that on failure as an Assistant Engineer he was employed as operator on one of the Dragline excavators on the same pay;

(d) whether it is a fact that he damaged the boiler of the excavator;

(e) whether he had passed any qualifying examination as a Mechanical Engineer?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information is being collected.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: How long will it take to get the information?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: As soon as it is in the hands of Government, it will be placed on the Council table.

CO OPERATIVE BANK, KAIRA: LOAN BUSINESS

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state whether it is a fact that indirect pressure was brought by the authorities to bear on the Kaira District Bank to take up the loan business of the Provincial Central Bank with the Matar societies

(b) to state the amount debited by the Provincial Central Co-operative Bank to the Kaira District Bank ;

(c) to place on the table the correspondence that passed between the Assistant Registrar or the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and the Kaira District Co-operative Bank ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) The liabilities transferred by the Provincial Co-operative Bank to the Kaira District Central Bank for loans to the societies in Mehmedabad and Matar talukas (except the societies in the Dashkoshi tract which continue to be financed by the Bombay Provincial Co-operative Bank) were Rs. 99,452-9-10 as under :

			Rs.	a.	p.
Mehmedabad	Principal	..	16,392	4	6
	Interest	..	328	12	0
Matar except 7 Societies in the Dashkoshi tract.	Principal	..	81,108	6	4
	Interest	..	1,623	3	0
	Total	..	99,452	9	10

(c) The correspondence related to the internal affairs of the Bombay Provincial Co-operative Bank and the Kaira District Central Bank. It cannot be placed on the Council Table without the consent of the parties concerned, which Government are not prepared to obtain.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : Is it not a fact that indirect pressure was brought by the authorities to bear on the Kaira District Bank to take up the loan business of the Provincial Bank with the Matar societies ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The reply already given is " no ".

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : Of course Government say "no", but have they made enquiries ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The reply is given after enquiries have been made.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Will the Government be pleased to place the papers of the enquiry on the Council table, whether the Assistant Registrar had brought pressure to bear on the Kaira District Bank ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The reply to part (c) of the question is that the correspondence which passed between the Assistant Registrar or the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and the Kaira District Co-operative Bank cannot be placed on the table as it relates to the internal affairs of the banks.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : I understand that the Honourable Minister obtained the information from the Registrar and has given it to this House.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : What else can the Minister do ? He makes enquiries of the officers of Government ; he receives the replies, and the replies are based on that information.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM: May I know who was the officer who made this enquiry ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: Probably the Registrar, but I will make enquiries.

REVENUE ADMINISTRATION, KAIRA DISTRICT

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amount of rainfall during each of the years beginning with 1915 and ending with 1927 as recorded at the headquarters in Kaira District ;

(b) the amount of land revenue either suspended or remitted, in Kaira District during each of the above years ;

(c) the amount of tagavi loans issued to and collected from the cultivators and the amount written off during the same period ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) The honourable member is referred to the Season and Crop Reports of those years; they are to be found in the Council library.

(b) and (c) The honourable member is referred to the Land Revenue Administration Reports of those years; they also are to be found in the library.

FLOOD WATER DRAINS: KAIRA DISTRICT

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many drains there are in the Kaira district to carry off flood waters ;

(b) when those drains were constructed ;

(c) what expenditure was incurred in each of the last ten years to keep them in repair and to prevent them from silting up ;

(d) whether there were any old drains constructed in pre-British times and if so what expenditure has been incurred to keep them in repair ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information has been called for.

KRISHNA CANAL, SATARA: CANAL RULES

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any amendments have been made in the Bombay Canal Rules of 1922 ;

(b) if so, whether a copy of such orders will be placed on the Council table ;

(c) whether any orders have been issued to treat the excess area watered by the bagayatdars as unauthorised waterings and whether any orders for making panchnamas of such unauthorised waterings for the period of the last six or eight months have been issued to officers on the Krishna Canal in the Satara district ;

(d) the reasons why fines amounting to more than Rs. 10,000 for two consecutive years have been imposed on the bagayatdars on the Krishna Canal :

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : The information is being collected.

RAILWAY PROJECT : KARAD-CHIPLUN-ULVA

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the project of the Karad-Chiplun-Ulva Railway is still under consideration ;

(b) if the answer be in the negative, what objection Government have to the publishing of the fact for the benefit of persons warned not to obstruct ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU (a) As the project was found to be financially unprofitable its further consideration was dropped. The traffic prospects of a line from Diva to Dasgaon have, however, been investigated and the question of the exact alignment of such a line is now under consideration.

(b) As the survey for the proposed Karad-Chiplun-Ulva Railway has been carried out the purpose of the notifications authorising it has been served. The notifications cannot therefore be cancelled, as otherwise there would be no authority for the survey. The survey having taken place, the notifications impose no further restrictions on the owners of land in the villages referred to therein.

KRISHNA CANAL : WATER SUPPLY

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the year from which the bagayatdars on the Krishna Canal were made to give more applications than one for the sugarcane crop of twelve months duration ;

(b) whether the bagayatdars had to pay more than the rate fixed by Government for the sugarcane crop by the introduction of this new system of more applications ;

(c) the acreage of sugarcane on the Krishna Canal for every year since the introduction of this new system ;

(d) the total amount of such increase recovered from the bagayatdars in every such year up to the end of 1927 ;

(e) whether this was done with the knowledge and authority of Government ;

(f) whether this system was introduced because of the shortage of water in the Canal ;

(g) whether an application was made by some bagayardars on the Canal to the Superintending Engineer, requesting him to charge the rate fixed by Government and nothing more ;

(h) whether the Assistant Engineer in charge of the canal made an enquiry into the matter and as a result asked the bagayatdars to make a fresh application, mentioning therein that no remissions would be claimed by them and that they committed a mistake in objecting to make more applications than one ;

(i) whether it is a fact that when this was refused another application as per copy below* was drafted and the bagayatdars were asked to sign it ;

(j) whether applications for water were taken of those persons only who signed that application and whether those persons who did not sign it had to go to Karad to sign the application first and then present their water applications.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a) to (j). The information has been called for.

BRIDGE OVER THE INDRAYANI RIVER NEAR KAMSHET RAILWAY STATION

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is no bridge over the Indrayani river near the Kamshet railway station ;

(b) whether they are aware that there is only a narrow dam which is absolutely dangerous in the monsoon ;

(c) whether they are aware that the villages beyond the river are greatly inconvenienced by the absence of any communication in the rainy season with other villages on the other side of the river and especially in respect of their affairs in the court at Vadgaon or Poona ;

(d) whether they are aware that almost every year the stream sweeps away some villagers while passing over the dam ;

(e) whether they are aware that the ferry arrangements are quite unsatisfactory to the people and often prove harassing to them ;

(f) whether the building of a bridge over the river is in contemplation ;

(g) whether the district local board has been asked to submit its suggestions in that behalf ;

(h) whether it has been settled by them that the bridge is necessary and, if so, whether the work of erecting it will be taken up early ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

*The copy has been forwarded in original to the Superintending Engineer, Central Circle, along with a copy of the question for report.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Speaking in Marathi) : The fact that many men have been washed away on this dam has been published. How is it that Government do not know it ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The question does not arise.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL : I asked one supplementary question and the reply is not to the point. Has not this inconvenience been brought to the notice of Government ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Government does not know of it.

POLICE SUB-INSPECTOR, DHARWAR : TRANSFER

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE on behalf of Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) for how many years Mr. Sumant has been officiating as the sub-inspector of police in the taluka of Dharwar ;

(b) whether it is a fact that applications from the villagers of Garag, Tadakod, Amminbhavi, Karadigud, Harobelavadi, Kowlageri, Timmapur and Chandanmatti villages in the taluka of Dharwar were made to the District Magistrate of Dharwar in 1925 for his transfer ;

(c) what were the reasons advanced by the applicants for his transfer ;

(d) what action was taken on these applications and with what effect ;

(e) what the normal period for a sub-inspector of police to officiate in one and the same taluka is ;

(f) whether there are any instances in which sub-inspectors of police are kept in the same place for more than five years ; if so, how many ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Enquiries are being made.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT, SATARA DISTRICT : STAFF

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what was the sanctioned strength of the clerical staff of Judicial Department in the Satara District as a whole and in each of the sub-courts separately after the revision of 1922 and what is the present number as a whole and of each court separately ;

(b) if the present number is reduced, whether Government have sanctioned the reduction ; if so, the reasons for the reduction in the staff ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) A statement giving the information is placed on the Council table.

(b) The three vacancies are being left unfilled in view of the Retrenchment Officer's proposals.

CIVIL COURT PATAN : ACCOMMODATION

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the Patan court building in the Satara District is too small for its purposes ;

(b) if so, what arrangements they propose to make to provide suitable and sufficient accommodation ;

(c) whether there is any Pleaders' Room at Patan Court ; if not, what arrangements they propose to make for the pleaders ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) It is proposed when funds permit to build two new rooms, one of which will be allotted to the pleaders.

REFRESHMENT ROOM LICENSES : AUCTION

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether liquor licenses for refreshment rooms are given by the auction sale system ;

(b) if not, what are the reasons for not doing so ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) Refreshment rooms have other commodities besides liquor for sale and it would be impracticable to dispose of such businesses by auction.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT, SATARA : EMPLOYMENT OF GRADUATES

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that three graduates were appointed in the Judicial Department of the Satara district first as acting karkuns on condition that they would work on Rs. 60 ;

(b) whether Government Circular, Finance Department, No. 438, dated the 15th June 1920, provides for the payment to them of Rs. 70 as pay ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the said graduates were appointed to act as nazirs and clerks of the courts in the upper grade on Rs. 85 within 6 months of their entrance, ignoring the claims of a number of senior competent permanent clerks working in that district ;

(d) if so, whether Government intend to take any and what steps in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a), (b) and (c) The three graduates accepted the offer of Rs. 60, although Rs. 70 was fixed as the starting pay. They were appointed to act as nazirs on Rs. 85, because they were considered more competent than the men whom they superseded.

(d) The District Judge has full discretion in regard to promotions in his establishment, and Government do not propose to interfere.

RIOTS IN PANCH MAHALS : GHANCHIS

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Ghanchis of Godhra in Panch Mahals District committed a riot some seventy years back and that in the course of the riot the Boras of the place were roughly handled, insulted and disgraced ;

(b) whether it is a fact that Government were compelled to bring the military from Baroda to help in quelling the rioters ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the same Ghanchi community had committed a riot in Godhra in Samvat 1968 when Mr. Ghosal was the Collector of Panch Mahals ;

(d) whether it is a fact that in this riot Ghanchis of Bazar and Ghanchis of Gohia fought among themselves to such an extent that the Police had to interfere, that a big number of persons from both the parties were prosecuted and that the case was going on for many months ;

(e) whether it is a fact that the same community of Ghanchis committed for the third time a riot in Godhra in Samvat 1977 when Mr. Clayton was the Collector of Panch Mahals ;

(f) whether it is a fact that the Police were compelled to open fire to quell the riot ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Enquiries are being made.

ASSAULT BY SUB-INSPECTOR'S SON, GODHRA

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that on the 25th December 1927 a Muhammadan boy, the son of the Sub-Inspector of Police in Godhra Taluka of Panch Mahals District, went to the city tank at Godhra at nearly 10-30 a.m. and without any provocation slapped a Hindu young lady who had gone there for washing her clothes ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the lady on receiving a slap fell down in the water and got up quite nervous and received another slap on her cheeks and a kick in addition ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the same boy had troubled Hindu gentlemen and Hindu ladies of Jhalod in 1924 when his father was a Sub-Inspector of Police there :

(d) whether it is a fact that this trouble was brought to the notice of the Collector then ;

(e) what steps they had taken in the matter then and intend to take now ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Government are aware of this unfortunate incident. It appears that the boy who committed the assault is mentally deranged and not under proper control.

(b) to (e) Government understand that the Honourable Member has brought these facts to the notice of the District Magistrate, who has advised the aggrieved parties to file criminal complaints.

TODDY : DOMESTIC LICENSES

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that domestic licenses to Kaliparaj people for tapping toddy trees are being issued only to those who were licensed to do so in the previous year ;

(b) if the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, whether they are aware that it is a serious hardship to those who had no license in the previous year but whose trees have become fit for tapping only in the succeeding year ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

BEGARI CANAL : SILTING

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the rise due to silt in the head of the Begari canal from mile 62 to mile 76 since 1914-1915 up to the present day ;

(b) the depth (in feet and inches) of silt cleared by excavation from all or any of the miles 62 to 76 in each year when excavation took place ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : The information has been called for.

CANALS : SILT CLEARANCE

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state whether the Deputy Commissioner of Upper Sind Frontier has requested for immediate silt clearance of the tail of the Begari and the Idan and Sir Vahs ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : No.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Has any demand been received after the answer was prepared ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Demand from whom ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : From the Deputy Commissioner.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Not that I know of.

WESTERN NARA WATER SUPPLY

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what was the depth of water in the Western Nara in miles 72 to 88 at each regulator within that length ; during 1924-1925, 1925-1926, 1926-1927 ;

(b) what is the total area commanded by the Western Nara within the above mileage and the land revenue assessed thereon ;

(c) what has been the total area under cultivation on the above mileage in the years 1923-1924, 1924-1925, 1925-1926, 1926-1927 and the land revenue actually collected thereon during those years ;

(d) what is the total loss of land revenue to the Government on this area on account of failure of water therein in each year mentioned in (c).

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : The information has been called for.

CONSTRUCTION OF COURT BUILDINGS, POONA

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state with reference to the questions and replies on the subject at pages 1521 to 1524 of Volume XX of the Official Report :—

(a) the amount of the original estimate for the construction of the Court Buildings, Poona, at 11 per cent. below which, the work was given to the contractor ;

(b) the individual quantity, rate and total cost of the several items which were later on substituted by modified items ;

(c) the individual quantity, rate and total cost of the several modified items substituted ;

(d) who prepared the plans and estimate of the work ;

(e) whether the plans and estimate were approved and adopted by Government before the work was sanctioned ;

(f) who later on suggested the idea of " giving adequate dignity and finish to the building ; "

(g) whether the suggestion was duly considered by Government to be of such an imperative nature as to necessitate the introduction of the modifications in the materials and details of the construction of the building causing the contractor's original contract amount to be increased ;

(h) whether the conduct and control of this work has been entrusted to any responsible Government Engineer ;

(i) if so, what his rank is ;

(j) who prepares and passes contractor's bills for payment ;

(k) whether these bills and the payments thereof are checked by any Government Auditor ;

(l) whether the work as it stands to-day has been considered to be completed and finished up to the standard of workmanship required under the contract ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSAIN : The information has been called for.

GOVERNMENT SERVANTS : BACKWARD COMMUNITIES AND MOSLEMS

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of posts in the City of Bombay in the various Departments of Government (giving separate figures for each Department)—

(1) up to Rs. 100,

(2) between Rs. 100 and Rs. 200,

(3) between Rs. 200 and Rs. 500,

(4) between Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000,

(5) between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 2,000,

(6) above Rs. 2,000 ;

(b) how many of these are held by members of the backward communities ;

(c) how many of them are Moslems ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Information is being collected.

GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS, BOMBAY CITY

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of bungalows and buildings they have built in the City of Bombay for Government officers during the last ten years ;

(b) the total cost of each giving separate figures for land, construction, fittings, development, etc ;

(c) the annual outgoings on each giving separate figures for taxes, maintenance, interest, sinking fund, depreciation, etc. ;

(d) the annual rent realised on each ;

(e) the net rate realised on the capital invested on each, or loss if any ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) The attached statement furnishes the information required by the Honourable Member.

and those against serial Nos. 34 to 43 in charge of the Development Department. As no capital of items Nos. 11-30 and 44 (vi) which are rent free, is not given. No 'Sinking fund' and 'depreciation

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : There are many bungalows on pages 31-35 whose rents are shown as 'nil.' Why were those bungalows built ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : There was need for them.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are these bungalows being occupied or are they given free to officers ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It appears so.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : On page 30, column 4 is shown as Land. Does that mean that no money was paid for that land ?.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : These are estimates.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Is it a fact that when the properties were resumed no value was paid for the land ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Yes.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : (Asked a supplementary question which was inaudible).

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I want notice.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : How can you estimate the value of the land when value was not paid ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Government have to estimate the value even though no value was paid.

PROSTITUTION IN BOMBAY CITY

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of brothels in the city of Bombay ;

(b) the number of prostitutes of different nationalities and communities such as English, French, Russian, Spanish, Italian, Anglo-Indian, Jew, Japanese, Hindu and Muhammadans residing in the City of Bombay ;

(c) the number of children in the brothels in Bombay ;

(d) in how many cases the Children Act has been applied for removing children from immoral surroundings ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Brothels are not registered in Bombay and accurate statistics are not procurable. The number is estimated at about 680.

(b) For the same reason exact figures cannot be given. The approximate figures annexed relate only to prostitutes living as such in brothels, and do not include those who practise clandestinely. It is impossible to frame any estimate of the number of the latter.

1,310	Hindus.
256	Muhammadans.
64	Indian Christians.
17	Japanese.
14	Anglo-Indians.
13	Arabs.
11	Jews.

11 Russians (Jews).
7 Parsis.
6 Mauritians.
4 Greeks.
5 French.
3 Roumanians.
2 English.
2 Italians.
1 Pole.
1 Hungarian.
1 American.
1 Native of Palestine.

(c) 49—36 boys and 13 girls. None of the girls is over 5 years of age. Since the Children Act was brought into force a great number of children have been removed by their guardians from the brothels, over and above those whose cases have come before the Court.

(d) In 120 cases involving about 135 children.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: Are Government aware that a number of non-Parsi prostitutes pass off under the guise of Parsis? Are Government sure that the number given by them is correct?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: I am sorry I cannot profess to any very accurate knowledge.

These figures are based on the professions of the women themselves.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: Will the honourable member be pleased to give the addresses of these prostitutes so that the honourable member can go and make enquiries?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Any person interested could probably get that information from the police.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Is there any additional staff appointed for the protection of children in the brothels in connection with the Children Act?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: A very small additional staff has been appointed for the Prevention of Prostitution Act and for the Children Act, but for the present that staff is almost entirely employed in working the Children Act. It is too small for the purpose; we should be very glad to appoint some more; only we have not enough money.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Will you bring that question before the Council?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: That may be considered in the next budget.

PRIMARY EDUCATION: BIJAPUR DISTRICT

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether there has been a demand for the opening of new Primary Schools in the rural area of the Bijapur District;

(b) if so, what arrangements the District Local Boards and the Government have made to meet the demand;

(c) whether there are many complaints from the villagers in the Bijapur District that they are not getting adequate number of teachers for their schools though the number of children attending Primary Schools has grown enormously;

(d) what arrangements Local Boards and Government have made or intend to make in this connection and when will such arrangements be complete ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) It is understood that the people of the Bijapur District want more primary schools.

(b) The District Local Board, Bijapur, now controls primary education in the District through its School Board. It is therefore for that body to take the initiative in the matter of opening new primary schools in the District wherever they are needed. If and when the Board submit proposals, they will receive due attention from Government.

(c) No such complaints have so far reached Government.

(d) It is primarily for the District Local Board and its School Board to consider the question of the entertainment of additional assistants in undermanned schools. Government can consider the Board's proposals only when they are submitted to them for approval.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI: May I know whether a scheme on the voluntary basis prepared by the school board, Bijapur, and sent through the district local board, Bijapur, has been received by Government; or is it still lying in the Director's office ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: So far as I know, no papers have been received as yet by Government with reference to any scheme for expansion on a voluntary basis, but when those papers are received, due consideration will be given.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR: Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to make enquiries of the Director of Public Instruction whether he has received a scheme from the district local board, Bijapur ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: The honourable member is himself a member of the district local board, Bijapur. However, I have no objection to make enquiries.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR: As a member of the district local board and also of the school board, I know that a scheme was submitted long ago—it is now more than a year—but no reply has been received either from the Director or from the Honourable Minister.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Inquiries will be made.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Does it follow that as far as those local boards which have not taken over the control of primary education, are concerned, the initiative of opening new schools rests with Government in those areas ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: No. It is for the board to take the initiative in the matter of opening new schools, and if they are agreeable to pay one-third of the cost, then the question will be considered by Government.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: The control of education is with Government and yet the initiative rests with the local boards ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Yes; but it is for the local boards who control primary education to recommend the opening of new schools; they are the proper authorities.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: The question was whether there was a demand for the opening of primary schools, but the reply is: "It is understood that the people of the Bijapur district want more primary schools." The reply is not to the point. Will the Honourable Minister say whether there was actually a demand—yes or no ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: No demand has been made, but it is presumed that the Bijapur district local board, like other district local boards, want more primary schools.

RAILWAY STATION DHARAMSHALAS

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many railway stations between Colaba and Sanjan and between Victoria Terminus and Kasara have dharamshalas;

(b) how many of these dharamshalas are in good condition ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: The information has been called for.

ROADS IN MURBAD TALUKA

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what amount they have spent during the last fifty years for the up-keep of the roads in the part of Shahapur, Murbad and Kalyan talukas adjoining the Western Ghats and extending from the railway lines near the Thalghaut to the railway line near Karjat;

(b) whether it is a fact that there is no convenient road for carts in the whole of the Murbad taluka and the parts of Shahapur and Murbad talukas referred to in (a);

(c) whether these inconveniences have not been brought to the notice of Government up to now;

(d) if they have been brought to their notice, what steps have they taken up to now and what steps do they intend taking in the matter;

(e) whether it is a fact that they have not considered the case of the Murbad taluka in the matter of road facilities, as they have in other talukas of the Thana district by constructing railroads and bridges;

(f) if so, the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

GUN LICENSES, THANA DISTRICT

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of holders of licenses for guns in the Thana District ;

(b) how many licenses have been given for the use of agriculturists ;

(c) what measures Government have adopted to provide temporary licenses for the use of agriculturists ;

(d) how many licenses have been revoked under the Indian Arms Act and in how many cases notices about revocation were given to the licensees ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Information has been called for.

LIQUOR LICENSES : NEW PROPOSALS

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are considering a proposal to give liquor shops to licensees for a fixed sum ;

(b) if the answer is in the negative, whether they are considering the matter in any other way ;

(c) if so, what the proposal is ;

(d) whether they are considering a proposal to fix the rates at which liquor is to be sold ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a), (b) and (c) The honourable member is referred to the reply to the question asked by Mr. Swaminarayan on 14th March 1928.

(d) No.

VADA-BHIWANDI ROAD : TANSA DAM

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the dam on the river Tansa on the Vada-Bhiwandi Road was specially repaired twice during the last five years ;

(b) what were the expenses at each special repair ;

(c) whether the special repairs were undertaken in order to remove hindrance to traffic ;

(d) whether such hindrance was removed by the special repairs ;

(e) whether traffic at the place was closed during the last rainy season from the 20th July to the 26th July ;

(f) whether there was at the place a boat or ferry formerly ;

(g) if so, why it was stopped ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

VADA-BHIWANDI ROAD : MORI AT MILE 25

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that on account of the Mori near mile 25 on the Vada-Bhiwandi road, in the taluka of Vada, being narrow, water instead of flowing through it gathers in the adjoining field on its eastern side for several days and causes much damage to the rice crops ;

(b) if so, do they intend to widen it ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

VADA-BHIWANDI ROAD : MORI AT NEHROLI BRIDGE

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the Mori which is to the north of Nehroli bridge and to the east of Pahuni-pada on the Vada-Bhiwandi road stops the flow of water which gathers in the fields on the eastern side and thus causes damage to the crops and washes the road away ;

(b) if so, do they intend to widen it ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

VADA-BHIWANDI ROAD : CROSSING OF STREAM

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is no bridge over the stream running between Vada and Gandhra on the Vada-Bhiwandi road at mile No. 25 ;

(b) whether they are aware that in the absence of a bridge it is inconvenient for boys from Gandhra to attend school ;

(c) whether they are aware that during floods all the traffic is stopped at this place ;

(d) whether they intend to construct a bridge over it in addition to the existing dam ;

(e) if so, when ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

VADA-SHIRGAUT ROAD

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Vada-Shirgaut road goes through the town of Vada;

(b) whether it is sufficiently wide;

(c) whether it is a fact that within the last 10 years a child was crushed to death under a bullock cart on this road;

(d) whether it is a fact that the increased traffic and specially motor traffic has caused greater inconvenience to the people of Vada and that the people have applied for a diversion of this road from out of the town;

(e) whether they intend to divert this road from out of the town?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

BOMBAY AGRA ROAD

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the Bombay-Agra road running through the following villages causes great inconvenience to the residents of those villages, viz., Padgha, Vasind and Asangaon;

(b) whether they intend to divert the road from outside those villages?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

KHARIVLI-KANCHAD ROAD

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state whether they intend to construct a road between Kharivli and Kanchad in the place of a cart track between Kharivli and Goreh in the taluka of Vada?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

WOODEN BRIDGES IN THANA DISTRICT

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many timber culverts (wooden bridges) there are on the Government roads in the Thana district;

(b) the number of them on each road;

(c) at what particular place each is constructed;

(d) whether it is a fact that they are very old?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

ROADSIDE REST HOUSES : THANA DISTRICT

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) on what roads in the Thana District traffic is stopped by floods ;

(b) whether it is a fact that Government have not provided places on these roads where travellers could put up temporarily ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : May I know from the Honourable Minister how much time he will require ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I cannot say.

COMMUNICATIONS : THANA DISTRICT

Mr. S. K. BOLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the G. I. P. Railway Company intends to open a motor service in those parts of the Thana district where there is no railway ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No.

PARDI TALUKA : SHOPPING CONVENIENCES

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the people of the villages of Vatar, Morai, Kunta, Tarakpardi, taluka Pardi, district Surat, are situated on the other side of the custom line separating Portuguese territories from British Territory ;

(b) whether the people of these villages have to go to Udvada and other big villages in order to do their shopping and to get supplies ;

(c) whether since this year the gate near Ravatvadi has been closed ;

(d) whether the river Kolak cannot be conveniently crossed at any other place ;

(e) whether as a result of this thing the people will be compelled to go to Vapi for their shopping ;

(f) whether in that case they will have to pay heavy customs duties to the Portuguese authorities ;

(g) whether they will save these duties if they pass through Ravatvadi gate ;

(h) what is the objection to keep this gate open ;

(i) how they intend to remove this serious inconvenience to the people of these villages ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) to (i) The question relates to a central subject and the Local Government is not in a position to answer it.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Will the honourable member be pleased to state whether the customs officers are appointed by the local Government ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No ; I do not think so.

REPAIR OF TANKS, SURAT DISTRICT

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Surat District Local Board is prepared to take in its charge all the tanks in the Surat District;

(b) if so, on what conditions and from what date ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: (a) and (b) The Commissioner reports that the Board is prepared to consider the question of taking the tanks in its charge, provided Government hand over all the revenue derived in the last 20 years from the tanks, excluding the expenditure incurred on them, and assign to the Board all the revenue that may be realised from the tanks hereafter.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: Are Government prepared to hand over the tanks on those conditions ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: No.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: On what conditions are Government prepared to hand over the tanks ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Honourable member should raise a debate on that question in the House.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: I want to know the Government policy.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Government cannot give their policy in answer to a supplementary question.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: Do you want a notice ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: If you ask for any information, we shall give it to you.

Mr. H. B. SHIVADASANI: Are not Government considering this question ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Yes.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: Why can you not give a definite reply.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I have already answered "no" to your first supplementary question.

RICE CROP IN SADAKPORE

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the rice crop has failed this year in the village of Sadakpore, taluka Chikhali, district Surat;

(b) whether this crop was inspected before it was cut;

(c) if so, by whom it was inspected;

(d) what was the anna valuation of the crop;

(e) what remissions and suspensions have Government decided to grant in view of the failure of this crop;

(f) when will this remission and suspension be sanctioned;

(g) when would they be notified ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) By the Circle Inspector and the Mamlatdar.

(d) 10 annas.

(e) and (f) None, because neither suspensions nor remissions are admissible.

(g) Does not arise.

CHECK TOLL BARS

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is the object of keeping check toll bars;

(b) whether there is any difference between a toll bar and a check toll bar;

(c) if so, what is the difference;

(d) whether at a check toll bar, bullock carts, etc., have to pay toll even though the cart has not to pass any toll bar;

(e) whether Government have considered the question of abolishing the check toll bars in view of their orders abolishing the levy of toll from bullock carts at more than one toll bar on the same day;

(f) if so, what decision have they arrived at?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

GUJARAT COLLEGE: GUJARATI LECTURER

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the present lecturer in Gujarati in the Gujarat College, Ahmedabad, was appointed on a probation for one year in July 1926;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Principal of the College and the students are satisfied with his work;

(c) whether it is a fact that the results of the examination in Gujarati are satisfactory with respect to students from the college;

(d) whether Government intend to terminate his services;

(e) if so, what the reasons for the same are;

(f) whether the services of persons appointed on probation are liable to be dispensed with even though they may show good and satisfactory results;

(g) whether the reason for the termination of his services is the re-engagement of a pensioner who had resigned?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Yes. The date of the orders was 30th June 1926.

(b) The Principal reports that the Lecturer's work has been satisfactory.

(c) The Lecturer joined his appointment at the Gujarat College on 8th July 1926. The results of the college in Gujarati in the year 1927 were satisfactory.

(d) He has been served with a reasonably adequate notice of discharge with effect from 11th March 1928.

(e) and (g) The reason for the termination of the Lecturer's services is that Government could secure the services of the previous experienced Lecturer who is a far better scholar of the Gujarati language and literature. This person is a pensioner who was re-employed as Lecturer in Gujarati and worked in that capacity for a number of years but has resigned the appointment with effect from April 1926.

(f) Yes, with due notice and for sufficiently good reasons.

GUJARAT COLLEGE: GUJARATI LECTURER

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what the rules for the employment of pensioners in Government service are;

(b) whether suitable candidates for the post of lecturers in Gujarati in Arts colleges are not available;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the negative, what is the reason for appointing a retired pensioner as Gujarati lecturer in the Gujarat College, Ahmedabad;

(d) whether such pensioners accept less pay and their employment leads to economy?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) The rules are given in Chapter XXI of the Civil Service Regulations.

(b) When the post of Lecturer in Gujarati at the Gujarat College fell vacant in 1926, it was advertised. No one of those who applied for the post was found to possess qualifications of the required standard.

(c) This question does not, properly speaking, arise, in view of the reply given to clause (b) of the question. It may, however, be stated that a pensioner is re-employed as Lecturer in Gujarati at the Gujarat College because he has a far better knowledge of the Gujarati language and literature than the candidates who had applied for the post.

(d) Under the latest orders of Government, dated the 22nd August 1927, a retired officer of Government who is re-employed as a Lecturer in Vernacular is allowed to draw his full pension and in addition half the pay of the post of Lecturer in Vernacular, to which he may be appointed on re-employment. As the retired officers in question are granted only half the pay of the posts in addition to their pension, their re-employment leads to economy, because if fresh candidates are appointed, they will ordinarily be eligible for the full pay of the posts, while at the same time the pension of the retired officers in question will continue to be paid.

GUJARAT COLLEGE, AHMEDABAD: GUJARATI LECTURER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that at the time of appointment as Lecturer of Gujarati in the Gujarat College, Ahmedabad, Mr. Gajendrashankar Lalshankar Pandya, M.A., B.T., gave up his permanent post in the Vanita Vishram, Bombay, by payment of a penalty in view of the stability of Government Service and in full expectation that he would be confirmed at the end of his probationary period;

(b) whether the work of Mr. Gajendrashankar Lalshankar Pandya, M.A., B.T., in the Gujarat College during his probationary period was favourably reported by the Principal of Gujarat College;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, the reasons why Mr. Gajendrashankar Lalshankar Pandya, M.A., B.T., was not confirmed in his Post?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Government had no such information at the time Mr. Pandya was appointed as Lecturer in Gujarati.

(b) Yes.

(c) He was not confirmed in his post because it was possible to secure the services of a much better and riper scholar like Dewan Bahadur Dhruva.

GUJARAT COLLEGE, AHMEDABAD: TERMINATION OF SERVICES OF GUJARATI LECTURER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the date on which Mr. Gajendrashankar Lalshankar Pandya M.A., B.T., was appointed a lecturer of Gujarati in the Gujarat College, Ahmedabad; and his age;

(b) whether it is a fact that he had secured second class honours in M.A. with Gujarati and first class honours with distinction in B.T.;

(c) the period for which his appointment was made;

(d) whether it is a fact that his services are to be terminated in March 1928;

(e) if the answer to (d) is in the affirmative the reasons for terminating his services;

(f) whether it is a fact that some other person is to be appointed in his place;

(g) if so, the name, age and qualifications of the person intended to be appointed in his place?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) His appointment as Lecturer in Gujarati at the Gujarat College was notified on 1st July 1926. He, however, took charge of the post on 8th July 1926. He was 31 years of age at the time of his appointment.

(b) He is only a passed M.A. and has passed the B.T. examination in 2nd class.

(c) He was appointed on probation for one year.

(d) Yes.

(e) Because it was possible to secure the services of a much better and riper scholar like Dewan Bahadur Dhruva.

(f) Yes.

(g) Dewan Bahadur K. H. Dhruva. He is 68 years of age. He is a B.A. of the Bombay University, a recognised scholar of Gujarati and one of the greatest living authorities on the old Gujarati language and literature.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is it the policy of Government to engage the services of a retired pensioner?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: It has been the policy of Government, in the case of vernacular Lecturers to secure ripe scholars and for that purpose, to engage such ripe scholars from those who have retired from service.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: Why should there be a departure from rules in the case of vernacular professors? Are Government prepared to follow the same policy if they find in the next year a better man for selection?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: In this particular instance, the lecturer who was a Government pensioner, had to give up the post on account of certain orders of Government. In spite of the recommendation of the principal of the college and the Director of Public Instruction to retain his services those orders were passed. He consequently had to give up the post, it was felt that the Government orders were not in the interest of vernaculars, and therefore, Government had to reconsider their orders.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: So, that man retired as a protest?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Yes.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: Did Government advertise?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: As there was a vacancy, the post had to be advertised.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: Are Government aware that the man who is appointed had to give up a remunerative job in Bombay to join Government service?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I was not aware of it, when the question was considered. But I learnt it subsequently.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: Are Government going to consider his case?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: We cannot revise the present arrangements.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: How long will the old gentleman be allowed to continue?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Government cannot consider the question as long as Dewan Bahadur Dhruva is a better and an able man for his work.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Are not Government aware that water comes from the eyes of Dewan Bahadur Dhruva and that his age is 68 years?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I do not know whether water comes from his eyes. He has been found to be quite a fit man for his work in spite of his age.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: Do not Government think that injustice is being done to the present man ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Government do not consider that any injustice is being done to the present man, as he was taken up on probation.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: He was taken on the understanding that if his work was found satisfactory, he would be confirmed. Now the report is that he was found most satisfactory. As a matter of fact, Government were bound to confirm him after one year. As a better man is found, he has to be thrown overboard. Therefore, may I know that in view of the injustice done to the present man, Government propose to consider his case ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: His case cannot be considered for the present post. His case may be considered if any other post is available in the department.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: Was Dewan Bahadur Dhruva sent for medical examination ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: He was not sent for medical examination as he was fit for his work. I may inform the honourable member that several local boards have been asking Government to continue the services of their chief officers after they were pensioned. Some honourable members of this House, who are presidents of the district local boards, have asked us for the continuation of the services of their pensioned chief officers. In view of that, I do not think any medical examination was necessary.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is the principle of the Educational Department different from that of other departments ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: The principle is the same. But if the pensioner concerned is a capable man, there is no objection to allow him to continue in service.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Why did Government make a departure from the ordinary pension rules in this special case ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: There was no departure from the pension rules in this case. I have mentioned all the facts.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: The Honourable Minister stated that he is a fit person for work. May I know therefore if he was sent for medical examination ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: We were told by the principal that he was a fit person and hence there was no necessity for the medical examination.

RAILWAY PROJECT : NAWDA-KAPADVANJ : STATION AT VEHELAL

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a preliminary survey of a branch railway line between Nawda and Kapadvanj was made in the year 1919 ;

(b) whether the inhabitants of Vehelal, a village of South Daskroi Taluka, sent a petition dated 1st October 1919 to Mr. G. E. Chatfield, the then Collector of Ahmedabad District, praying that a station may be opened at Vehelal on the said branch railway line ;

(c) whether the petition, referred to in (b), was forwarded by the Collector to the Government of Bombay ;

(d) Whether Government by their memorandum No. 1523-Ry. of 1919 in the Public Works Department, dated 12th November 1919 decided that they would urge the construction of a station at Vehelal after it was decided whether the proposed line was to be constructed as far as Ahmedabad ;

(e) whether the decision of Government referred to in (d) was communicated to the inhabitants of Vehelal by the then Collector of Ahmedabad by his letter No. R.Y.S.-2, dated 18th November 1919 ;

(f) If the answers to (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) are in the affirmative, the reasons why Government, by a notification in Bombay Government Gazette dated 20th October 1927, ordered a new survey of the said branch line excluding Vehelal altogether from the benefit of that line ;

(g) whether the inhabitants of Vehelal have made a demand for a station between Lalpur and Vehelal stating that it would benefit many villages of South Daskroi Taluka, namely, Lalpur, Vehelal, Kubadthal, Zanu, Huka, Para, Ramnagar and Pasunj ;

(h) if so, what action Government have taken on the demand referred to in (g) ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No.
(b) Yes.
(c) Yes.
(d) Yes.
(e) Yes.
(f) the attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to question No. 3 printed at page 18 of the sixth list of questions and answers of the current session.
(g) Yes.
(h) the matter is under the consideration of Government.

ABKARI COMMISSIONER : APPOINTMENTS MADE

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state the number of appointments made by the Abkari Commissioner during the years 1925-26 and 1926-27 and the castes of the persons appointed.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : A statement furnishing the required information is placed on the Council Table.

RAILWAY STATION : NASIK ROAD

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is great hardship to the third class railway passengers at the Nasik Road railway station for want of a sufficiently large waiting room and that the present one is largely occupied by the tea shop and other hawkers ;

(b) whether they are aware that there is no shed on the down platform to protect the passengers from rain and sun ;

(c) whether they are aware that the present bridge connecting the two platforms is not covered and that there is not a sufficient number of benches provided on both the platforms ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The information has been called for.

BANDHARA AT PATEGAON

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Bandhara at Pategaon village in Chandvad Taluka of the Nasik District has been out of order for nearly ten years;

(b) whether it is a fact that the people of the above village do not get any water for irrigation from that Bandhara since then;

(c) if so, what action they have taken to put it in order;

(d) whether it is fact that no water cess was collected during the last eight years;

(e) whether they are aware that the water cess is now being collected this year although the people did not get any water from the Bandhara;

(f) whether any provision has been made in this year's budget to put the Bandhara in proper order?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information has been called for.

DAM ON GIRNA, KADVA AND MOSUM RIVERS

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have any schemes for putting dams to the Girna, Kadva and Mosum rivers in order to increase the water supply of the canals;

(b) if so, whether the schemes have been investigated into by the Irrigation Department?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information is being collected.

JAMDA CANALS, CENTRAL CIRCLE

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the area irrigated by the Jamda Canals in the Central Circle;

(b) whether it is on the increase or decrease;

(c) if it is on the decrease what such decrease is due to;

(d) whether it is a fact that the canals are dependent on the water supply of the Chankapur tank which is uncertain;

(e) what steps they propose to take for the increase of the supply of water in the canals?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information is being collected.

IRRIGATION IN NASIK DISTRICT

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total expenditure on extensions, improvements, maintenance and repairs to bandharas in the Nasik District;

(b) the total area irrigated in the Nasik District;

(c) the amount of water cess collected in Nasik District ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information has been called for.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT, SATARA DISTRICT: SECTION-WRITERS

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of qualified and non-qualified English section-writers from the Intermediate and Backward communities in the Judicial Department, Satara District;

(b) how many candidates from the Intermediate and Backward communities had applied for service in the Department;

(c) how many of these were qualified;

(d) the number of such candidates whose names were registered;

(e) how many candidates were informed during the last four years that there were no vacancies ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: (a) For purposes of recruitment for Government service, the communities are divided into two classes only, 'advanced' and 'backward.' The division into three classes, the two mentioned and the 'intermediate' is only for educational purposes. There are four qualified and eight unqualified section-writers belonging to the backward classes employed in the Satara District.

(b) 160 candidates from the backward classes.

(c) 24 only are qualified, in the sense that they had passed the prescribed test for admission into the department.

(d) 90.

BANDHARA WATER SUPPLY: NASIK DISTRICT

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the fact that the water supply from the bandharas in the Nasik District is getting precarious;

(b) if so, whether they are aware that this indicates that the present system of cropping in the Phad system in the Nasik District requires investigation to make cropping a paying business;

(c) whether they intend taking any steps to carry out investigations in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Information has been called for.

ODHA RAILWAY STATION: PARCEL SHED

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is no parcel shed at the Odha Railway Station;

(b) whether they are aware that a large traffic in vegetable takes place through this station throughout the year;

(c) whether they are aware that parcels of vegetable remain at the station exposed to the rain and sun ;

(d) whether they are aware that great hardship is thereby caused to the villagers of the adjoining villages ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Enquiries are being made.

(Discussion on the Supplementary Demand for Expenditure on Harvey-Nariman Case resumed)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Before the House proceeds on to the discussion left unfinished yesterday, I have to give my ruling on a point of order raised asking the Honourable the General Member to place certain papers on the Council table.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, I understand you are referring to my reference to advice given by a legal officer. I have to state that Government have always considered that any opinion given to them by their legal officers is confidential.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Does the Honourable the General Member wish to say that the advice given by the legal officer is confidential ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Yes, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : In giving my ruling I should like to bring to the notice of honourable members a few points which are worthy of their notice in connection with a question like this, so that they may be guided in the future. My ruling on the last occasion was briefly this, that if any Member of Government refers to any document or correspondence and relies on that, then it is the privilege of the House to be in possession of it. One of my worthy predecessors, the late Sir Narayan Chandavarkar, has given a ruling on a similar point. He said :

" That is one of the rules strictly observed in the House of Commons and this House also has observed it, that a Government Member or a Government Minister is entitled not to give out a document which he considers privileged or which he thinks is confidential."

The House of Commons practice on which my predecessor relied is noted down here in Erskine May which is important and interesting. I shall read out portions from it :

" One of the rules and principles of debate may be added here. A Minister of the Crown is not at liberty to read or quote from a despatch or other State paper not before the House, unless he be prepared to lay it upon the table. "

That is the principle. Further :

" It has also been admitted that a document which has been cited ought to be laid upon the table of the House if it can be done without injury to the public interest. "

And further :

" The safeguards are that confidential documents or documents of a private nature passing between the officers of a department and the department cited in debate are not necessarily laid on the table of the House, especially if the Minister declares that they are of a confidential nature."

These are the principles to guide the House in a matter like this. The Honourable the General Member to-day makes a specific statement that the document in question is of a confidential nature, and, therefore, in accordance with these practices, I will not call upon him to place it on the Council table. The discussion to proceed.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Mr. President, I should have thought that my honourable and esteemed friend Mr. Nariman would have refrained from speaking on this motion as it has a direct bearing on him, or, if he had chosen to speak on it, he would have invited the House to confine itself to the facts and circumstances as they are stated in the magistrate's judgment and the notification or the resolution issued by Government on the question of paying the costs to Mr. Harvey. But he has preferred to play in this House the role of a pleader in his own case, and possessing, as he does, one of the supposed gifts of an able and competent lawyer, the gift of mystification, I do not know whether he has not succeeded in mystifying the real issues involved in this matter. Sir, it is absolutely essential that this House should realise the two issues, the only issues, involved in this matter and confine itself to a consideration of those issues, and those issues only. The maladministration of the Development Department has given rise, and to a very large extent justifiably given rise, to so much feeling that I should not be surprised if it becomes extremely difficult for many men, both honourable members in this House and others outside the House, to bring an open and dispassionate mind to bear upon the particular issues which we have got to decide to-day. Sir, as you have rightly pointed out, there are, really speaking, only two important issues, and I want to begin my statement of the views on those two issues with a consideration of the first, namely, whether the allegations made by Mr. Nariman against Mr. Harvey have been proved. I would just ask honourable members to refer to the statement which has been supplied to us by Government on the question of this demand. In that statement we find this statement:

> "Government decided that a suit against Mr. Nariman should be instituted at their cost, but subject to the condition that in the event of the complaint being dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations the costs should be borne by Mr. Harvey."

There is that expression "due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations." Obviously, the words "allegations" can mean allegations against Mr. Harvey. So, the first issue is: Have the allegations against Mr. Harvey made by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman been proved? Now, on this point, I do not think that even my honourable friend Mr. Nariman would contend, having regard to the clear findings of the magistrate on that point, I do not think that he would venture to contend for one moment that his allegations against Mr. Harvey have been proved. In dealing with this aspect of the matter Mr. Nariman asked us to go behind the judgment and take his word, his own word, that he has amply succeeded in proving his allegations against Mr. Harvey. Will it be right for us to set aside the distinct and considered findings of a magistrate on this point and accept the word of the honourable member Mr. Nariman, however esteemed and respectable he may be, and though we all feel great admiration for him and for his public spirit, will it be right for us to set aside the distinct finding of the magistrate on this important issue and accept Mr. Nariman's own word that he has amply succeeded in proving his allegations against Mr. Harvey? What are the facts with regard to this point? There can be no doubt that he makes serious allegations against Mr. Harvey in the evidence he presented before the Mears Committee. There are, in particular, two important and serious allegations made by him against Mr. Harvey, in one of which it is distinctly stated on the strength of rumours afloat about the working of the Development Department that Mr. Harvey, as one of the higher officers, was guilty of corruption.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: It is a wrong statement.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN: If honourable members would refer to page 8 of the judgment copies of which have been supplied to them and would refer to the charge as framed against Mr. Nariman, they would find:

"That before the Back Bay Enquiry Committee amongst other statements you made the following statements:—

'I may tell Government quite frankly and openly that there are ugly rumours in the city and the whole of the Presidency that higher staff and officers have been receiving secret commissions from manufacturers and this is the reason why in this instance the Department has incurred a loss of three lakhs of rupees. That is the reason why stores are indented in large quantities than are necessary and stores that are not required are also ordered out.'"

Now, Mr. Harvey is admittedly a member of the higher staff, a higher officer, and here is a distinct statement made of ugly rumours prevalent in the city and in the whole presidency that he, one of the higher staff and one of the officers, has been receiving secret commissions from manufacturers and this is the reason why in this particular instance the department has incurred a loss of three lakhs of rupees. There is this distinct allegation of corruption, of receiving secret commissions from manufacturers, against Mr. Harvey. Then later on, on page 9 of the printed judgment supplied to honourable members, you find:

5. I say it is intentional. From the circumstances I can say it was not a mistake.

6. These surplus stores were ordered in order that certain manufacturers might make some earning out of this order. As far as I can see there is no other explanation. Otherwise these stores would not have been ordered to be used as scrap iron.

These statements, if they amount to anything at all, can only amount to serious allegations of corruption, of dishonest intention, dishonest conduct on the part of Mr. Harvey. These are the allegations made by Mr. Nariman. My honourable friend Mr. Nariman, in his speech yesterday, as a shrewd and clever lawyer, tried to make a distinction between statements, allegations and inferences which he drew. What he said was that he made the statement that the change in the figure as regards the indent was made by Mr. Harvey. According to him, that was a statement which he made and he says that it was his inference that that change was made out of ulterior motives with dishonest intentions. That is the distinction between what he calls statements and inferences which he sought to make. It is no doubt a very subtle distinction which does credit to a subtle lawyer, but it is a distinction which will not help him. If I make a particular statement and if from that statement I also draw a particular inference and declare that inference, publish that inference, that inference also becomes a statement, and no such distinction as is sought to be made out by Mr. Nariman between a statement and an inference drawn from the statement can be reasonably made. At all events, it cannot help him in a court of law in that particular kind of prosecution instituted against him. So, it comes to this, that certain serious allegations questioning the bona fides and the honesty of Mr. Harvey were made by Mr. Nariman and there is the distinct finding of the magistrate that these particular allegations against Mr. Harvey have not been proved. I do not think my honourable friends, after they have gone through the judgment, will question the statement that I am making. Mr. Nariman also cannot deny that there is the distinct finding of the magistrate that he has failed to substantiate, these allegations which he has made against Mr. Harvey, that they have not been proved. On that point our minds ought to be quite clear and I do not think there can be any legitimate room for a difference of opinion as regards this issue. Bearing that fact in mind and having regard to the resolution which Government have issued in connection with the matter, the wording of which I have already read out to you, does it not follow then that since the allegations against Mr. Harvey have not been proved, Government must bear the cost of the prosecution? Will it be right, will it even be possible, for Government to ask Mr. Harvey to bear the cost? Suppose Government to-morrow writes to Mr. Harvey and says "Pay the cost, Rs. 60,800. You must bear that cost. Pay it." Mr. Harvey will say "The allegations against me have not been proved. I flatly refuse to pay the amount. In accordance with the resolution which Government have issued on the subject, the amount must be borne by Government, and Mr. Harvey, in terms of this resolution and having regard to the findings of the magistrate, cannot be legally and justly saddled with this cost.

I have so far considered the first issue, but, Sir, it is perfectly open to us, the honourable members of this House, to refuse to sanction this amount if we hold that Government were not justified in permitting Mr. Harvey to institute a criminal complaint against the honourable member, Mr. Nariman.

Some honourable members may perhaps be under the impression that, if this grant is made, it would amount to our approval of the policy of the Development Department, it will amount to an approval of what has been done by the Development Department. It means nothing of that kind. Our acceptance of this grant will not and does not mean that we approve or in any way condone the misdeeds, the mal-administration of the Development Department. But, if we sanction this grant, it does mean that we approve of the policy and the action of the Government in permitting Mr. Harvey to institute a complaint against the honourable member Mr. Nariman. And therefore, it becomes necessary for us to consider the second issue, namely, whether the Government were justified in giving Mr. Harvey permission to institute a criminal prosecution against the honourable member Mr. Nariman.

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

With due reference to all those who may happen to differ from me, I beg to submit that Government, under the circumstances, and in view of all the facts I have already referred to were perfectly justified in permitting Mr. Harvey to institute a prosecution against the honourable member Mr. Nariman. What are the facts? I shall not repeat the statements which the honourable member Mr. Nariman made before the Mears Committee but there is one aspect of the case, as constituted by the facts, to which I desire to invite the attention of the honourable House, and to which I personally attach very great importance. Members of the Mears Committee, in their cross-examination of the honourable member Mr. Nariman, repeatedly asked him, repeatedly suggested to him that it might be a mistake. Member after member of the committee put to him (Mr. Nariman); well, it may be a mistake; it is just possible that it may be a mistake. And what does the honourable member reply? What is his reply? He repeatedly says that it was not a mistake; he repeatedly says that it is intentional. Well, while under cross-examination, if his answer had been "Yes, it is possible that it may be a mistake, but the change of figure and the ordering out of the bars that were not required might have been due to other reasons also. It may have been a mistake, but it may have been due to negligence, also to corruption," if that had been his reply; if he had said "Yes, I quite, agree that it may be a mistake, but I also suggest that it may be due to corruption, and I ask the committee to enquire into the matter thoroughly and to find out whether the mistake was a bona fide mistake, or whether it was an intentional mistake committed with ulterior motives;" if that had been the reply given by my honourable friend, and if, in that case, Government had sanctioned Mr. Nariman's prosecution, I would have strongly opposed the policy and the action of Government in doing so. The honourable member Mr. Nariman, after repeatedly being cross-examined on this question, like a brave man that he is, sticks to his guns and gives categorical and emphatic replies to the effect that he excludes every other theory, that he thinks, maintains, and asserts that the change must have been made from nothing but ulterior motives. That is how he puts the position before the Mears Committee. Now, Sir I regret very much that the Mears Committee did not enter into this question. I regret very much that, after having invited evidence on these matters, after having examined Mr. Nariman, and after also having examined the Honourable the General Member, the Mears Committee has not considered this question and given its findings thereon, and I have not the slightest hesitation in asserting that, to this extent, the Mears Committee has been guilty of a serious dereliction of duty.

But then, consider the position. What was the position, as it stood at the time? The position was that serious charges were made by an important and a responsible publicist, carrying great influence and weight, a member of this House, against a responsible and high officer of Government before a committee appointed by Government. Serious charges were made. What was Mr. Harvey to do? His clear duty was to take steps to clear his character, and supposing he had done nothing of the kind, it would have been the duty of Government to ask him to clear his character. If Government had not done so, I would have taken Government to task for not asking Mr. Harvey to clear his character. So, it was his clear and distinct duty to clear his character, to do all that he could to disprove the allegations made against him. Naturally, as a Government officer, he turns to Government and asks the permission of Government to institute the prosecution. Would it have been right on the part of the Government to refuse to grant the sanction under the circumstances ? An officer against whom serious charges are made writes to Government expressing his decision to clear his character, and in order to do that asks the permission of Government to institute a prosecution. There is before Government absolutely no alternative but to grant the sanction. The sanction is given, the prosecution is instituted, with what results we all know. I submit, therefore, that, under the circumstances, Government were perfectly right, perfectly justified in permitting Mr. Harvey to institute a prosecution against the honourable member Mr. Nariman. Well, Sir, the honourable member Mr. Nariman asked us again to go behind all these things, and he says that the prosecution instituted against him was a malicious prosecution. Sir, we, as members of this honourable House, as men of common sense, and as men also carrying on our shoulders the weight of serious responsibility, are competent to go and shall be justified in going into that aspect of the matter. The honourable member Mr. Nariman's contention is that the prosecution was not a bona fide prosecution, that it was a malicious prosecution instituted with the sole object of putting him down. Well, if such a charge of instituting a malicious prosecution had been made against any person other than any of the members of the present Government, I would perhaps have been inclined to believe in it. But what does this charge mean ? It means that my honourable friend Sir Cowasji Jehangir was actuated by the spirit of malice in sanctioning this prosecution, that his object in giving sanction was to put down an important, responsible and prominent politician and public man like my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. That is in fact the charge which Mr. Nariman makes against the Honourable the General Member. (An honourable member : Where does he make that charge ?) That is what it comes to, that the prosecution was instituted out of malicious motives. Well, Sir, I refuse to accept that, and I refuse to believe that in sanctioning the prosecution, in giving permission to Mr. Harvey to prosecute Mr. Nariman, my honourable friend Sir Cowasji Jehangir could have been actuated by any bad intention or motive, that he could have been actuated or influenced by any other consideration than that of giving Mr. Harvey an opportunity of clearing his character. I do not think any unworthy motive could have actuated the Honourable Sir Cowasji Jehangir in giving the sanction. I therefore do not accept, and I would ask honourable members not to accept, the suggestion which has been made by the honourable member Mr. Nariman that this prosecution was instituted with the intention of putting him down.

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

I have, Sir, dealt with most of the important points arising out of this matter. But I look at the matter from a larger point of view, and perhaps, at any rate, some of the members of this House will also be persuaded to look at this matter from a larger point of view. After all this prosecution has been a blessing in disguise. (An honourable member: There we agree). After all, it has resulted in doing good. No doubt my honourable and esteemed friend Mr. Nariman has had to pass many months of anxiety; the prosecution has no doubt absorbed for several months his time and his energies, and it has resulted in putting him to great professional loss and also in causing him considerable mental distress. I am quite prepared to concede all that. But my honourable and esteened friend Mr. Nariman has had his reward in the admiring and loving eyes of his countrymen, in the admiration and love of the rising younger generation, the rising youth of this city and the presidency he has had his reward. And I only hope it had been possible and it would be possible for Government, for my honourable friend the Member in charge of the General Department, or the Member in charge of the Home Department, or the Member in charge of the Finance Department, whoever he may be, to come forward with a supplementary demand for a grant to be made to Mr. Nariman in recognition of the yeoman's, undoubtedly yeoman's, services which he has rendered to the cause of the purity of public administration. He has risen distinctly in the estimation of the public, and if something of this kind could be done it will meet with the approval, I am sure, of the honourable members of this House. My honourable friend from Satara (Mr. B. V. Jadhav) has tabled a resolution practically amounting to that, and I hope it will be possible for him to obtain priority to that resolution over every other non-official bu. iness. This is a kind of prosecution which has resulted in doing so much public good that the public exchequer ought to bear the cost of either side. (An honourable member: Share half and half.) I think Government will be justified in paying Mr. Nariman, as they will be justified in paying Mr. Harvey.....(Laughter).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the honourable member is digressing.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN: There is no doubt a digression, but it is such a pleasant digression that it has, at any rate, brought the House to good humour. (laughter). But, Sir, confining myself to the distinct issue involved in this case, I for one have not the least doubt that the action of Government in granting permission to Mr. Harvey to prosecute Mr. Nariman is justified, and in view of the resolution issued on the subject of the cost, there is absolutely no alternative but to pay Mr. Harvey his cost.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, I wish to deal quite dispassionately, without any regard either to the personality of the honourable member Mr. Nariman or the personality of the Honourable the General Member in front of us, on the two points that have been really the points for consideration in this debate. I will take first the last point touched upon by my honourable friend the speaker who preceded me, that is, the policy of Government in sanctioning the prosecution in the way they have done. Now, what is the genesis of these proceedings? It will be seen that the honourable member Mr. Nariman had been ventilating the grievances of the people in this Council. He had not gone outside this Council; he had been doing it from the floor of this House. Well, as a result of the exposures that were made, the Mears Committee came to be appointed. He was summoned before that committee and he was forced to give a statement. He submitted a written statement and when called upon to appear personally he did appear and give his evidence. Honourable members are already aware of the evidence that he gave. Mr. Nariman did not make the insinuation in the way the honourable member who preceded me seemed to convey he did. If we read the evidence which he gave before the Committee as well as the written statement which has been summarised in the judgment of the learned magistrate (a copy of which has been submitted to honourable members), and see the allegations made and the circumstances under which the statement came to be made, it will be seen that it was with the greatest reluctance and under the closest cornering that Mr. Nariman was compelled to make the statement that he did about suggesting ulterior motives. I shall come to it later on, when I deal with the second point. For the present suffice it to say that under these circumstances before the members of the Mears Committee when pressed he had the courage to say, that it must not have been a mistake. You will also find that from the findings of the learned magistrate. I may ask the honourable members on both sides to take the finding of the magistrate as it is, without going outside the finding given by the magistrate in this respect. There the magistrate has stated that it was not a mistake, but it was done deliberately. There is no explanation of it forthcoming. Very well, but I would ask this House: "Was not my honourable friend, Mr. Nariman, justified in sticking to his guns and saying that it could not be a mistake?" His conscience was clear, the information which he had received was there and in view of these facts how can he say that it was a mistake? He cannot say that it was done through a mistake. He, therefore, stuck to his guns and he said that it was done intentionally. He was therefore pressed by one of the members of the Mears Committee to say as to why it was done. He then said that it must have been done with some ulterior motive. I shall read chapter and verse, when I shall deal with the second point. Now I am on the point as to the policy of Government in sanctioning the prosecution of my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. I want to say whether the course adopted was a better one or any other course. I am on that point now. The Mears Committee had before them the evidence which opened the eyes of the Government of Bombay and the Government of Bombay was also in possession of the information received from no less a respectable man than an honourable member of this House. That information was before them already. That information was repeated in the evidence given before the Mears Committee, specially appointed to investigate the matter. Under these circumstances I would ask "Was it not the duty of Government to set afoot an investigation ?" I have got experience of 35 years as a pleader, as an advocate and also as a public prosecutor in my own district. And I can say that whenever any information is received specially on the charges of corruption, it is not the practice to call upon the informant to come forward and prove those charges or to sanction a prosecution of that informant. It is the duty of the party concerned to investigate the matter. On the charges of corruption I know out of 100 cases, in 99 cases it is very difficult to prove those charges. In the present instance, Government were concerned, and it was their duty to investigate and find out how far the information is correct. There are so many C.I.D. officers at their disposal, and they would have found no difficulty in investigating the matter. They ought to have tried to find out what is at the bottom of the information. If there were so many charges made against their officer, I think at least Government ought to have investigated one or two of the charges and brought them into a court of law. But Government did not do so, and they launched a prosecution against the informant. In the charges of corruption, as I have said, it is very difficult to obtain the necessary information without the help and assistance of the Government agency. But Government would have been able to get information without much trouble. It was not a very difficult task for them to investigate the matter. Therefore, I submit that the proper course for them was to investigate. If so much evidence was produced in the court of law by a private individual, would it not have been possible for Government to secure more evidence on this question ? But no effort was made by Government to investigate the matter. If they had done so, it would have been in the interest of their own servant and also the general public who were clamouring for the investigation. But Government did not choose to do so, and the Mears Committee refused to go into the question too.

There was another point. Mr. Harvey made an application to Government for a sanction to prosecute the honourable member Mr. Nariman. When this application was received, what did Government do ? They gave him a sanction. I submit, Sir, that when a prosecution has to be launched against any person, what is generally done is that a notice is first served on that person. In the present case it was necessary for Government to send a notice to the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, stating that Mr. Harvey wants their sanction to prosecute him for the allegations. But Government did not send any notice at all. Before giving the sanction, they ought to have satisfied themselves by investigation. If after investigation they had found that there was no truth in the allegations, then they should have given a sanction to the prosecution. They did not do that, but they simply took a legal advice. What can a legal officer say on the mere information ? He will simply say that the statement is defamatory. There was no actual evidence before the legal officer and without that evidence, he will not be able to say whether it would be possible to get a conviction or not. So, under these circumstances the obtaining of legal opinion was not a proper course at all. But Government chose to put my honourable friend Mr. Nariman on his defence and made him an accused person. My learned friend from Nasik stated that it was a blessing in disguise.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : How do you know that Government did not make any investigations ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : We were not told that the investigations were made after the application was received. Without investigations, to give sanction to any private person or to the Government servant is not the right way in the interest of the public. I know all public prosecutions are at the cost of the public, and any amount of expenditure really is worth having if it is necessary in the public interest to expose and punish officers or at least to show that there was no case, whatever it is. But there must be an investigation and a trial. Do you mean to say that the materials which could be brought before the court by Mr. Nariman, a private person, unaided by any police or Government agency, if such materials disclose a case for being led into a court, was it not the duty of Government to make an investigation ? The Honourable the General Member asks me " How do you know that investigation was not made ? " The very fact that you did not institute a single prosecution against a single man, in spite of the disclosures, itself shows that there was no investigation and that, if there was an investigation, it was not worth the name, because there was your Government agency, whose arms are long, whereas a single individual like Mr. Nariman has been able to place before the magistrate such an amount of material from which you can see that there was ample material for prosecution. Therefore, I do say that, if there had been any investigation worth the name, the result would have been out and before the public. Hence I submit, Sir, as far as the policy of Government is concerned, they are fully justified, in the interests of its own servants or in the interests of the public, to undertake prosecutions once for all in true cases. But what was done here was this. They followed the easiest method of benefiting at the cost of others, because by asking Mr. Harvey to prosecute Mr. Nariman, for defamation, Mr. Nariman was put in a doubly disadvantageous position, because the burden of proving was on him. If he had been prosecuted for false information it would have been much better, because in that case the burden of proving would have been upon the prosecution that he knew the information to be false. But here, he is prosecuted for defamation, where the prosecution has nothing to do except to put forward the paper or the statement which contained the defamatory allegations, and say " Come along, prove your allegations, prove your good faith, prove the truth of your allegations." Whatever the difficulties, the entire onus, the entire burden, is shoved on to the defendant. And I wonder why an enormous expenditure was incurred in engaging a special counsel in a defamation case. I know cases of bribery against officers are difficult to prove, and the assistance of eminent counsel is often necessary. But in a case like this, the burden was really placed upon poor Mr. Nariman, and now he is taken to task for not having proved the allegations which he had made. And that brings me to the first point, as to the legal interpretation. I do admit that that is a question of purely legal interpretation of the judgment of the magistrate. I am not going outside the judgment. But, there, too, I have read and re-read the judgment of the learned magistrate, and I feel convinced and I do hope that even here, members on this side and that side of the House, legal members, members with knowledge of law, will come to see what the findings of the magistrate are and see if the findings do not satisfy the requirements of the order, such as it is. The order has been read out to you. Then, the only question is whether the allegations of Mr. Nariman are proved. Now, the allegations of Mr. Nariman are set out in detail on pages 11 and 12 (I have got the copy of the papers placed on the Council table), (Mr. K. M. Munshi: Printed pages 8 and 9), and they are made the subject of the charges. So, the charges are nine in number, categorically stated, and after stating the charges categorically, the learned magistrate deals with the first charge at some length. I shall come to it later. But the other charges 2 to 9 have been disposed of very shortly and I shall first of all dispose of these. Now, what is the second charge? The second charge is:

"In one instance an Executive Engineer had prepared an indent to be forwarded to manufacturers at Home for a large quantity of mild steel bars for concrete piles for the reclamation work and the size mentioned in the original indent by the Executive Engineer was 5/8". This figure was subsequently altered after the indent was prepared but before it was despatched by the Superintending Engineer into 7/8". The quantity required was about 1,200 tons costing nearly three lakhs of rupees. The indent thus altered was sent by the Superintending Engineer to the Home firm and the bars arrived of the size and dimensions of 7/8" which were not required for the works. They were deposited in Matunga Surplus Depôt and a fresh indent had to be sent with correct specifications and fresh consignments arrived and the amount of nearly three lakhs of the first consignment was purely wasted. When a question was raised about it in the Council in the course of a debate the Development Director admitted it but stated that the said alteration was due to a trifling error. No effort was made to explain how such a 'trifling error' could have occurred....."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What point is the honourable member trying to make?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I will just finish the quotation, it is nearly finished:

"No effort was made to explain how such a 'trifling error' could have occurred particularly when the indent was originally correctly prepared by the Engineer and deliberately altered by the sueprior and no explanation was forthcoming."

Now, on that second charge, the learned magistrate at the end of his judgment has found,—I shall read the finding:

"The second charge by itself is not defamatory. At first the prosecution case was that it was due to a 'trifling error' or 'mistake' of the supervisor or some staff that '5' was changed into '7'. If that had been proved it might have been argued that the accused in denying that it was due to a 'trifling mistake' suggested corruption. But I have already held that it was not an alteration made by mistake in writing the figure '5/8'. The order for '$\frac{7}{8}$' bars was a deliberate addition made in the indent sent in by Hamid and that it was a blunder for which a true explanation is not forthcoming. The inaccurate statements made by the accused in this part of his statement are first that the bars cost 3 lakhs whereas they were of the value of 2½ lakhs or so; the other inaccuracies are the suggestions that all these ¾" bars were deposited in the Matunga Depôt, that the amount of nearly 3 lakhs was purely wasted, and that fresh indent had to be prepared. By themselves these statements cannot be said to be defamatory."

Now, Sir, on the question whether in the indent "5" was changed into "7" by the Superintending Engineer, that is the third count, this is what the magistrate says:

"In the third charge the statement made by the accused cannot be said to be false. In one sense '5' could not be said to have been changed into '7' by the Superintending Engineer but the addition was made at the instance of the Superintending Engineer."

That is to say, when a man says "Change 5 into 7" and another man does it at his instance, his physical hand may not be there, but the brain is. It was at his instance and it was at his direction that this alteration was made. So, if Mr. Nariman made the allegation that the alteration was made by the Superintending Engineer, it was not false.....(Interruption).....I submit that people outside have no first hand knowledge, and we have got to see whether the statement is held by the magistrate to be substantially true or not, and from that point of view, I am just reading the magistrate's finding and nothing else. You can judge for yourselves.

Now, then, comes the other portion, that is to say, the fourth count. The fourth allegation is: "I do not agree that a mistake was made. It was not made in the original preparation of the indent but in a properly prepared indent, figures are altered subsequently." That is the fourth statement. The magistrate says that this statement standing by itself cannot be said to be defamatory, that Mr. Nariman was not aware of the real facts, that in fact the statement was made by him on information received by him which he had no reasons to disbelieve; that besides, the complainant himself changed his story from time to time in trying to explain how the figure "7/8" came to be written as appears from statements made in the Council and before the Committee. This is also found in favour of Mr. Nariman.

Then the fifth statement is "I say it is intentional. From the circumstances I can say it was not a mistake." The magistrate says:

"Charges Nos. 4 and 5 are statements made by Mr. Nariman to questions put to him by the Committee. They are repetitions of his statements referred to by Mr. Nariman that the alteration could not be due to a 'trifling mistake.' Standing by themselves they could not be held to be defamatory in view of my finding that the order of ¾" bars was not due to a 'trifling error' on the part of a scribe or some staff."

So, the magistrate holds that it was not a mistake, that it was not the result of a mistake but it was intentional, as I have already read out to you.

Then comes the charge No. 6:—"These surplus stores were ordered in order that certain manufacturers might make some earning out of this order. As far as I can see there is no other explanation.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Otherwise these stores would not have been ordered to be used as scrap iron." On this sixth issue, the finding is :

" Charge No. 6 is an inference drawn by Mr. Nariman. It is a bona-fide inference and the complainant himself admits that it would be a legitimate inference to draw if wrong size bars were ordered. The statement that the stores were used as scrap iron is not true. A portion of this quantity was made use of by redesigning certain parts of the chawl."

The inference drawn by Mr. Nariman, the magistrate himself states, was legitimate.....

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Does the honourable member ask the House to believe that the magistrate did not understand his own judgment ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No, Sir. I am reading to the House the relevant portions of the judgment. It has been made much of by saying that we must go by the magistrate's judgment. I say that the magistrate has accepted the statements or allegations made by Mr. Nariman in so many respects. That is my point, and you will be better able to understand it if I go on reading the relevant portions of the judgment. Here we must distinguish between an inferential allegation and an allegation of fact. As regards this charge the magistrate says :

" Charge No. 6 is an inference drawn by Mr. Nariman. It is a bona-fide inference and the complainant himself admits that it would be a legitimate inference to draw if wrong size bars were ordered. The statement that the stores were used as scrap iron is not true. A portion of this quantity was made use of by redesigning certain parts of the chawl."

Then I come to charge No. 7 :—" The altered indent was sent to the Home Manufacturers by the Superintending Engineer." As to this, the magistrate says :

" The statement in charge No. 7 is inaccurate if the Superintending Engineer referred to is Mr. Harvey, but it would be a correct statement if the Superintending Engineer referred to Sykes. For it was he who had to place orders with the Home Manufacturers through the High Commissioner. Standing by itself it could hardly be considered as defamatory."

Then I come to charge No. 8 :—" The indent was altered by the Superintending Engineer." As regards this, the finding of the magistrate is as follows :

" The statement made in charge No. 8 is inaccurate to this extent that the alteration was made by the Superintending Engineer. The indent was altered at the instance of the Superintending Engineer and that by adding the quantity of $\frac{7}{8}$" bars to the original indent."

So, substantially that statement is also correct. Then I come to the last and the most important question. It was a question by Mr. Billimoria, a member of the Mears Committee, and to it an answer was given by Mr. Nariman. The question was :—" Do you suggest any ulterior motive ? " The answer by Mr. Nariman was :—" Yes." On this answer has been founded the whole theory of the allegations of corruption and the learned magistrate says :

" Charge No. 9 is a matter of inference."

Exactly, that is to say, that Mr. Nariman drew an inference when he said that he suggested an ulterior motive. That was an inferential statement.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Now, then, the whole question is reduced to this, whether any portion of the charge that refers to this matter is really one that Mr. Nariman has proved. What happens, Sir, in this judgment is that the learned magistrate and perhaps other honourable members and the public in general are rather confusing the pleas Mr. Nariman put forward in the case in defending himself with the specific allegations which alone could be made the subject of the charge. He may put forward several pleas in arguments, he may make any number of allegations in arguments saying that corruption was rampant, and he may bring forward evidence also. Remember, Sir, that Mr. Nariman was on the defence. So, he may put up any number of pleas by way of defence. He may say that there was general corruption everywhere ; he may bring forward evidence and yet he may not be able to prove that corruption but the charge was limited to this particular statement in which he said " Yes " in answer to a question which was actually a leading question, namely, " do you suggest any ulterior motive ? " Therefore, it is necessary to examine this. The learned magistrate in the first part of his judgment has devoted a considerable space to the discussion of the first exception which was quoted by Mr. Nariman. But, I ask honourable members to remember that this question of an ulterior motive is not a question of an allegation of fact but really a question of inferential allegation, meaning to say that Mr. Nariman drew a certain inference and in support of that inference he relied upon certain facts and circumstances. Therefore, if he has proved those facts and circumstances, certainly he has proved the allegation.....

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : The judgment is wrong ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Who says ? Read the judgment carefully. We are asked to go by the judgment. I do not want to go an inch beyond the judgment. The judgment is divided into two parts, first, the question of justification, namely, truth. That is the first part. There is no question about the truth of this inferential allegation which has been the subject of this inquiry. The magistrate has gone into the question of corruption generally because it was pleaded as an additional defence. Having come to the conclusion that that justification is not proved, the magistrate then goes on to consider this question from another point of view, namely, whether the inference was founded on facts and circumstances and here we come to the question of good faith. Good faith means nothing more nor less than proving the circumstances and the facts upon which this inference by Mr. Nariman was based. If, therefore, the facts and circumstances, which led Mr. Nariman to form that inference and give expression to that inference in answer to a question from the member of the committee, are such as would reasonably lead him to draw that inference, then good faith is sufficiently established. Really speaking, the allegation amounts to an inferential allegation, and I do submit that the interpretation of the Government order ought to be liberal. What do you mean by saying that the complaint failed due to Mr. Nariman proving the allegation ? There are allegations of fact and allegations of inference because the magistrate draws a distinction between inferential allegations and allegations of fact. An inferential allegation means an allegation based upon certain facts and circumstances. The ulterior motive may be anything. It may be due to several things, for instance the ulterior motive need not necessarily mean corruption. It may be due to an intention to oblige a friend. If I state that 7/8" bars were ordered when 5/8" bars were wanted, the ulterior motive need not necessarily and exclusively be a motive of corruption. I submit it may include other things than corruption; I admit it may include corruption, that is to say, for the purpose of taking bribes for oneself. The change may be due to negligence, to miscalculation. I have read the judgment of the magistrate, and my point is that the ulterior motive need not necessarily mean corruption.

I now come to the last portion of the judgment where the magistrate sums up his findings and also deals with the question of corruption. It will be seen that after dealing with the evidence of Manekchand Jivraj (page 49), the magistrate says on page 51 of the printed judgment:

"Taking into consideration all the above facts, viz., the existence of ugly rumours, complaints of individuals to Nariman about their being made to pay bribes, the ordering of wrong size bars, the excessive quantity, the wrong and contradictory explanation in the Council," etc., etc.

My learned friend who preceded me said that Mr. Nariman had stated that he had proved the first portion of the charge as regards the existence of ugly rumours. He did not say that it was proved or anything of the kind. He himself stated that the charge as framed merely stated the existence of ugly rumours. If there are ugly rumours, that statement does not by itself mean an allegation. It was stated that there were ugly rumours, and the magistrate holds that that is proved, and it is admitted even by Mr. Harvey that there were ugly rumours. So, the existence of ugly rumours is a matter which is proved. Whether the rumours are true or not is another matter, but there were ugly rumours, as has been admitted by the magistrate. He says in his judgment:

"Taking into consideration all the above facts, viz., the existence of ugly rumours, complaints of individuals to Nariman about their being made to pay bribes, the ordering out of wrong size bars, the excessive quantity, the wrong and contradictory explanations in the Council in Exhibit A and Exhibit 149, the sale of these bars at a very lower price than that fixed by Government, Maneckchand Jivraj's representation that he had paid commission to the Development Department and the actual payment of commission to certain officers could it be said that the accused did not act in 'good faith' when he inferred that the 'higher staff of officials' was corrupt?"

No doubt, these circumstances, therefore, have been held proved. If these circumstances are held proved, then I submit that the honourable member Mr. Nariman has proved his allegations which gave rise to his inference. Therefore, the allegation is also proved, according to the findings of the magistrate. That being so, I appeal to honourable members to consider this question from a legal point of view. Read the judgment. The first part of the judgment should be separated from the second part. I do not think I should take up the time of the House in going through the first part of the judgment which deals with the matter of justification. But there are statements even in that portion of the judgment which support the contention that the allegation as regards ulterior motive was based upon facts, and those facts have been proved. If that is so, I do submit that here is an opportunity for Government to ask Mr. Harvey (who is a servant under the Government of Madras, which is under the Government of India, and he has to run 13 years of service yet), on this interpretation of the judgment, because the honourable member Mr. Nariman has proved his allegations, to recoup Government for the money that has been spent on the case. It is as a protest that this Council has to express its opinion, and on both grounds, that is to say, on the question of policy as well as on the merits, I do hope that the honourable members of this Council will not pass the grant.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI (Bombay University): Mr. President, I do not propose to convert the bar of this House into the bar of a judicial tribunal, and I do not propose to discuss the matter as if it lay within your power to decide this evening whether the allegations which the honourable member Mr. Nariman made are proved in the sense in which honourable members urge that they are proved. To my mind, Sir, there are only two questions before the House, as we are more concerned with the public policy of this grant rather than with the legal technicalities with which the patience of this House has been overburdened. The first point, to my mind, Sir, is this: Should we —by we I mean the House—drive the Honourable the General Member into filing a suit against Mr. Harvey for the costs and being met with the defence of the Government Resolution which has been placed before the House? The second point is this: the moneys have been spent, and if the House does not give the grant, there are two courses open to the Honourable the General Member—either he gets its restoration duly certified by His Excellency, or he goes and files a suit against Mr. Harvey. The question, therefore, before the House, is, is he to be driven to this alternative? Sir, on the first question, in a House where there are a number of legal luminaries from Bombay and elsewhere you will never find unanimity as regards the questions which have been mooted in this House, I do not propose to say, as has been done by my predecessors, one a pleader from Nasik and the other a pleader from Satara, that there is no doubt in either of the respective contentions which they have placed before us.

Sir, I sincerely wish my honourable friend Mr. Nariman had not spoken. Sir, this is not a question between Government on the one hand and the honourable member Mr. Nariman on the other. It is not a question between Government which wants to victimise the honourable member Mr. Nariman and the victim that is protesting. It is a question really and simply of this: Government having sanctioned the prosecution, should they be given the expenses or is there any ground of public policy on which this House can say "We shall not do it?" The result of my honourable friend Mr. Nariman's speech has been that the whole of this unfortunate matter has been brought again before the floor of this House. I hope and trust that I shall escape its infection.

[Mr. K. M. Munshi]

As regards the first point, I do not say that there are conclusive arguments one way or the other. But I do feel, that after having very carefully perused the papers which were made available to me—I do not know what other papers have been placed before my honourable friend the learned Advocate General—I do feel that this is a case in which Government, instead of taking up the attitude which they propose to take, should have the thing settled by a judicial tribunal whether the allegations which have been made have been proved according to this judgment. I will shortly deal with the reason. The Government Servants' Conduct Rule says :

"A Government servant may not, without the previous sanction of the local Government have recourse to any court or to the press for the vindication of his public acts or character from defamatory attacks. In granting sanction to the recourse to a court the local Government will in each case decide whether it will itself bear costs of the proceedings or whether the Government servant shall institute the proceedings at his own expense, and if so, whether in the event of a decision in his favour, the Government shall reimburse him to the extent of the whole or any part of the costs."

Now, Sir, in this connection, I may only point out that the latter part of this rule relates only to the decision in favour of the Government official. With regard to the Government Resolution which has given the sanction in this matter, the point is whether the qualified sanction which was given was within the purview of this rule. Now, I may draw the attention of honourable members to the fact that the word used in the rule is "decision," while the Government Resolution uses the words "if the complaint is dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations." Now, Sir, this case, it is sought to be made out, does not depend upon the decision, but it depends upon whether the allegations have been proved or not irrespective of the decision and the question does arise, and I say directly arises whether, according to the terms of the contract with Mr. Harvey, Government are entitled to qualify the rule in the manner in which they have qualified it in Mr. Harvey's favour. Sir, it may be that a judicial tribunal may come to the conclusion that this particular resolution was within the scope of the rule. But it is a question which, in justice and in fairness to this House and to the presidency, the Government must place before a judicial tribunal.

Sir, proving allegations is not the same as a "decision." Decision is the ultimate result of the proceedings. The allegations are what are made in the course of the decision. And therefore when the rule distinctly says "decision" it does not cover a conditional resolution like the one which has been passed by Government in this case.

Sir, then the next point, which has already been covered to a certain extent by the honourable member who spoke before me, is whether the allegations in this case are proved. Now, Sir, when there is about 54 pages of printed judgment it would be too much for anybody, except a judicial tribunal, to definitely pronounce whether the allegations have been duly and properly proved. I find from the judgment, sometimes to my amusement, contradictory statements which are difficult for me to reconcile. Therefore it is necessary that in paying such a large sum as Rs. 65,000, in a matter in which there is so much heat and so much of controversy, Government should not take the responsibility of deciding it by a majority of votes or by the opinion of their legal officers, but should take the opinion of a court, by originating summons or any other procedure that may be available to them, whether in this particular case Mr. Harvey is entitled under the contract of his service to these particular costs that are attempted to be given to him.

Sir, some of my honourable friends have maintained that the allegations have been proved. Now, Sir, some of them have stated them; I do not want to repeat them—but really there are three allegations. They have already been referred to; and I am not going to tire the patience of the House by quoting chapter and verse. The first is the existence of certain ugly rumours. It has been admitted by Mr. Velinkar who appeared for the Crown that the rumours did exist. That is one allegation. The second one is—you may read it over and over again, and yet it is the only important part—the second one is this, whether this order placed for the bars was a deliberate one, an intentional one, apart from the question of corrupt motive. The learned magistrate holds, and holds definitely, that it was a deliberate and intentional placing of the order. Then the third thing is with regard to ulterior motive. And the question to be considered, not by this House but by the judicial tribunal, is this: whether in view of the findings of the learned magistrate, when Mr. Nariman stated that it was with ulterior motives that an order was deliberately placed, he did make an allegation of corruption. Sir, my honourable friend from Nasik who made a vehement speech supporting this grant told this House with all the responsibility that his Atlantian shoulders could bear, that Mr. Nariman charged Mr. Harvey with corruption. I will only refer to page 41, where the learned magistrate says: "It has to be borne in mind that Mr. Nariman did not openly prefer a charge of corruption against Mr. Harvey." Therefore, the question is whether the words that he used "with ulterior motives" are such as would, in view of the findings of the learned judge, imply corruption, a charge which he did not openly prefer. To say, Sir, that that question is a question to be decided by the House of laymen or by the vote of the majority in this House, is absurd in the extreme. If Government is free and frank about the matter, they have got only one recourse and that recourse is to a judicial tribunal.....

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: Only this House could vote the expenditure.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: Expenditure is a different matter. The question is whether the House ought to vote for the grant under the existing conditions. And it is a question of the procedure adopted by Government in sanctioning the prosecution; it is also a question of the rights and privileges of a member of this House. After Mr. Nariman has been unsuccessfully prosecuted, to say that by an executive fiat or the vote of this House it should be decided whether the allegations were proved or not, I repeat, Sir, is absurd in the extreme. I do not say in any militant spirit of antagonism, but I make an humble request. Now that a judicial tribunal has done justice to Mr. Nariman, the Honourable the General Member should also do justice to this presidency by having it definitely decided by a judicial tribunal, whether Mr. Harvey is legally entitled to his costs even under the order which the Honourable the General Member made. It may be that it will decide against us, but the House will cheerfully vote the cost of the litigation—it could not be more than Rs. 500 if by an originating summons. If Government want more money, the citizens of Bombay will subscribe it. But let it not be said that the construction of a document like this was taken up in this House and was arrived at by a majority vote of this House.

Then, Sir, there is another aspect of the case, and that aspect is not a legal aspect. It has reference to the relation between the executive Government and an honourable member of this House. Sir, to my mind this is really an important question. Sir, the issue is this : whether the Honourable the General Member should be driven to adopt the other constitutional means of obtaining this money, namely, by a certificate and not by the vote of this House. Now, its decision turns not on anything connected with the Bombay Development Department, but on the conduct of the Honourable the General Member in connection with an honourable member of this House.

Sir, I want to make it clear at this stage that when I refer to the Honourable the General Member, I do not mean and do not intend the words to be meant as anything relating to the individual who happens to be the head of the department. Sir, in the remarks that I am going to make, when I say "the Honourable the General Member" I mean the department that he represents, the brains which advised and the cunning hand that worked behind the whole of the conduct of the executive with regard to an honourable member of this House.

Sir, the question as to this conduct shortly and simply put is this. Yesterday my friend the Honourable the General Member while addressing the House spoke about the feelings of Government when servants of the Crown are attacked. Sir, I fully appreciate, I fully endorse, the view that no sane Government can afford to neglect the reputation of its servants, that they should do everything to see that they are not victimised by any defamatory or vile attack at the hands of any person. But, Sir, the Honourable the General Member—and I use those words in the sense which I referred to before—the Honourable the General Member in connection with this prosecution has not come up to the expected mark to which one would have expected him and his department to come. Sir, the question is not between a private individual and the executive Government; the question is first and foremost between an officer of Government and an honourable member of this legislature. Sir, this legislature, I maintain, is as much an integral and perhaps more precious part of the Government than the executive or any other part and an honourable member of this House, however humble he may be, however humble the constituency he represents, is as great and ought to be considered by Government as respectable and as exalted as the highest officials on the other side of the table. Sir, honourable members are here at enormous cost; they are here at considerable sacrifice—their only consolation being a few lines in the papers: they are here in the discharge of a public duty which they have imposed upon themselves: and as representatives of the people in this House they are entitled to the same consideration and the same respect as Mr. Harvey or any official of Government.

Sir, the Honourable the General Member stood up to defend Mr. Harvey and asked "What would be the feelings of Government when Mr. Harvey was terrorised and victimised by the honourable member, Mr. Nariman in this way?" I have come into contact with but a few officers of the Crown and that too most of them in the highest service; and even with my limited experience, I am quite prepared to concede that generally the officers of the Crown maintain a high standard of efficiency, honour and integrity, and that in ordinary cases where they are defamed presumption of innocence should be raised in their favour rather than against them. But in this case, what was the kind of Government servant for whom the heart of Government began to melt so freely? Mr. Harvey was a Government servant, certainly; but what was he? Let us look at him—as the learned magistrate saw him. Mr. Harvey is a man who may not have been necessarily guilty of corruption. But says the learned magistrate: He may be one who may have placed the order either carelessly, negligently but deliberately—one who was guilty of dereliction of duty. This precious Mr. Harvey, gave to the Honourable the General Member incorrect answers for being given to this honourable House not once but twice. This Mr. Harvey, first of all in the course of the trial, said the wrong order was placed by a mistake of the draftsman. Then he altered his story like a third rate litigant in the street and said "We really required 7/8th bars and not 5/8th." This precious Government official wanted to prove at the trial that when he ordered $\frac{7}{8}$th bars, it was not a mistake; that he ordered out just the thing which was required by them. I shall read this part of the judgment, which is at page 17, in order to enable the honourable House to appreciate the difference between the Government servant and an honourable member of this House. It runs thus:

"Up to the 9th of April of last year the Prosecution case all along was that $\frac{5}{8}$" bars were required for foundation piles but by mistake 7/8" bars were ordered. On the 12th April the complainant while he was still under cross-examination stated to the Court that he wished to give certain explanation as regards the ordering out of these bars. His evidence was as follows: Since I gave evidence on 9th (April) I have spent a great deal of time in looking up the remaining documents and I have arrived at the correct explanation about these bars. My previous information was based on what I was told by my establishment and from documents then placed before me. I now have got certain documents which show who has committed the mistake. He then referred to Exhibits Z-3, Z-4, Z-5 and Z-6 and stated that his case was that 7/8" bars should have been ordered. So that the ordering of 7/8" bars was not a mistake."

This is the evidence of the government official whose honour the Honourable the General Member came out to defend. Now let us see what the decision of the learned magistrate is. It is given at page 27 of the judgment. It is as follows:

"Harvey's later suggestion or theory is in my opinion not warranted by the facts deposed to in the oral evidence of the witnesses both before me and the Committee, and is inconsistent with his subsequent conduct and the documents already referred to by me.

It is equally untrue to say that these wrong size bars were ordered on account of the mistake of the draftsman or supervisor or of some other person in putting down 7/8" instead of 5/8"."

Sir, after this I challenge any member of Government, any high official of Government, to own this Harvey as one of them.

Sir, and what has been done to protect the interests and the reputation of this favoured servant of the Crown? The honourable member, Mr. Nariman has already referred to certain facts in his speech yesterday. I submit, Sir, that it is the privilege of an honourable member of this House to ask for information from Government about things of which he has heard. That honourable member may not be correct. He may not have sufficient facts to prove them. But is it not his duty to ask questions to Government? Accordingly my honourable friend, Mr. Nariman, wanted some information from Government about these bars and he, therefore, asked for it legitimately. And what was the result? A foregone conclusion that this man, this persistent Nariman who was making imputations, should be punished. The Mears Committee was appointed, and it invited the honourable member Mr. Nariman to give his evidence. The honourable member did not go to give evidence himself; it was the Mears Committee which invited him to give evidence in relation to what he had stated as a privileged member of this House. And how was he treated? Sir Frederick Hopkinson was a determined man and he wanted to see the end. He asked the honourable member whether it was a mistake on the part of the official concerned, he at once stated that "I cannot take it as a mistake, I take it as unnecessary superfluous order." But this was not enough for Sir Frederick. I will just read a few questions of this gentleman and their answers.

"Q. Are your contentions confined to the Back Bay Scheme?

A. That would be covered by the three instances I have given. I have referred to number of others but as they do not come within the scope of the committee they may be left out.

Q. You cannot escape from what you have put down.

A. I do not wish to escape."

"You cannot escape." That was said by Sir Frederick Hopkinson: I do not know what was the honourable member going to escape from unless the querist had already spread his net. This was not enough. With reference to Mr. Nariman, an honourable member of this House—he asked "Is he the man who moves among the criminals in the Police Court?" Sir, no honourable member can tolerate such a treatment meted out by any member of the Government service however high he may be, or however high may be the committee of which he is a member. No honourable member of this House can take such a treatment lying down.

Immediately the next day Mr. Harvey applied to Government for sanction to prosecute the honourable member, Mr. Nariman. That sanction was granted by Government in terms which are very interesting. I will read them. It is in preliminary :

" If the statement referred to had been made in any other place, Government of Bombay would have without hesitation been prepared to sanction the prosecution which is in their power."

So, you find that Government was feeling helpless. The honourable member, Mr. Nariman, was privileged in making the statements here in this House and so Government could not do anything in that case !

" But since the statement has been made before the Committee appointed by the Government, they are prepared to sanction it.....".

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : It was in the power of the Government.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI : I have got it here and I shall read it again. It says :

" If the statement referred to had been made in any other place, the Government of Bombay would have without hesitation been prepared to sanction the prosecution which is in their power."

So, they wanted to but did not like to do it in this particular case.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Not that it was not in their power ; but they did not like to do it.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI : I know, Sir, the General Member's blood is up and still he is determined to vindicate the honour of this Government servant at any cost, at the cost of the reputation of any honourable member. Sir, then, I will read further :

" That Government has already fully explained the facts in answer to a question in the local Legislative Council, but that explanation has not prevented Mr. Nariman from repeating his allegations. "

So, the sole object of this sanction was to prevent the honourable member Mr. Nariman from repeating allegations, a substantial part of which he has proved. Then,

" In the opinion of the Governor in Council, it would be unfair to Mr. Harvey to refuse to give him the sanction asked for by him and thus enable him to have these allegations proved or disproved in a court of law. The officers of the Directorate have for years been subjected to Mr. Nariman's undeserved attacks and have shown exemplary patience in the face of them. "

So, the whole burden is : " Mr. Nariman is a persistent agitator, he has been troubling us ; down with him at any cost ! "

And, then, Sir, comes the resolution. Sir, instead of the reputation and the life of an honourable member and the thousands which the prosecution has cost, being at stake, if an ordinary 50 rupees bond had to be drawn up a third rate pleader of a fourth rate mofussil town would have used greater accuracy and skill. " The proceedings should be instituted at the cost of the Government, but if the complaint is dismissed due to Mr. Nariman having proved his allegations, the costs should be borne by Mr. Harvey," runs the Resolution ! Now, Sir, I ask you to refer to the Government Servants' Conduct Rules. The rules give two alternatives to Government—either to launch a prosecution themselves, or allow the officer to file a prosecution, the costs of which in certain circumstances the Government may bear. Why did they not follow the words of that rule ? Even if the decision went against Mr. Harvey, why have they been so kind, so lenient, to our favourite Mr. Harvey, to the gentleman I described before, so as to leave one more loophole ? Why this extra leniency in his favour ? Why were these words "due to Mr. Nariman having proved his allegations," which are exactly the words which have caused all this trouble to the Council, put in ? Why this exceptional feature in this case ? Who were the men who advised Government that these words should be put in ? Who was the man who drafted it in this way and not in the wording of rule 24 of the Government Servants Conduct Rules, and so inconsistently with it ?

Now, Sir, I will proceed further. After that, Sir, the trial commenced, and Mr. Nariman,—I should just refer to only one line in the judgment. page 43, which refers to the conduct of Government towards an honourable member of this House in the conduct of prosecution against him.

"Mr. Nariman has all along complained, and rightly complained, that he has been severely handicapped by the institution of this case long after the alleged transaction. Most important documents which could have thrown a flood of light, are missing."

and so on. That part of the judgment was already read by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. Now, Sir, is that the conduct, I ask, which an executive Government is entitled to adopt towards an honourable member of this House ?

I appreciate the feeling of any member of the Government towards its servants. But, Sir, there are feelings and feelings. There are feelings of a Cabinet Minister of the Crown towards his subordinate servants when a Member of Parliament has alleged certain things on a privileged occasion. Sir, there is also the other feeling which inspired a noble and mighty Pharao of Egypt who massacred large tribes because a tribesman laughed at the squint eye of a favoured Nubian slave. I ask, Sir, what would have been the consequences if the magistrate's decision had gone the other way ? Sir, on this occasion I must say that the magistrate who decided the judgment upheld to my mind the highest traditions of British justice that are known in this country. To come to this decision required great courage and great acumen. But, Sir, suppose he had been weak, or had come to a different conclusion. Where would the honourable member Mr. Nariman have been ? His life ruined ; his prospects blighted ; his career gone ; perhaps his professional status forfeited. And the evil spirits of the Bombay Development Department would have been dancing like cannibals on their mangled victim, shouting ' victory ' in the exultation of success, hugging Mr. Harvey as their great idol. This would have been the result. In any other civilised country, would Government have treated any member in the manner in which Mr. Nariman was treated ? To-day, they have done it in his case. To-morrow it can be done in the case of any other member, who dares to ask an unpleasant question in this House, and who furnishes details of it to Government outside. They might set the whole machinery of Government in motion, the whole Juggernath Car, to destroy their victim. Sir, it is purely providential that Mr. Nariman escaped this Juggernath Car. Anybody else would have been crushed.

[Mr. K. M. Munshi]

Sir, therefore, I submit it is not a question of legality. It is a question really of a constitutional right of a member of this House, a member of this House who made a privileged speech in this House was decoyed, was baited, into repeating the charges before the Mears Committee, and against whom, later the whole ponderous machinery of Government was set in motion in order that he may be prevented from making "attacks which the Bombay Development and Mr. Harvey have so patiently borne"! Now, that is, Sir, a question for this House to consider. And apart from the House, Sir, I appeal to the Government that in a matter like this they should not press this to the vote of this House. The majority can give them votes; but a majority vote can never give them the confidence, the respect of the people which the Government must always retain. It is not a question of officials against non-officials or a question of mud-slinging at the hands of the public. But the honourable members of this House have a right to expect from Government that they should not be treated as unwelcome outsiders, as persons coming here with nothing else to do except to come and oppose or criticise the Government officials. They are as much Government officials as any one of them on the other side, and it is their duty and their privilege to attack Government officers if they go wrong and try to bring them to book, and it is the duty of Government to hold the scales even and to see that the thing is investigated, and not to come forward to punish the man who had the courage, at the cost of his life and reputation, to stand up against the might of that Government. Sir, therefore, I appeal to the Honourable the General Member not to press this to the vote of the House. I know he can always succeed in a House like this, but it is not a question of a temporary success, it is a question where, as I say, the best solution out of the whole difficulty would be this: I for myself am prepared to accept the resolution, however bad it is, however outside of the scope of the rule I consider it is. Let this matter not be decided by a majority of the votes of this House or by merely the advice of the law officers, however great and learned they may be. For a Government it is not necessary that the correct thing should be done; it is necessary that the public should know that the thing has been done correctly. And that can only be done if my honourable friend, the General Member, with his usual integrity, with his usual fairness would say "Here is a question which I will not put to the vote of the House; we will get it decided by a judicial tribunal." If he says so, it is all right. If he does not, all I can say is that the Bombay Development Department, like a desolating pestilence, pollutes whatever it touches and that it has infected the fairness even of the Honourable the General Member.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Sir, after the treat that this House has got from the flourishes of so many distinguished liars (laughter).....

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI: The honourable member himself belongs to that group, I suppose.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: I do.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I hope the mishap was not intentional (laughter).

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: It was not intentional, Sir. I intended to say "Lawyers" (Laughter). I think I shall plainly state a few points for the consideration of this House. Nobody will question the high sense of duty and service which my honourable friend, the member for Bombay (South), Mr. Nariman, has shown in his service to the public by exposing the misdeeds of the Development Department, and I trust that when the resolution which I have tabled on this account comes to be discussed, this House will unanimously lend their support to it. The present is a demand for a supplementary grant covered by anticipated savings under the same budget head. The amount is Rs. 60,800, and the statement tells us that under ordinary circumstances Government need not have applied for the grant in this House as there was sufficient savings under the same head and Government could have sanctioned it on their own authority.....

Honourable Members: No, no.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: But they have chosen to treat it as a new item and have submitted this grant for the approval of this House. Now, Sir, Goverment in the General Department passed a resolution giving their sanction to the Defamation Case instituted by Mr. Harvey and Government in that resolution accepted the responsibility of the cost to be incurred with the proviso that in case Mr. Harvey was proved to be dishonest or corrupt, the whole of the amount should be recovered from him. It is a question raised in this House whether Mr. Harvey ought to pay the whole cost or whether he should be asked to pay it. I do not propose to go into the merits of the case. The case is for the decision of the Law Officers of the Crown or of the court of law if the question be referred to it. I do not think that I should presume to go into that question myself. Rightly or wrongly the Government resolution is there, and on the authority of that resolution an amount of Rs. 60,800 has been spent on account of the prosecution. The question now is whether under the present law the Government treasury is liable to be charged with this and I do not think that there will be any two opinions about it. The expenditure has been incurred and has been paid. A question may be raised whether the whole amount or any part of it can be recovered from Mr. Harvey. But Government has actually spent the amount, and I think that that sum is chargeable to the general revenues and this House has to consider whether it will not be right to sanction it.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: It is a question of the House stultifying itself.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: It is not so. The House has to see that they grant the amount. What I want to press upon the attention of the House is that the expenditure has been incurred and it is chargeable to the general revenues and this House is bound to sanction it. If such an incident had happened in England, the Parliament would have granted the demand. If dissatisfied with the conduct of the Minister in charge

[Mr. B. V. Jadhav]

Parliament would have passed a vote of censure against him. It would have driven him from office, but at the same time, as the expenditure was incurred by the nation's accredited agents, viz., the Government, the House of Commons would certainly grant the demand.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Can you do it here ?

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : The fact is that in this country, Sir, under the dyarchical system of Government, we cannot drive out the Honourable the General Member, but we can show our displeasure by carrying a vote of censure and that would be quite enough. But at the same time I submit that this House is bound to grant this amount because this amount is a charge on the general revenues.

I subscribe to much of what has fallen from my honourable friend, the member for the University, when he said that it was the duty of Government to protect the reputation of their servants, whether the servant deserves that protection or not is a different question altogether, but we have to see that the servants of Government are left in perfect security to discharge their onerous duties to the public and to Government.

The next question that I want to place before this House is whether it would be wise on our part to refuse this grant to show our displeasure of the conduct of the Honourable the General Member and compel His Excellency the Governor to certify the amount. As the amount has already been spent and as accounts will have to be made up by the end of the financial year, I think there will be no time for submitting the grant again for reconsideration of this House and therefore the only course left will be certification by the Governor. But this House ought to bear in mind the heavy responsibility that we shall then be placing on the shoulders of His Excellency. Ever since the dyarchical form of Government was introduced in this presidency in 1921, this is the only Government which has not as yet been forced to certify expenditure. It stands to the credit of this House that for three generations of this Council we have shown our sobriety and our sense of responsibility and that we have not even on one single occasion compelled the Governor to exercise the reserved and special powers that have been given to him under the Government of India Act.....

Mr. A. D. SHETH : Why not give him the pleasure of certifying ?

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : It will not be a pleasure. It will be a very regrettable duty on the part of His Excellency to exercise that power of certification.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : We earnestly hope he will not exercise it.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : This House has shown that the members of the Bombay Legislative Council stand for constitutional government and have full faith in the advancement of the country on constitutional lines. During all this period of seven years we have conducted ourselves to the admiration of the other provinces, and this presidency possesses the unique honour of having kept the Government under check and not giving them any excuse for certification.....

Mr. A. D. SHETH: It is weakness.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: It is strength.

Mr. A. D. SHETH: It is play of one against the other.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: I trust that this House will not lose its reputation so very light-heartedly. There may be differences of opinion about the expediency of passing such orders as have been passed by the Honourable the General Member, but there are other ways of showing our displeasure. In order to show our disapproval of the conduct of the Honourable the General Member, we should not do such a thing as will bring discredit upon ourselves, and though we may protest as strongly as we like, it will be wiser on our part to allow this grant.

(After recess)

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, after the able speech of the honourable member for the University (Mr. Munshi), I do not think it is part of my duty to traverse the same ground, but as this is a matter which concerns the privileges of the House, the local Parliament if I may call it, the solution has to be seriously considered by every honourable member who has any interest in the Council. Sir, the constitutional position, as given by Erskine May, as well as by our present rulers and the Government of India Act is that every member of this Council has freedom of speech and is protected from any criminal prosecution for what he utters within this Council. When that is the constitutional position, if any member of this Council is actually drawn, or, I will use the word decoyed, into making a statement which is to form subsequently the subject matter of a criminal prosecution, that freedom of speech and that privilege does not disappear when the statement is made before a committee. This is the constitutional position that this House has to take into consideration. We have a certain statement made within the precincts of this Council, perfectly protected, a statement made after the Honourable the General Member gave replies to questions, replies which are now admitted to be incorrect or false, and that statement is subsequently repeated on invitation before the Mears Committee, and there we are told that the constitutional freedom of speech, disappears. Now, Sir, after he was called before the Mears Committee, and after his written statement was read, he was cross-examined in a way that will do credit to any advocate of the High Court. From the questions that Sir Frederick Hopkinson put to the honourable member Mr. Nariman, I think he was an able counsel—I do not know though whether he is a counsel, but he acted as one and tried to cross-examine Mr. Nariman in a way that will certainly do credit to any advocate. And Mr. Nariman, with his characteristic frankness, I would say, in giving answers finally gave an answer that he suggested—these are the words—that he "suggested that Mr. Harvey had ulterior motives": not that he said so, not that it was a positive statement of fact. When asked by Mr. Billimoria in these words: "Do you suggest he had ulterior motives?" his answer was "I think he had: Yes," which is nothing more than saying "I believe so"—"I think he had."

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Where do you find the words "I think he had?" Is there anything about it?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI:

Mr. Billimoria: "Do you suggest any ulterior motive? A. Yes."

Then, Sir, at page 6:

"Sir Frederick Hopkinson: I have read your document and perhaps all it implies is that a mistake was made by somebody in ordering ⅞" bars instead of ⅝". What would you say?

A.—I cannot take it as a mistake; I take it as unnecessary superfluous order which was not required.

Q.—What do you suggest it was ordered for?

A.—They were ordered to be dumped in Matunga Stores Depôt.

Q.—But I suggest that a mistake was made?

A.—I do not agree that a mistake was made. It was not made in the original preparation of the indent but in a properly prepared indent figures were altered subsequently.

Q.—But even that may be a mistake because it is not a difficult thing to write ⅞" instead of ⅝" and the Superintending Engineer had nothing to do with the indent?

A.—The Executive Engineer prepared it and it was submitted to the Superintending Engineer who altered it.

Q.—Again that might have been a mistake? Do not you make mistakes? Have you never made a mistake?

A.—Not of this description which is unaccountable, which has cost so much and I shall never make a mistake of this kind.

Q.—You do not say it was intentional?

A.—I say it is intentional. From the circumstances I can say that it was not a mistake."

After all this cornering cross-examination, the statement came to be finally made in answer to the question by Mr. Billimoria. "Do you suggest any ulterior motive?" "Yes." In other words, the statement was "I suggest that it was through ulterior motive." What is the finding of the magistrate at page 52:

"It is true that the final decision of the acceptance of tenders and the giving of contracts rested with the Development Director. But it is admitted that Mr. Harvey's recommendation was in every case approved of by higher authorities. So that in the absence of facts now disclosed in the evidence, I am of opinion that it would not be unreasonable for a man of the accused's position....."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The wording is "it would be."

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Yes.

"It would be unreasonable for a man in the accused's position than to have believed in the corruption of the complainant."

Now, Sir, in these circumstances, I shall ask the House to consider whether the allegations made have not been substantially proved. This House, Sir, has certain inherent rights and it is Government's duty to respect those rights. Government in October 1926 passed an order allowing Mr. Harvey to prosecute. Before October 1926 an application had been made by Mr. Harvey asking for sanction to prosecute. When that application was made, was it not the duty of the Honourable the General Member and of the Government to come to this Council, before allowing the prosecution, asking for a token grant? The Government had done it before; the Government did it in the case of Major Pogson; Government have done so at least six times during the last four years. They had come before the House with a token grant in order to obtain the opinion of the Council on certain questions. Now, when that procedure was known to the Government and open to them to get the opinion of the Council, did the Government do it? If they could not have done so in October 1926, could they not have waited till February 1927 and got an authoritative opinion from this Council whether financial liability should be incurred for that prosecution? The resolution passed in October took up a pecuniary liability; Government knew that it would possibly create a civil liability; Government were fully aware of it. That being so, was it not the duty of the Government to come before this Council and take the opinion of this Council in a matter of this kind? The Government did not care for the non-official side; they declined to care, knowing the contempt in which the Government holds it,—I think, perhaps rightly refused to care—for the vote of this Council. That course was open to them in October 1926. What did Government do? The feelings of the Government as a whole—I will call them personal feelings of the Government as a whole, because no Government is an intangible object—were very bitter against Mr. Nariman. These feelings were expressed in the Government Resolution in the words "the officers of the department have shown exemplary patience." That was the attitude of the Government, the mentality of the Government. They had before them the evidence given before the Mears Committee by Sir Lawless Hepper, the Director of the Development Department, who admitted that he had made false statements, that he had made false reports to the Advisory Committee, simply through fear. Government had that evidence of Sir Lawless Hepper. Government at the time were charged with incompetence so far as the management and direction of the Development Department was concerned. Government knew at that time that there were ugly rumours and Government knew from the evidence of its own officers before the Mears Committee that everything had gone wrong. And yet, Sir, that Government with one honourable exception went forward to sanction the prosecution. I must say that the Honourable the General Member in giving evidence before the Mears Committee was the only honourable exception that spoke with perfect truth and perfect candour, and Sir Cowasji Jehangir has had that recognition from the Mears Committee. I think the Honourable the General Member cannot deny that at that time he knew that there were considerable grounds to suspect that the department had gone wrong. With that knowledge of everything upside down that the department had gone wrong, he comes and says in the Government Resolution that the honourable member, Mr. Nariman had been attacking the bona-fides of the officers and the Directorate and showers a great encomium on the patience of those officers. I am glad that this enquiry in which Mr. Nariman was an accused, has proved to the Government that the credit for patience did not lie with the officers, but it lay with the people whose money has been spent, it lies with the taxpayers whose money has been wasted and upon whose resources for the next six years there is a burden of Rs. 35 lakhs. After that this statement has been made, which clearly shows that it is the outcome of a higher and a personal mentality on the side of the Government members, after all everything has been said and done the

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

Government still have a soft corner for these officers. Sir, in the case of this prosecution, the procedure which has been adopted, had never been adopted in any other case. In order to assist their own servant, they had to adopt this procedure in contravention of the very rules which were framed by them. What do the rules say? It is stated that if the allegations made by Mr. Nariman are not proved, the cost will be reimbursed. The money has already been spent by Government over the case and the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, has also been able to prove his allegations. In the resolution you will find the particular words are put in. It is stated in the resolution "if Mr. Nariman is able to prove his allegations, Mr. Harvey will not be allowed any money." It has been sufficiently shown by my honourable friend, Mr. Munshi, that Mr. Nariman has proved his allegations. If you read between the lines of the judgment, every reasonable man will come to this conclusion. At page 43 it is stated:

"Coupled with this was the fact that incorrect explanations were given in the Council. If a false explanation is given by a party, he cannot have much of a grievance if his conduct and action are misconstrued particularly when 'ugly rumours' are afloat.

In a case where corruption is alleged it is well nigh impossible in 99 out of 100 cases to prove it as a matter of absolute certainty. It could only be a matter of inference from certain facts and in generality of cases it rests upon the reliance placed on the oral testimony of people who make those allegations."

Further, Sir, at page 34 of the judgment it is stated:

"There can be no doubt, however, that the order of these bars was a blunder on the part of the department and we have not yet got the correct or true explanation. The answers given by Sir Cowasji Jehangir on materials furnished by Harvey are found to be wrong. Harvey admits this. It is indeed a very serious matter for a department to furnish erroneous or incorrect explanation to the General Member, knowing that the latter is bound to act upon it and make statements in the Council fully relying on these representations."

It will be observed, Sir, that the Honourable the General Member who owes his duty to this Council, was made to give answers which are false and incorrect. If that is so, does it lie in the Honourable the General Member to come here and say that Mr. Harvey did not give this incorrect information? Can he deny that fact in view of the magistrate's remarks? I say "No." The magistrate further remarks on the same page:

"Though I hold that the complainant ordered excessive number of bars and of a wrong size it does not necessarily follow that he did it out of corrupt or dishonest motive. It may have been due to error of judgment, incompetency, carelessness or negligence or wrong calculations or because he acted on the slip of Hamid. Only if the proposition advanced by the accused that there was a combination or conspiracy on the part of these officers, viz., Sykes, Harvey and Hamid, could it be held that it was done out of corrupt or dishonest motive."

So, Sir, the magistrate is not in a position to hold that there was a conspiracy between the three officers. He holds that it may be due to the incompetency and other things. He says that "as long as there is no sufficient evidence about conspiracy, he was not able to give definite opinion about the dishonesty of Mr. Harvey." This House has to read the judgment as a whole and rely on it.

Now, a serious question has been raised whether Government should be allowed to draw this money. It is the duty of every honourable member of this House, I think, to the public outside to expose the misdeeds of any Government officer on the floor of this House. The public service done by Mr. Nariman, has been admitted by my honourable friend, Mr. Jadhav. I do not think that this House will be justified in giving the money asked for. My honourable friend from Satara (Mr. Jadhav) said that "this House should preserve its prestige." He said: "This House should not refuse this grant and thereby compel His Excellency the Governor to restore it." I say we are prepared to take our own reputation in our hands. If the reputation of sanity depends upon the decision of this item, the Honourable the General Member ought to have taken its sanction beforehand. It was his duty to take the sanction of this House previously. The money has been already spent and now Government comes forward for the sanction of this House. Government have taken the responsibility upon themselves. I am therefore prepared to have the stain on the character of this House for sanity rather than allow Government to have this money. I can tell Government that they should take the sanction of this House in each and every case. So far as this side of the House is concerned, it will always like that Government should take its sanction beforehand. This was a simple case of defamation which Government sanctioned to be launched. And now they come to us to ask for the cost of Rs. 60,000 and odd. They engaged a highly paid counsel, Mr. Velinkar. Government have spent money after that counsel, they paid the public prosecutor and incurred other expenses for Mr. Harvey. But what happens about my honourable friend, Mr. Nariman? He placed all the evidence before the magistrate and had to spend his valuable time; but he does not get his cost. Mr. Harvey is happy in Madras in Government service as a superintending engineer; the honourable member who is at the head of the General Department sits happy in this House and, Mr. Nariman who took great interest for the public was made to suffer for bringing and exposing the fraud in the court. I say, Sir, that he is a member, to whichever party he belongs, he is an honourable member of this Council, and he has as much right to take part in the deliberations of this Council as any honourable member on the other side. And, Sir, it cannot be that Government, simply because it is a paid Government, simply because it has the honour of having highly paid Government officers, can treat with contempt an honourable member of this House and pen this resolution expressing that bitterness of mentality simply because he happens to belong to the non-co-operation party. That is the mentality that underlies that resolution. That is the mentality that dictated the Honourable the General Member in that offer he made to him to stand in the position of an accused. These were his words, Sir, that he will be given all the privileges, in a criminal case, of an accused, of a person standing charged with an offence, of appearing before a judicial officer to give an explanation or to prove the allegations! He will be given the privilege of an accused standing charged with crime! These are the words in which the offer was made by the Honourable Member. Government, before starting this prosecution, wanted to reduce him to the position of an accused person giving him the privileges of a culprit! Then, Sir, Government subsequently had this statement from my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. The committee drew him out, decoyed him into making a statement, and after that statement had been taken and the committee, Sir, cross-examined him, and after a mere suggestion was thrown, Government took the opportunity, because the statement was made outside, to launch this prosecution, in which I hope that Government, the Honourable the General Member, came out with "flying colours."!! But at present Government cannot justify that remark about the "patience of the Bombay Development Directorate officers in the face of the great insults and attacks showered upon them by Mr. Nariman." Government must now admit that Mr. Nariman was correct. Government must admit that the "patience of the Development Department" was misplaced. And Government must admit that there was something much rotten, absolutely rotten, in the Development Department, and Government have conceded it so far in the appointment of a committee. I now, therefore, ask whether it lies in the Government now to come forward, when it has once defied this House, when it has once refused to obtain the sanction of this House, when it did not place even a token demand, to ask for this grant, and whether it lies in the Council now to give that grant to the Honourable the General Member.

Mr. D. F. MULLA (Advocate General): At the outset, Sir, you will allow me to make one or two observations. The first observation is that I am not here to express any opinion which I will not honestly entertain. Nobody has dragged me into this House. I have dragged myself here. (Mr. B. G. Pahalajani: Voluntarily?) The second observation which I want to make is that yesterday in the course of his speech the honourable member Mr. Bechar, who saw me seated on this side of the House, gazed and gazed at this side of the House and threw withering glances at me, probably because I was a newcomer, and said in effect that all the officers of Government on this side, including myself, have conspired together for carrying this motion.....

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: On a point of personal explanation. I never made that suggestion.

Mr. D. F. MULLA: I thought that the suggestion was,—I am very glad it was not,—that there was not that honesty of purpose on this side as there was on the other side. As to that, all I will say is this, that the Kingdom of God is not in my honourable friend alone, and Honesty has not singled out her residence in the heart of the honourable member Mr. Bechar. She dwells in other hearts also and as comfortably as in his.

I now come to the real point before this House, and the question is: Who should bear the costs, whether they should be borne by Government or by Mr. Harvey? And, so far as I am concerned, I have come to a definite conclusion myself. It may be that you will not agree with me, but I hope you will give me the credit of saying that it is an honest opinion of an honest man, because we may differ; and it does not follow that, because we differ, therefore, we are dishonest. Now, the determination of this question depends, in the first instance, upon the construction of the Government Resolution. That resolution to my mind is plain, and it says this, that "the proceedings should be instituted at the cost of Government, but if the complaint is dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, the cost should be borne by Mr. Harvey." The question is whether the honourable member Mr. Nariman has proved his allegations, and whether the complaint was dismissed because of his proving his allegations. But, before I deal with this question, I will deal with two questions that were put to me by way of challenge by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. The first was this: Whether I had heard of any case, either on the Bench or outside, where a man was prosecuted and though the prosecution failed he (the man prosecuting) was compensated. My answer to that is in the negative. The second question which he put to me was whether there were any cases in which a suit was filed by a plaintiff, the plaintiff failed and the court directed that the defendant should pay the plaintiff's costs. My answer is in the negative again. But I do not quite appreciate the point of these questions. It seems to me that these questions have got nothing to do with the question which we have got before us. Here, it is not a question of a losing party paying to a winning party. But here the question, as I say, turns upon the construction of the Government Resolution, where the words are "due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations." The effect of raising these questions, though not intended, was to raise a cloud of dust and to cloud the issues. But it seems to me that the real question is whether the allegations were proved or not. Now, what was the specific allegation? When you analyse all the charges, and when you analyse the judgment, the specific allegation resolves itself into this, and that to my mind is the crucial allegation, that Mr. Harvey changed $\frac{5}{8}$" into $\frac{7}{8}$". That is No. 1. Deliberately and intentionally; that is No. 2. With a corrupt and ulterior motive; that is No. 3.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: There was no word like "corrupt" at all.

Mr. D. F. MULLA: That is my analysis. I hope I am entitled to make my analysis, just as my honourable friend was entitled to make his speech. The substantial allegation, as I say, consisted of three parts, namely, the changing of $\frac{5}{8}$" into $\frac{7}{8}$"; deliberately and intentionally, and with a corrupt and ulterior motive. Now, that allegation has failed. And it seems to me that all the crucial and substantial allegations have failed, because, if the allegations were proved, as it is suggested that they were, then, the plea of justification would not have failed. I do not think that, if the allegations were proved, any sane magistrate would have said that the plea of justification has failed. He would then have said that the plea of justification is proved. The two positions are entirely inconsistent. Therefore, if you take as the basis the magistrate's judgment, which I think you must, for you cannot go behind it, and if the finding is that the plea of justification has failed, then it follows necessarily that the allegations have not been proved. Now, you must remember that my honourable friend Mr. Nariman was not out to play the innocent game of proving harmless and innocent allegations against Mr. Harvey but he was out to play the bold game of proving that Mr. Harvey was guilty of a corrupt motive. Corrupt motive was the gravamen of the charge. There would be no sting or venom in the charge but for the element of corrupt motive, and I say the whole game would have been dull and uninteresting and not a bold game, but in that charge the learned magistrate has held that Mr. Nariman has failed. He failed to prove that Mr. Harvey was guilty of corruption. Whether you accept it or not, that was, from my point of view, the gravamen of the charge. Now, it is said that he has proved a fact here and a fact there. What does it matter whether this fact is proved or that fact is proved ? Would you not take the law from the learned magistrate himself as he has given it ? The learned magistrate says on page 16 :

[Mr. D. F. Mulla]

"When a plea of justification is set up, the accused must prove that each and every fact stated by him is true in fact."

So, it is obligatory on the accused, as the learned magistrate says, when a plea of justification is set up, to prove that each and every fact stated by him is true in fact.

Then let us turn to page 27 of the printed judgment and see what the learned magistrate says :

"Where in a case of defamation the accused pleads justification, the onus lies heavily on the accused to prove the truth of the facts as set out by him."

Here the onus lies on the accused to prove the truth of the facts as set out by him. On page 38, the learned magistrate says :

"On the evidence, therefore, I must hold that the plea of justification fails."

Now, it is impossible for me to see how these two can stand side by side ; the contention advanced by some of my honourable friends here, namely, that the allegations against Mr. Harvey are proved and this finding of the magistrate that the plea of justification has failed. One of the two is wrong. You must accept the conclusion of the magistrate. Therefore, it follows that the other is wrong.

It was said that the policy of Government in the present case is not a fair one. I may at once tell the House that on this question of policy I cannot speak as confidently as some honourable members here can. What I find is that this resolution is based upon Rule 24 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules.....

An Honourable MEMBER ; What is the rule ? Read the rule.

Mr. D. F. MULLA : I am sorry I am asked to read the rule. I thought everybody here had studied that rule and learnt it by heart (Laughter). However, as I am asked to read the rule, as a matter of courtesy I must and I will read it out :

Rule 24.—In granting such a sanction, the Government will consider whether Government will bear the costs of the proceedings, or whether the Government servant shall institute the proceedings at his own expense, and, if so, whether in the event of a decision in his favour ,the Government shall reimburse him to the extent of the whole or any part of the costs.

[Mr. D. F. Mulla]

Now, the first part of the rule is that Government will bear the costs of the proceedings, and my respectful submission to this House is that if it is within the power of Government to bear all costs unconditionally, how can it be said that Government have gone beyond their powers if they undertake to bear the costs conditionally ? That is the point which the honourable members must consider. I do not see how it is outside this rule. If Government possess the wide and extensive powers of bearing all the costs themselves unconditionally, could it be said in principle and in commonsense that the Government went beyond their powers when they said " We undertake to bear the costs of the proceedings with a condition " ? I submit, " Not."

As regards the suggestion that we should invite a judicial decision on the point, I think, it would be a mockery to go to a court of law and say " My Lord, here is the judgment of the magistrate that the plea of justification has failed, yet we are doubtful whether all the allegations have been proved or not." (Laughter.)

Then, again, on the question of policy, it was suggested by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale, that the sanction ought not to have been granted straightway but that there ought to have been an investigation. There is one difficulty. Possibly I may be wrong, but it is this : suppose the Government had put their Criminal Investigation Department into motion and suppose they had found that 100 persons had bribed 100 officers of the department and suppose they had also found that Mr. Harvey had not taken any bribes, what would have been the position in law and in fact ? The charge against Mr. Harvey would stand just the same, even if Government were to say " Oh, we have investigated the charge. It does not matter a bit—a citizen charging another citizen with corruption. Let us hush up everything." Supposing for a moment that full investigation had been made, it would have still been competent to Mr. Harvey to come forward as a Government servant and say to Government " Here is a defamation against me. I want to clear my character in the public. It is not for you, Government, to say ' we have enquired into the matter and we have found that you are not guilty.' " It would be his right, his privilege as a citizen to demand that he should be allowed to prosecute and what could Government say ? It seems to me (I say this with some diffidence) that the policy underlying this rule 24 is this, that it is the duty of Government to protect its servants. Of course I do not for a moment suggest that it is the duty of Government to protect its dishonest servants. What I say is that the policy underlying this rule is that Government should protect its servants in the discharge of their duties. I also think and humbly think that the honour of a Government is involved in the honour of its servants. The two must always go hand in hand, and when a Government asks its servant to vindicate and clear up his character, in fact it asks that its own character should be vindicated. If that not be the principle, I think it would be impossible for Government to carry on. Here, the Government have, from my point of view, based the resolution on the rule 24 and my submission, so far as the resolution is concerned, is that it is capable of only one meaning and no other meaning, namely, that if the allegations made by Mr. Nariman against Mr. Harvey were not proved, in that case Government would bear the costs of the prosecution. It seems to me that the allegations not having been proved, the plea of justification having failed, Government are in honour bound to pay the costs. Sir, I have heard the very able and the very intelligent debate in this House, but in spite of all that I have heard I feel that it will be a sad day for India, when it gains self-government, if they were to say to one of their servants "Here you are, you are charged with fraud and corruption; we are convinced that you are innocent, but we won't protect you; you go and shift for yourself."

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Mr. President, I confess that after hearing the honourable the Advocate General, I rise to address this House with very great hesitation on a question which is very largely legal, and our decision on which, as we now see, must rest mainly upon the interpretation the House puts upon the judgment of the magistrate and upon the Government Resolution, conveying to Mr. Harvey the sanction of the Government to sue the honourable member for Bombay (South). I beg to assure you, Sir, that I will not take more time of this House at this late hour than is absolutely necessary. With that end in view, I shall confine myself mainly to the two issues which you very kindly set before the House at the beginning of this debate, namely, first whether the Government were right and justified in sanctioning the prosecution that they did; and secondly whether in view of the resolution in which that sanction was communicated to Mr. Harvey, as also the judgment of the learned magistrate, the Government are entitled to come to this House for this grant and obtain it. Sir, it is unfortunate that we have not got before us the original letter of Mr. Harvey, asking for the permission of the Honourable the General Member to prosecute my honourable friend, the member for Bombay City, South (Mr. Nariman). But, Sir, we have got before us the wording of the Government Resolution conveying to Mr. Harvey the sanction of the Government to prosecute. From that, we are in a position to know authoritatively, that it was laid down definitely that if the suit failed owing to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, Mr. Harvey was to be paid his expenses by the Government. We are thus face to face with the determination of these two questions, first, whether the suit of Mr. Harvey has failed; and secondly, whether Mr. Nariman has proved his allegations. Our voting for or rejecting the grant, asked for by the Government, must depend upon our decision of these questions. The contention of the Government is that the suit against Mr. Nariman having being decided, according to their interpretation, in favour of Mr. Harvey, the Government are bound and entitled to make good to Mr. Harvey the expenditure incurred by him in this case. The interpretation of this House is however the direct opposite of the interpretation of the Government. In order to come to a fair and impartial decision in this matter, there are several important aspects of this question which have to be considered and taken into account. They have occurred to me as a layman, in my endeavours to understand this matter; and I wish to place them for what they are worth before this House for its consideration. They embody the point of view of a layman as against the purely technical opinions of distinguished legal luminaries, such as we have had laid before us in this House during the course of this debate.

It appears to me, Sir, that there are certain important links in this case, which are at present missing but which we are at liberty to try and find out, and to which, if traced, we are entitled to attach very great weight. These I have endeavoured to trace; and I wish to place them before this House for its consideration before it arrives at a decision on this important matter. The whole question, as we are aware, hinges on the second order for the mild steel bars placed by Mr. Harvey, the specifications, dimensions, prices and quantities of which Mr. Harvey had of his own accord reduced to writing in his own hand. This order was very different from the one which his staff required, in accordance with the needs of the Department. It has been brought out in the course of the evidence in the police court and has been admitted here repeatedly, that Mr. Harvey did that of his own accord; that he endeavoured, in the first instance, to hide that fact from the court; and that he was ultimately forced to admit it under the compelling authority of the police court. It has also been proved in the case, that there was no sanction for it, and that he had consulted no one about it. We have also got the fact before us that when, in this House, the Honourable the General Member was asked a question on this matter, Mr. Harvey deliberately supplied inaccurate information, on the basis of which the Honourable the General Member gave his reply, which ultimately, he had to admit, was inaccurate. In consequence of this fact, as also the fact that numerous general allegations against Mr. Harvey have been declared true and held to have been proved, I put it in all seriousness to this honourable House as to why a man of the intelligence of Mr. Harvey, occupying the important and responsible position that he did, should have gone out of his way to make these serious alterations in the order; why he should have admitted this fact, so reluctantly and hesitatingly at the police court practically under pressure; and also, at the same time, on the top of it all, why he should have deliberately supplied wrong information on the matter to the Honourable the General Member, if he was as innocent as we are now asked to believe he was. I would like to ask why, if the second order was really a mistake, he should have taken up this halting attitude and should have hesitated to make a confession in a straightforward manner, and should have endeavoured to prevaricate and made the confession of the offence in the manner which was described to this House by an honourable member a little while ago. In view of all these facts and circumstances, the questions we are all entitled to ask ourselves are: how has Mr. Harvey come out of this trial? What is the impression that his behaviour has created upon our minds? I think, if these questions are dispassionately examined and considered, there can be one and only one answer to them; and that would be against Mr. Harvey. From the judgment of the learned magistrate before us, there is no doubt that, while, on the one hand, he has held that Mr. Nariman had made out a case, and also that numerous allegations against Mr. Harvey have been proved, he has on the other hand at the same time, held that, so far as the plea of justification for specific charge of corruption, is concerned, it has failed. That is where purely technical and legal talent comes in and prevails over the commonsense judgment of laymen and that is where the value of trials by juries in such important cases is demonstrated once more. This is the spirit in which I would like this House to consider this whole matter. Personally, Sir, I do not think that Mr. Harvey has emerged at all creditably out of these proceedings. If I may go a step further, I would like to add without meaning any disrespect to the learned magistrate, that whatever his judgment may be, even though we must take it as final—the public are entitled to, and have as a matter of fact, come to their own decision on the facts and inferences brought out in the case. That being so, and if this honourable House is also of the opinion that Mr. Harvey has not after all come out of this case as innocent as he is represented to be, it will have to decide, whether in consequence of this opinion, and having regard to the terms of the resolution conveying to Mr. Harvey the sanction of Government to launch this prosecution, he could equitably be given the cost of the proceedings. My own answer is an emphatic "no." I have no doubt in my own mind that, when the Honourable the General Member sanctioned the prosecution, he did so not only with a view to enable Mr. Harvey to clear his character and establish his innocence but also at the same time, to prove to the public that there was nothing wrong or amiss in the Development Department. He must have believed so at that time. I think many of us believed so at that time. But in view of subsequent disclosures, we have all now come to a different decision; and very probably the Honourable the General Member has done so too. But that is another matter. The result of the case has however unfortunately been very different. Mr. Harvey though technically acquitted has, in my opinion, not proved himself innocent; and I hope the House is of the same opinion. In coming to this conclusion, it may be that we are mistaken in law; and that we are ignoring the niceties and technicalities of the law courts. But from the point of view of the world and looking at the question as practical men of affairs, we can come only to this one conclusion and no other. I may be pardoned for saying this. But, in view of Mr. Harvey's behaviour throughout the entire drama, in view of the facts brought out at the police court, in view of the findings of the judgment, in view of the wrong information he gave to the Honourable the General Member, and in view of the other facts and circumstances connected with this affair, we are practically forced to this conclusion. I am therefore convinced in my mind that after all, Mr. Harvey was not as innocent as might appear to be the case at first sight. It is very unfortunate that the judgment is not as definite on this matter as it might have been. It is quite possible that the magistrate was over-kind or over-fair to Mr. Harvey; or that the judgment was influenced by some legitimate doubt in his mind, of which he appears to have given the benefit to Mr. Harvey. But so far as we, as men of the world, are concerned, we are entitled to come to our own decision, and that is, that Mr. Harvey made out no case for himself; and that, even though technically acquitted, he has not come out successfully; and that therefore, Government are not justified in making this demand and the House would not be justified in granting it.

I know that before deciding this point we have to consider another aspect of the question. We are told that, in view of the wording of the resolution conveying the sanction of the Government to Mr. Harvey to launch this prosecution, we are bound to pay the cost. One would be prepared to support the Government, because rightly or wrongly, the undertaking has been given by them under certain eventualities. But, even then, I would first make sure that these events have happened. I would therefore much rather side with my honourable friend the representative of the University, than straightaway give my vote for this grant; because there is an important point involved in it; and it is one which is enveloped in doubt and admits of a very wide difference of opinion. Everything must depend upon the interpretation one puts on the Government Resolution. We are entitled to argue that if Mr. Nariman has proved his charges, then Mr. Harvey should have been punished; but that if, on the other hand, Mr. Harvey has proved his innocence, Mr. Nariman should have been punished. Either of these things should have happened. But we know that neither of these events has occurred. We are thus face to face with a judgment, which may be very good and sound in the technicalities of the law, but which, at any rate, is not as definite as it might have been on these two points. That being so, laymen like myself must be pardoned if we wish to clear our doubts by agreeing with my honourable friend the representative of the University, and asking the Government to refer this matter to the High Court in the shape of an originating summons. If for some reason, this is not done, I for one have no hesitation in saying that having followed the debate with an open mind and come to the conclusion that I have, the Goverment are not justified in asking for this grant and that the House will be well advised in voting against it. I therefore most earnestly advise the House to act accordingly.

Mr. B. T. DESAI (Bombay City, South): Sir, it is with a deep sense of responsibility that I am rising to address the House. I have heard various arguments in favour of this demand for grant as well as against it. The issue before the House is this: Was Government right, even if they had the right, in giving sanction to Mr. Harvey? Now, Sir, the Indian constitution as it stands is anomalous, and it creates anomalous positions. We are here to correct that anomaly. We are told that we are given the power of the purse to a certain extent; that if we give grants Government will get the money, but if we do not there is only one authority, that is His Excellency the Governor, to certify. I must say that we should rather exercise our rights and let the Governor, if he is so pleased, to certify and let the Government manage its affairs by certification, than be a party to a grant to which we should not give our assent. It is not a question of sweet reasonableness or a question of prestige, or a question of " all this time we have not forced His Excellency to certify, and we should not do it now. " That is a halting argument ; I will say it is a foolish argument. If we feel that our right is being encroached upon, then let us refuse the grant and let it be restored by certification, because if that power is exercised then we can also take steps to put an end to such an undesirable power that has been vested in the Governor.

Sir, I consider this grant to be a very important one, because a question of principle is involved. The question is when we have got the power of the purse is the Government entitled to give sanction without putting the case before the Council ? I have no doubt that the Honourable Member in charge will get up and say : " Here are our rules ; you are not to question them ; we will go according to our rules." My answer is : " If you are going to stand on your own rights and privileges, the House is bound to stand on its rights and privileges. If you are going to deprive us of our rights, we are not going to act according to what you say. You may have the power of giving sanction, but we consider that you have wrongly exercised your power ; you had no business to give sanction without geting our sanction first. Therefore, we will exercise our power in order to defeat the undesirable power that has been exercised by Government. " Well, Sir, as to the propriety of giving sanction, when my honourable friend the General Member got up and tried to make out a case, from the distress that he exhibited on the face, I thought that he was in the throes of labour, as the proverbial mountain that was in labour ; and like that mountain he produced not a rat, but a rigmarole of statement which had neither argument on its side nor logic nor truth. Now, Sir, what does he say ? He says it was Mr. Nariman who drove Government to give sanction. That is a very nice argument. Government, when they heard of certain charges being levelled against the Development Department and its officers wanted the co-operation of Mr. Nariman. Mr. Nariman being a non-co-operator could not co-operate with the Government. But may I ask the Honourable the General Member whether, irrespective of Mr. Nariman's co-operation or non-co-operation, was he not in possession of that information, namely, that certain charges had been levelled against his departmental officers ? If so, what was his first duty ? And what was his duty ? As a man standing at the head of a Government department, is he anxious to protect the interests of the officers only ? Is he not at all anxious to protect the interests of the public ? If he had the least interest of the public at heart, was it not his duty to look into the matter ? The other day the Honourable the General Member stated in his speech " The honourable member, Mr. Hooseinbhoy, made certain complaints to him regarding the supply of bazaar to Mr. Harvey by Balkison Seth. But what happened ? Mr. Hooseinbhoy later on came to me and told me that he cannot prove." That is what he said. Sir, what was at the bottom of this? I wonder how the information given by the honourable member of this House leaked out. Balkison Seth is a very shrewd man and he discontinued purchasing bazaar from the place where he used to purchase before. Naturally, the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoy could not, therefore, prove the fact. If the information given in confidence for the purpose of investigation leaks out, then I do not know how the matters stand.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Does the honourable member insinuate that I informed anybody?

Mr. B. T. DESAI: Then how did the information leak out? The fact is that the information did leak out and therefore Mr. Balkison Seth discontinued purchasing bazaar from that place. I cannot say whether the information given for the purpose of investigation leaked out through you or anybody else, but the fact is there that it did leak out. This Development Department has been found to be absolutely inefficient and absolutely negligent and there is no wonder if such information leaks out. The Honourable the General Member also told us that he invited the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, to give his assistance, but he refused to do so. The Honourable the General Member stated "Well I told Mr. Nariman to lay all his cards on the table, explain the situation." But he does not say clearly what he promised to do. He did not promise him to do anything definitely if he (Mr. Nariman) lay all his cards on the table. It is stated, therefore, that Government was forced by Mr. Nariman to take this step. I am sure, Sir, that if the honourable member Mr. Nariman had given all the secret information, it would have met with the same fate as that of the honourable member, Mr. Hooseinbhoy met. But the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, is a shrewd lawyer and as such he foresaw that perhaps his information would leak out and, therefore, he declined to lay all the cards on the table. I think he has rightly declined to give the information to the Honourable the General Member. The Honourable the General Member says that Mr. Nariman drove him to give the sanction for prosecution. Mr. Nariman was told, he says, to go before a certain officer to be appointed for the purpose of investigation and do what? Like an incriminated officer Mr. Nariman has to give an evidence and do all sort of things. What a bona-fide proposal is this? And if Mr. Nariman has treated that proposal with contempt, I think he was perfectly right in doing it. I can say, Sir, that the way in which the committee was proposed to be appointed, really showed that there was no bona-fide desire to find out things as they were. The third thing that the Honourable the General Member says is this. He says: "Allegations were made by Mr. Nariman, and he was driven to give sanction ultimately." I do admit that is so. I do admit that Government found the honourable member Mr. Nariman, to be a terrible opponent of Government. And in order to crush him, this trick, this pretext was resorted to.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: These are all the arguments which are being repeated.

Mr. B. T. DESAI: I submit, Sir, that there was no necessity for Government to give their sanction for prosecution. If the Honourable the General Member had the interest of the public at heart, he would have taken the help of their own machinery, instead of the co-operation of the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, to find out what the facts were.

I am very sorry to hear the honourable member, the Advocate-General, on this point. What does he say? He says: "If Government had instituted enquiries and if they had found 100 officers guilty and if Mr. Harvey was found to be not guilty, then what would have been the situation?" If that had happened, then the hands of Government would have been strengthened to give their sanction for Mr. Nariman's prosecution, but if Mr. Harvey had been found guilty then what? Therefore, my submission is that the sanction was wrongly given by Government and I say that Government had no right to give this sanction. If Government had exercised their rights according to any statute, I think it is the duty of this House to abolish that statute in the first instance. If Government were serious to do justice they would have done everything possible to find out the truth. When they were told that there was actual robbing and huge frauds going on in this department, the head of the department, whose conduct was brought out in the evidence, ought to have found out whether that was so or not. But nothing was done to investigate. If such a system did prevail in the department, then the only conclusion is that the head of that department, Mr. Harvey, is a part and parcel of that system. Sir, as the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, said that there are not only those matters, but there were the other affairs too. He said "When an engineer brought certain facts to the notice of Mr. Harvey, that engineer was dismissed." Besides, there had been claims which were admitted by the department, although it was pointed out by the engineers concerned that they were false. This is the second thing. The third thing that was pointed out by the honourable member is this. Mr. Harvey supplied false information to the Honourable the General Member, who did not think it right to find out himself what the truth was. As I have said, the Development Department is being managed very negligently and I think the Honourable the General Member was also negligent to a certain extent, otherwise this would have never happened. Now, Sir, just try and imagine, if such a thing had taken place in England, what would have been the fate of the Government, what would have been the fate of the Honourable the General Member, and what would have been the fate of the Development Department? The Government would have gone out of power and the Member would have been forced to resign, and the public would have lynched the officers concerned. This would have been the outcome in any civilised country, in any independent country. But, here, they know very well that the House is divided, that "whatever we can put before the House is going to be passed" on account of certain tactics that are followed and certain things which, Sir, are likely to affect the votes, and it is, therefore, Sir, that this demand has been put before the House; otherwise, in the ordinary course this ought not to have come before the House. Well, Sir, then, as you think there is very little time at my disposal.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I would request the honourable member to conclude his remarks.

Mr. B. T. DESAI: I will, Sir, presently. I would ask the honourable members of the House to exercise their privilege and also the power of the purse which they have got in the right direction and to discourage Government in proceeding with these cases in such a way and force Government to consult them before steps are being taken and to obtain the sanction of the House before anything is done by Government under the law.

The last thing I have to say is this. The Government rule has been quoted and the Government Resolution has been quoted. I say, Sir, any one who is invested with common-sense can see that there is a great deal of difference between the rule itself and the resolution. But Government may pass any resolution that Government likes, and you have no concern. Government may override the rule and pass any resolution it likes. That is the position which Government takes, and in this position Government ought to be defeated. Well, Sir, looking to all the circumstances, I say that it is up to Government now to try and see what are the sins of omission and commission on the part of Mr. Harvey, and it must be their duty to prosecute all, one and all, who are concerned with the huge frauds that have been committed in the Development Department, however high they may be, and bring them to justice. Instead of doing that, they should not come with such demands before the House.

(Several honourable members rose.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I find that there are several honourable members who wish to speak. There has been a great deal of talk since yesterday as to there being no time limit. But I think there is a limit to the "no time limit" motion, and that is where I step in. I would allow the honourable member Mr. Jairamdas to speak if he can finish his remarks within five minutes.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): I am obliged to you, Sir. Sir, speaking, as I do, under the limitation of five minutes, I shall condense my remarks as much as possible. Probably but for the last sentence uttered by the honourable member the Advocate General, I would not have taken up the time of the House. He said, Sir, that hearing the debate and the speeches delivered here to-day, he thought that it would be a sad day if the attitude which those speeches indicated was maintained when we had self-government. It appears to me that the various legal issues raised in the course of the debate have clouded the real issue involved in this demand. The learned Advocate General said, I am trying to quote his words, "The real question was: What was the interpretation of the resolution passed by the Government ?" That is, were the allegations proved ? And if they were not proved, then the costs ought to be given to Mr. Harvey. I did not know, Sir, till to-day, and I know it from the learned Advocate General, that a mere resolution of the executive Government is a law for this legislature ! Is it suggested that, because Government in the exercise of their executive authority issue a certain resolution wrongly interpreting, in my opinion, the Government Servants' Conduct Rules, the legislature was bound to accept it as the last word and not try to go against it ? The real issue involved in this discussion, Sir, is far graver and it appears to me that it cuts at the very root of the constitution which we have been given since 1921. It is the duty —a duty which Government call upon the voters to exercise,—the duty of the voters to send representatives to this House. It is the duty of those representatives to ventilate public grievances, to criticise the administration with a view to help in its purification, and if in the exercise of that duty, within this Council Hall or in any committee appointed by Government, a member representing the constituency which sends him here makes a statement as a result of persistent cross-examination, I do not think Government are justified in penalising that member because he does his duty. What are the facts of this case ? In the exercise of his duty which the constituency called upon Mr. Nariman to perform, he ventilated certain grievances in this Council in 1924, and not outside it. He did not rush to the press ; there was no malicious intent to defame Mr. Harvey. He put certain questions, moved a resolution in this House and raised discussion on the occasion of the budget, in the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, and he made certain allegations. He put a specific question, the official reply to which has been proved to be wrong. What is the justification given by the Honourable the General Member for sanctioning the prosecution of Mr. Nariman ? He says " I offered him a committee of investigation. " Mr. Nariman thought that committee unsatisfactory. The time came for another committee to investigate this matter, and at the invitation of that committee appointed by Government, Mr. Nariman appeared before that committee and in the course of his evidence made certain allegations. I have taken the trouble to go very carefully through the evidence of both Mr. Nariman and the Honourable the General Member. It was as a result of a persistent attempt to make Mr. Nariman state things as specifically as he could that Mr. Nariman, after a long time, did say that so and so did this and that. I want to ask the General Membe a straight question. He gave us the impression that had Mr. Narima accepted the first committee, the prosecution would not have come about. May I ask him what was the meaning of his invitation to accept the first committee ? Would not Mr. Nariman have come before it to give evidence ? Would any member of that committee have been satisfied with a general allegation ? Would they not have asked Mr. Nariman to make a specific allegation ? Would not that specific allegation have made him open to the risk of a prosecution as now ? I for one am unable to see what difference it would have made if he had appeared before the originally proposed committee and not the last committee. The statement of Mr. Nariman for which he was prosecuted was made on a privileged occasion. I accept the decision of the magistrate that the occasion was privileged, that Mr. Nariman made a bona fide statement at the time of an investigation by a duly constituted official committee. He made those statements not outside, not with any malicious intent, not in order to persecute Mr. Harvey but in the dicharge of his public duty. To me the only question is this, if any member of this Council votes for the demand, then the vote is tantamount to this that if a non-official member, say, my honourable friend Mr. R. G. Pradhan, makes a statement against the Deputy Superintendent of Police of his place, in this Council as the result of persistent complaints received by him from the public, and if that statement, according to the opinion of Government is not true. then he must stand a prosecution. That is the question in a nutshell.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Absolutely not. This House is absolutely privileged.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : A statement in this House is privileged but a statement made as a result of persistent cross-examination before a duly constituted committee of Government is not privileged ! The magistrate has held that the statement was made on a privileged occasion.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Point that out.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Look at page 42 of the printed judgment. The magistrate says :—

" The statements were thus made on a privileged occasion before a properly constituted body authorised to receive such complaints and in answers to questions put to him by that body and not irrelevant altogether."

Whether the magistrate held it as a privileged occasion or not, I want to know whether the Honourable the General Member wants us to admit this, that non-official members must not make any complaints and that if non-official members make any complaints before any non-official committees appointed by Government, they must do so at the risk of a criminal prosecution ? Is that the position he occupied a few years ago as a non-official member ? Is that the position which he is prepared to occupy hereafter ? Is that the position which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will occupy in Parliament if to-morrow in the discharge of his duties as a Member of Parliament he accuses a Government servant of corruption? According to the Honourable the General Member, then, the executive Government of England must in that case threaten Mr. Ramsay MacDonald with prosecution ? Is there no other way of enabling a Government servant to clear his conduct ? Is this the only way, namely, to prosecute a non-official member who makes an accusation—a bona fide accusation—on a privileged occasion ? If that is the interpretation of the constitution, then I must say that we have no constitution. If the pistol of prosecution must always be levelled at the head of a non-official member who makes an accusation before the House or before an official committee, I say we have no constitution.....

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM : I move the closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept it.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Mr. President, had not this debate lasted for nearly two days, ordinarily it would have been expected that I should reply to every honourable member that has spoken. But I trust that the House and you, Sir, will excuse me if I do not attempt to reply to every argument brought forward by every honourable member, for if I did so, I would take well over two hours, but let it not be said that I deliberately did not answer any particular question or accusation on this present occasion. I do not do so entirely for want of time.

I will take first my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan, and in all his speech there was one important point that he brought forward. He said that Government ought to have come to this honourable House before having given their sanction to the prosecution. That point was also made by the honourable member from Sukkur. Mr. President, the very question and the emphasis with which it was brought forward before this House especially by my honourable friend from Sukkur, shows that the honourable members have not understood the constitution under which we at present are governed.

An Honourable MEMBER : Quite so.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : They have not understood the constitution under which the most civilised countries in the world are at present governed (Hear, hear). Honourable members have failed to understand the difference between executive actions and actions by a legislative council. If, Mr. President, Government had to come to this honourable House in every case before sanctioning prosecutions, I contend, Sir, there would be no end to it. If my honourable friend the Home Member had to come forward before this House for legal expenses that he incurs on every possible conceivable occasion there would be no Government and there would be a most extraordinary constitution. Sir, I contend that the suggestion put forward by my honourable friend from Sukkur of a token grant was nothing more than asking us to accept a constitution which would be unique. I contend, Sir, that Government under the present constitution have the power or under any future constitution, will be given the same powers and if any Swaraj Government refuses to give the Government this power, that Government would not be able to last for a week. It is all very well to say that we should come to the honourable members before sanctioning every executive action.

I will now come to my honourable friend Mr. Nariman. He spoke for one hour and a half, but he tried his best to cloud the issues. As a matter of fact, listening to his speech one could not but come to the conclusion that he was trying to prove that the magistrate's judgment was wrong. I am not here to criticise the judgment. I am here to accept the judgment as it stands. Judges or magistrates are not infallible. The judgment is there. My honourable friend Mr. Nariman was prepared to take advantage of that part of the judgment which suited him and which acquitted him. To me he seemed to have been trying to argue that the judgment, so far as Mr. Harvey was concerned, was wrong, and in order to do that, he read out long extracts from the judgment which were perfectly irrelevant, and I maintain—and rightly maintain—that he attempted his very best to cloud the issues.

The next point that he brought forward of some importance was the reason he gave both to Government and to this House for refusing Government's offer to appoint an officer of high judicial attainments. He said that he was placed in the position of an accused officer of Government. For an honourable member to argue that he refuses to accept an offer which gives him the greatest privileges Government can give, is to argue in the wilderness. Government cannot give greater privileges to anybody than they are forced to give to an officer of Government who is suspected of corruption. That officer has to be given every privilege to prove his innocence, before an enquiring officer, and we thought that the honourable member Mr. Nariman ought to be given the same privileges as would be enjoyed by the officer who was accused of corruption. We could give him no more and no further privileges, and because.....

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: On a point of.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I won't yield.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Honourable the General Member does not yield.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: On a point of.....

Honourable Members: Order, order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. The rule of the House is that if a point of information or any other interruption is made, that can be allowed to be stated only if the member who is speaking yields. If the honourable member would flout the order of the President, I think he would think twice before he did that. If there is a point of order, then alone the President can call upon the member speaking to resume his seat.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: With due deference to the Chair, I submit....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. I call upon the honourable member to submit to the ruling of the chair.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I strongly contend that my honourable friend Mr. Nariman would not accept that offer for reasons best known to himself, and when he took advantage of the phrase that he would be given the same privileges as are given by Government to their accused officers, he was taking undue advantage of the phraseolcgy of the letter.

Now, I will come to my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale. Rao Bahadur Kale laboured hard to explain his point to the honourable House and he will excuse me for saying that the impression he made upon my mind was that, lawyer as he is, he was trying to convince himself against his better self (Laughter) and that he had been attempting to do so for some days and having attempted to do so far some days, he only succeeded this very morning to convince himself that the magistrate's judgment was wrong, or, as my honourable friend the Advocate General put it, the judgment pronounced both that the accusations were not justified and at the same time they were justified. He was trying to argue that the magistrate believed both. He seems to have succeeded rather late, because he was not very certain of his facts. Every extract that he first quoted was against himself, and ultimately I could not follow as to whether he quoted anything that was in his favour. But, at any rate, I give him credit for having tried to appease his own conscience, and if he has succeeded in doing so, I can only congratulate him.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

He then said that Mr. Nariman ought to have been given another opportunity before prosecution was sanctioned, that an investigation should have taken place. I was not quite able to follow the exact inference of that suggestion, but the position was that Mr. Nariman made an allegation of a specific character against a particular officer of Government, and therefore what Government had to satisfy themselves on was whether that specific allegation was correct or not, and having satisfied themselves by an investigation it was for them to decide whether they should give permission or not; and I can tell the honourable member that Government did have an investigation to find out whether that specific allegation was true or not. The investigation was naturally to the best of the ability of Government.....

An Honourable MEMBER: After the sanction ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Before; and Government found that the allegation could not be correct, because the very foundation on which the allegation was made was so easily traceable. The honourable member Mr. Nariman said that Mr. Harvey had changed the figure of $\frac{5}{8}$ " to $\frac{7}{8}$." It was quite easy to send for the indent and see whether it was so or not, and since it was found that no change had been made it was quite easy to see whether the foundation of the allegation was right or wrong, and then we had to go further. The investigation of the Government has been borne out by the judgment, and the judgment is that the allegation is proved to be wrong. (Interruption). I am certain of my facts. I am not making incorrect statements. The allegation was that Mr. Harvey changed the figure $\frac{5}{8}$ " to $\frac{7}{8}$." As a matter of fact, what Mr. Harvey did was to write a letter asking the other Superintending Engineer to order out bars of $\frac{7}{8}''$ size; that was his mistake. There was no question of changing the figure $\frac{5}{8}$ " to $\frac{7}{8}$;" the very foundation of the allegation of Mr. Nariman was wrong, and therefore it was not difficult for Government to investigate whether the allegation was right or wrong, and therefore I contend (Interruption)—I will come to the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani and his knowledge of law later on,—that it was not a difficult matter to investigate, and that fact has been proved by the judgment.

Now, Sir, I come to my honourable friend the member for the University of Bombay (Mr. Munshi), and I can only express a hope that, in future, he will devote more attention to matters of the University and matters connected with the University Bill than to any other department of Government. I think there he would be more in his sphere. At any rate, he has given us a harangue in this House. I do not know how many months experience he has had of it, but I remember he lectured us from the very first minute that he entered it. We are accustomed to these lectures. My honourable friend lectured his constituents, and now he takes to lecturing us, and we are most grateful to him. Now, let us examine his valuable suggestion. His first suggestion is that the Resolution of Government should be placed before a judicial tribunal for examination. Now, Sir, I ask my honourable friends whether they ever heard of a Resolution of Government being placed before a judicial tribunal for interpretation. Sir, he wants us to take a resolution passed by Government before a judicial tribunal and he wants that judicial tribunal to tell us what that resolution means. Now, Sir, I take it that we are all capable of reading a resolution and understanding what it means, and therefore....(Interruption).....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I am not disturbed by these interruptions—and, therefore, as long as such proposals are made, I think they are quite harmless; but such a suggestion cannot be acted upon, and I do not think any Government in its senses would take one of its own resolutions to a judicial tribunal to tell them what they meant when they drafted it.

The next point is, he says that we should ask a judicial tribunal to tell us whether the judgment has pronounced Mr. Harvey guilty or not guilty. Now, Sir, that is not a compliment to the magistrate who wrote the judgment. The honourable member read it and re-read it, and he could make neither head nor tail of it, and therefore he wants us to take it to a judicial tribunal to tell us and the House what the meaning of that judgment is. I knew that such arguments would be raised, and therefore my honourable friend the Advocate General sits behind me. Anything coming from me would be coming from a layman—I am only a layman—and therefore I wanted the honourable House to have the best legal opinion available in Bombay, and the honourable the Advocate General has told the House what he thinks. Now, Sir, are we to accept this practical suggestion of my honourable friend the member for the University of Bombay that the judgment should be taken to a judicial tribunal to tell us what is the verdict in the judgment? It seems that that is rather a curious method. We have had legal opinion taken on it. We have had our Legal Remembrancer's advice. We got the Advocate General to advise us; as a matter of fact there has been more than one Advocate-General in this matter. I will therefore drop those two suggestions.

We then come to the most serious part of his speech. He said that we insulted an honourable member of this House, that we had more respect for our officers than we had for honourable members of this House, and he went further and said that the constitutional position was at stake. I admire the language he used to express his opinions, but I cannot agree with his sentiments. Now, Sir, is it possible that my honourable friend was advocating that if a citizen of Bombay happens to be a Member of

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

Government, happens to be a high official of Government, or happens to be a member of the Legislative Council, he should have more license than the law gives him ? Does he mean to contend that because he is a member of this House, he can with impunity go outside this House and repeat allegations of corruption against anybody, whether he be an officer of Government or another citizen of Bombay, and if Mr. Munshi does so, does he contend that such an offence against the law should be condoned because he is a member of this Legislative Council ? (Interruption).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, my honourable friend Mr. Munshi has put forward a contention which ought to be rejected immediately by every honourable member who knows his own position as a member of this Legislative Council. He has every privilege in this House ; he can make any statement he likes in this House to draw the attention of Government ; he can say that even I have been corrupt. There is no objection. He can say it in this honourable House, and he is privileged. But he dare not repeat that outside.....

An Honourable MEMBER : Even if he is asked ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I am coming to that. He dare not repeat it outside, and if he does he must pay the penalty. And I contend that if the future constitution of this country is to give these privileges to members of the Legislative Council, in a very short time you will find autocracy in this country and not democracy. I contend that the constitution does not give powers to members of this Legislative Council to utter words of sedition or words of defamation outside this honourable House. And the honourable member dare not claim those privileges if he knows anything of the constitution of the country. (Interruption).

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Mr. Nariman has uttered any words of defamation outside this honourable House ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member does not yield.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : I want to raise a point of order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the point of order ?

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Was the honourable member in order in making a statement that the honourable member Mr. Nariman made a statement outside this Council, for which he was liable to be punished ? The Honourable the General Member stated that the honourable member Mr. Nariman made a statement outside the House, and he wants the House to believe it, but Mr. Nariman did not make any statement, except before the Committee. I want your ruling, Sir, as to whether the Honourable the General Member was in order ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member has made no point of order. The Honourable the General Member is making a statement to explain the constitutional position of the honourable members of this House in the matter of making privileged statements in the House.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, I repeat that the honourable member Mr. Nariman made allegation outside this House, that Mr. Harvey was corrupt. I repeat that statement.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Where did he make that statement?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The Advocate General has pointed out to you and I am quite prepared to point out to you.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Honourable members should not address each other directly.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I will once and for all finish this matter. Here you are: at page 16, the magistrate himself uses the word "corrupt" about the allegations of Mr. Nariman (Interruption). Sir, I do not want to be interrupted. I am pointing this out as a favour to my honourable friend. If my honourable friend the Remembrancer of Legal Affairs had had an opportunity he would have pointed out several passages from the judgment. (Interruption).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The magistrate says: "The point for consideration, however, is whether the complainant did so with a corrupt or dishonest motive."

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Please refer to page 11, last line.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, I would ask you to enforce the rules of debate.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I wanted to help the honourable member; but he did not take that help.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The magistrate says in his judgment:

"The main gravamen of the charge is that the alteration of 5/8 into 7/8 was made deliberately by the Superintending Engineer in the indent prepared by the Executive Engineer out of corrupt and ulterior motives."

What is the use of denying these very patent facts?

Let me come to my honourable friend Mr. Munshi again. You will excuse me: I will not take more than four minutes. Now, Sir, he said that Mr. Harvey was careless—perhaps he was—and Mr. Harvey was incompetent. Admitting for the sake of argument that he was, does he mean to contend that because he was careless and incompetent, an honourable member of this House can accuse him of corruption? Is that the contention? Now, Sir, I do ask the honourable House to go down to the bottom of this question.

Then, my honourable friend Mr. Munshi tried to excite the House in a way in which I did not expect. (Interruption). Sir, he talked about what Sir Frederick Hopkinson had said about the honourable member Mr. Nariman and his profession, as if Sir Frederick Hopkinson was an official of this Government and was deliberately put up to do so.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

Nobody regrets more than I do that Sir Frederick Hopkinson should in any way have offended Mr. Nariman, but I do not think it fair that this Government should be made to answer for any questions asked by Sir Frederick Hopkinson. My honourable friend was fully aware of the fact that Sir Frederick Hopkinson has had nothing to do with this Government and at the time he was in Bombay he was in no way connected with the Government of Bombay.

Then he asked, if an honourable member in this House asks a question, is he to be crushed under the Juggernaut car ? Well, Sir, the Juggernaut car would have a good deal of work to do. If for asking a question, even if it be full of insinuations, a member is to be crushed under the Juggernaut car, none of us would be living to-day, I would have been dead long ago. That is not the position. Therefore, why put such exaggerated sentences into one's speech ? You may ask as many questions as you like in this honourable House. Honourable members may accuse any officers of corruption in those questions. They will not be taken to a court of law on that, and no Juggernaut car can be brought against them. Perhaps the honourable member believed it—he may have believed it : he is a young member—and if he seriously believed that by asking a question he would become liable in any way to anybody, he was very much mistaken.

Now, Sir, I come to my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani. He also read out parts of the judgment. As the time is very short I am not going to deal with his speech much longer, but he read out extracts from the judgment which were very surprising.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Sir, you will kindly correct the mistake in the printed copy of the judgment. It is due to me that you should correct it. It is at page 52.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Well, Sir, he quoted all the passages which went to show that in the magistrate's opinion Mr. Harvey was innocent, and then he said....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is just one correction to be made at page 52. In the third sentence in paragraph 3 of page 52, there should be a 'not' between 'would' and 'be'. The sentence should read :

"So that in the absence of facts now disclosed in the evidence, I am of opinion that it would not be unreasonable for a man in the accused's position than to have believed in the corruption of the complainant."

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : And 'than' should be deleted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Yes.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : We shall correct it, if there is a mistake.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : It changes the whole meaning.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, there is one more point. I shall not go into the quotations of Mr. Pahalajani. They were not relevant and I have no time at my disposal to go into them fully.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

I will take only one point from his speech. That is this : Mr. Pahalajani said that Government had decoyed the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, in making allegations before the committee.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Sir, I deny having said so. I did not say that the Government decoyed Mr. Nariman. I said that Mr. Nariman was decoyed by those who invited him as a witness.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Oh, I see. He now exonerates Government and says that the committee had decoyed Mr. Nariman in making the allegations. At any rate, let me tell him once for all that Government did nothing of the kind. The committee only wanted the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, to give evidence to substantiate his speech of the 3rd March 1925. If the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, was reckless in cross-examination, Government could not help it. Then why use such language that Government had decoyed Mr. Nariman ?

Another point is that raised by my honourable friend Mr. Jehangir Petit. He said that Mr. Harvey deliberately gave wrong information to Government. I do not think he is correct in his statement. What happened is this. Two questions were asked by honourable members of this House, one was asked by Mr. Trivedi and the other by Mr. Nariman. The answer to the first question of Mr. Trivedi was drafted by another officer of Government. That answer was not given to the honourable member on the floor of this House. It was given outside this House. Then the second answer to Mr. Nariman's question stated that the officers of Government had made a mistake in ordering these bars. Now, I may tell this House that a few days after the prosecution was launched, Mr. Harvey appears to have looked into the documents and the files very carefully and he suddenly changed his mind. He then stated that the bars of $\frac{7}{8}''$ were wanted by the department. But the magistrate held that his first explanation was a correct one and that $\frac{7}{8}''$ bars were ordered instead of $\frac{5}{8}''$. The magistrate went further to say that it was proved that Mr. Harvey had made every endeavour to cancel that order. Therefore his second explanation could not be correct. That is the position. I do not wish to detain the House any longer. I have already given the House all the important parts of the judgment, which clearly show that the magistrate did not find Mr. Harvey guilty of corruption.

Question put. House divided. Ayes 63 : Noes 36.

Motion carried. Demand for Rs. 60,800 granted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Before I adjourn the House, the Honourable the Leader of the House wishes to make a statement.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I have no doubt, Sir, that the Council wish to know what will be the orders of business from to-morrow onwards ? We propose, and I believe that I have got the consent of several members of the House, that we go on with Government business to-morrow and, if the Council desires, we can have an extra hour to-morrow and also an extra hour on Saturday, so that we can finish the sessions by Saturday afternoon. If the honourable members prefer that course, we will take it. Otherwise, the only alternative will be that we will have to go on till Monday and private business will have to be taken on Saturday and Monday, provided Government business is finished to-morrow, which I am sure it will be. I should like to know the wishes of the House whether they would desire to sit an hour longer both to-morrow and on Saturday. If they do, then we can meet at half past twelve to-morrow and an hour later on Monday. (Honourable Members: "Yes, yes!" "Till Monday, till Monday.")

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: We would be stultifying ourselves.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. There is no question of stultifying. If the House desires that it should have its two days allotted to it, the Honourable the Leader of the House is willing to go on till Monday. If the House desires that the session should come to its close on Saturday, then the Honourable the Leader of the House is willing to give two more hours by the arrangement he proposed. Now, instead of asking individual opinions, I would ask honourable members who wish that the session should continue till Monday to stand in their places. (Several honourable members stood in their places). Now, those who wish that the session should terminate on Saturday by the arrangement proposed by the Honourable the Leader of the House, will stand in their places. (None stood up). The House will, therefore, continue till Monday, and the private business will continue for two days as arranged.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: I want to draw your attention to the fact that we have already lost many hours and in view of that fact, and the fact that the Honourable the Leader of the House was willing to give two extra hours, I want to ask whether he would not consent, under the altered conditions, to give those extra hours which we have lost, and especially because on Saturday we shall be sitting for a less number of hours than usual.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Saturday arrangement is an arrangement which the House had agreed to. The House is adjourned to half-past one to-morrow, Friday, the 16th March 1928.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Friday, the 16th March 1928

The Council re-assembled at the Town Hall, Bombay, at 1-30 p.m. on Friday, the 16th March 1928, the Honourable the President, Mr. A. M. K. DEHLAVI, Bar-at-Law, presiding.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Any new members desirous of taking their seats in the Council ?

Mr. D. R. H. Browne then made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor and took his seat in the Council.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Questions.

CIVIL COURTS : ROZANAMAS

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the High Court has issued circulars that rozanamas of civil suits should be written in the language of the district ;

(b) whether rozanamas in the civil courts of all suits in Satara district are written in English ;

(c) whether this practice is in force in any other district in the Presidency ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Rule 117 on page 34 of the High Court Civil Circulars suggests that rozanamas should ordinarily be written in English. Government are not aware of any other circular on the subject.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government have no information on this point, and as it is a matter on which the High Court have authority to issue instructions, should they think it necessary, it does not appear to be incumbent on Government to interfere in any way.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, MANEKPORE

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that in the village of Manekpore, taluka Bardoli in Surat District, the land revenue assessment for the whole village is enhanced by 56 per cent. on the dry crop land, in spite of the heavy indebtedness of the village ;

(b) if so, whether it is a fact that one of the grounds for such a heavy enhancement was the existence of a ginning factory at the village of Kamalchhod (Valod Mahal) situated at a distance of about two miles ;

(c) if so, whether they are aware that there was a ginning factory at Manekpore itself, though not existing at present, at the time of last revision and that that factory was already taken into account ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) It is the fact that the total dry crop assessment of the village has been enhanced by 56 per cent.

(b) and (c) The existence of the ginning factory was not a reason for the enhancement. The latter is justified by the rise in rental and sale values, which again is partly accounted for by the fact that the village is situated close to a pukka road leading to Madhi station on the Tapti Valley Railway. This railway had not been constructed when the last settlement was made.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, MOTI-FALOD

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the revised land revenue assessment of Moti-falod, taluka Bardoli of the Surat District, has been enhanced to Re. 0-7-3 in a rupee as against 4 annas per rupee recommended by the Assistant Settlement Officer ;

(b) if so, the reasons for such an enhancement ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) The present lease multiple of the village is $6\frac{1}{2}$, and corresponding to this high rental value there is an extraordinarily high sale multiple of 107.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is the Honourable the Revenue Member aware that the rental value was ·85 for the first period and 2·75 only for the second period ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I have not verified that.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Were the higher prices for the last five years only preceding the year of revision settlement taken into consideration in arriving at the least multiple of $6\frac{1}{2}$?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, CHORASI TALUKA

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the land revenue assessment on dry crop land in the Chorasi taluka of the Surat district is the highest in the Presidency and also the highest in British India ;

(b) if so, whether they are aware that in spite of the heavy indebtedness of the taluka, they have sanctioned a further enhancement of about 19 per cent. on the average for the whole taluka ;

(c) if so, whether it is a fact that in enhancing the assessment they have taken the prices of commodities of the abnormal years (1918-25) into consideration ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The incidence of assessment in Chorasi Taluka (Rs. 7-15-0 for the cultivated area) is the highest in the Presidency, but not, it is believed, the highest in British India. But the latter point is not readily verifiable, as taluka figures outside the Bombay Presidency are not published. The incidence for the Surat District as a whole (Rs. 3-7-0) is exceeded by several other districts in British India and by many in Burma.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. The enhancement is not based directly on the prices of this or any other period, but mainly on proved rental values covering a number of years.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Will the Honourable the Revenue Member inform me that when it is a fact which he admits that the incidence of land revenue assessment in Chorasi taluka is the highest in the presidency, why the honourable member, the Settlement Commissioner, Mr Anderson, interrupted and said " No " when I referred to this matter in one of my speeches the other day ? Is the statement of the Honourable the Revenue Member incorrect or that of the Settlement Commissioner is incorrect ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I understand from the honourable member the Settlement Commissioner that he was referring to the ratio which the assessment bears to the average rental value and in that respect the incidence is not the highest in the presidency. What he means is that the proportion of the assessment to the rental value is not the highest, there are other talukas in which the ratio is higher.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : As regards (c), you do not want to take into consideration the values of commodities. Have not the rental values any bearing on the prices of agricultural produce ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : They do vary, but not directly. In the end they would be affected by them.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is it not a fact that if the prices of agricultural produce are higher, the rental is bound to go up ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Ultimately, that would be the case.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, KHOJ AND PARDI-KADOD

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the average rise in assessment in the Bardoli taluka is about 22 per cent. and that the rise in

Khoj and Pardi-Kadod villages of that taluka is as high as 44 per cent.;

(c) whether it is a fact that the villages have been raised from the second to the first group;

(d) if so, whether it is due to the proximity of the village to the Bardoli-Kadod road;

(e) whether they are aware that the road existed even at the time of last revision;

(f) whether they are aware that the road is not better than what it was before and is no better than an ordinary cart track;

(g) if so, whether they are aware that the villages are heavily indebted to the extent of Rs. 1,50,000 ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) Yes.

(b) No. If the villages were in a lower group, then the rate of assessment applicable to them must have been lower. What the Honourable Member, however, apparently means is that the average assessment per acre was higher than in some villages in the group above. This might well be the case if the latter villages had a very low soil classification.

(c) Yes.

(d) No. The assessment is based on rental values, and possibly the proximity of the road in question has contributed to producing higher rental values. In Khoj the average rental value is 5·14 multiples of the assessment and the sale value 163½ multiples. In Pardi-Kadod the rental multiple is 5·16 and the sale multiple 194½.

(e) Yes.

(f) The road is now classed as a practicable 2nd class motor road.

(g) Government have no information; but if the debt is secured on the rental value of the land, then a high figure of debt would indicate that the rental value is at least correspondingly high.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: As regards (b), is it a fact that the multiple rental value was 2·20 for the first period up to 1914 and 3·08 from 1924 to 1918 for these villages ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: That is a very high rental that the honourable member has quoted.....

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: The increase is 44 per cent. of what it had.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: What is the question ?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Is it a fact that for the first period the least multiple of the village of Pardi was 2·20, and for the second period 3·08; the average comes to about 2·60, i.e., 36 per cent.; on the top of it 44 per cent. enhancement has been sanctioned for this village ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: I accept that.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, CHORASI AND BARDOLI TALUKAS

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the names of villages of the Chorasi and Bardoli talukas in which they have fixed in revision higher assessments than that recommended by the Assistant Settlement Officer;

(b) whether these villages were reclassified;

(c) if not, the basis on which such enhancement has been made in each case?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) Lists are appended.

(b) No.

(c) Principally rental values.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, VALOD MAHAL, KALIPARAJ VILLAGES

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received a combined application from the several Kaliparaj villages, namely, Bahej, Mordevi, Kosambia, Kumbhia, Kanjod, Bhimpore, Dunkhal, Ranveri, Naloth, Golan, Kasvav, Vedchhi, Ambach, Hathuka, Godha, in the interior of the Valod Mahal beyond Purna as regards the heavy enhancements of their assessment;

(b) whether they are aware that the land of these villages is stony and very inferior ;

(c) whether they are aware that there are no water facilities in this tract of land ;

(d) whether they are aware that the cultivators of these villages are the most backward Kaliparaj people ;

(e) whether they are aware that the tract is very far from the railway ;

(f) the grounds of raising the assessment to the extent of 50 to 60 per cent. in these villages ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) From some of these villages.

(b) If this is the case, then allowance therefor would be made in the soil classification and there would be a corresponding deduction from the maximum rate of assessment.

(c) It is not known what is meant by water facilities in this case. These villages abut on three rivers and the rainfall is considerable. There are of course no irrigation canals.

(d) Government are aware that the cultivators are largely of the Kaliparaj class. But they do not admit the implication that the assessment is necessarily paid by these cultivators. It is paid by the landlords, who are by no means all of this class. Where Kaliparaj cultivators are themselves owners of the soil, they probably cannot be correctly described as " the most backward class."

(e) No. The tract in question is within easy reach of the Bilimora-Kalamba-Waghai Railway.

(f) The grounds are rental and sale values.

REVENUE ASSESSMENT, BARDOLI AND CHORASI TALUKAS

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they had received representations from the Council representatives of the Surat rural area protesting against the enhancements of assessments in Bardoli and Chorasi talukas of the Surat district ;

(b) if so, whether it was therein pointed out to Government that—

(i) the agriculturists of the taluka of the Bardoli who had no debt in 1886 have got indebted to the extent of Rs. 92,38,000 by now ;

(ii) while the value of the crops of Bardoli taluka was estimated at Rs. 28,90,548, the cost of production for the same crops including the assessment was shown to be Rs. 32,00,000 leaving a loss of Rs. 3,00,000 to the agriculturists ;

(iii) the multiple of assessment represented by rent was not more than 2·20 up to the year 1914 in the Bardoli taluka and hence there is no case for enhancement of assessment ;

(iv) the abnormal years 1918-25 should not be taken into consideration ;

(c) if so, whether these points were taken into consideration by them in raising the assessment;

(d) if not, what other considerations led them to increase the assessments of these talukas ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Assertions to this effect were made in these representations. As to (i), Government do not accept the bare statement that there was no debt in 1886. If the debt has since increased, it must be mainly because land values have increased proportionately or even more. As to (ii), the figures condemn themselves as absurd, for if agriculture were being conducted at an annually recurring heavy loss, there would be no security for the debt said to exist. As to (iii), it is a fact that the average lease multiple of assessment was 2·20 during the period 1901 to 1910, but the present assessments were fixed in 1927 and not 27 to 17 years ago. As to (iv), Government do not admit that assessments should be made without regard to present-day facts. Some of the years were abnormal; but the figures which were relied upon are those which prevail to-day.

(c) The above assertions were considered.

(d) The considerations are those stated in the Government Resolution introducing the revision settlement and the reports underlying it.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is it a fact that in the first revision settlement report of this taluka the then Collector Sir Frederick Lely had stated in his report that this taluka had no debt in the year 1866 (1886 is a misprint), when the first settlement was introduced; and it was Rs. 33 lakhs in the year 1896, and is the Honourable the Revenue Member aware that it again increased to Rs. 93 lakhs in the year 1924 ? Government say that there is no proof, but is it not a fact that there is a remark in the first settlement report that this taluka had no debt in the year 1866, and that it had Rs. 33 lakhs in the year 1896 ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I should like to verify that fact; I have not read the report.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : I will bring the report for the information of the honourable member.

REVENUE ASSESSMENTS, CHORASI AND BARDOLI TALUKAS

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the recent enhancement in land revenue assessments of the Chorasi and Bardoli talukas of the Surat district sanctioned by Government are based on the assumption that the talukas are the most prosperous in the presidency;

(b) if so, whether any economic enquiry has been instituted by them;

(c) if not, whether they propose to undertake such an enquiry in view of the fact that the ryots of the talukas are at present more heavily indebted than they were at the time of the last revision ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Assessments are not based on assumptions as to prosperity.

(b) and (c) No. In land revenue settlements a general economic enquiry is not strictly relevant. The general economic state of any given area includes the conditions of many persons and industries not connected with agriculture. The true basis of assessment is rental value for it takes into account all the relevant economic factors.

INCREASED ASSESSMENT IN DADARIA AND OTHER VILLAGES

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be plesed to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the multiple of assessment represented by rent is below 3 for rice land in the villages of Dadaria, Degama, Godadha, Hathuka, Bahej, Kasavav, Nalon and Nalotha ;

(b) if so, the reasons for enhancing the assessments in these villages by 60 per cent. ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) In the case of three of these eight villages there are no statistics from which to calculate the lease multiple of assessment. In the case of all but one of the remaining five, the multiple is below 3.

(b) The final grouping of some of these villages is still under consideration.

INCREASED ASSESSMENT, MADHI AND SURALI VILLAGES

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the land revenue assessments of the villages of Madhi and Surali, taluka Bardoli, district Surat, were enhanced by 50 to 60 per cent. at the first revision settlement and that Government had to give remission for some years on account of the assessments being considered very high ;

(b) if the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, whether they are aware that the assessments of these villages have been increased by 50 per cent. over and above the 50 to 60 per cent. raised at the first settlement ;

(c) if so, the reasons for enhancing assessments by about 100 per cent. in the period of 30 years ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The rates were raised by 33·19 and 46·9 per cent. respectively.

(b) Yes.

(c) The total enhancement is not 100 per cent. but roughly 80 per cent. The first enhancement covers a period of 30 years, and the second further period of 30 years. It is not correct to represent that both enhancements took place within the same period of 30 years. The reasons for enhancement are first that an important railway from Surat to Amalner has been constructed through these villages, Madhi having a railway station which serves a large area. And secondly during the last

30 years there has been a great development of cotton growing. The sale and lease multiples, which are for a large area, are as follows :—

Madhi

Sales	..73½ times the assessment.
Rents	..4½ times the assessment.

Surali

Sales	..75 times the assessment.
Rents	..3·72 times the assessment.

During the settlement period, the value of land in Surali rose to its present multiple from 17 times the assessment, and in Madhi from 18½ times the assessment.

FOREIGN LIQUOR LICENSE, AHMEDABAD : PETITIONS FOR CONTINUANCE

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the foreign liquor " off " license granted to Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons near Saher Kotda Police Chowki, Ahmedabad, which was to terminate by 31st January 1928 has been ordered to be further continued in response to some petitions of the residents of the Railway Suburb of Ahmedabad ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, who are the signatories of those petitions and whether Government will be pleased to put all these petitions on the Council table ;

(c) whether those petitions contained the signatures of minors and school boys ;

(d) whether the bona-fides of those petitions were inquired into by Government ;

(e) if so, which officers of Government conducted the inquiries and what were their reports ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to clause (a) of his question asked on the 7th March 1928.

(b) The signatories to the petitions include Agents and Managers of Mills, Railway officials, Agents of Banks and Military Officers. Thirteen petitions praying for the continuance of the " off " license are placed on the Council table.*

(c) Government have no information.

(d) Government accepted the bona-fides of these petitioners without enquiry, just as they have accepted without enquiry the bona-fides of the petitions which they have received from time to time against Messrs. Fanibanda.

(e) Does not arise.

* Kept in the Secretary's Office.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Is it a fact that the Honourable Minister accepts the bona-fides of all petitioners, whether they petition for a shop or against a shop ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : There is no reason why the Honourable Minister should not accept the bona-fides of both.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR : Are the signatories known to the Honourable Minister ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The Honourable Minister is not expected to know the signatories.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : Mr. President, I desire for one moment of rise to call your attention to a matter somewhat relating to a point to order and somewhat affecting the procedure of this House, in which, I trust, I shall have the universal sympathy of all honourable members. The matter is this, that a few days ago, as the House remembers, I made a somewhat hurried address, somewhat heavily curtailed, on the subject of Bardoli. The address was taken down by the official stenographers, and then was handed to me the next day for correction, but before I had been able to correct a single word, a copy of that transcript was handed to the press, and has appeared this morning in the " Times of India " in the exact form in which it was taken down by the official stenographers. In other words, it is not the report prepared by the representatives of the press, but it is the report borrowed from the Council office. That is a matter which can easily be established by a textual comparison. There is another question about the correctness of these reports ; but of course every member knows that unless he has read through them and corrected some of the more obvious mistakes, he would be very sorry indeed to see them appear in the press. They very often make a travesty of his utterances and would often impeach the reputation for sanity of the member to whom such remarks are attributed. That is the case with this report which has been printed in the " Times of India." I would ask you to express an opinion as to whether it is in order that the official stenographer's report should be handed to the press before the member concerned has even seen it.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I am glad that the honourable member has brought this matter to my notice, and I shall be sorry to find out that, as the honourable member presumes, the verbatim copy from this office has been handed over to the press. I shall have to look into the matter, and if that has been done, I would certainly stop it at once. The press reporters can look after themselves, and it is not for the Council office to help them in that respect. I do not know at this moment whether this has been so, but if it is so, it will be stopped in future.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : I thank you, Sir.

Supplementary* demand, covered by re-appropriation from 47-Miscellaneous to 9-A Scheduled Taxes, for additional grant for refunds.....Rs. 5,500.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, I move for a demand, by re-appropriation, of Rs. 5,500, from 47-Miscellaneous (Reserved) to 9-A Scheduled Taxes.

Question put and carried.

*Appendix 19.

* Supplementary demand under 5-Land Revenue, for repairs to deras in the Thar Parkar district..... Rs. 9,500

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, I move for a grant of Rs. 9,500, under 5-Land Revenue, for repairs to deras in the Thar Parkar district.

Question put and carried.

Additional Grant under 8-Forest.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Sir, I make a demand for Rs. 1,22,000, of which Rs. 69,000 will be from the earmarked savings in the provision for non-voted expenditure and Rs. 53,000 will be re-appropriated from the Reserve. The reasons are given in the note† which is in the hands of honourable members.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : How is the re-appropriation to be made ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Rs. 69,000 will be re-appropriated from the savings under the non-voted items under 8-Forest, and a re-appropriation has to be made for Rs. 53,000 from 47-Miscellaneous to 8-Forest.

Question put and carried.

‡Entertainment of tagavi establishment in the Bijapur District.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I beg to ask for a grant of Rs. 2,960 under 5-Land Revenue.

Question proposed.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District) : Sir, I believe this grant is for the establishment of five special circle inspectors. I want to know whether these circle inspectors are going to be employed for the selection of suitable tracts for well works and wad works or whether they are going to be employed for the distribution of tagavi. This is not clear from the note.

Secondly, in connection with the report of the Collector, I am reliably told that the Collector has already started an Anti-Famine Institute in the Bijapur District and has got it registered under the Co-operative Societies Act. Bijapur is a famine district, and we know that the people emigrate frequently from that district during periods of famines and scarcity. Still subscriptions are being raised by the Collector himself to the tune of lakhs of rupees in that district. Either the people of the district are rich, or the Collector and his subordinate officials must be exerting official pressure on people to pay subscriptions to the Anti-Famine Institute, of which the Collector himself is the President. He is exerting all his influence to collect subscriptions from the people. If the people have not made complaints, it is because they have to complain against the District Magistrate and Collector and it is too much to expect that they will have sufficient courage for making such complaints. Therefore, I am bringing this fact to the notice of Government. A few years ago about a lakh of rupees were collected for the Blind Relief Association and now subscriptions are being collected for the

* Appendix 20. †Appendix 21. ‡ Appendix 22.

[Mr. P. R. Chikodi]

Anti-Famine Institute. If the district is so rich as to contribute lakhs of rupees, where is the necessity for this House to grant this paltry sum of Rs. 3,000 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : What is the amount ?

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : I am told that the subscriptions promised are about two lakhs, and Rs. 75,000 have already been collected and a building for the Institute is shortly going to be erected. I am placing these matters before the Government in order that they may be inquired into. I want that the Collector should be asked to stop having anything to do with the collection of subscriptions of this nature. Let the people do it and let me see how much they will collect.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR (Bijapur District) : Sir, I come from the Bijapur District, and I must remove the misunderstanding which my honourable friend is labouring under. This sum of Rs. 3,000 is being provided for payment to the establishment that has been employed on tagavi work, namely, in connection with loans that have to be given to carry out the scheme of the Water Diviner and also bunding schemes. I know these circle inspectors are also employed to help the ryots by going round and showing them suitable tracts.

About the Anti-Famine Institute, which has been referred to by my honourable friend, it is a fact that there has been started an anti-famine institute under the name of Wilson Anti-Famine Institute. But it is not a fact that the Collector of the District has put pressure upon any ryots to pay subscriptions.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : I do not want to be told anything by a man who is himself a member of that Institute, and who comes from the Bijapur district.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR : I am one of the members of that Institute. The public have themselves come forward and helped this institute ; they want an institute of this kind so that it may be of help to the people of the district. There are no complaints from any part of the district, as I personally know. I do not know from whom my honourable friend from Belgaum got this information.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the relevancy of all this ? I understood the honourable member Mr. Chikodi to say that as the institute is looking after this work which is proposed to be provided for, this provision is not necessary. Is that the point ?

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : It is not necessary. I am also bringing a grievance to the notice of Government. The Anti-Famine Institute is intended for famine and this provision also is intended for famine. Well, if the people are so rich as to be able to pay lakhs of rupees voluntarily, where is the necessity of making a demand for this sum ? I say collections are being forced.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is to say, that that Institute ought to look after that work ?

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Certainly, when the honourable member says that the people are voluntarily subscribing.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then, where was the misunderstanding to be corrected ?

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR : The misunderstanding is, it was stated by the honourable member that the Collector, as President of the Institute, was harassing the people and forcibly taking subscriptions from them.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That has nothing to do with the demand.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR : I would like to tell my honourable friend that because this amount is collected, it does not necessarily follow either that it is forcibly collected or that the people are rich. Possibly my honourable friend is under the misapprehension that the amount is being taken from one and all. It is not so. Tagavi is being paid to the poor agriculturists, but this Institute is being helped by the rich people alone.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District) : Sir, as there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding as regards this, I wish to clear that misunderstanding. This Anti-Famine Institute was opened by the Collector in response to the wishes of many of the leaders of the Bijapur District. I myself had been pressing the Collector, ever since he came to Bijapur, to open an agricultural institute to help agriculturists. In response to the wishes of several leaders he opened this Anti-Famine Institute. No sort of zulum is practised by the Collector and subscriptions are paid voluntarily. Many rich persons have contributed towards it and the sum is now nearly Rs. 75,000 and there are no complaints from any corner of my district. I think the honourable member from Belgaum is under a misapprehension : some people seem to have misrepresented to him about the Anti-Famine Institute. The Anti-Famine Institute is a very useful institution : it helps not only rich agriculturists, but also poor agriculturists. It has been doing excellent work ; they have been providing ploughs at a cheap rate, distributing merino sheep, and doing everything connected with agriculture. This institute is not a private institute ; it is an institute sanctioned by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and duly recognised by Government ; and therefore there ought to be no such misrepresentation. I hope that these few remarks have enlightened the honourable member and he will be quite satisfied with the explanation.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Mr. President, I just want to explain that I know nothing at all about this Anti-Famine Institute : nor has the Honourable the Revenue Member received any complaint of the nature that the honourable member from Belgaum referred to. I am asking for this grant as this establishment is required for the distribution of tagavi, and I can assure the honourable member from my previous knowledge of the district and also from the evidence that was placed before the Royal Commission on Agriculture that nowhere is this work of providing wad works and wells more important than in the famine-stricken tract of Bijapur. It is also perhaps within the knowledge of the honourable member that the Deputy Director of Agriculture, who I understand is much respected by the people of the

[Sir Chunilal Mehta]

Southern Division, has himself put before Government various schemes of wad construction on a fairly extensive scale which require a considerable amount of money and which also require a certain amount of technical assistance. That money has to be found through tagavi loans, and in order that the tagavi loans should be properly distributed, it is desirable that this distribution should be subject to the supervision of this staff which the Collector is asking for. I do not think that the honourable member intends to say that every possible care should not be taken in the distribution of tagavi so that it is used for the purpose for which it is taken. The simple issue before this House now is that this establishment is required for the distribution of tagavi. The honourable member has used it as a peg to hang certain other criticisms on, which is more or less usual. I have no knowledge of any undue pressure having been used at all. Government do not, of course, and I also do not, approve of any undue pressure. I must say that the construction of works against famine relief is most important and it is nowhere more important than in Bijapur. Not only the present collector, but his predecessor also, Mr. Gordon, took considerable interest in encouraging this work. I do not think there is anything wrong in the Collector taking interest to encourage people in the construction of these works.

Question that the demand for Rs. 2,960 under 5-Land Revenue be granted put and carried.

*Contract for the printing, publishing, etc., of school wall maps.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, I ask for a grant of Rs. 26,829 under 5-Land Revenue.

Question proposed.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Sir, this demand is made for the printing, publishing, storing and selling of departmental school wall maps. The Director of Public Instruction invited tenders and the manager of the Government Photozinco Press submitted a tender. I do not know, Sir, whether the manager of a Government Press, who is a Government servant, can submit a tender. Besides, we find that the contract made with Messrs. Datar & Sons expired, and under the terms of that contract they have to be paid Rs. 26,829 being the cost of the stock. We should like to know whether the latter was called upon to submit his tender or not.

The thing is this. These maps are required for schools and we are told that there is a saving under 31-Education Transferred, and, therefore, the sum of Rs. 26,829 is to be utilised from that source for 5-Land Revenue. I do not understand what school maps have to do with Land Revenue. In the present instance we are asked to pick up some amount from Education and spend on the Land Revenue. I do not know what consideration is there so essential, that the item from Education should be changed into an item for Land Revenue. There is one sentence in the note which says "As the expenditure on account of the Government Photozinco Press is debitable to 5-Land Revenue," it is therefore proposed to transfer the sum of Rs. 26,829 from "Education" to "5-Land Revenue." The Photo Zinco Press, as I have said, is not a department which is doing work of the education department. It is doing the work of some other department, and that is the work of Land Revenue.....

*Appendix 23.

[Mr. L. M. Deshpande]

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: It is not so. It can do the work of any department.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: Can it do the work of other departments? Whatever it may be, I should like to know whether the manager of that press, who is a Government servant, can submit a tender or not.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Sir, I think I can fully satisfy the honourable member on the points raised by him. When the Photo Zinco Press was started, it was entirely for the purpose of printing the village and taluka maps required by the Revenue Survey. It was therefore necessary for Government to engage efficient staff and also to purchase machinery. When Government had, therefore, spent a large amount in obtaining proper machinery and staff for this press, it was necessary for Government to get a full return on that money which was invested. If there was no sufficient work for this press, and it had been kept standing idle with heavy overhead charges and an inadequate return therefrom, this House would have severely blamed Government for the waste of public funds.

This Photo Zinco Press was from the beginning entrusted with the preparation of all map-printing and similar matter for the Government of Bombay. It is in fact well-known to this House and I shall, therefore, not go into details. As regards the school maps, I may say a contract was given many years ago by the Director of Instruction for printing the maps, and supplying them to all schools. These maps were actually printed by this press since many years. This press has been doing a large amount of outside printing; I may say that it has been practically doing the map-printing work of all departments. It does the work of printing maps and plans, printing of posters and diagrams for the Bombay Government, for the Central Provinces, for the Mysore Government and also for the Baroda State. A large number of items of private work they have also to do. If that were not so, the cost of each individual map would obviously be enhanced, by the necessity of meeting overhead charges, depreciation on machinery and several other charges such as employees' pay. Therefore, we had been printing the maps for many years.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: May I know if maps in all languages were being printed?

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Yes, in all languages that are used in this presidency, Sindhi, Gujarati, Marathi and English.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Was it also in Sindhi?

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: I beg your pardon. I am not quite sure whether we had Sindhi school maps. They may have been done in Karachi on a separate contract. That is the situation. So, it will be observed that these maps were actually being printed at the Photo Zinco works. When the time came for inviting tenders for the contract, the question was then raised as to why this press should not supply the maps direct to the schools. However, the tenders were invited and forms sent to different contractors and a long time was given to them to make those tenders. When the time came for these tenders to be opened, it was found that there were none which accepted the Director's conditions. Therefore, the Photozinco Press was finally asked what prices they would charge for the supply of maps. They then sent us the prices in the form of a tender. Of course, no Government office can submit a "tender" to another Government office, but for the sake of comparison, these prices were submitted in the form of a tender. It was then found that the press charges were very low and moderate. We challenge anyone to supply these maps at lower rates than the Photozinco Press. That is the case. Therefore, the provision appears under 5, Land Revenue, because the manager of the Photozinco Press takes work from all parts of the world that he can get.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I do not understand the exact position in this demand. Suppose some other tender was accepted, tender of some other private press had been accepted. Then, in that case the manager of the private press would have taken over the stock of Mr. Datar. In that case the Educational Department would not have been required to pay anything to the manager of that private press for taking over the stock. Of course, the new contractor, who would supply those materials whenever required by the Educational Department would have received the value only for articles supplied by him. Here, in the place of another contractor the manager of the Photo Zinco Press has submitted a tender and has got the contract for the printing of the maps. Now, the real procedure ought to have been that the manager of the Photo Zinco Press should have taken over the entire stock of the retiring contractor and should have paid the amount from the provision made for him under the head 5-Land Revenue, by even asking for a supplementary demand under Land Revenue rather than take away the whole amount from the Educational Department at once. Now, these maps will remain with the Manager of the Photo Zinco Press, and the whole amount has to be paid by the Educational Department. These maps will be supplied, and at that time also perhaps the Educational Department, when it requires those maps, will be taking from the stock with the Photo Zinco Press and at that time also they will be paying for the maps which may be supplied from the stocks taken from Datar. I think, if the Photo Zinco Press is taking work on commercial principles, then this liability ought to have been taken over by the Photo Zinco Press itself. It may sell the maps to the Educational Department or to others. But just now taking away the whole amount from the educational budget is, I think, quite out of order. This demand ought to have been made under 5, Land Revenue; rather than take away the money from the Educational Department, which is always being starved by Government, in this way. If this amount of Rs. 26,829 was with the Education Minister, of course, it was a saving and he could have reappropriated this saving for some other work of utility in the Educational Department itself. Unfortunately, now, what would have been a saving in the Educational Department is attempted to be taken away by another department. This is the difference between the transferred departments and the reserved departments. When there is a saving in a transferred department, a reserved department comes forward and takes away that saving. If this saving was with the Education Minister, he could have reappropriated it for giving a building grant or some other help to some educational institution, which would have benefited by it, and he could have very well utilised it in that way. But instead of allowing the Education Minister to spend his saving in his own department, Government take away his saving from him in such an underhand procedure or manner. If they required an additional demand for 5, Land Revenue for the purpose of the Photo Zinco Press, which is worth being asked for, let the demand be made under 5, Land Revenue, a supplementary demand, and let them not take away the money from the Education Minister and let 5-Land Revenue show the profits after undertaking all the liability which it has incurred. Here, the other department incurs the liability and the profit will be shown in the Photo Zinco Press under 5, Land Revenue. That is not the correct procedure, and I do not make out why the Education Minister should have allowed such a procedure. The Photo Zinco Press takes the stock from a private press, and the Education Minister pays away the amount from his own pocket. I do not think this is a procedure to which he should have agreed, and I think he should guard the interest of his own department and should not allow his savings to be frittered away in this manner.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Sir, I do not like to waste the time of the House. I am concerned only about the nature of these maps. I have myself put questions in this House with regard to Urdu maps. It is three years that the Urdu maps have not been printed, and every time when questions were asked here, we were told that the contract was given and arrangements were being made to hasten the result. Now, we are told that the Photo Zinco Press has taken the contract. From what I have heard from the honourable member Mr. Anderson, I think he told us that the Photo Zinco Department was undertaking work for all departments. If that was so, then what was the necessity for the Director of Public Instruction to advertise and go to private firms who would naturally charge more than the Photo Zinco Press ?

Then, Sir, I do not really know whether the Photo Zinco Press was not competing with private firms. Complaint is made in this House that the Photo Zinco Press competes with private firms and, therefore, private printing work suffers. I do not know if that aspect of the question can be considered by the House now ; neither have I the time for that discussion. I should certainly like to know why the Director of Public

[Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad]

Instruction did not go to the Photo Zinco Department in the first instance, and why all this delay of three or four years has been caused regarding Urdu maps in the Bombay presidency.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat City): Sir, we find that the Photo Zinco Department has begun to trade in this fashion and trying to compete with private firms, and my honourble friend Moulvi Rafiuddin has touched that point. But one point which strikes me is this, that the Photo Zinco Department is being maintained by the Land Revenue Department and the money to the extent of Rs. 26,800 is to be reappropriated from the transferred department, that is to say, the Education Department, for purchasing a stock from the old contractor, and this stock to remain with the Photo Zinco Department. Now, Sir, as I understand it, this is a surplus stock which is lying with the old contractor which will have to be handed over to the new contractor, that is, to the Government Photo Zinco Department. I understand all this stock will have to be sold to the private booksellers' firms at one time or another.

Now, when this material worth about Rs. 26,800 will be sold to private firms, they will purchase this at a certain discount and the money will go to the Photo Zinco Department. Will this money that will be recovered from the private booksellers be refunded and put to the credit of or to the account of the Education Department or will it remain with the Revenue Department ? In all fairness, I think the money ought to be credited to the account of the Education Department and it should not be taken into account by the Revenue Department which, if it keeps the money, will show it as a sort of a profit for that department, and some day we shall be told that Government trade in the Photo Zinco Department has made such a huge profit. In all fairness, I again repeat, the money which will be recovered by selling this stock to private booksellers should be credited to the Education Department, and I hope the Honourable Minister will ask for that money from the Revenue Department if it receives that money.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I strongly oppose this demand because the Revenue Department, I think, has to pay the old contractor Messrs. Datar and Company of Poona. If the Educational Department judiciously employs this money for some other purpose, it would be a great boon for this presidency.

Since more than ten years Government have promised to give to the Bijapur district an industrial school for the benefit of backward classes and especially Mahomedans, and this scheme has been sanctioned by Government and His Excellency the Governor, when he was at Bijapur the last time, also promised to open this industrial school. For this industrial school Government had to finance only Rs. 14,000 for the present and therefore if they utilise this amount for the benefit of this school, it will be highly equitable. By an injudicious distribution of money like this, Government will starve the Education Department. The Education Department is a very important department and yet the Revenue Department wishes to have the lion's share in everything

[Mr. S. A. Sardesai]

The Revenue Department wishes to take this money from the Education Department, depriving many schemes like the industrial school scheme of Bijapur. This education scheme is very important in many respects. There are no school buildings and there are many other needs of the Education Department and Government find it difficult to finance educational schemes. At such a critical time, it is very strange that the Revenue Department should have come forward with a huge demand of over Rs. 26,000. I appeal to Government members and also to the Honourable the Finance Member especially not to take away the amount from the Education Department, because the Education Department is in need of opening industrial schools and making some other educational arrangements. This is, I think, a critical time. I think this demand is a most unreasonable one. I oppose the demand.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): I am rather surprised that this demand has been brought up in this manner. It has not been explained to us by Government as to whether there were not any savings possible in any other department from which they could transfer this sum of Rs. 26,829 in order to meet the liability now created, that they want to apply the axe to the Education Department, a department which should have been the last to be touched. It is a matter of great regret that even this small sum is being robbed from the Education Department. I do not wish to go into the many complaints with regard to the want in the Education Department. We have made numerous complaints to the Honourable the Education Minister with regard to the needs of education in Sind, and the other members representing the other divisions have made similar complaints and the one invariable answer has been that there are no funds. I put it to you, in all seriousness, if there is no money in the Education Department to meet its own needs, where—from does this Rs. 26,829 come to meet this demand which is outside their legitimate sphere? That is one pointed question which I want to put to the Government, and in all fairness to this House they should answer it in a straight manner before they expect the House to allow this reappropriation. I do not wish to make any lengthy speech because the thing is quite clear. What we want is that we want an assurance from the Honourable the Education Minister that this small reappropriation of Rs. 26,829 has been permitted after all avenues have been explored and after knowing that there is not the slightest saving in any other department in order to cover that small expenditure and assuming that that is so, why a supplementary demand is not being asked to be met out of current balances. The strongest complaint we want to make is why the Education Department alone is going to be depleted of its resources in this manner. We hope that the Honourable the Minister for Education will resist all attempts on the part of the Reserved half to deprive the Education Department of its scanty resources.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, as this matter relates to a transfer of funds which was sanctioned by the Finance Department and as the allegation is that the Education Department has been starved or rather that money has been taken from that department which ought not to have been taken, I rise to answer the charge that has been made. It is already fully explained, if I may say so, in the note. If the honourable member who has spoken just now had read carefully this note and had also listened to what the honourable member, the Settlement Commissioner, stated, I do not think that the speeches that have been made after he spoke would have been made. The facts of the case are that Messrs. Datar and Company's agreement came to an end. Tenders were called for.....

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I have read the note.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The honourable member has read it but I am afraid not understood it. (Laughter).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : May I interrupt the Honourable the Leader of the House and ask him also to inform the House if the agreement with Messrs. Datar was with the Education Department or any other department ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : That agreement was with the Education Department. On its termination the Education Department invited tenders. The matter related entirely to the Education Department. In the replies to these tenders there was no tenderer. that came forward who would accept the condition which had been made long ago with Messrs. Datar and Company that all their stock would be taken up by the incoming tenderer. The House was informed that a tenderer from Lahore offered to take up the contract but that tenderer refused to accept this condition. It was therefore that Government had to give this contract to the photo-zinco office. That was one of the reasons. The other reason was that the photo-zinco office would turn out these copies at a very much cheaper cost than would be possible for any other private contractor. This amount of Rs 26,000, therefore, had to be found by Government, and obviously the department that is to benefit by it must pay for it, and the Education Department has therefore to bear the cost. But it would be wrong to say that the Education Department has in any way lost by this transaction. On the contrary, it has considerably gained, as I will try to point out.

These copies are required by the Director of Public Instruction. The cost of those maps would have to be paid by the Education Department this year or in the future as required ; the full cost would have to be paid, which would be very much more than the Rs. 26,000 that are represented by these stores. As a matter of fact, then, the Education Department would have had to pay very considerably more than this sum of money which has now been taken from savings, and I might point out that it is a saving from the non-voted grant under 31-Education. It is, therefore, a transaction which pertains wholly to the Education Department, and is rightly debited to the Education Department, and also it is a transaction which is very favourable to that department. Had the photo-zinco press not taken up this work, very much more for the cost of the maps would have had to be paid by the Education

[Sir Chunilal Mehta]

Department and by the public. I am given to understand that the cost of each map would have gone up by at least Re. 1, if the photo-zinco press had not taken up this contract. Therefore, I hope it is quite clear to the House that neither the Government nor the Honourable Minister for Education did anything wrong in entering upon this very favourable transaction, and that it is not a case of favouring a reserved department at the cost of the transferred department. It only happens to be entered under 5, Land Revenue because the photo-zinco press is under Land Revenue.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, as the Honourable the Leader of the House has explained the whole situation, I have nothing further to add.

Question put and carried.

*Supplementary demand, covered by reappropriation from 47—Miscellaneous Transferred to 32—Medical Transferred, for grant-in-aid to Kambar municipality for a new dispensary.....Rs. 19,296.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I make a demand for Rs. 19,296, to be taken from 47—Miscellaneous Transferred and to be carried to 32—Medical. The grant is required for a grant-in-aid to the Kambar municipality towards the construction of a new dispensary. The dispensary building is in a very precarious and positively dangerous condition, and for some years the matter has been waiting for want of funds. This year it was reported by the Commissioner in Sind that the building cannot last any longer. Under these circumstances, this grant is demanded, and the expenditure is absolutely necessary.

Question proposed.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, with reference to this grant, there is some information which is necessary to be given by the Honourable Minister. It is a matter of considerable regret that, so far as the hospitals in the mofussil are concerned, neither the Honourable the Minister, nor the Finance Department, nor the Government seem to care for them. This is one of those instances where a mofussil dispensary building is in danger of falling. It has been in that condition for the last three years, and in spite of the most urgent demands made by the Surgeon-General, the Honourable Minister in charge thinks that the reason given is not sufficient, and no grant should be given. The Finance Department cannot realise the urgency of these demands made for mofussil hospitals by the Surgeon General. Of course, Bombay city's claims are met, but so far as the mofussil is concerned, and this Kambar municipal hospital is one, it has taken a long time to have its claims met. Therefore, I would ask the Honourable Minister to tell us exactly when this building began to be in a dangerous and rickety condition, when the first report was made by the Surgeon General that it was so when the papers came to him, what steps he took to put the building in order, how often the Finance Department refused to grant him the funds, and under what circumstances the grant is now being made. I want this information, because the treatment that is given to mofussil dispensaries is really very hard.

*Appendix 24.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): Sir, I endorse every word that has fallen from the honourable member who preceded me, and I would like to get some information from the Honourable Minister as to how it is that though this municipality has been demanding money since 1912, no help was given to it for building the dispensary. The matter was again brought to the notice of the Honourable Minister in the year 1924, and yet no funds were allotted at the time. It is indeed regrettable that for such an important matter as that of medical aid to the poor people, Government are not allotting funds. Kambar, though not a big town, is probably a taluka town, as there is a municipality there, and the population there must be at least some thousands. There must be several people daily attending this dispensary. The report is that the old building is in a dangerous condition, and it might fall at any time. It is stated that water is leaking through the walls, and yet the walls were not sufficiently and properly repaired. Sir, I think this is not the fault of the Honourable Minister but of the Finance Department. This demand of the transferred department must not have been allowed by the Finance Department. Sir, this question ought to have been considered properly every year. I do not know whether the Honourable Minister in charge of the department was asking the Finance Department for the money or not, when the demand was made by the Commissioner in Sind or the municipality concerned.

I have now to bring to the notice of this House the point whether such a big amount is necessary for a dispensary in a taluka town. The demand is made for Rs. 19,296, and a sum of Rs. 19,296 will be provided by the municipality. That means that nearly Rs. 38,500 will be required for the new dispensary building. I want to know whether proper enquiries have been made by the department that such a big building is required for the dispensary only. I do not think that such a big building costing Rs. 38,500 excluding the cost of land is necessary in such a small taluka town. If the value of land is also taken into account, the cost of the building would come to nearly Rs. 50,000. It would therefore be better if the Honourable Minister would make it clear as to what is the population of Kambar, and how many patients are attending the dispensary daily at present.

If so, I want to know whether this building includes quarters for the whole staff including the doctors and the menials. I also want to know whether it is an indoor dispensary or an outdoor dispensary. If it is an indoor dispensary then a building of this character will be required. If it is only an outdoor dispensary, then I do not think that such a huge building is at all necessary. Even in Bombay you will find that buildings having outdoor dispensaries only do not cost more than Rs. 20,000 or Rs. 25,000. If you look at the building erected for this purpose at Gokuldas Tejpal Hospital, although it appears palatial, its cost would not be more than Rs. 30,000. Therefore, the honourable House should know whether it is an indoor or an outdoor dispensary. I should be glad to sanction more sums for village dispensaries and medical aid to poor villagers. With these remarks I do not oppose the grant ; I support it, but I request that the Honourable Minister will give information on the points raised by me.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Sir, I will take up the time of the House only on one or two points. The Honourable the Minister of Education has come forward for a grant which is to be given for this municipality as half the cost of the building for its dispensary. I think there are several other district local boards and rural areas which are crying for such help, but practically nothing has been done for them. I will remind the Honourable the Minister for Education that Government had given only Rs. 2,16,000 as grant for medical aid in the year 1925-26 to District Local Boards covering a total area of 123,000 square miles with a population of 1,52,00,000 which represents only 2½ pies, that is less than quarter of an anna per head per year, for medical help to rural areas. The district local boards have applied to the Honourable Minister several times for assistance in this respect, but the reply given to them was " No, owing to lack of funds. " Like the previous speaker, I do not grudge voting this grant to this particular municipality ; at the same time, I wish to urge that when local boards go to the Honourable Minister for Education for such help, he should not give the ready excuse that Government always give, viz. " Very sorry ; these local boards deserve assistance, but we have no money. " With these words, I would not like to oppose the grant.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District) : Sir, much as I appreciate the utility of this demand, I wish to enquire of the Education Minister when this building was built, who were the contractors and which executive engineer passed it. I make this enquiry, because Government have been wasting money over so many public buildings, and that is highly inexcusable. I can point out one instance. In my own taluka of Hungund one dispensary was built about ten years ago. I think it was done by contractors, and contracts were given through the executive engineer Mr. Bose. The building was not built as provided in the draft. In the draft scheme there was to be a foundation of ten feet, but Mr. Bose had a foundation of only four feet. And what was the result ? There were cracks everywhere in the building. If such buildings are passed by the executive engineer and if defects are found afterwards, I think the executive engineer is personally responsible for refunding the money spent on such buildings. I think this is a similar case. Government have been spending money everywhere without proper supervision, with the result that buildings are erected without regard to the original plans. I suggest that the Honourable Minister should see when this building was built, which engineer passed it, and whether the executive engineer can be taken to task. With these few remarks, I support the grant and do not oppose it.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, so far as I know the dispensary building concerned was built about 1850. In

[Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai]

1912, as the statement before the honourable House shows, it was reported by the Revenue, Medical, Sanitary and Public Works Department officers, that the building was very old and rickety. Since then, as Government could not find money for constructing a new building, the building was being repaired and used in the best way possible. In 1924 again, it was reported that a new building was required to be put up, but then also it was not possible to provide any money in the budget. In March 1926, Government passed a resolution sanctioning plans and estimates amounting to Rs. 38,592 and agreeing to pay their share of Rs. 19,296, and the amount was to be provided for in the budget for 1926-27, but along with other provisions this provision had to be cut out for want of funds. In the current year, 1927, a report was received from the Commissioner in Sind that the building, in spite of the repairs, had become positively dangerous and would not stand any longer. Consequently Government have provided this amount, and made this demand for a grant for the purpose. There are complaints made when Government are not able to provide grants on account of want of funds, and there are complaints also when we provide for a dispensary which is in urgent need of a good building! (Honourable Members: No complaints.) Every taluka dispensary is both an outdoor and an indoor dispensary, and consequently the buildings cannot cost less than Rs. 38,000, because the medical officer has also to be provided with quarters. The estimates as prepared by the Public Works Department have been sanctioned.

There was a complaint of my honourable friend from Bijapur that there is no supervision by the Public Works Department on their subordinate officers. As to that my honourable colleague has to give the answer rather than myself. But that is quite another matter.

As regards the other complaint that the rural areas are being neglected, I have on another occasion submitted to this House that I am aware of that and I am trying my best to get as much from the Finance Department for the medical relief of the rural areas as possible and I may tell this House that I shall do all I can.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: A question was asked whether the dispensary is an indoor one.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I may state that in talukas the dispensaries are both indoor and outdoor.

Question put and carried.

7, Stamps.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Sir, I ask for a grant of Rs. 50,500 under 7 Stamps.*

Question proposed.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, I wish to ask the honourable member as to whether the Government of India was asked to compensate this Government for this loss caused owing to the refund having been made on account of stamps on cheques.

*Appendix 25.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Yes.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: It seems to me, Sir, that if by an Act of the Government of India this Government is deprived of such a large amount of revenue, is it not at all very strange? And I do not know whether any legal action cannot be taken in this matter. I think it is a matter for further consideration.

Question put and carried.

*Expenditure in England—Secretary of State and High Commissioner.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, I ask for a demand of Rs. 29,000—Expenditure in England.

†Grant-in-aid to 5-H Week Fund equal to the receipts on account of the Totalisator Tax and Entertainments Tax in connection with the extra Race meeting of the Western India Turf Club.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I ask for a demand of Rs. 45,000, to be transferred from 47-Miscellaneous to 32-Medical.

This is an item with reference to the medical aid to the Bombay Hospital Nursing Associations and the Sir Leslie Wilson Hospital Fund, Bombay. The Western India Turf Club had given a day of racing, which was the 14th of March 1928, for the benefit of the Nursing Associations and the amount which will be recovered from the Totalisator and the Entertainments taxes, and which is estimated at Rs. 45,000 will go into the Government Treasury and will have to be given from the reserve at the disposal of Government under 47-Miscellaneous. Under these circumstances, it is only an adjustment, that is, money received from the totalisator and entertainment tax has to be given to the fund for the benefit of the Nursing Association. Government is to give up their income from these taxes to the Fund.

Question proposed.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I think this is a very useful demand, and I have to make a very important suggestion in this matter. The totalisator and entertainment taxes have got a big collection and, as I have seen on the Race Course this totalisator income is increasing by leaps and bounds and yet the income that is handed over to Government is very small. I think even in the entertainment tax there is no proper supervision and the income given to Government is very small. These two items require strict supervision and I know by strict supervision Government will get more money from both these sources. With this suggestion, I support the grant.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): Sir, I would like to know from the Honourable Minister if more amount than Rs. 45,000 is recovered, what would be done in that case? Will it be credited to the Government account? And if less amount is recovered, where the additional amount will be taken from? Unless this is clear, we cannot support the grant.

*Appendix 26. †Appendix 27.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: If less amount is recovered, less will be transferred. There is no likelihood of recovering a larger amount.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, I want to know your wishes whether you would like to take first the two resolutions for the appointment of committees.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There are several honourable members interested in the appointment of these committees and I think they are probably under the impression that the question of appointment of these committees would be reached later. I do not know whether they are in the House or not. But their presence is rather necessary, as they have been asking about this since last two days. I think we shall, therefore, take up the question after tea.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, in that case, the Honourable the Revenue Member may be allowed to move his resolution about the railways.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Sir, I beg to move the resolution which runs as follows:

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council to accept the guarantee required by the Railway Board against loss in working of the proposed railway lines in Sind known as the Sind Left Bank Feeder Railways, the guarantee being Rs. 4 lakhs a year for the first five years after opening of the lines for traffic and thereafter the actual loss in working subject to the maximum of Rs. 2 lakhs a year, these amounts being repaid to this Government with interest should the lines subsequently prove remunerative."

The system of feeder railways, to the financial guaranteeing of which on the terms indicated in the resolution I now request this Council's approval, consists of a loop line striking off from the Hyderabad-Rohri section of the main line of the North-Western Railway at Tando Adam, running more or less parallel to that line for some 130 miles or so, and rejoining it at Mehrabpur.

For the benefit of those honourable members who are not acquainted with the locality I have a map here, which honourable members may like to see, on which the proposed lines are marked.

Two short transverse connections linking up the loop line with the main line will join the latter at Nawabshah and Pad Idan stations. The total length of the line will be a fraction over 162 miles. The system, which will be on the broad gauge, will serve the fairly wide zone lying between the Indus and the existing railway. The whole area will be commanded by the Rohri Canal, which is the main channel of supply for Barrage irrigation on the Indus Left Bank. It lies partly in the Hyderabad district but principally in the Nawabshah district and parts of it, more especially the northern part, are already populous and fairly fertile, though at present served only by inadequate inundation canals. It is estimated that there are 2½ lakhs of acres of unoccupied Government land in the area to be served by the proposed system. The local demand for this line, a demand that is quite independent of considerations connected with the execution of the Barrage project, being based on the general necessity of improved communications, has for a number of years been very insistent, as I can testify from personal experience, having as Commissioner in Sind frequently been approached on the subject by the local punchayats and leading individual residents. The impending execution of the Barrage project makes the improvement of communications in this area an absolute necessity, and the only question that could arise is whether such improvement should take the form of a system of feeder railways or the construction of new roads and the improvement of the existing ones. This is a point to which I shall refer later.

The Railway Board have carried out through the agency of the North Western Railway a preliminary survey of the project. Separate figures have been worked out for two successive periods of five years, during the first of which it is expected that the Barrage project will be in very partial operation only, while during the second period the results of the Barrage will have begun to assert themselves more fully. The principal results of this survey are as follows: The total estimated capital cost of the lines is Rs. 90,19,720, to which has to be added a sum of Rs. 7,25,498 on account of interest during construction, making a total of Rs. 97,45,218. During the first five-year period after the completion of the project the annual interest charges on the capital cost at 4¾ per cent. will amount to Rs. 4,62,898, while the annual working expenses at Rs. 87·41 per mile per week plus 5 per cent. of gross earnings for hire of rolling stock will be Rs. 7,66,061. The annual total outgoings will thus be Rs. 12,28,959. Against this the annual gross earnings are estimated at Rs. 5,85,274. There is thus an anticipated annual loss of Rs. 6,43,685. Towards meeting this annual loss the Bombay Government are asked to contribute Rs. 4 lakhs per annum. The anticipated results for the second period of five years are as follows: It is expected that an additional capital outlay of Rs. 10 lakhs will be necessary, raising the capital cost of the lines to Rs. 1,07,45,218, the annual interest charges on which will be Rs. 5,10,398. The annual working expenses at Rs. 121·25 per mile plus 5 per cent. on gross earnings for hire of rolling stock will be Rs. 10,88,843, making a total for outgoings of Rs. 15,99,241. Against this the annual gross earnings are estimated at Rs. 13,36,071. The annual loss during this second period of five years will accordingly be Rs. 2,63,170, out of which Government are asked to guarantee annually a maximum of Rs. 2 lakhs.

The question whether this Government should accept the terms on which the Railway Board propose to undertake the project has been most carefully considered in consultation with the local officers, namely, the Commissioner in Sind, the Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage, and the Revenue Officer. The views of the representatives of the several important local bodies concerned, including commercial bodies, had been obtained at a conference presided over by the Commissioner in Sind in 1926, and these were all strongly in favour of the execution of the project.

Although from the financial forecast of the project it appears that, at any rate during the first ten years of working, the project will not prove remunerative, a prognostication, however, of which local opinion, including commercial opinion, emphatically disputes the correctness, this is a view of the question which entirely overlooks, as of course it must do when attention is restricted to the immediate direct results of the working of the project, the effect which the project will have in greatly enhancing the market value of the unoccupied lands which will be for sale in the tract to be served by the proposed railways. This, I submit is a very important consideration, for there can be no doubt that without the development of the existing unsatisfactory communications of this tract the results expected from land sales cannot be obtained. Now, the aspect of the question which I desire to place before the Council is this. The cost of the projected lines, including interest, works out at Rs. 60,000 per mile, and this the Government of India will pay in the first instance. The contribution of the Local Government at Rs. 4 lakhs a year during the first five years works out at only Rs. 2,468 per mile per annum, and after that period when the guarantee is reduced to two lakhs at a maximum rate of only about Rs. 1,200 per mile per annum. And when the project begins to pay, as it may confidently be expected to do, the Local Government will gradually be re-imbursed all its disbursements with interest. Now the alternative method of securing the development of communications essential to the prosperity of this important tract is the construction of a net work of metalled roads capable of bearing heavy traffic carried on by means of carts, motor buses and motor lorries. The cost of constructing such roads in Sind would be anything up to Rs. 50,000 per mile, while the annual cost of maintenance would probably be not less than Rs. 1,500 per mile. Thus the eventual cost of the roads would approximate closely to the cost of the railway including capital and recurring charges, with no hope of any direct return, while on the other hand the railway, which would offer cheaper transport facilities for both passengers and produce, can be secured by means of limited annual payments on the part of the Local Government which represent only a fraction of their total capital cost and which will, it is expected, eventually be entirely refunded to them.

The question of the best time at which to undertake the construction of the proposed railway lines has been carefully considered by Government. It is expected that the lines will be ready for operating within a period of three years from the date of commencement of construction. It is obviously undesirable that the completion of the railway project should anticipate to any great extent the functioning of the Barrage project, since the remunerative character of the former project is dependent on the effects of the latter. To the extent to which the railway lines will be in operation before these effects make themselves felt, by so long will the period during which they will be working at a loss be prolonged, with a corresponding extension of the period after the first five years, the Local Government will be liable to reimburse the annual losses on their working up to a maximum of Rs. 2 lakhs per annum. But on the other hand it is obviously desirable that when land sales in the tract in question are undertaken, prospective buyers should be definitely assured of the provision of the necessary transport facilities for their produce by seeing the lines actually under construction. Now it is anticipated that Barrage irrigation will be available from some date in 1931; that is to say, that the irrigation project will begin to function effectively in the rabi season of 1931-32. Land sales will probably commence two years ahead of this, say in 1929-30. It is desirable therefore that construction operations on the Barrage should be initiated next cold weather at the latest. There is also a further consideration. The Railway Board have been pressing us for a final reply to their proposals, as they are anxious to undertake at once the detailed survey necessary before actual construction can be begun. There is a risk, if we delay communicating to them our acceptance of the terms offered, that the project will be crowded out by some of the more directly remunerative railway projects which are being pressed upon their attention by this and other Local Governments, with the result that this particular project might be indefinitely delayed. Such a delay would be prejudicial to the financial prospects of the Barrage project so far as this important part of the Barrage area is concerned. It is therefore very necessary that this Government should be in a position to intimate as soon as possible to the Railway Board its acceptance of the guarantee conditions. I have endeavoured to show that the conditions are such as it is in the interests of this presidency to accept, and I trust therefore that the Council will express their approval of such acceptance by adopting the resolution which I am moving.

Question proposed.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I rise to make some suggestions on this demand. May I ask the Honourable the Revenue Member whether this is not an unprecedented procedure of asking this Council for such a high demand, and I ask him sincerely whether this is not an unprecedented demand, because, from what I have been able to gather from several competent European railway experts that I know, I think this is not the correct procedure. The great railways in India like the Southern Mahratta, the Great Indian Peninsula and the Bombay Baroda Central India, too, have received Government guarantees but on the percentage system. I may say here for the information of the Honourable the Revenue Member—he may probably be already aware of it—that even the Southern Mahratta Railway Company did never receive such big sums, but the guarantee of Government was that in case of loss, a certain percentage of that loss was to be borne by Government. This rule not only applies to the Southern Mahratta but to the Great Indian Peninsula and many other lines, and according to the statement made by the honourable member I think this sum is to be taken back from the railway contractor, or is this to be given to them to make up the loss ? I wish to know from the honourable member whether Government are taking back this amount or this will be as a guarantee of loss and so not recoverable. If I understand him correctly, this amount is returnable.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Yes.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI : I think this is an unprecedented demand and Government will do well in guaranteeing the loss of this railway as they have guaranteed the loss on other railways in India, not merely in this presidency but also in other parts of the country. Government themselves do not know what the loss will be or what the profit will be. Government are simply led by the figures supplied to them by the Railway Board. From what source are Government likely to know whether there will be such and such a loss or such and such a profit ? Everything is based upon speculation, and I think Government will be well advised to follow the simple procedure as it is followed in connection with many other railways in India.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : What procedure ?

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI : The loss is guaranteed on a percentage basis. Suppose there is a loss of several lakhs, such and such a percentage of it is to be borne by Government. This is my opinion because I have heard it from many competent European officers expert in railway administration who have been in intimate touch with the workings of other railways.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : In Bijapur ?

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI : Not in Bijapur but in Madras, Hubli and other railway centres, where there are a good many railway experts. If I remember correctly, this procedure is unprecedented and it has never been followed, namely, a Provincial Government going to make an annual contribution of 4 or 5 lakhs to make up for losses. The European Companies are very big and are not in need even of a guarantee on a percentage basis. When India has gone down so low in financial matters, it is high time for Government to refuse such a demand because these English Companies are very rich and they can very well do without guarantee of losses. This is a novel procedure and I hope therefore that the Government will follow the old procedure to give a guarantee on the percentage basis. With these few words, I oppose the grant.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : (Kaira District) : Sir, the resolution puts down what the Government policy will be in future regarding railways in this presidency. This Government has started on a new policy altogether of guaranteeing railways constructed by the Government of India. As I understand it, this railway is to be constructed by the Government of India and this Government is going to assure the Government of India against any losses, losses to the extent of about 4 lakhs for the first five years and losses to the extent of about 2 lakhs afterwards. I would like to know from Government whether this new policy has been initiated after due consideration ; whether this new policy initiated by this Government of guaranteeing railways in this presidency is going to be a settled policy to be followed in every part of the province where the possibility of railway construction exists. If so, I have nothing to say, but as regards that policy I do state this one fact, whether this Government should guarantee a railway to be constructed by the Imperial Government, the profits when they accrue on which railway are to be wholly enjoyed by that Government.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No profits.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : After all, this Government is not sharing in the profits. There is nothing in the resolution to show that this Government has entered into agreement with the Government of India that, if the line begins to earn profits, this Government will be allowed a share in those profits in consideration of this Government having guaranteed losses for a certain number of years. Therefore I think the Bombay Government has committed a blunder in not safeguarding the interests of this presidency.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Which is more profitable ?

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : I think when the line begins to work, this Government also must share in the profits since they have come forward to bear the losses.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : And pay all these losses of interest ?

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : Suppose the line does not work at a profit, then this Government will be tied to their Rs. 4 lakhs for the first five years, and Rs. 2 lakhs a year for all the time to come. In principle, Government do share in all the losses incurred on the working of the railway, but, if the railway makes any profit, then there is nothing either in the speech of the Honourable the Revenue Member or in the resolution by which this House can be assured that it will share in the profits when they are realized. In that case you get back only that much amount which you have actually paid. But my chief point is this, that this is a matter which affects the Imperial Government. The Imperial Government formerly guaranteed the railways constructed by private companies. Now, if the Imperial Government constructs the railway then I think it should not ask for any guarantee from the local Government. If the Imperial Government concede so much to private companies and bears their losses it should bear its own loss as I think it is the duty of the Railway Board to construct the railway if the provincial Government recommends that a particular railway should be constructed and the Imperial Government should undertake the responsibility. Of course, as that department belongs to the Imperial Government, they must bear the loss or profit if any. I think we maintain peace and order, and whatever profits the railway makes through our maintaining peace and order go to the Government of India. So, in my opinion, since it is the duty of the Imperial Government to construct railways, they should bear the profits as well as the losses of the concern, and the provincial Government should have nothing to do with it.

But if this new policy is to be initiated by this Government, I cannot understand why they should not recommend the construction of other railways which the Imperial Government are not prepared to undertake. The Imperial Government do not construct railways where the people demand it, on the argument that the railways cannot pay. So, if they do not see their way to construct such railways, this Government can very well come forward and guarantee either the interest or guarantee the losses on those railways. If this railway is constructed, then I cannot understand why similar railways in other parts of the presidency should not be constructed. Demands have been made by the people, but the Imperial Government have held back the construction, on the sole ground that the railways could not pay. Again in my opinion, the Gaekwar's Government is exploiting the British territory by constructing railways in our neighbourhood. Why ? Because the Gaekwar is very anxious to increase his own railway revenue by exploiting his own territories as well as the territories belonging to others, and he is taking all the risk of present losses for future gains. Our Government being very slack in this respect,—or rather they do not attach much importance to the matter—allow other governments to construct such railways and derive the profits. I can cite two examples. The Bhavnagar State is exploiting this presidency ; the Gaekwar is also exploiting our territories through their railway policy. The Gaekwar has, as I stated, constructed a railway in our neighbourhood and though we have made repeated demands to this Government and to the Imperial Government that railways should be constructed through these territories by them, still those railways are not being taken in hand. In such cases usually the state representatives go to Simla, see the Railway Board and all the officials, and perhaps get the concession and immediately construct the railway. I can show that the Gaekwar has constructed a railway between two territories belonging to this Government. On both the sides British territory is situated, and in the strip of land between that the Gaekwar has constructed a railway. Naturally, the territory on either side being British territory, it is exploited by the Gaekwar's railway. Now, that is allowed under the very eyes of this Government ; and our Government takes no objection to such things, and at the same time does not see its own way to recommend to the Imperial Government to undertake railway construction in these territories. Two years back, when the present Finance Member was the Revenue Member, I suggested to him that he should send one of his Secretaries to the Railway Board and discuss with them the advisability of constructing railways in suitable British areas.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I went there myself, and saw the Member for Railways.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : At that time of course he refused. He said it is no concern of ours. He should go to Simla and verbally induce the Railway Board to construct railways in British territory.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI : On a point of order. This railway belongs to the Central Government and not to the Bombay Government, and as such this demand should not be made by the Bombay Government. That is my point of order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member has not quite grasped the resolution before the House ; otherwise he would not have raised this point of order.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : I would like to know from the Honourable the Revenue Member whether, as this policy of guaranteeing railways in this presidency is adopted by this Government, he would investigate the possibilities of constructing railways in other parts of this presidency, to investigate their alignments, their gauges and such other matters which are relevant to this question. In our own district we want very badly railways on the metre gauge, because we know very well that in Gujarat the districts are centrally situated, and it is only metre gauge railways which would connect them at once with Northern India, and with the railways of Western Indian States, which are all of metre gauge. That would be advantageous to the people, because at present in transhipment so much loss is sustained by the agriculturist and the merchants that we are very much handicapped by the broad gauge railway. At junction stations and other places whenever there is a change of gauge, the losses of the merchants are enormous. With that view, we had represented to the Railway Board the advisability of constructing our railways on metre gauge, and connecting all these railways with the metre gauge system in the north and in the Western States. But the Railway Board, after due consideration, did not agree to it. There was no other consideration, I think, except the financial consideration, though so far as that was concerned, we had proved to their satisfaction that it would pay them, and that Government would not have to guarantee or bear any loss, but simply out of policy or from some other cause they did not agree with us. As regards short-circuiting, I know whenever there is a change of metre there is no short circuiting ; that I explained to them. But the Railway Board refused our request. If this Government will support the demands of the people, then they will yield and the schemes already sent from many parts of the presidency will be taken up. Schemes have already been sent from the Southern Division, the Central Division and the Northern Division.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is the honourable member aware that the limit of fifteen minutes applies to this ?

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : Yes, but as this is the first time that Government have come before the Council on the question of railways, I thought I might take up some more time. In any case, as regards this I would not take up any more time of the House. But I would ask the Honourable Member whether he wants the policy of guaranteeing railways to be adopted as a settled policy of the House.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District) : Sir, I rise to oppose this resolution, not because I am against building railways in Sind, but because by passing this resolution we shall be accepting the policy and the principle underlying this resolution. I believe in the year 1924 or 1925 the Railway Board laid down this policy after obtaining opinions from all institutions, including local boards, municipalities, the Indian Merchants' Chamber and also from the local Governments. The intention of that policy, it appears to me, is to take away one of the sources of revenue from the local Governments and from the local self-government institutions. In the Madras Presidency, local boards were before this allowed to construct their own railways. Now, on account of this new policy, it is not possible for any local boards to construct any railway. In this case, the Government of Bombay have to bear the loss; in the case of local boards, the local boards concerned will have to bear the loss. But when the railways begin to earn profits, those profits are not to be shared by the local board or by the Government of Bombay. This is all a one-sided policy. If you look to the earnings of the railways constructed by the district local boards in the Madras Presidency, you will find that they are now earning a good profit. Now, if we accept the policy of the Railway Board, it will be impossible for the local Government or any local institution to share or to have the profits earned. Why should not the Government of Bombay construct its own railway? Only a few years ago in the district of Kanara, the Bombay Government constructed a forest railway of a few miles. If the Government of Bombay is of the opinion that this proposed railway in Sind will suffer a loss for all time to come, then let us not construct it at all. If the volume of produce to be carried by this railway increases in the future, I am quite sure it will work at a profit. The Railway Board is fully aware of it, and wants to take away all the profits from the district local boards and the local Government. This is a very vicious principle and was only recently adopted by the Railway Board—in the year 1924 or 1925: I do not know the year exactly. It was sent for opinion to all local Governments and important institutions, and the Indian Merchants Chamber, if I mistake not, had opposed this policy of the Railway Board. We shall therefore be acting wisely in rejecting this resolution. Of course in the beginning the scheme may not give a profit, but in the course of years it will be yielding good profits, those profits will come to the local Government if it is constructed and worked by the local Government. Therefore, they should construct and take the profit also. Why should the Government of India take away all the profits? For the first five years, we are to give four lakhs and then go on paying two lakhs, and that amount only will be returned without having any share in the profits. From the business point of view it would be bad business for this Government. It may be quite good for the Railway Board, because the Railway Board, being a commercial department, is out to earn the greatest profit for itself. Therefore, we shall not be yielding to the dictates of the Railway Board; our interest lies in opposing it. We want to say to the Railway Board that we do not want to accept this policy and the principle. We want more local railways constructed by ourselves, as those railways will be a source of income both to the local self-government bodies and to the local Government. I therefore wish to oppose the resolution, and I hope the House will oppose it also.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Sir, this railway ought to be constructed and developed as the railways in general are profitable in the long run. I agree with the honourable member from Belgaum in saying that the future income from these railways should come to this Government. If this Government is able to finance such a big scheme as the Sukkur Barrage, I do not see why the construction of this railway also should not be linked with that scheme in order to develop the whole country. On account of the Barrage and the Canals it is almost certain that the venture will be a successful one, and therefore I agree with the honourable member Mr. Chikodi that the Government of Bombay should construct this railway and should own it.

At the same time, it is quite necessary to have a liberal railway policy chalked out by this Government. In the matter of railway construction, Bombay has been neglected by the Central Government. There has not been a single mile of railway added during recent years; and when we take into consideration the large extensions that are made in the Central Provinces and other provinces, it is evident that the interests of this presidency are being neglected by the Government of India. Therefore it is very necessary for our Government to be alert and to investigate the profitable lines and to get the Government of India to construct them or, if the Government of India is not willing to construct them, to secure powers to construct and work their own lines.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Mr. President, I support the resolution that has been moved by the Honourable the Revenue Member. Sir, I am being accused by the other benches of being partial to Sind, and I am told that I have been prompted to make a speech in support of this resolution because this question relates to Sind. Far from it. Sir, I do it for the reason that so far as communications are concerned, the whole of the Bombay Presidency is really suffering very badly, and the more so now, because since the finances of the Railway Board have been separated from the general revenues of the Government of India, the Railway Board have been considering everything in terms of the profit they can get from every line they construct.

Sir, in the year 1926-27 they constructed 420 miles of railway in India but not a single mile was constructed in the Bombay presidency. In 1927-28 they have got under construction 2,551 miles of railways and out of that, a meagre length of 43 miles has been sanctioned for the Bombay Presidency. They have also got a programme of 2,600 miles already sanctioned but one does not know how many miles of that are intended for the Bombay Presidency. They have also got other 40 schemes covering 2,000 miles under consideration, but may I know if anything is being done for the Bombay Presidency? These facts illustrate as to how badly we have fared at the hands of the Railway Board. And yet my honourable friend from Karnatak says that we are sanctioning this in spite of the commitment which this Government is making, in order to induce the Railway Board to construct this railway. Now, Sir, let us examine this position. Under the Railway rules it is clearly laid down that Government or rather the Railway Board will construct only those lines which are paying propositions. But if any province wants any particular railway which is not paying, then a certain sum should be contributed by that province towards the loss that may be incurred in the first few years. Under that scheme some other provinces have gone forward, but this is the only one instance in which we have this orientation of policy in accepting certain commitments to be borne by this Government in order to develop railways in the presidency.

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

Apart from the fact that the railways and communications are distinct marks of civilisation, I consider that the only method of opening up the country and to accelerate the progress is by these railways and communications. And when we hear divergent views on this question, one really does not know as to where we are drifting. Sir, the honourable member from Karnatak says that the local boards in Madras are running their railways and running with profit. I agree with him and I know it. But here it is not a question of running a railway at a profit, for which the sanction of this honourable House is obtained. Sir, I am entirely at one with him if he advises the local boards of Karnatak to undertake to run the lines in Karnatak if it pays them and he could bring on behalf of any particular local board in this House a proposal asking Government to approach the Railway Board to sanction the projects desired. But to ask that this guarantee required to construct this railway should not be given is not fair. Because it is clear from the fact that the estimate prepared by the Railway Board does not give any indication of earning profits for the first few years. Therefore, I hope this House will not be misguided by the proposition which has been advanced by my honourable friend from Karnatak. It has also been said by another honourable member from Karnatak that the English companies are very powerful and are very rich companies and that we should not give any kind of guarantee or subsidy for this purpose. Sir, I fail to find any logic in that argument simply because, it is not a private company that is going to construct the railway, but it is the State Railway Board.

Sir, I consider that the railways are one of the biggest national assests. Not only that, but I consider that the Government of India, so far as the railway is concerned, is the biggest socialist state. Take any other countries, particularly England, you will find that the railways there are owned by private companies. The result of it is that the profit that ought to go to the State, which means to the community as a whole, goes only to a few shareholders of that company.

One thing more. I want to bring to the notice of the Honourable the Revenue Member the complaint that has been made by the people of Bhiria with regard to the injustice that is being done to them. This project is expected to cost Rs. 95 lakhs and yet merely because there will be little divergence of the line as is now proposed and it would cost Rs. 2 lakhs extra, they are turning down the proposal for Station at Bhiria. Now, Sir, I submit that the people of Bhiria have been complaining to us—the members of this Council representing Sind—and also have been writing to the Government that they have to walk all along about more than nine miles to go to the station. From this you will imagine, Sir, what must be their troubles. Besides, at this place the trains generally pass at night, and the people have to come and go on the camel's back at night. I hope, therefore, that if the present sanction is accorded, the Honourable the Revenue Member will kindly see his way to rearrange the lines so that the people of this town would be benefited thereby.

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

Then, Sir, I would also like to place before the Honourable the Revenue Member the necessity of a railway on the right bank. Larkana, Jacobabad, Sukkur, all these districts most urgently need a feeder railway so also a line from Mirpurkhas to Nagar Parker and unless and until you open up the countryside with these communications, you cannot possibly expect the poor people, the poor cultivators, to get the best return for their produce. Unless and until they are ensured of all these transport facilities, a number of middlemen are encouraged to go into the villages, buy grain and everything else cheap from the villages and ultimately make big profits in the market. Therefore, if you want peasants to prosper, this is the best method. and I hope, Sir, that this small beginning will not be left as it is but will be carried forward into larger attempts developing the presidency all over and as such Sir, the Council will accord its sanction.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I have to oppose this resolution. The first ground on which I oppose this resolution is that an attempt is being made to construct a railway parallel to the existing line, and from the map that was supplied to me I have found out that the railway line that is going to be constructed is not more than 15 to 20 miles at any point throughout its construction. It is practically a parallel railway. In many places these parallel railways are not allowed to be constructed, while here the proposal is brought forward for constructing a parallel line.

Now, the first thing we have been told is that the line is 162 miles long and it will cost about Rs. 60,000 per mile. That is to say, the expenditure would be more than Rs. 95 or Rs. 96 lakhs. Now, the guarantee that is required is practically the whole interest on these Rs. 96 lakhs, which means Rs. 4 lakhs according to the new rate at which the Government of India borrow. The interest on one crore of rupees is practically Rs. 4 lakhs. That is to say, the Government of Bombay are to be required to pay the whole interest on the capital invested for the first five years, and then they are to pay a subsidy at the rate of Rs. 2 lakhs until the lines become remunerative. Now, we have seen that at least the general taxpayer in the Bombay presidency has been tired of these subsidies, because when these new projects are undertaken, nobody knows what the real expenditure would be, because these calculations and these estimates which are made by experts are in many cases exceeded, and we have had an illustration in this presidency of a railway which was constructed at a cost of Rs. 70 lakhs just in the vicinity of Bombay, and that railway is now a huge elephant, compelling, of course, to pay interest on the amount invested and the G. I. P. Railway had to be requested to take over the management on conditions in which Government has no voice, because the railway has to give proper consideration to the whole subject and the terms of the Railway authorities have to be accepted whatever their terms may be, as there is no other alternative Government say that for the first ten years there is no likelihood of any profit. This is what the Honourable the Revenue Member, said, and one important fact he stated is that the possibility of making a success is dependent on the success of the Sukkur Barrage. Now, in the Sukkur Barrage they have to deal with a river like the Indus. The river Indus is not capable of being dammed. The river Indus would not obey the dams and barrages. Suppose the river Indus, though not capable of being dammed, has been dammed. Still in that case also the river takes it into its head to change its course, then all that amount will be wasted. At that time that amount also will be a present to the river. The Indus is a very erratic river. Even experts of Government and other experts have differed about the success of the Sukkur Barrage project owing to this erratic river. But, unfortunately for us, the tax-payers of the Bombay presidency, the project has been undertaken, and because it has been undertaken, we have to suffer heavier losses.

The next thing that he said is that if people will see that this railway is being constructed, they will pay higher prices for the lands which we have to sell two years before the barrage would be ready, that is, the barrage would be ready in the season of 1931-32 and, therefore, as the lands will have to be sold in the years 1929 and 1930, if the people see that the railway is being constructed, higher prices will be realised for the lands. What is the question of higher prices being realised, when 3½ lakhs of acres are to be given away at Rs. 15 per acre ? Now, where does this question of higher prices come in ? Just now I would draw the attention of Government to a very important fact. They remain always like an ostrich buried in sand and do not see what is happening outside. Now, I want to refer them to the instance of Nadiad-Kapadwanj Railway which has suffered very heavily, owing to motor competition. It is only at a distance of 15 or 16 miles from the parallel line. Do Government know the rate at which the motor transports are entering into competition with the railway ? Even the Railway Board is feeling the pressure of motor competition and is seriously considering the problem.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : There are no roads in Sind for motor transport.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : In our parts I may say that at least for short distances motors have entered into competition with the railways, and the railways do not get a single passenger between Nadiad and Kapadvanj ; the distance is about 28 miles only. Now, the district traffic superintendent of the Nadiad Kapadvanj Railway sat at the railway station called Wadthal, he sat for the whole day, and at that time he actually shed tears (Laughter) because the motors were taking away all the passengers and the trains were running with very few passengers. And when I say motors are entering into competition with the railways, I may say even the goods traffic has been taken away by motors. Between Sanand and Ahmedabad the whole of the goods traffic is taken away by motors. Therefore, when there is a short distance, this is bound to happen. And supposing, as Government believe, there is going to be a vast population in the barrage area, I think motors will go there and Government will not be able to prevent motors from entering into competition with the railways. In England also railway companies are desiring to secure the power of establishing motor services by legislation, because the railways suffer as other motor services are taking away much of the traffic, and, therefore, they are having a special statute in the House of Commons, in the Parliament, for taking the monopoly of the motor services, so that the motor services may not enter into competition with the railway companies. Therefore, it is a very problematical affair, and as it is a very problematical affair, we should at least be vigilant. This House has not remained vigilant and, therefore, the losses which the taxpayer has to suffer have occurred. Now, there is a proposal about the separation of Sind, and if you construct huge railways, huge barrages, and so on, at huge costs now, you will suffer later on, and if the separation does take place, at that time we shall not have to suffer at all. Therefore let all such undertakings be postponed till that event happens. At that time we shall not be responsible for the losses, when we have separated from Sind. I think if the money spent for the barrage scheme were given to us, we shall be glad to be separated from Sind (Laughter). Every time we are being told to enter into this expenditure and that expenditure for the sake of one favourite province. Perhaps it is that province which is carrying on the Government of this presidency (Laughter). We have seen during the last few days how that province has been influencing matters in this House (Laughter). It seems to me that to satisfy and pamper a pet child, Government are ready to sacrifice the interests of the taxpayers of this province. I strongly oppose this proposition.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I move the closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I accept the closure and adjourn the House for tea till 4-30 p.m.

(After Recess)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Any new members desirous of taking their seats in the Council ?

Mr. H. R. Hamley then made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor and took his seat in the Council.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Mr. President, I anticipated that there might be a certain amount of opposition to this motion from honourable members coming from other parts of the presidency than Sind. No doubt they feel that perhaps Sind is getting an undue share in the loaves and fishes of Government. As a matter of fact, as I have endeavoured to show in my opening remarks, this project is one which is going to benefit the presidency as a whole and it must not be looked upon from a purely provincial point of view.

The principal reason which has determined Government in putting forward this proposal for the acceptance of these guarantees is the conviction that they have that the carrying out of this project will be of a very substantial benefit to the interests of the Barrage project in which the whole of the presidency is interested. The honourable member from Bijapur Mr. Sardesai has referred to this proposal as constituting an entirely new precedent. It is a new precedent. I quite agree. The fact is that the situation is an entirely novel one. Here we are faced with a very important project which the Government of India in the Railway Department have condemned to the extent that so far as can be seen within the period of the next ten years it will be an unremunerative one. In the ordinary course of affairs it would have been turned down, and it is only because of the consideration, as I said, of the important effect which this project bears on the Sukkur Barrage project that the Bombay Government have felt it necessary to proceed with it. As I have pointed out, we do not entirely accept the conclusions of the Railway Board. We regard them as unduly pessimistic. That is our point of view, and therefore we feel that we are justified in putting forward the proposal for the payment of these guarantees on the understanding that the money will come back to us when the scheme proves remunerative.

The honourable member from Kaira has criticised the proposal on the ground that the local Government will have no share in the ultimate profits of the project when it proves remunerative. I entirely agree with him that it would be very desirable if we could have a share in those profits, but the fact is that when we came to negotiate with the Railway Board of the Government of India, we were up against strong opposition. They contended (with a certain amount of reason) that the major portion of the risk is being borne by them—it is true that we are undertaking a certain portion of the risk—but the ultimate and major portion of the risk is with them, and they accordingly absolutely declined to give us any better terms, although I may say that we discussed this matter personally with Sir Clements Hindley of the Railway Board and we (the Honourable the Finance Member and myself) did our best to obtain rather better terms for the Government of Bombay. Ultimately we found ourselves faced with the position of, "Take it or leave it." If we did not accept the terms laid down, well, the Railway Board would not go on with the proposition. That was the situation and therefore feeling that we could not improve on the terms offered, we decided to lay them before the Council in the hope that they would be accepted. We would have liked more but we cannot get more and there the matter ends.

Then there is a certain amount of difference of opinion amongst honourable members who opposed this scheme. On the one side the honourable member for Kaira seems to be anxious that this policy of giving guarantees by the local Government should be adopted elsewhere. Against this we have the views of the honourable member from Belgaum (Mr. Chikodi) and the honourable member from Satara (Mr. Jadhav), both of whom are entirely opposed to the giving of guarantees, and want that the local Government should undertake the construction of this railway themselves. Well, as against this there is the fact that Railways is a Central subject, and the Government of India reserve to themselves the right to undertake such railway projects. There is also a further consideration that it is somewhat doubtful whether it would be entirely in the interests of the Bombay Government to undertake this very large scheme involving, as I pointed out, a capital outlay of over a crore of rupees. It is true that we have confidence in the ultimate success of this railway, but there is no denying it that it does involve a very considerable risk, and we should have to go into the whole scheme very carefully indeed before we could possibly recommend to this Council that the local Government should undertake that risk. Time is short, and we are being pressed by the Government of India to give the proposed undertaking. We are most anxious that the project should be carried out quickly. Therefore, I think, on all grounds, it is desirable that we should give up the idea of undertaking this project ourselves.

The honourable member for Kaira also asked me to make a statement as to the future policy of Government in the matter of giving such guarantees. Well, I am not prepared at present to make any statement that we shall continue to take action as it is now proposed to do. As I pointed out, the present case is exceptional; the local Government have in this case a strong, direct interest in the execution of the project. Ordinarily, such an interest does not exist in regard to railway projects that may be under consideration. They have no such large estate to dispose of, the value of which will be greatly enhanced by the carrying out of the project as they have in this case. Ultimately and indirectly, no doubt, the local Government benefits by the construction of railways, but it is only indirectly. In this case, however, we have a direct interest in the construction of the project.

Then the honourable member from Karachi (Mr. Bechar), who, I am glad to say, has been able to support Government on this occasion, raised two points of detail regarding the alignment of the railway. Well, the alignment of the railway has not been definitely settled. What has been shown in the map that has been laid before honourable members is only a general idea of the alignment of the railway. The question of the exact alignment ultimately to be adopted will be a matter for very careful consideration, and that will be taken up when the detailed survey is carried out. He also expressed the hope that we should proceed with similar projects on the Right Bank of the Indus. I quite agree that there are railway schemes which it is very desirable to carry out on the Right Bank of the Indus, and there also, though not to anything like the same extent, the interests of the Barrage project would be served by the construction of railways. But we cannot take up all these projects simultaneously. They must be taken up piecemeal. But I hope that it will not be long before we can place before the Council similar proposals in regard to railway projects on the Right Bank.

The honourable member from Ahmedabad (Mr. Swaminarayan) criticised the project on the ground that the feeder line would run parallel to the existing main line of railway at no very great distance from it. I admit that there is a certain amount of force in this criticism, but he is not acquainted with local conditions. He does not realise one important fact, and that is that the existing line of railway when it was first made was selected mainly with a view to shortening as much as possible the railway distance between Hyderabad and Rohri, and also because of the railway's desire to construct this main line as cheaply as possible. They therefore selected an alignment remote from the river where, at that time, there was practically no cultivation and hardly any village. They purposely neglected what would otherwise obviously have been the most suitable alignment, namely, the alignment now proposed for this loop line, which traverses a number of important towns and villages. Therefore, the case can be differentiated from the case of an ordinary loop line, in that the alignment now proposed for this loop line will link up a number of very important towns and villages, with very great prospects of the development of passenger traffic.

I do not think that there was any substance in his further criticism as to the possible danger from proximity to the river. The whole of that bank will be well guarded. Naturally, Government will see to that, as the tract in question is one which will undergo great development by the construction of the Barrage, so that very important interests will be involved, and it will be necessary to undertake every measure for protecting the area from any possible incursions by the river. He also raised an objection on the ground of the possible competition from motor transport. I can assure him that there is no fear whatever on that score. I do not think he could have listened to my opening remarks, in which I laid emphasis on the fact that the only alternative to this railway scheme was the construction of pucca roads. At present there are no such roads, and if we undertake this railway project there will be no necessity for expense on roads capable of bearing motor traffic. At present the roads are only katcha roads, and so long as this continues it is quite impossible that there should be any serious competition from motor transport.

I think, Sir, that disposes of all the criticisms which have been raised with regard to this proposal, and I hope that, in the interest not only of Sind, but also of the presidency as a whole this motion will be carried, and that we shall see the project undertaken very soon.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, I beg to move:

That this House proceed to elect 12 members to sit with 4 members nominated by Government upon a Finance Committee, together with the Members of the Executive Council and the Ministers, and that the period of the service of this Finance Committee conclude with the conclusion of the next budget meeting of the Legislative Council.

Question proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: To this resolution I have received an amendment by the honourable member Mr. R. G. Pradhan to this effect:

Add at the end of the resolution the following:

"That, while proceeding to elect the members, this House desires to place on record its considered view that the time is now come when the Finance Committee should be given real and effective share in the framing of the Budget and in the formulation of taxation proposals."

I find that there are certain difficulties in the way of admitting this amendment. I would draw the honourable member's attention to Standing Order V, 8 (1):

"An amendment must be relevant to and within the scope of the motion to which it is proposed."

[The President]

The proposal before the House is the mere appointment of a committee that is to say, the election of 12 members. The question of the constitution of the committee is not before the House, and that is what the amendment aims at. That is the first difficulty. The amendment therefore goes outside the actual scope of the motion before the House.

The second point worth considering is that this motion is based on the sanction which I see the Finance Department has obtained from His Excellency the Governor, on the basis of section 72D, 2 (c) of the Government of India Act, which reads:

"No proposal for the appropriation of any such revenue or other moneys for any purpose shall be made except on the recommendation of the governor, communicated to the Council."

My worthy predecessor, the late Sir Narayan Chandavarkar, has also ruled on a similar point raised, and I think it would be beneficial for the House if I read a portion of his ruling:

"Section 72D (2), (c) of the Government of India Act provides that no motion for the appropriation of public money can be made except on the recommendation of the Governor. This motion, which is a Government motion, is made on that recommendation; His Excellency has given sanction to his Government to move the Council to elect a certain number of its members to a committee to be called the Finance Committee for the purpose of assisting Government in framing their budget for the appropriation of public money. It is open to the Council, however, either to accept or reject the motion; it is also open to any member of the Council to move an amendment to the motion provided the amendment is relevant to and within the scope of the motion. * * * Therefore, an amendment to be within the scope of this financial motion must satisfy the preliminary condition of the motion itself, that is to say, it must have the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor just as the original motion has. The motion, if carried, will be binding on the Government because it is made by Government, it is a recommendation by Government themselves to the Council by way of a motion and an amendment to it moved by a member of the Council cannot be binding on Government, because a motion by a member can only be by way of a resolution making a specific recommendation to Government. It follows then that no amendment can be allowed unless it is assented to by Government on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor. This view is in accordance with the rules and practice of the House of Commons from which our rules and standing orders are borrowed and which are given in May's Parliamentary Practice."

The same ruling was repeated the following year. Therefore, the proper remedy, according to that ruling and according to the constitution we have to deal with, is for the honourable member either to bring a resolution, or better still, an address to His Excellency to consider the point. I therefore hold the amendment out of order.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Now, the appointment of the twelve members. I have before me a list of honourable members who are duly proposed and seconded, and that list I am going to dictate to honourable members. The ballot papers will be given to the honourable members. The names are:

Mr. G. A. D. Wasif, Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, Mr. Hoòseinbhoy Abdullabhoy Lalljee, Khan Saheb Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan, Mr. L. M. Deshpande, Mr. B. G. Pahalajani, Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan, Mr. R. G. Pradhan, Mr. W. S. Mukadam, Mr. R. S. Asavale,

[The President]

Mr. S. A. Sardesai, Mr. P. R. Chikodi, Dr. M. K. Dixit, Mr. Shaikh Abdul Aziz Abdul Latif, Mr. M. S. Khuhro and Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale.

These are the names of the candidates and the honourable members have to put a cross against the names of twelve such members as they would like to propose.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Not necessarily twelve names.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The number may be less but not more than twelve. Only one cross should be made against one name and not more than one cross. No honourable member should sign the ballot paper.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: Sir, I want to know the real procedure. I would like to know whether any names of the honourable members are to be written or the names would be supplied to us.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The names are already there in the ballot paper which will be distributed to you just now. In the second column honourable members have to put one cross only against the name of such honourable member as they would like to propose. Those papers have to be put in the Ballot Box which is kept on the table. The scrutineers will be Rao Saheb D. R. Patil and Mr. F. Oliveira. Honourable members who are specially appointed for the University Bill will, of course, understand that they have not to vote.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Sir, I move a resolution as follows:

"That this House proceed to elect a representative to serve on each of the Local Advisory Committees for the various Railways from 17th March 1928 on which date the appointment of the members at present sitting on the respective committees expires, for the following periods:—

G. I. P. Railway.—For one year; that is to say up to May 1928 on the present Advisory Committee, and from May 1928 to March 16, 1929, on the new Advisory Committee.

B. B. & C. I. Railway.—For one year; that is to say up to 14th February 1929 on the present Advisory Committee and from 15th February 1929 to 16th March 1929 on the new Advisory Committee.

M. & S. M. Railway.—For one year; that is to say up to 31st March 1928 on the present Advisory Committee and from 1st April 1928 up to 16th March 1929 on the new Advisory Committee."

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): I have to move an amendment, Sir, after some information is asked for.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No amendment is submitted to me.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: May I make a statement, or seek information or prefer an objection?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is it? Is it a statement, information or objection?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Information. I understand, Sir, that the right of electing members on the advisory committee of each of the railways has been given and this Council is being asked to elect members to advisory committees of three railways, namely, the G. I. P. Railway, the B. B. & C. I. Railway and the Madras & Southern Mahratta Railway. There is another railway, the North-Western Railway, and I understand, if I am correctly informed, that the Commissioner in Sind has asked Sind members only of this Council to elect a member to sit on the advisory committee of that railway. May I know, so far as this Council is concerned, the reason why distinction is made in this respect, namely, that the whole Council elects members to sit on the advisory committees of the three railways I have mentioned, whereas only a certain section, namely, the Sind members, are being asked to elect a representative so far as the North-Western Railway is concerned ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is no such thing before the House ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : I am merely asking for information.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : How does the information arise ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : The resolution, Sir, omits to mention that railway.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That would be a pertinent question, namely, why is that railway omitted ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I may inform the honourable member that the reason is that the rules for the local advisory committee in the case of the North-Western Railway give the Commissioner in Sind the power of nominating.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : They do not come before this Council.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Now, I will take one committee at a time. I take first the G. I. P. There are four nominations ; but one has withdrawn, the honourable member Khan Saheb Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan. Now, the three honourable members duly proposed and seconded are :

Mr. N. R. Gunjal ;

Mr. A. C. Owen ; and

Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad.

These are the three honourable members, and ballot papers will be handed over accordingly, and a cross has to be put against one name only, and no signature to be put on the paper. The same scrutineers as before.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Would it not save time, Sir, if all the three papers are distributed now ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Yes ; the three papers could be distributed now.

(Ballot papers were distributed accordingly).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Honourable members may resume their seats. I find that some honourable members have already put in their election papers in connection with the other two committees also. The names of the nominated members I have not announced yet. That does not matter. I may inform the House that for the B. B. & C. I. Railway the honourable members Mr. Swaminarayan, Mr. J. B. Desai, Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch and Khan Saheb A. M. Mansuri have been nominated, and Mr. Dawoodkhan Shalebhoy has withdrawn. For the M. &. S. M. Railway the honourable members Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar, Mr. M. D. Karki and Mr. D. A. Janvekar have been nominated, and Mr. N. R. Gunjal has withdrawn his candidature.

Statutory Motions

Sukkur Municipal Election Rules

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, under the power given under section 221 of the Major Municipalities Act of 1925, to this Council to amend any rules that have been sanctioned by the Government, I am moving my amendment by means of a statutory motion, as follows :

" This Council resolves that the Revised Sukkur Municipal Election Rules finally sanctioned by Government Resolution in the General Department No. 6996, dated 14th October 1927, which are laid on the Council table, be modified as follows :

In Rule 3, change ' 24 ' into ' 25 ' and ' 7 ' into ' 6 '. "

Now, Sir, it is necessary to give a short history with regard to this statutory motion. The Sukkur municipality consisted since 1921 of 40 members, of whom 20 were Hindus, 11 were Mahomedans, 1 represented other communities, that is, Parsis, Europeans, Christians, Jews and others, 8 were nominated ; in all 40. When the new Act was passed, the municipality was asked to frame its own rules, and the municipality proposed that there should be 45 members, 26 Hindus, 14 Mahomedans, and 5 nominated. That was the proposal of the municipality, made in proportion to the population which consisted of non-Mahomedans, i.e., Hindus, Christians, Parsis and Jews 25,900 and Mahomedans 14,837. According to the new Act there were only three classes into which the voters could be divided, namely, Mahomedans, Non-Mahomedans which included all other classes, and depressed classes. There was no possibility according to the new Act, of creating seats for communities that did not belong to either the Mahomedan or the Hindu group, because all those who were not Mahomedans came under the general denomination of Non-Mahomedans. Therefore, there was no room for the municipality to reserve any seat for other communities. The papers had to be submitted through the Collector and the Commissioner. The Collector recommended that one seat should be reserved by election for the miscellaneous communities, that 6 seats should be reserved for nomination, and that 38 seats should be given to Non-Mahomedans and Mahomedans in the proportion of 24 and 14. The Collector wrote as follows :

" The municipality propose to increase the total to 45. In view of the growing importance of the town and the increase in the population which is believed to have taken place on account of the Barrage Works and is likely to be further accelerated if, as is proposed, large railway workshops are located at Sukkur, I agree that the proposed increase is reasonable : but I am of opinion that it would be premature to eliminate nomination and recommend that at Hyderabad at least 1-9th of the members should be nominated,

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

Indeed I would recommend that the number nominated be fixed at 6, i.e., 3 salaried servants of Government and 3 others. Nominated members are required in order to strengthen the municipality in expert knowledge on subjects such as Medical, Engineering .....and also to represent special interests which are growing in importance."

After that, the Commissioner in Sind, in submitting the papers to Government remarked :

"The municipal borough of Sukkur shall consist of 45 councillors of whom 6 shall be nominated and 39 elected.

This is the recommendation of the Commissioner in Sind,—"of whom 6 were to be nominated and 39 elected." He goes on to say :

"Of the 39 elected members 24 shall be elected by the Hindus, 14 by Mahomedans and 1 by other communities."

So, Sir, the opinion of the Collector supported by that of the Commissioner was that there should be 39 elected members, 6 nominated members and 24 of the elected members should be Hindus and 14 Mahomedans, and one belonging to the miscellaneous communities. Government said that in the Act there is no provision for any other communities except the Mahomedans and Non-Mahomedans. Government declared that it was illegal to create any seat for other communities, and therefore Government reduced the number of elected members—that is the difficulty—from 39 to 38, leaving 24 seats for Non-Mahomedans and 14 for Mahomedans, and raising the number to be nominated to 7, making provision for the representation of the miscellaneous communities by nomination. Now, it is against that order of the Government, that there shall be 38 elected members, that this statutory motion is brought. My grounds for bringing the motion are these :

The Collector recommended that there should be 39 elected members, 24 for Non-Mahomedans, 14 for Mahomedans and 1 for the miscellaneous communities, and 6 were to be by nomination. Subsequently, the Collector was informed by the municipality that this allocation of seats was incorrect. The Collector recommended to the Government that 6 should be nominated, and of the elected members 25 should be Non-Mahomedans and 14 should be Mahomedans. That is to say, the Collector himself recommended to the Government, that 25 members should be non-Mahomedans, 14 should be Mahomedans, and 6 should be nominated, not 7 as the Government had proposed. The Commissioner supported him, but the Government, in spite of the recommendation of the Collector, in spite of the recommendation of the Commissioner, wired as follows :—

"Your reference No 5900 ; unable to accept proposal for increase of one seat to non-Mahomedan electorate and reduction of one nomination seat. Formal orders follow. Repeated Commissioner in Sind."

This was subsequently communicated in the form of a letter. The Collector and the Commissioner both recommended that there should be only 6 nominated seats, 25 should be given to non-Mahomedans and 14 to Mahomedans. Now, Sir, that was a reasonable proposal, the population being 25,900 non-Mahomedans, including Parsis, Christians, Anglo-Indians and Jews, and 14,837 Mahomedans according to the figures which I have given. Now, after this recommendation was made by the

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

Collector, Mr. Ewbank, who was new to Sukkur, matters were represented to him again and after knowing the existing conditions he strongly recommended to the Government that there should be 25 elected non-Mahomedans. After the receipt of a copy of this telegram of Government, I moved the Government again as President of the municipality through the Commissioner requesting the Government to accept the Collector's recommendation and I also asked the Commissioner kindly to recommend the original proposal that he made that there should be 39 members elected. But Government insisted that there shall be only 38 elected and that there should be 7 nominated, that is 6 nominated for others and one nominated for the miscellaneous communities. The Government continue to stick to that, although the Collector and the Commissioner, both local officers, consider otherwise.

Sir, in connection with this, I would bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister in charge that at no time in the history of the Sukkur municipality, after 1921, after the Honourable Member Mr. Hotson was Collector in 1922, after 1921, when the strength of the municipality was increased to 40, right up to this date, has the Commissioner nominated more than two officials to the municipality. One of them was the Civil Surgeon, an expert, and the other a mukhtyarkar, or a mamlatdar, who is not an expert, or the D.T.S., who is not an expert. So that, the policy of Government right up to the present time has been to nominate only two officials and not three. There is absolutely no reason whatever why in this particular case, when the Commissioner and the Collector have written that there should be only 6 nominated and 39 elected, that the Government should insist that there should be 7 nominated and 38 elected. Although the Honourable Minister belongs to Sind, he does not know the exact local conditions of Sukkur. I wish to lay respectfully before him and the House that one elected should not be taken away.

As the Honourable Minister wishes to take away one elected from non-Mahomedans and to give that to miscellaneous communities, I may bring it to his notice that if anyone of them wishes to stand, he can be easily elected by the system of cumulative votes. If they do not care to stand, why should they be given any nomination ? There is no reason why one elected should be taken away from the non-Mahomedans and given to miscellaneous communities. There is no attempt by my resolution to take away any from the Mahomedan seats, 14. The Municipality, the Collector, the Commissioner and Government, we are all agreed that there should be 14 seats reserved for Mahomedans. We differ only on the point whether there should be 24 or 25 elected for non-Mahomedans. To take away one for the nominated from the seats for the Hindus, when the other people have full opportunity of being represented, that is what I cannot accept. The Collector has seen the reasonableness of it and has recommended that the non-Mahomedans should have 25 ; the Commissioner has twice recommended that. But Government have refused it.

In connection with this, I would bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister in charge that the population of non-Mahomedans is 26,000 and of Mahomedans 14,890. Though the proportion is 26 to 14·7 the increase in the number of seats to them is 3 to each ; 21 seats for non-Mahomedans has been increased to 24 and 11 seats for Mahomedans has been increased to 14. The Mahomedans have no right to complain ; they have got their share. But the non-Mahomedans on account of their population are certainly entitled to one more seat, although strictly speaking they will be entitled to 26. I have pleaded only for 25, in order that if Government wishes to nominate one from the miscellaneous communities they may do so out of the 6 nominated seats at their disposal, and retain the 5 remaining for other nominations, namely of Government officials and other people. In the case of the Hyderabad municipality to which the Honourable Minister belonged, the strength of the constitution is 45 seats, out of which only 5 are nominated. Sukkur municipality is not a less important municipality ; so far as the working of the constitution is concerned, it is far better than the Hyderabad municipality. In Hyderabad there is no representation to the so-called miscellaneous communities. In Sukkur I am prepared to concede one seat for the miscellaneous communities. But there is no reason why for the first time, in the history of Sukkur municipality, Government should insist that there should be three officials, when from 1921 up to the present date there have been only two officials. The Collector is not anxious, the Commissioner is not anxious to nominate more than two. The Commissioner and the Collector have recommended only two officials. In spite of that the Government, here the Honourable Minister, insists that there should be three officials. Sir, I would again point out to the Honourable Minister in charge that the Mahomedans are in no way affected. It is not a communal question. I do not know why the Government should insist that one more elected seat should not be given to non-Mahomedans. I do not know on whose representation they are acting—whether of the Collector or of the Commissioner. The very Collector who recommended that there should be 38 elected seats has recommended immediately after it, that there should be 39 elected seats. The Commissioner has recommended the same. Sir, among the amendments to the rules, the most important one—there are other less important ones—but so far the most important one on which I want to lay stress is that the non-Mahomedan seats should be increased from 24 to 25 ; the elected seats should be 39 and the Mahomedan seats should be 14 as recommended by the Collector and the Commissioner. My amendment therefore reads thus :

"In Rule 3, change '24' into '25' and '7' into '6'."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The procedure has to be strictly followed under the Act. The alteration will have to be made by a resolution. I shall read the main part of the resolution and then these alterations will go on one after another and they will be included in the resolution. The main resolution runs thus :

"This Council resolves that the 'Revised Sukkur Municipal Election Rules' finally sanctioned by Government Resolution in the General Department No. 6996, dated 14th October 1927, which are laid on the Council Table, be modified as follows :—"

[The President]

In the first instance, we have an amendment moved by the honourable member, Mr. Pahalajani, which is :

" In Rule 3, change ' 24 ' into ' 25 ' and ' 7 ' into ' 6 ' ".

The rest I shall take later on.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Sir, as time is very short, I will be very brief. I rise to oppose the amendment moved by my honourable friend, Mr. Pahalajani, to the effect that the number of the elected non-Mahomedans should be increased from 24 to 25. The figures that are quoted by my honourable friend would clearly show that there are 1,050 in the miscellaneous communities and 24,850 in the non-Mahomedans. Even though I have added up the miscellaneous communities to Hindus bringing up the figure to 25,900, they are entitled to only 24 elected seats. According to the arithmetical calculation the ratio comes to 24·13 seats ; this has been worked out by me very carefully. Therefore, if you take miscellaneous non-Mahomedan communities it comes to 24·13 and my honourable friend, Mr. Pahalajani, wants to increase the seats to 25. The arithmetical ratio of 24·13 is nearer 24 full and therefore I do rightly think the number of 24 ought to remain as it is. Then we know that there are 14 seats which are reserved for the Mahomedans and seven nominated. Of these seven nominees, three are reserved for Government salaried servants. Out of these three, two will be for expert advice, namely, civil surgeon and executive engineer for medical and engineering problems to give the benefit of expert advice. Now according to the new Act, one seat has to be reserved for the miscellaneous communities who can not possibly come by election from the general electorate. Collector wants reservation of one seat out of the 25 non-Mahomedan seats for them, which is not possible according to the Act. In this miscellaneous are included Jews, Depressed Classes, Christians and also Parsis. At present owing to the Barrage work, there are more of labouring classes in Sukkur municipal limits.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : On a point of order, Sir. I may submit that depressed classes have been ruled out by Government. It was stated that there were no depressed classes. So, that question cannot be raised.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO : The collector has stated in his report that two officers are required for giving expert opinion, that is experts on medical and engineering problems and one officer is required for safeguarding the interest of Government. So far as the Government revenue plots, Railway property and such other interests are concerned, it is necessary that one officer should be there on behalf of Government to represent the interest of Government. At the same time the remaining four seats, of course Mahomedans being in a minority can rightly claim three nominated seats, which is essential for safeguarding minority interests. I have made it quite clear that if it is worked out on the figures of Mr. Pahalajani, we find there are 1,050 of the miscellaneous communities and 24,850 of the non-Mahomedans, that is in all 25,900. This would come to 24·13 seats. As regards the other part, there are 14,837, which will come to nearly 13·84 seats. Therefore I think Government is perfectly right in arriving at the number of seats allotted under the new Act, that is 24 to non-Muslims and 14 to Muslims.

Government could not possibly reserve one seat for miscellaneous communities, as recommended strongly by the collector ; Government had no alternative but to raise nominated seats to seven from six, thus making a provision of one seat for miscellaneous communities by way of nomination. This is how I do feel that Government was perfectly justified in allotting 24 seats to Hindus, 14 to Muslims by election and seven nominated seats. I therefore strongly oppose the motion brought by Mr. Pahalajani.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Sir, I rise to support the motion which has been made by my honourable friend, Mr. Pahalajani. It appears to me that there is one aspect of this question which has to be emphasised. When the new Municipal Act was applied to Sukkur, the idea was that the constitution of the municipality will be much more democratic than it was before the application of that Act. On the occasion of the discussion on this new Act in 1925 in this Council, the Honourable the Minister for local self-government had stated that he was providing for a 4/5th elective element as the minimum and that he could easily conceive of cases where a more democratic constitution could be given. So, in the case of the city of Hyderabad, he provided for 1/9th of the members being nominated and 8/9th being elected. In the case of the Sukkur municipality for certain reasons he has selected to have a smaller proportion of elected members. In the original constitution before this resolution was passed, the proportion of nominated to elected members stood at 1 to 4, but the Sukkur municipality proposed that the proportion of nominated to elected members should be as 1 to 8. The collector and the commissioner both proposed that the proportion should be that of 1 to 6. But the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-government has reduced the elected strength. If we take the total figures, this is the position. 45 is the total strength and the members of the municipality, the collector and the commissioner proposed that 6 should be nominated and 39 elected. These six seats were provided for Government experts and minority communities not represented by election. The collector proposed that one elected seat should be reserved for the purpose of the representation of Christians, Anglo-Indians and Europeans. This is what the collector says :—

"I do not agree with the municipality that the elected seat at present reserved for the European, Anglo-Indian and domiciled Christian community which is undoubtedly growing at Sukkur should be taken away. The representatives of this important minority would be a source of strength in the municipality where communal feelings stand to run high."

The Government in their Resolution says :—

"In view of the remarks made by the Collector of Sukkur that a representative of 'other communities' should be a source of strength on the Board of the Sukkur Municipality where communal feelings stand to run high, Government consider that this important minority should be represented by nomination."

[Mr. Jairamdas Daulatram]

The whole point is this. Whether the provision of nominated seats is intended to represent communities not otherwise represented, and also whether the six seats are sufficient or not sufficient for the purposes of nomination. In the case of the Hyderabad municipality, where the civic population includes all the communities which live at Sukkur, there is no necessity of increasing the nominated strength beyond five, and if in Sukkur municipality it has already been the practice to nominate only two officials, it leaves at least three seats for nomination if the original proposals of the municipality were adopted. But if the number is increased to six, as recommended by the Collector and the Commissioner, then there are four nominated seats which can be used to represent any minor community which does not come in by election. I am sorry that the attempt to increase the nominated seats and to give a less democratic constitution to Sukkur should be on the ground that the European or Christian community has to be represented. They can be represented by giving them one out of the six nominated seats. When we consider how the percentages of seats for Muslims and non-Muslims shift if 39 are to be elected and how they shift if 38 are to be elected, then the matter becomes clear. If there are six nominated seats and 39 elected seats, then the non-Muhammadans get 25 seats. If the elected seats are 38, then the non-Muhammadans get 24. Now, there is no justification for increasing the nominated strength beyond what even the representatives of the bureaucracy ask for, and where we find that a popular representative wishes to give to Sukkur a less democratic constitution than they suggest and at the same time give to the non-Muhammadans a smaller number, than their population justifies, I do not think the proposition can easily be understood. The honourable member Mr. Khuhro said that on the basis of a population of 25,900 the number of non-Muhammadan members would be 24·13. But that will be so if 38 is the total elected strength. If the total elected strength is increased to 39, as it ought to be even according to the Commissioner's recommendation, then the number of non-Muhammadan seats would be 25. (An Honourable Member: How do you get that ?) It is a question of purely arithmetical calculation and I do not think that it is proper for a popular Minister to go even below the recommendation of the Commissioner.

Mr. Allahbaksh walad Khan Saheb HAJI MAHOMED UMAR (Sukkur District): Sir, my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani from Sukkur should have pointed out the necessity of increasing the number. Formerly, the number of members of the municipality was 40 and this year the municipality has increased the number from 40 to 45. I do not think that the work of the Sukkur municipality has increased to such an extent as to justify this increase in the number of its members.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: I would rise to a point of order, Sir. That cannot arise out of this. That is a different question, which the House has already decided before.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not suppose the honourable member is raising that as a point of objection to the motion under consideration. It is merely an argument. Does the honourable member want to raise that as a point of objection ? The point to-day before the House is not as to why 40 has been increased to 45.

Mr. Allahbaksh walad Khan Saheb HAJI MAHOMED UMAR : No, Sir, I will come to the point afterwards. The Mussalmans have not agreed to this increased number ; it is only the Hindus who have agreed to this increased number. We are in a perpetual minority. Therefore if the Hindus take 2 more members, then that means we must take one, that would reduce the strength of the Moslem representation. Here, the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani says it should be 26 and 14 where formerly it was 20 and 11. They want to have six and they want to give us 3. That means they want double the number. If we had an increase in the same proportion as that of the Hindus, we would not mind. But now the municipality of Sukkur, the Hindus being in the majority, might say, increase the number from 14 and 26 to 28 and 52. Superficially the arrangement might appear to be equitable since it maintains the ratio of 2 : 1. But looking at it from the broader point of view, the arrangement is most unequal. The task of minority becomes heavier since it will have to canvass a larger number of members than it had to do before. That means they want to reduce the minority to zero. My honourable friend Mr. Jairamdas has pointed out that these are democratic days. I do not understand if that is the view of democracy. What is proposed is not at all democratic. (An Honourable member : Communalism). Why do you want more ? The honourable member from Sukkur should convince this House that the work of the Sukkur municipality has increased to such an extent that an increased number of members is absolutely necessary. He should first point out the necessity for increasing the number. He himself is the president of the Sukkur municipality. But because he finds that by increasing the number by six we are getting an increase of only three, therefore, he says " increase it." I do not think more members are necessary, and there are very few people who take interest in the municipality. It is in order to reduce the strength of the Mussalmans that this motion has been brought by the honourable member from Sukkur. My honourable friend from Hyderabad, Mr. Jairamdas, says that it should be 25 and 14. I do not know how he has calculated that. Any figure which comes above ·5 should be considered as 1. But that is not the case here. Sir, therefore, I would ask the member from Sukkur to withdraw his motion.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : I am very sorry, Sir, that this debate has taken this turn. I thought, Sir, that we had celebrated the obsequies of the obnoxious communal policy. But I find that my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani inebriated with the dregs of a besotted fanaticism, has come forward with a motion which really introduces the Hindu-Mussalman question in its worst form.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I did not say one word about it, Sir.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The honourable member has left us to infer what he dared not say in words. Well, Sir, it would do him good if I refer here to what had happened in 1901 ? What has been the condition of the Mahomedans till 1921? The Mahomedans have been suffering during all this time, from a most inadequate representation in the municipalities of Sind as would be gathered from a debate in this House in 1901 when the mofussil municipalities Act was placed before this Council. On that occasion Sir Charles Ollivant said :

"I may tell the Council that in the four largest municipalities in Sind the population of Hindus and Mahomedans is 53½ and 46½ per cent. respectively, while the representation is Hindus 90 ½ per cent., Mahomedans 9½ per cent."....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : My honourable friend does not know that all affairs have changed since 1901.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I say, Sir, that during all these years the Moslem representation had been 9 per cent. while that of the Hindus was 90 per cent. although their respective population was nearly equal. That has been our fate in the past, but look, Sir, now it is only a matter of one seat and how Hindu members are agitating in this House. I remember I was a member of the select committee in 1925, when this Act was passed. My honourable friend from Sukkur was also a member. He was most eager to get rid of the final powers of the Commissioner in matters of nomination and wanted the same to be vested in the Minister.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I am repenting now. (Laughter).

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : He was very emphatic that the veto of the Commissioner should be taken away and that the Minister should be allowed to have that veto because these were the days of democracy. Now he has developed a sudden love for the bureaucracy. In these days of democracy, does it lie in the mouth of my honourable friend from Sukkur and my honourable friend from Hyderabad to come forward and appeal to this House against the decision of the Minister ? We have been doing quite the contrary. I am very sorry therefore to see that members come here and say that the Collector should be supported and the Minister should be denounced. My honourable friend from Hyderabad has appealed to democracy. We all know that my honourable friend Mr. Jairamdas and my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani are afraid of that very democracy in their own province and are moving heaven and earth to put off democratic rule in Sind. Does it now lie in their mouth to come forward, and appeal to democracy ? They support bureaucratic government when it suits them. It is all a tempest in a tea-pot. If we follow democratic principles I have no doubt the whole House would stand for the Ministers. The object of the motion is to show that the Minister is partial. I hope, Sir, that the House will not agree. The Minister is not partial. He is doing his best, and I believe that the House should have confidence in the Minister. It has all along been our principle that the Minister should have more power, that the Minister should have more responsibility, that the Minister should be supported as against the civilians ; but here my honourable friends are wrecking democracy. I do not go into details. Details have been sufficiently explained by my honourable friend Mr. Khuhro. I hope the House will reject this motion.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, I just want to say that the apple of communal discord has been thrown here by the principle of separate electorates. My honourable friend who preceded me referred to Council proceedings for the year 1901. I should therefore like to draw his attention to a famous statement of the late Mr. Budruddin Tyebji which he made when the first Local Self-Government Acts,—the Local Boards Act and the Municipalities Act—were on the anvil of the Council. That statement is a memorable one, namely, that he was an Indian first, everything else afterwards. That is the one principle which ought to guide our electorates in sending representatives either to local bodies or to any other bodies. I had the honour to be a representative on both the local bodies in my district and although the Mahomedan community there was in a very small minority, we had Mahomedan members on those bodies. We pulled on very well without any the least friction on both bodies until the apple of communal discord was thrown in our midst. I appeal to all members on both sides of the House, especially Members of Government, that if they are really sincere in starting and encouraging democratic institutions and in training us, the people of this country, in the art of democracy, they ought to be governed by one principle and one principle alone, namely, the principle of doing away with separate electorates, and to do that, they must take courage in both their hands. I do submit that this spirit of communalism is now manifesting itself in our Council politics also and I am afraid that it will continue to remain there. I therefore think that in a matter of this kind we ought not to be guided by any communal feelings when electing representatives on public bodies. Even the Government, when making a choice of members, should fix upon individuals who can rise above communal feelings and who have banished from their minds communal prejudices. They should choose only such persons as would place the general interests of the province above those of their own particular community, and it is only when such a choice is made, that I submit real self-government and real democracy will begin to operate.

In the present point at issue, there is only one question as to whether the number of elected seats should be reduced. I am only looking at it from that point of view. I am not going to have this arithmetical calculation, this method of division. I am reminded of a story of a partition of a peg between two brothers. Neither of them could take it half and half nor could they each take it whole. Are we going to play the same game here by saying that Hindus are 45·3 per cent. and Mahomedans are 39·5 per cent. of the population and that therefore the Hindus should have one more member and that the Mahomedans should have one member less? If we are to be guided by such considerations, where will it lead us to? Our guiding principle should be to see whether we are losing one elected member or gaining one elected member. There may be nominated seats left to be distributed on various grounds by Government, but I do think that Government, in making nominations, should be guided by the one principle as to who will best represent the general interests of the country. Is there any special charm in the communities as communities ? We know that the Parsi community is a very small community, that it is in a very small minority but we also know that that community has been making headway everywhere, in municipalities, in local boards, in bodies much higher than that. They have never said " We are Parsis, therefore give us one seat as there is no Parsi in this or that institution." Only the other day a question was raised in the Assembly. Some honourable member said that the Mahomedan community was backward. Another honourable member promptly said " No, it is an insult to call the Mahomedans a backward community." That question ought not to enter into this matter. I submit, Sir, if you want these local institutions to flourish, you must banish all these communal considerations from your mind. What is there in going on a municipality as a member ? What is there in getting elected on a local board as a member ? Are you going there for serving your own individual interests or for bettering the interests of your own community, or are you going there for pushing forward the interests of the country as a whole ? If you are going there out of a selfish motive, then I must express my keenest disappointment. Therefore the only solution of the situation, in the circumstances in which we are now placed, is to drive away all communal considerations from our public life. I appeal again that if Government are really sincere in their professions that they want to train us, Indians, in the art of self-government, if they really do not want to adopt the policy of " Divide and Rule ," if they are sincere in their professions that they are here to lead us on the road to self-government until that goal is reached, the only indication of their sincerity would be to translate that sincerity into action. By their actions they shall be judged and not by their words. I therefore submit that in a matter of this kind, really speaking, the one issue is not one member more or half a member less for this community or that community, but the real issue is to see whether we are getting one more elected member. We must do away with the canker of communal and separate representation which is eating not only into the vitals of our body civic but of our body politic also. Until and unless this canker is killed, there will be no real progress. I appeal to Government to take courage in both their hands and say what they really want to do. If they want to stick to correct principles, let them come forward and say, as they did when they got the Rowlatt Act passed, " we think this to be right, we do it, it does not matter whatever happens." Let Government deal with the communal question in the same way. That is the only solution of the problem.

I am really for this motion because it wants to enlarge the principle of election by having one more member elected. The number of elected members should not be reduced ; it should be left where it is ; out of 45 members 6 to be nominated and 39 elected. That number is there, and it should be left as it is. There should be no increase in the nominations, and there should be no decrease in the number elected.

Mr. H. DOW : Sir, I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept the closure. I should like to point out to honourable members that I do not see how the communal question comes in. It is a simple alteration which should be treated by the House in a businesslike manner. There are so many other amendments to follow, and I do hope honourable members will not indulge in orations about communal principles on matters like this.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I never intended to enter into communal matters. I might expressly state that I had no intention of entering into communal questions.

Now, so far as the motion is concerned, the Collector, the Commissioner and the Government are all agreed that the Mahomedans are entitled to 14 seats. So, the matter is concluded so far as they are concerned. Therefore, no communal question could arise, and I am extremely sorry that the honourable member from Larkana and Moulvi Rafiuddin should have introduced that question even in the slightest degree into this matter. Before the number of councillors was to be determined by the voting strength, the principles adopted by the Government in 1921 and 1922, before the Act was passed, were entirely different, and they are the same at present. When the Honourable Sir Henry Lawrence was the Commissioner in Sind in 1916, and after him the Honourable Mr. Rieu, the basis on which elections took place was that of population, and the distribution was made only on the basis of population. The Honourable Minister has taken that as the standard for distributing seats not only in the municipalities but also in the district local boards. To-day, we are agreed, so far as the basis is concerned, that population shall be the basis of distribution of seats. That is the basis on which I take my stand. Another matter that is conceded by the Government, by me and by everybody else is that the total number shall be 45. It does not lie in the mouth of my honourable friend from Shikarpur to say that the total number should not be increased from 40 to 45. The Collector agrees that the total number should be 45. Government does so too. Therefore, the only question that arises is whether the elected seats should be 39 or 38.

Now, I will tell you, Sir, what has produced the result which is before the Government. Instead of dividing first 40 seats in proportion to the population, which ought to be done, taking 40 as the number of elected councillors, what the Government have done is first to fix the number of nominated members as 7, leaving 38 seats to be distributed according to the population. That is the juggling of the figures, which has brought forth this result. Having first assumed that there shall be 7 nominated members, the rest, that is, 38 are left for distribution on the basis of population, and according to the calculation it comes to 24 for the non-Mahomedans and 14 for the Mahomedans. I am sure the Honourable Minister, if he had realised the process by which he arrived at this result, would not have carried it out. I fully assure the honourable member Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad and the House, and the Honourable Minister will also assure them, that so far as this matter is concerned, there is not the slightest intention of producing communal tension. In the Sukkur municipality, while this matter was being discussed—I have got the papers with me—there was not the slightest attempt at creating communal tension or communal feeling, and I therefore entirely disbelieve that there is any communal spirit in this matter, and I hope the Honourable Minister will assure this House that there is nothing communal in this. Whether 39 should be the elected number or 38 is the only question. I would only put it to the Honourable Minister that 8 was the nominated number before.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Is it worth while bringing all that into the discussion ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Certainly. The total number is increased by 5, and the nominations instead of being 8 are now brought down to 7. I will put it to the spirit of fairmindedness of the Honourable Minister whether, when the total number of members was 40, 8 members were nominated, it is reasonable to reduce the nominated number by only one when the total number is increased to 45. When the total number was 40, the Mahomedans were 11 and the Non-Mahomedans were 21. With 45 members, the non-Mahomedan members are 24, that is to say increased by 3, and the Mahomedans are also increased by 3. I ask, is that fair ? I would put it to the House and the Honourable Minister whether it is a fair distribution, and whether it is fair that one elected member should be taken away from the Non-Mahomedans and they should be injured in the slightest degree, when it is open to all sections of the people to enter by election. I would respectfully submit to the House and the Honourable Minister that they should accept this motion.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I assure this House that it is far from the intention of Government, while distributing these seats, to take into consideration the improper claims of any community. I was taunted by my honourable friend from Hyderabad with giving the House an assurance, when I introduced the bill, that it was done with the intention of democratising the constitution. Now, I come to the Sukkur municipality. There originally the total strength was 40; it has been increased to 45. Is it not an improvement on the existing strength of the municipality ?

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM: My complaint was the decrease of the elected seats.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Now, out of 40 seats, Sukkur had, including Anglo-Indians, Parsis and Jews, 32 elected seats.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: 21.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: 21; so much the better for me. Now, out of 45, I have given them 38 elected seats. Is that not an advance ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: There were 32 before; now it is 38.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I stated it was 32; there are now 38. Is that not an advance on the existing position ?

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Now, we come to the nominated seats. What was the number before ? It was 8. Now, the Collector, on whose authority my honourable friend the mover of this motion relies, says the following about the affairs of the Sukkur municipality :

" I am of opinion that it would be premature to eliminate nomination and recommend that as at Hyderabad at least 1/9th of the members should be nominated. Indeed I would recommend that the number nominated be fixed at 6, i.e., 3 salaried servants of Government and 3 others. Nominated members are required in order to strengthen the municipality in expert knowledge on subjects such as Medical, Engineering,....."

Then he comes to the representation of this important minority, that is the Christians, the Jews, the Parsis, etc., and in his recommendation he says :

" The representatives of this important minority would be a source of strength in the municipality where communal feelings run high. Its members are so small that there is much greater need of their protection by means of special representation than in the case of the Mahomedans. They would be swamped in the general non-Mahomedan electorate and would not be satisfied to revert to representation by nomination. "

The Collector himself thus wants that these communities should be represented. We could not give them representation by election under the Act. Therefore we have provided a seat for them by nomination. Now, there is the authority of the Collector that communal feelings in this municipality run high. My honourable friend from Sukkur said that this was the recommendation of the municipality; but the Mahomedan representatives of the Sukkur municipality say about this as follows :

" It has pained us to learn that the President of the Municipality has written to the Government requesting that the number of nominated seats be reduced from 7 to 6 and that of the non-Mahomedan elected members be raised from 24 to 25. In other words, it means that the Hindus should get one more seat.

" We do not dispute the right of the President to give his opinion to the Government in matters pertaining to the Municipality but that right is limited to cases where the matter has been placed before the Municipal Board and the Board has expressed its considered opinion about it. In the present case the Government Resolution was never placed before the Board for consideration and the Board was never asked by the President or anybody else to express an opinion on it. We strongly protest against the action of the President, in writing to the Government without giving us any opportunity of expressing our opinion and thus stabbing the Mussalmans behind their back in the dark."

As regards the point of the honourable member from Sukkur that the original recommendation of the municipality was to give 26 elected seats to non-Mahomedans and 14 to Mahomedans, the Mahomedan representatives observe as follows :

" As regards his first point that the Board has decided the ratio of 26 to 14, we beg to submit that the resolution was carried in the teeth of Muslim opposition (all the Muslim members having voted in a body against it) by the Hindus against all reasoning by the sheer force of majority. "

Now, I have read out to this honourable House the relevant extracts. The question is whether in a municipality where communal feelings run high, it is proper to reduce the nominated number. Does such a municipality deserve it ?

I then come to another point. There is an application from the Hindu residents of certain parts of Sukkur. They say :

" We, the undersigned residents of Nawagoth, beg most respectfully to submit that in our village the population is about....., but owing to the majority of population in New Sukkur being greater than that of ours, we regret to state that the candidates from our village cannot succeed in the Municipal election; hence we are under great deal of troubles and nobody hears our requests in the Sukkur Municipality....."

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: This has no connection with the number of seats.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The representation continues:

"there being none to represent our grievances. We therefore pray that your honour would be pleased....."

and so on.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: What is the prayer?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: That shows that the Sukkur Municipality does not enjoy the confidence of these Hindu residents.

We now come to another representation from the Hindus:

"The present body of Municipality has had its three years trial but the work is not satisfactory. President has too many duties as Council Member, Secretary of Library, and President of Shewa Mandli....."

An Honourable MEMBER: Who is the President?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The honourable member from Sukkur.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Sir, I rise to a point of order. That representation has nothing to do with the number of seats: It was in connection with extension of the term of the municipality.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I would request the Honourable Minister to limit his remarks strictly to the point.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I have read out the Mahomedan representation to show that the Municipal Board has not authorised the President to write to Government asking for more elected representation, and I ask, is it proper, in view of what I have pointed out, to reduce the nominated seats?

I now come to the proportion of Hindu and Mahomedan seats. The Hindu population is 24,811 and the Mahomedan 14,700.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Sir, wrong figures are being given. I challenge the statement that Hindus are only 24,000.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: So, have I done any injustice to the Hindu members? I have given them representation strictly in proportion to their population.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM: Is it suggested that the 24 seats are reserved for Hindus and are not open to other Non-Mahomedans?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I am coming to that. Out of the seven nominated seats, one is reserved for the miscellaneous communities. Even my honourable friend admitted that if we put other miscellaneous communities along with Hindus, then out of 38 seats, the ratio between Hindus and Mussalmans will be 24 and 14.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

I appeal to honourable members not to take into consideration any communal feeling—I appeal both to Hindus and to Mahomedans. If they think I have done anything wrong, they are at liberty to vote against me.

Question put and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I wish to warn the honourable House that if there is no serious attempt made by each individual honourable member, the Council session will have to last for many days more.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: The rest of the Statutory motions would not take more than half an hour.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do hope so. Order, order. I had an informal talk with the Honourable the Leader of the House. And it is this. If the honourable members at the fag end of this long session feel that His Excellency the Governor should be requested to prorogue the session in a day or so, I would request the Honourable the Leader of the House, on behalf of the non-official members on this side, that the two days or the one day that would be lost to the private business should be added to the legitimate number of days that they would be entitled to in the next session. If honourable members are agreeable to this proposal, I would move the Honourable the Leader of the House and get his consent.

Honourable members: No, no.

Finance Committee

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The result of the Finance Committee is declared and the following honourable members have been elected:—

Mr. B. G. Pahalajani	61
Mr. L. M. Deshpande	60
Khan Saheb Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan ..	59
Mr. Hooseinbhoy A. Lalljee	58
Mr. P. R. Chikodi	58
Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale	58
Mr. G. A. D. Wasif	55
Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan	53
Dr. B. R. Ambedkar	51
Mr. M. S. Khuhro	51
Mr. R. S. Asavale	50
Mr. R. G. Pradhan	48

These are the twelve members elected to the Finance Committee and the other results will be announced to-morrow.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): Sir, before you adjourn the House, I would request the honourable members on the opposite benches to restrict themselves to the dates officially fixed for the

[Mr. Noor Mahomed]

Government business. We find now that Government business is being extended from day to day. In the Legislative Assembly, the arrangements are quite different. There the members can go back to their constituencies and come back during the continuance of a session. Here there is no such arrangement and we do not get opportunity to go to our constituency till the session is over. At this rate we do not know when the present session will be over. Government business was to be over yesterday and from yesterday it has come to to-day and now we are told there is still Governmeut business for to-morrow. Of course, they have a right to take as much time as they like for their business. But in fairness to this side of the House, it is better that they restrict themselves to the dates given for the official business. From the way in which the business is going on, I think the University Bill is being deliberately kept back....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, I rise to a point of order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. There is one thing that I would like to say in this connection. The honourable member, Mr. Noor Mahomed, I am afraid, was not present when a point was raised in the early part of the session and it was announced to the House—I think I or the Honourable the Leader of the House made a statement that it was the privilege, according to the constitution, of Government to arrange their business as they liked and in any order they pleased. The number of days given and the dates shown is a mere matter of formality and is for the convenience of honourable members. I may say that it is for the non-official members to manage to finish the work as quickly as they can. I think I shall have to admit that time was taken—perhaps rightly and legitimately—by the honourable members on this (non-official) side in discussing matters in detail. Government is entitled to get through the agenda unless they wish to drop certain of their items. With that view, they have to go on from day to day and after their business is finished, the non-official members are entitled to get two days for private business. I do not think that any objection can be raised. I appreciate the point that it would be better if dates given by Government can be adhered to. But it is really wrong to say that Government have intentionally kept back the University Bill. The House is aware that two new members have been sworn into the Council for that purpose alone. One honourable member has already taken oath to-day. I know some Government members are anxious that the University Bill should be reached to-day; and I think every effort is being made to do so. Honourable members, therefore, should have no suspicion that Government are delaying the bill intentionally.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I may assure the honourable members that it was at my request that the Statutory Motions were taken up first. I thought if they were not taken up in this session, then the rules would come into force for the Sukkur and Larkana municipal elections. I considered that would not be fair to my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani, who had expressed his intention to move his amendments to those rules.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Sir, the Honourable the Leader of the House has not informed us as to what business would be taken up to-morrow.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am afraid the honourable member was not present when I stated the Order ; however, I shall repeat it. The Statutory Motions will be continued to-morrow ; after these are finished, the University Bill will be taken up, which is the only Government bill that will now be taken up in this session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : May I know from the Honourable the Leader as to up to what time the House should go on to-morrow ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I would like to know whether the House wants to disperse on Monday or not. Everything depends on that. I may state that if the House wants to sit for one hour extra to-morrow and also on Monday, I am willing to accept that suggestion. Anyhow, I leave the matter entirely to this House to decide in any way they choose.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned under the present circumstances till 10-30 a.m. to-morrow, Saturday, the 17th March 1928 and will sit up to 2 p.m. unless we decide otherwise.

The following honourable members then made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took their seats in the Council:—

Mr. R. T. Harrison,
Mr. G. A. Thomas.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Questions.

FLOOD DRAINS, GUJARAT

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any drains exist to carry off the flood waters in the flooded districts of Gujarat: (please state the names of these drains and the parts of the districts they serve);

(b) whether it is a fact that these drains were constructed long ago and have silted up;

(c) the expenditure incurred for keeping each of these drains in order and to prevent them being silted up during each of the last ten years;

(d) whether they are aware that Settlement officers and engineers had recommended the construction of more drains in those flooded tracts; if so, what action was taken by Government on these reports;

(e) when the existing drains were constructed?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: (a) Yes, there are drains in the flooded area of north Gujarat comprising the Ahmedabad, Kaira and Broach Districts, but they were primarily constructed for removing in years of ordinary rainfall the water-logging and consequent damage to crops in the flat tracts of Gujarat. They are not intended to cope with such heavy floods as occurred in July last. The names of the drains and the parts of the districts they serve are given in the attached statement.

(b) No, the drains are in working order and have not silted up, though they were damaged during the last abnormal floods. The question of putting them again in order is already under consideration.

(c) and (e) The statement referred to above gives the expenditure incurred on each of the drains during the last ten years and the years of their construction.

(d) The Settlement Officer had made proposals for the construction of certain drains in the Viramgam taluka of the Ahmedabad District.

The necessity of a drain was also mentioned in the case of Nadiad. A drainage project has been taken in hand in the Viramgam taluka and three other projects are under investigation. A project is also under investigation for the Vagra taluka of the Broach District. But these projects are proposed primarily for removing water-logging and consequent frequent damage to crops in years of normal rainfall. They are not intended to cope with abnormal floods.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: As regards (d), though the Settlement Officers have been recommending these drains since 1865, why are Government sitting silent over that ? The necessity of drains in Kaira was also mentioned by the Settlement Officers since the year 1865. Why are these drains held over till now ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The answer says " three other projects are under investigation."

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: They are outside the Kaira district. I am asking about the drains in the Kaira district.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Does the honourable member mean that none of these three projects are in the Kaira district ?

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: None of them is in the Kaira district.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: If the honourable member will ask me another question, I will find out whether there was any proposal definitely with regard to Kaira district and why it was not carried out.

FLOOD DRAINS, GUJARAT

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many old drains existed in the flood-stricken parts of Gujarat before the establishment of the Public Works Department (please name these drains) ;

(b) whether it is a fact that they are neglected and have been allowed to be silted up ;

(c) whether they intend to construct sufficient drains to carry off the flood waters from the villages subject to flooding during excessive rains ;

(d) what measures they intend to adopt to secure the Gujarat district from the effects of floods ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: (a) There were 13 drains in the Kaira District prior to the establishment of the Public Works Department. The attached statement gives the names of these drains. Such drains do not appear to have been constructed in the Ahmedabad and Broach Districts.

(b) Drains Nos. 4 to 13 in the statement referred to above have been remodelled and are in working order. The remaining 3 drains have ceased to exist.

(c) It is not feasible to design drains of such a capacity as would carry away flood waters during excessive rainfall, which occurs once or twice perhaps in a century. The cost of such a measure would be prohibitive. Moreover, in years of ordinary rainfall such drains would drain the affected areas too rapidly and thus act detrimentally on the cultivated areas and existing tanks and wells.

(d) Reference is invited to reply to clause (d) of the previous question.

Names of drains constructed between 1832 to 1842 in the Kaira District

Group 1	Serial No. 2	Name of drain 3
North ..	1	(a) Channel from Rudan to Karoli. (b) Channel from Bhumas to Khutaj.
Western Works ..	2	Channel from Radhwanaj to Watrak river.
	3	Channel from Undhela to Matar.
	4	Channel draining Heranj Machhial and Traj villages.
	5	Channel draining Khandhli, Kathoda Tranja, Marala and Punaj villages.
	6	Channel draining Petlad villages of Pij and Vaso (Baroda) and Matar villages of Maliataj and Lawal (British).
	7	Channel draining Bamnoli, Dantali and Davra.
	8	Channel draining Dumral, Piplata and Keriavi.
	9	Channel draining Mitral and Akhlod.
South West ..	10	Channel draining Moraj Chikhlia entering Alang Canal (Cambay).
	11	The great Karamsad drain passing through Palaj, Amod, Nar and Bhanderaj.
	12	Feeder to the Karamsad drain passing through Narsanda, Vadtal, Rahvli and Bhadhni.
South ..	13	Mogri drain relieving Nahapa, Santokpura, Bochasan, Uneli, Sahijpur and Vasna and entered the Chor-ravine at Kharamsal.

IRRIGATION PROJECTS

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) when the Mahi, Meshave and Sabarmati projects will be undertaken;

(b) whether it is a fact that certain Indian states have raised objection against the survey being carried out in their territory;

(c) if the reply to (b) be in the affirmative what steps Government propose to take in the matter;

(d) whether any correspondence has passed between the Government and these states; if so, whether they will place the correspondence on the table;

(e) whether it is the policy of this Government to supply water in the Indian states territory from the head works constructed in the British territory;

(f) if the reply to (e) be in the affirmative whether this aspect of the question has been brought to the notice of the Indian states protesting against the survey and construction of the works mentioned above?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information is being collected.

IRRIGATION PROJECTS

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what progress has been made in the preliminary survey of the Mahi and Sabarmati irrigation projects;

(b) the approximate cost to Government;

(c) the area which will be ultimately irrigated by these projects ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information is being collected.

FLOOD WATER DRAIN, VARSOLA

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received applications from Varsola and other villages on the Malkana Nalla in the Kaira district complaining that the B. B. & C. I Railway embankment is too high and that the span of the bridge on the nulla is insufficient to carry off the flood waters in the rainy season;

(b) if the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, whether they have asked the Railway Board to construct a bridge with a larger span than the one proposed to be constructed ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) No.

(b) Does not arise, but it may be stated that the question of increasing the dimensions of certain waterways under railway lines in Gujarat has been raised by the Commissioner, Northern Division, and is under consideration.

FLOOD RELIEF

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the British Parliament has appointed a committee to investigate into the causes of the flood in the Thames and to suggest measures for the prevention of such a calamity in future;

(b) if the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, what measures they propose to adopt to prevent similar calamities in this Presidency ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) Government are not aware that Parliament has appointed any such committee, though they know that investigations into the provision made to meet such floods have been made.

(b) The conditions prevailing in this Presidency and those in the lower reaches of the river Thames have nothing in common, and measures suitable in one place would be quite unsuitable in the other.

CROPS ON ECONOMIC HOLDINGS

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of places where economic or profitable holdings are owned by individuals or firms;

(b) the area at each place and the names of persons or firms holding them;

(c) the average crop per acre (in kind) of all sorts at each place ;

(d) the rates of different crops at which they were sold during the year 1926-27 ;

(e) the outturn of every sort of crop per acre at the Manjri Government farm in the year 1926-27 :

(f) the rates at which these various crops were sold last year (1926-27) ;

(g) the cost of manures (except sheep, cow-dung and oil-cakes) per acre for sugarcane ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) to (d) Government have no precise information and regret their inability to obtain it.

(e) and (f) A statement furnishing the required information is placed on the Council Table.

(g) The cost was Rs. 37-8-0 per acre.

STATEMENT

Name of the crop	Outturn per acre	Rate at which it was sold
Sugarcane (Gul)	9,942 Lbs.	11 Lbs. per Re.
Cotton	1,075 ,,	12 ,,
Jowar	1,905 ,,	20 ,,
Groundnut	2,712 ,,	16 ,,
Turmeric	1,700 ,,	12 ,,
Wheat	1,141 ,,	13 ,,
Chillies (Dry)	620 ,,	6 ,,
Tobacco	903 ,,	6½ ,,
Onions	15,518 ,,	35½ ,,
Potatoes	4,274 ,,	18 ,,

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : May I know the reason why Government have no information ? Is it because there are no economic or profitable holdings existing at present ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : If the honourable member reads the question, he will find it says " the number of places where economic or profitable holdings are owned by individuals or firms. " What a vague question ? And what reply is to be given to it ?

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : Is there none existing ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes ; there may be several existing. But the question is worded in such a way that one does not know what the honourable member wants, and it is impossible to obtain information for such a vague question.

G. T. HOSPITAL : X-RAY AND ELECTRO-THERAPEUTIC DEPARTMENT

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North) : Will the Honourable the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) the name of the person who has been appointed sister-in-charge of the X-Ray and Electro-Therapeutic Department at the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, Bombay ;

(b) her qualifications as a specialist in her subject ;

(c) whether it is not a fact that these qualifications can be acquired in Great Britain in six months ;

(d) the pay and allowances of the post ;

(e) whether private practice is allowed to the holder of the post ;

(f) if so, the time she usually spends in the hospital ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Miss D. Milner, who is on the establishment of the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital Nursing Association, is working at present but Government have not yet appointed her to the post which is to be advertised.

(b) G.S.M.M.G., M.E., S.R.E. of the Chartered Society of Great Britain.

(c) No. The time taken is at least two years, with special terms of a minimum of 18 months.

(d) Present pay on the Nursing Association's establishment Rs. 100—10—150 ; plus Rs. 65 per mensem messing allowance ; plus Rs. 8 per mensem dhobi allowance ; plus Rs. 100 per annum for uniform.

(e) Yes.

(f) 8-30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state why in this case messing allowance is necessary when the person concerned is in the hospital from 8-30 a.m. to 1 p.m. only and is allowed to have private work ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : These are the only terms under which this kind of officers are available.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Have others been tried ? Have you advertised for others ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They are the terms of the Nursing Association, and the Nursing Association have taken all means that are necessary in the matter.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : The Nursing Association is given certain grants, and they come to us for increased grants. We have also, therefore, to see, and the Honourable Minister is bound to see, how they spend the money. Will the Honourable Minister inform us whether they have made those investigations.....

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sometimes, yes. The question was considered if the unequal salaries of those officers in Bombay could be equalised and it was found that it was not possible to do so at once.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether if the Indian nurses working in the G. T. Hospital also work from 8-30 a.m. to 1 p.m., they can get messing allowance also ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No, they cannot, as they can be had on lesser scales.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Has the attention of Government been drawn to the fact that the amount mentioned in answer to (d) comes to about Rs. 180 a month and yet the sanction of this Council has been taken to a salary of Rs. 250 per month. Will the Honourable Minister be able to account for the difference ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That was the salary proposed for the appointment but we have not yet made up our mind as to what salary should be actually paid to the incumbent of the post.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : When a person is drawing a salary of Rs. 180, why should Government ask the Council to vote Rs. 250 for the same person ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That was the recommendation of the Surgeon General and the Superintendent in charge of the hospital who said that according to their opinion a proper person with necessary qualifications would not be available for less.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Does the Honourable Minister mean to suggest that the present incumbent has not got the necessary qualifications ?

(No reply).

G. T. HOSPITAL : X-RAY AND ELECTRO-THERAPEUTIC DEPARTMENT

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North) : Will the Honourable the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) the date of appointment of the sister-in-charge of the X-Ray and Electro-Therapeutic Department at the Goculdas Tejpal Native General Hospital, Bombay ;

(b) whether it is a fact that she was employed in the same capacity before the grant for her pay was passed by the Legislative Council on October 11, 1927 ;

(c) if the reply to (b) be in the affirmative how long had she been so employed and under what head had her pay been shown in the budget ;

(d) if the reply to (b) be in the affirmative, why the Honourable Minister told the Council " We are not committed to employ any one. We are not committed to the fact that a sister is absolutely necessary." (Council Proceedings, October 11, 1927, Volume XXI, page 671) ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a), (c) and (d) A sister-in-charge of the X-ray and Electro-therapeutic Department at the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital has not yet been appointed but a sister with the necessary qualifications has been appointed by the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital Nursing Association on its establishment with effect from the 16th May 1927. Government have not yet sanctioned the appointment which will be advertised.

(b) No.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : (Inaudible).

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: (Inaudible).

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: The matter is under consideration.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: Is the European nurse going to be appointed ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: We have not yet made up our mind as to that.

G. T. HOSPITAL: INDIAN SISTERS-IN-CHARGE

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North): Will the Honourable the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether his attention has been drawn to the statement made by the honourable member for the Bombay City, North (non-Muhammadan constituency), at the Council meeting on October 11, 1927, that "In this connection I would like to invite particular attention to the fact that in the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital there are several Indian nurses, who are not given any chance of promotion, although many of them are qualified and well fitted to hold the post of sister-in-charge...." (Mr. Ginwala—Council Proceedings Volume XXI, page 667);

(b) whether he has made any inquiries into the matter;

(c) if so, how many purely Indian nurses have been appointed as sisters-in-charge within the last four years ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) None. The Superintendent of the G. T. Hospital reports that only those that have had previous experience in a recognised hospital as sisters are appointed. The position of a sister-in-charge of a ward is important and full of responsibility, and in the circumstances, it is not found possible, in the best interests of the institution, to promote an Indian nurse from the existing staff to the position of a sister-in-charge of a ward. Government will consider the claims of suitable Indian candidates whenever available.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: Will the Honourable Minister be prepared to state whether every one of the sisters who have been appointed by Government as sister-in-charge have had previous experience in a recognised hospital ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I require notice of that.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is it not possible to find out whether there are Indian sisters capable of acting as sister-in-charge ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Hitherto it has not been possible to find one with necessary experience.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: Have not the Cama and other hospitals been able to find more than half the sisters who are Indians with practical experience ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I hear they have.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it the policy of the department to debar Indian sisters from such posts ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Not at all.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Will the Honourable Minister consider the claims of Indian Nurses ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That is what we are going to consider and we will give them a chance whenever a suitable candidate is forthcoming.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Has no suitable candidate been ever forthcoming ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Occasionally.

REGISTRATION OF DOCUMENTS : FILM PHOTO PROCESS

SARDAR G. N. MUJUMDAR on behalf of Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the newly introduced film process of photo copying documents renders it necessary to correct any mistakes in such copies ;

(b) whether they will place on the Council Table the first two hundred of such photo copies from the offices of the sub-registrars of Haveli since the introduction of the new film process ;

(c) the number of employees from August 1927 to December 1927 since the new introduction of photo copying by film process and their monthly wages ;

(d) whether this new system is less expensive than the former photo copying system and whether the number of employees and their wages under the former system of photo copying was less than under the present system ;

(e) the maximum delay caused in returning documents to parties during the months of August 1927 to December 1927 since the introduction of the new film process ;

(f) whether stitched documents are required to be loosened in sheets for the purposes of photo copying since the introduction of the new film process ;

(g) whether there are any instances of documents written in any ink otherwise than black having been found unfit for the purposes of photo copying under the new film process ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) As the copies form the original records and concern the affairs of private parties, they cannot be placed on the Council Table.

(c) In August 1927 there were 33 employees and their monthly wages amounted to Rs. 1,149. The present staff consists of 20 men costing Rs. 672.

(d) The film process is less expensive than the photo copying system. The number of employees and their wages under the former system of photo copying were more than under the present system.

(e) The maximum delay was 5 months and 20 days in respect of one document during the period of transition from one process to another.

(f) No.

(g) Very few. But this defect will be cured when the photo office is more fully equipped.

CRIMINAL COMPLAINTS : PAPERS CALLED FOR BY DISTRICT MAGISTRATE

SARDAR G. N. MUJUMDAR on behalf of Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact—

(i) that criminal complaints have been lodged against two councillors of the Kalyan municipality ;

(ii) that the papers relating to the said complaints were called for by the Collector of Thana and were kept by him for several days ;

(iii) that the Collector also called for papers in a case before the Resident Magistrate of Kalyan in which a Muhammadan was involved ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (i) Yes.

(ii) No.

(iii) The question is too vague to admit of a definite reply.

KONKAN EDUCATION SOCIETY : ACCOUNTS

SARDAR G. N. MUJUMDAR on behalf of Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have seen the annual report of the Konkan Education Society ;

(b) whether they have made any inquiry about the defaults in the accounts of the Konkan Education Society detected by the District Local Board, Kolaba, in the industrial branch of the society and published in the " Kolaba Samachar " of 12th February 1927 ;

(c) if not, whether they propose to do so ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the Council of the Society has decided that the ordinary members of the society—contributors—have no right to check the accounts and go through the minute book ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The accounts are reported to be in order except for some irregularities of a trifling nature.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) No. An ordinary member with the previous permission of the Chairman of the Society can have access to the account books of the Society.

LABOURERS' WAGES : FINES AND DEDUCTIONS

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of any, and if so, what action, legislative or otherwise, that is proposed to be taken by the Government of India in the matter of the report of the Bombay Government as regards fines and deduction of wages of employees in mills ;

(b) what definite steps the Bombay Government will take to ameliorate the hardship caused by these heavy fines and deduction from wages ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a) No.

(b) An enquiry regarding fines and deduction of wages of employees in mills was recently undertaken at the instance of the Government of India from which it may be inferred that the whole question is under the consideration of the Government of India. In the circumstances the Government of Bombay do not propose to take any action.

SUBORDINATE JUDGES, SATARA DISTRICT : SHORTHAND TYPISTS

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the sub-judges in the Satara district are provided with shorthand-typists ; if so, at what places ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the services of other clerks are utilised as such, and if so, in what courts ;

(c) whether the clerks are required to do this work in addition to their other duties ;

(d) whether they are paid any extra allowance for the same ;

(e) if not, whether they propose to sanction such allowance to them ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) No.

(b) Two clerks have learnt shorthand and their services are made use of as shorthand writers when required.

(c) When so employed during office hours, they do this work instead of their other work.

(d) and (e) No.

SHIRASTEDARS, SATARA DISTRICT : HOURS OF WORK

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state how long after office hours do the suit and darkhast shirastedars in the courts of the various sub-judges in Satara district have to sit to finish their every day work and in what courts ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : There are no fixed periods. Office hours are from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and some of the establishment are occasionally required to come to office earlier or stay later. It depends upon the amount of work to be done.

COURTS : HALF-HOLIDAY ON SATURDAYS

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state in what districts Saturday is observed as a half-holiday in the courts ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : There is no rule that Saturday is to be observed as a half-holiday in the Civil Courts outside Bombay.

FAMINE FODDER

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how much grass has been collected by Government from forests for sale or for giving as a loan to agriculturists during the last famine (1919-20) in the Deccan Districts of the Presidency;

(b) how much of it remained undisposed;

(c) how much loss Government have incurred owing to the grass being useless after the rains have set in;

(d) whether the grass was pressed;

(e) whether they are aware that there has been much loss at Karad owing to such grass being left unsold ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) to (d) A statement containing the information is placed on the Council Table.

(e) There was no famine in the Satara District in the year 1919-20. A loss of Rs. 6,474 occurred on account of the operations undertaken during 1918-19. Of this the loss at Karad amounted to Rs. 4,895 though efforts were made to sell the grass both by auction and at fixed rates.

Statement regarding Famine Fodder operations in 1919-20 in the Deccan Districts

Name of District	Total quantity of grass collected	Quantity of grass remained undisposed of	Loss (in Rupees) Rs.	Whether the grass was pressed

Poona ..	12,09,174	..	Nil.	Not pressed.
Nasik ..	1,30,00,576	..	Nil.	Pressed.
Ahmednagar ..	42,73,500	2,977	Nil.	Pressed.

LLOYD BARRAGE, WESTERN CIRCLE: APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the articles that have appeared in the Sind Zamindar of Sukkur dated 17th August, 28th September and 1st of October 1927 about the unfair treatment and the anti-muslim policy in the matter of appointments in the Western Circle of Mr. Satarawala ?

(b) whether it is a fact that a Hindu Head Clerk whose son who is only 18 years of age has been appointed as Lower Subordinate in the vacancy that occurred under one Executive Engineer in the Circle of Mr. Satarawala in spite of the fact that the Executive Engineer reported to him that there was no necessity to fill the appointment ?

(c) If so, why Government money was wasted by making this unnecessary appointment merely to oblige the Head Clerk;

(d) why the post was not advertised if the Superintending Engineer at all wanted to fill it;

(e) whether it is a fact that this Head Clerk of Mr. Satarawala who belongs to Sehwan wields a great influence over the Superintending Engineer;

(f) How many appointments in all have been made without advertisement in the Western Circle since the date of Mr. Satarawala having been put in the charge of the circle;

(g) how many Mussalmans and how many non-Muslims have been appointed in Western Circle in the clerical staff, Lower Subordinate and Upper Subordinate grades, since the time of Mr. Satarawala ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: The information has been called for.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO: Will a reply be sent to me if the information is received after the close of the present session but before the commencement of the next session ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: It will be given in the next session in the usual way.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO: Will it not be sent to me personally before the commencement of the next session ? Informally ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I will see if I can manage that. I will take a note of it.

SALT SUPPLY, AHMEDABAD

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the fact that the salt supplied to the sub-agent at Ahmedabad is of very low quality and detrimental to public health;

(b) whether they are aware that the salt supplied to the retail dealers at Ahmedabad is of the proper type and fit for human consumption;

(c) what are the reasons for such difference in quality in the salt supplied to the sub-agent and the retail dealers at Ahmedabad;

(d) what steps they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: The question relates to a Central subject and the local Government is not in a position to answer it.

NEW URDU SCHOOLS, AHMEDABAD DISTRICT

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of applications received by them from the Muslim public of Ahmedabad district for opening new Urdu schools wherever 20 students were willing to attend;

(b) the number of such applications which were sanctioned ;

(c) the number of applications which were rejected, stating the reason for the rejection ;

(d) whether it is a fact that applications were rejected because the applicants would not agree to provide free school accommodation and equipment ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) No applications were received by Government but 5 applications were received by the Deputy Educational Inspector, Ahmedabad district.

(b) 3.

(c) One application was rejected as the District Local Board, Ahmedabad, was not willing to bear its share of $\frac{1}{3}$rd of the cost, while the other application is still under consideration pending settlement of the question of conversion of a Gujarati school into an Urdu school.

(d) No.

MAMLATDAR OF DOHAD : COLLECTION FOR REPAIR OF DURGA

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the Mamlatdar of Dohad Taluka of Panch Mahals had collected money from some Hindus of Dohad Taluka for repairing a Durga of a Mahomedan and that after the question was asked in the Bombay Legislative Council regarding this he called Babar Gula Bhabar, a Bhil of Abhlod, and returned Rs. 10 which had been subscribed to the Durga Repairing Fund by the Bhil owing to his own pressure ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : No.

HIGH COURT : WAITING ROOMS

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that there is no accommodation of a waiting room in the Bombay High Court building for litigants, witnesses, both males and females, and the public ;

(b) whether they are aware that great inconvenience is felt by the people (males and females) who go to High Court as litigants and witnesses and when they have to wait there for hours together ;

(c) whether they intend to make inquiry and make arrangements for their convenience ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) and (b) No complaint of this nature has come to the notice of Government.

(c) If any inconvenience is caused to the public in the manner suggested, it should be brought to the notice of the High Court.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR, DOHAD : NIGHT CAMP GUARD

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in the second fortnight of November 1927 the Camp of the District Deputy Collector of Dohad was moving in the Dohad Taluka and people were called to guard his camp at night ;

(b) if answer to (a) is in affirmative, what number of men was engaged for the night Choki at Bavka of Dohad Taluka on 25th and 26th of November 1927 and what sum was paid to each for night Choki ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) and (b) On the night of 24th November 1927, on the way to Bavka, a typewriting machine was stolen from the kit of the Deputy Collector. The Deputy Collector in order to prevent a recurrence of the incident, especially in view of the thieving proclivities of the Bhils, asked three or four inferior village servants to sleep on two nights near his tents which contained Government records, cash box, etc. No payment was made for this service as none was asked for, and none seemed to be expected by the men.

BENCH MAGISTRATE, GODHRA : MUNICIPAL COMPLAINTS OF NUISANCE

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to sate in the following tabular form the number of persons against whom the Godhra City Municipality have lodged complaints in the Court of the Honorary Bench Magistrates during the last three years for nuisance from January 1925 to December 1927 :—

Month and year	No. of complaints lodged	No. of complaints against Hindus	No. of complaints against Muhammadans	No. of complaints withdrawn	No. of complaints against Hindus withdrawn	No. of complaints against Muhammadans withdrawn	Sum of Fine	From Hindus	From Muhammadans	Remarks

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Information is being obtained.

KIDNAPPING IN SIND

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to a printed appeal in the form of a leaflet under the heading " Kidnapping terror in Sind " issued to the Indian leaders by Swami Govindanand, President of the Hindu Sabha, Karachi ;

(b) whether they are aware that in Sind systematic and organised kidnapping of schoolgoing boys and concealing them for a number of years in secret dens of Islamic proselytization in and outside Sind has been going on for many years ;

(c) whether it is fact that a schoolgoing boy of 14 years of age named Dhanraj, of village Jalbani, in Bhiria Taluka of Nawabshah District, was kidnapped by some Muhammadans in the month of January 1925 and was removed from that village in Muslim costume with the help of some leading Muslim Zamindars and Molvis of Jalbani village ;

(d) whether they are aware that there is a secret Muslim den at Karachi, where kidnapped Hindu minors are kept in confinement and converted to Islam afterwards ;

(e) whether they are aware that kidnapped Hindu minors of Sind are kept by Muhammadans in various villages of Bhawalpur State for training them in Islam.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Government have not seen the leaflet in question.

(b) No.

(c) This case has been the subject of judicial proceedings. The suggestions made in the question are not borne out by the facts.

(d) No.

(e) No.

IRRIGATION WORKS IN GUJARAT, DECCAN AND SIND

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state-

(a) the total amount spent as capital on irrigation works till 1926-27 in Gujarat, Deccan and Sind respectively with the average income derived on the same in each of the years 1924-25, 1925-26 and 1926-27 ;

(b) whether they intend to increase further capital works in Gujarat ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : (a) A statement containing the requisite information in respect of irrigation works for which capital and revenue accounts are kept up to the year 1925-26 is placed on the Council Table. There are, however, numerous other minor irrigation works on which expenditure has been incurred, but for which no separate accounts are kept from year to year. Figures for such works are therefore not included in these figures.

(b) Estimates for survey work regarding irrigation schemes in Gujarat have been approved by Government. The question of increasing further capital works in Gujarat will be considered when the results of the surveys are known.

Statement containing information about total capital expenditure and net revenue in respect of irrigation works for which Capital and Revenue accounts are kept in Gujarat, Deccan and Sind

	Capital expenditure up to end of 1925-26	Net revenue on works in operation after deducting working expenses, 1924-25	Net revenue on works in operation after deducting working expenses, 1925-26

Sind	8,25,75,042‡	37,44,070	25,85,792

* This includes Rs. 15,524 for work under construction.
† This includes Rs. 11,83,013 for works under construction and in abeyance.
‡ This includes Rs. 3,93,29,832 for works under construction.

I have got the figures for 1926-27 showing net revenue on works in operation after deducting working expenses. The answer gives figures for 1925-26. I am going to read out further figures for 1926-27 :—

	Capital expenditure up to end of 1926-27	Net revenue on works in operation after deducting working expenses, 1924-25 and 1925-26	Net revenue on works in operation after deducting working expenses, 1926-27

Deccan ..	9,49,84,574†	Figures of net revenue for 1925-26 are as shown above.	15,50,870
Sind ..	10,22,49,056‡		32,86,023

* This includes Rs. 15,524 for works under construction.
† This includes Rs. 8,71,599 for works under construction and in abeyance.
‡ This includes Rs. 5,86,96,849 for works under construction.

DREDGERS : OUTPUT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to place on the table a list containing the guaranteed output and the actual average output of every dredger which worked in each of the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 in this Presidency with reasons for reduction in the average if any ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : There are two dredgers employed in connection with the Back Bay Reclamation Scheme, viz., the " Sir George Lloyd ", and the " Kalu." Both these dredgers were designed at different times to be capable of dredging 2,000 cubic yards per hour in soft clay. The average output per pumping hour of the dredgers "Sir George Lloyd" and "Kalu" during the years 1924-25, 1925-26 and 1926-27 were as follows :—

——	1924-25	1925-26	1926-27
"Sir George Lloyd" ..	856 working in Back Bay.	960 working in Back Bay.	1,556 working in Back Bay.
"Kalu"	141 working in Back Bay.	406 working in Back Bay.	398 working in Back Bay. 609 working in harbour.

The reduction in the output of the dredgers in comparison to the output which they were designed to give is mainly due to the difference in the quality of the material, the material met with in Back Bay and harbour being usually considerably harder than that for which the dredgers were designed. A sand pump dredger, named the "Drudge," was also employed for dredging sand and shingle for the Development Department. This dredger was designed to dredge 900 tons of sand and shingle during 8 hours from a depth of 20 feet below water level. The actual average output during the year 1925 was 600 tons of sand and shingle per day. As the number of pumping hours per day worked by the dredger during 1925 cannot be ascertained, it is not possible to say whether there was any reduction in the actual average output in comparison to the output which it was designed to give.

LAND REVENUE, GUJARAT, DECCAN AND SIND

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to state for each of the years from 1924-25 to 1926-27 respectively—

(a) the amount of land revenue received from Gujarat, Deccan and Sind respectively ;

(b) the number of acres on which the land revenue was received as in (a) ;

(c) the incidence per acre in each of the provinces of the Presidency mentioned in (a) ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) The Honourable Member is referred to appendices Nos. I and III, and Nos. I and IV of the Land Revenue Administration Report* of the Bombay Presidency and Sind, respectively, for the year 1924-25 (copy placed on the Council table) for the information required by him for the year 1924-25. Similar information for the years 1925-26 and 1926-27 will be available when the reports for these years are printed.

(c) The information is worked out quinquennially. It is given in the Land Revenue Administration Report for 1925-26, a copy of which will be furnished to the Honourable Member when it is ready.

* Kept in the Secretary's office.

FACTORIES IN BOMBAY PRESIDENCY

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number and names of factories closed in the Presidency in 1926 and 1927, with reasons in each case as far as possible;

(b) whether they intend to take any active measure to give support to the staple industry with a view to save growing unemployment and impending crisis;

(c) if so, the nature and details of the same;

(d) whether they are aware that the conditions resulting from such situation will affect adversely Government revenues involving additional taxation?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: (a) The information is contained in the accompanying statement.

(b) and (c) No.

(d) Adverse industrial and trade conditions must always react in some degree on revenue.

It is not possible, owing to the vagaries of the cotton ginning and pressing industry, to say that certain factories that have remained closed up to the present in 1927 will not work towards the close of this year. Since however the remaining sub-questions deal with the cotton textile industry, information as regards this industry is given for 1927.

Reasons.—It is not possible to give detailed reasons in each case unless the Factory Inspector is granted powers to investigate the finances of each concern, but the following general remarks apply. The large number of closed gins and presses is due in part to a partial failure of the cotton crop in some areas and to the fact that in this industry the number of factories is in excess of the needs. A number of gins and presses remain permanently closed under a pooling arrangement of the owners.

Engineering concerns and miscellaneous factories.—A number of these were floated in boom times when machinery prices were high and have been unable to compete with factories established previously. They have of course felt the general depression.

Textile Mills.—Nos. 1 to 4 are large concerns while 5, 6 and 7 are small factories. No. 5 was started in 1925. No. 6 is an old factory which has worked intermittently in recent years. It is probably not sufficiently well equipped to compete with larger woollen mills which have been erected in recent years.

Nos. 4 and 29 are proprietary mills. They have been closed since 1924. The cause of their not being worked is probably due to internal family disputes consequent on the death of the former owner. No. 47 is also a proprietary concern that stopped working in 1924 on the death of the owner.

Surat.—(No. 112—Hatim Mills).—This mill has been in financial difficulties for a number of years and is in voluntary liquidation.

No. 113.—This mill was partially destroyed by fire and is in liquidation. The former agents are at present involved in proceedings for financial mismanagement.

No. 114.—The reasons for the closing of this mill are not definitely known, but they appear to be other than trade depression.

1927—Ahmedabad.—One spinning mill (Hathising) stopped working in 1927 due to depression in the yarn market. On the other hand three mills have started in 1927 in this area.

In Bombay two mills, viz., Kilachand and Emperor Edward, have, in addition to those stopped in 1926, recently stopped working. In the former case, depression in the market combined with its floatation in boom times are the causes. In the latter mill, trade depression combined with other causes appear to have been responsible for its stoppage.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Have Government taken any steps to restore prosperity to the mills and remove the existing trade depression?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I am afraid an answer would involve a debate. I am not prepared to enter upon a debate with the honourable member just now.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is it not the concern of Government to pay attention to the removal of the present trade depression?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Very much so.

DEVELOPMENT STAFF

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to give the names of such of the officers and members of the staff of the DevelopmentDirectorate whose pay was over Rs. 250 per mensem and who had either resigned or whose services were dispensed with during each of the years 1922-23 to 1926-27 with reasons in each case?

RETRENCHMENT PROPOSALS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to state—

(i) how many officers receiving monthly pay over Rs. 1,000, 500, 200 have been recommended for reduction by the Retrenchment Officer along with the number of peons, clerks and such other staff;

(ii) the amount to be reduced annually in each of the above groups?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: A statement furnishing the information is placed on the Council Table.

Number of posts on and over Rs. 1,000	Number of posts on and over Rs. 500	Number of posts on and over Rs. 200	Number of peons	Number of clerks	Number of other staff	Amount to be reduced annually in each of the groups

DEVELOPMENT CONTRACTS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to place on the table a list of persons who were in service in the Bombay Development Department and who were instrumental in obtaining contracts from the Department after severing their connections with the Department along with the amounts of the contracts or works or purchases made from or through them from 1922-23 to 1926-27?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: No persons who were in the service of the Development Department were "instrumental" in obtaining contracts from the Department after severing their connection with it. Three persons, viz., Messrs. G. Drake, B. R. Sahani and Saligram Sharma were given contracts for works, after they had severed their connection with the Department, as detailed below :—

Name	Post held	Contract awarded, year and amount
		1922-23	1923-24	1924-25
		Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1. Mr. G. Drake ..	Foreman of the workshop at Kandivli ..	24,963	59,097	19,283
2. Mr. B. R. Sahani.	Assistant Engineer.	..	..	10,840
		1923-24	1924-25	1925-26	1926-27
3. Mr. Saligram Sharma.	Overseer ..	7,072	36,509	56,318	20,631

It also appears that Mr. D. R. Vaidya, late Assistant Land Acquisition Officer for the City of Bombay, who also worked as part-time Under Secretary to Government in the Development Department from April 1921 to January 1922, had, by February 1924, during leave preparatory to resignation, some interest in the firm of Messrs. C. A. Gaya and Company, who obtained chawl contracts in December 1922 to the amount of Rs. 25,35,404. Mr. Vaidya had the permission of Government to do private practice during his leave preparatory to resignation. His son's name appears in the contract documents as a partner in the firm of Messrs. C. A. Gaya and Company. The relationship was not known to Government when the contracts were given, nor is it known when Mr. Vaidya acquired an interest, if any, in the firm.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS AT AHMEDABAD

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of minor and fatal motor accidents at Ahmedabad during each of the years 1925, 1926, 1927 (June ending);

(b) whether any precautions have been taken with a view to reduce such accidents? If so, to state the nature of such measures?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON:

	1925	1926	1927 up to 30th June 1927
Number of minor motor accidents.	94	122	55
Number of fatal motor accidents.	6	10	7

(b) Yes; traffic control, prosecutions, suspension or cancellation of licenses, in suitable cases, and more frequent inspections of all public motor vehicles.

GOVERNMENT SALT WORKS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the salt issued from the Government Salt Works at Kharaghoda for sale in Ahmedabad is unfit for human consumption;

(b) to state whether it is a fact that it is mixed with earth and silica;

(c) to state whether by a letter or order any instructions have been issued to the Salt Agent to the effect that the issue of salt other than 1921 season salt is stopped for a certain time. If so, to place copies of such orders, instructions or letters on the Council Table;

(d) to state whether their attention has been drawn to a resolution of the Ahmedabad Municipality passed on this question on 16th February 1927 criticising the action of Government in forcing the public to use such salt;

(e) if so, to place a copy thereof on the Table along with details of the action taken by Government on it?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: The question relates to a central subject and the Bombay Government are not in a position to answer it.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is it not the concern of the Provincial Government to see that proper eatables are supplied to the people residing in the Bombay Presidency?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: I have nothing to add to the reply already given.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Is it not the duty of the Public Health Department of the Bombay Government to see that wholesome articles of food are sold in the province of Bombay?

The Honourable Mr. J. L RIEU: I have no reply to give.

COASTING VESSELS: WIRELESS APPARATUS

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state whether—

(a) it is a fact that coasting vessels were allowed to use wireless apparatus for transmission as well as reception;

(b) if so, whether this concession has been withdrawn? If so, when and why;

(c) whether they have considered the desirability of taking steps in order that coasting vessels may be provided with wireless apparatus?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: (a) Yes.

(b) No. Since 1st January 1923, when the Indian Wireless Telegraphy (Shipping) Act first came into force, all ships engaged in the coasting trade except those on certain specified runs have been exempted by the Government of India from the requirements of wireless telegraphy—vide Government of India Notifications mentioned below (copies attached):—

(i) Government of India Notification No. 611, dated the 4th February 1922.

(ii) Government of India Notification No. 615, dated the 4th February 1922.

(iii) Government of India Notifications Nos. 3755 and 3757, dated the 22nd July 1922.

(iv) Government of India Notification No. 2744, dated the 5th May 1923.

Government are, however, not aware of any orders prohibiting the installation of wireless telegraphy apparatus, under the necessary license, on board the ships exempted by the notifications referred to above.

(c) The question of re-scheduling the voyages as exempted voyages for purposes of the Wireless Telegraphy Rules is at present under the consideration of the Government of India and the Government of Bombay have already made their recommendations to that Government in consultation with the shiping and other interests concerned.

(b) the names of persons whose requests for the licenses mentioned in (a) were not granted and the reasons for the refusal of their requests in each case ;

(c) the names of the persons whose requests for the licenses mentioned in (a) were granted and the reasons for granting their requests in each case ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) to (c). Two statements marked A and B containing the required information are placed on the Council Table.

" A "

Statement showing names of persons who applied for Foreign Liquor Licenses from 1922-23 to 1926-27, whose requests were refused

	Names of applicants	Kind of license applied for	Reasons for refusal
1.	Mr. D. R. Gheyara ..	" Off " ..	No good reasons were shown for granting a new license.
2.	Messrs. J. DeSouza & Sons..	" Off " and " On ".	The locality and the house selected were objectionable.
3.	Messrs. Nowroji Framji & Sons.	" Off " ..	Their license had previously been cancelled and the request for its restoration was therefore refused.
4.	Mr. Nowroji N. Borka ..	" Off " and Beer.	It was not considered desirable to open a new " off " shop near the place where an " off " shop already existed. There was no necessity for a beer license.
5.	Mr. Phirojsha F. Khambatta.	" Off " ..	There was no necessity for an additional license in the locality.
6.	Mr. S. B. Billimoria ..	" Off " ..	It was not considered desirable to open a new foreign liquor shop on separate premises in the locality.

	Names of applicants	Kind of license applied for	Reasons for refusal
7.	Messrs. Nowroji Framji & Sons.	"On" and "Off".	The licenses in the locality were sufficient
8.	Mr. B. R. Rodrigues ..	"On" ..	Do. do.
9.	Mr. Dhanjisha P. Daruwalla.	Beer ..	There was no necessity to grant a license for the exclusive sale of beer.
10.	The Honorary Secretary, Railway Institute.	Bar ..	The license was considered to be unnecessary.
11.	Mr. Amratlal Harilal ..	"Off" ..	There was no need for a new shop in the locality.
12.	Mr. Merwanji D. Solai ..	Beer ..	There was no necessity for a beer license.
13.	Mr. C. J. DeSouza ..	For restoration of his "Off" and "On" licenses.	The licenses had been surrendered unconditionally.
14.	Mr. F. Fonseca ..	"Off" and "On".	It was not considered desirable to increase the existing number of licenses.
15.	Mr. Dinshaw D. Contractor.	"Off" and "On".	Do. do.
16.	Mr. R. R. Mehta ..	Hotel ..	The premises were nothing more than an eating house.
17.	Messrs. S. G. Miranda & Sons.	"Off" and "On".	The existing licenses in the locality were sufficient for local needs.
18.	Mr. Manecksha D. Bharucha.	Hotel ..	The premises were only a small boarding house.
19.	Mr. Mohanlal Mathuradas.	Beer ..	There was no need for such a license.
20.	Mr. Meherji Adarji ..	Beer ..	Do. do.
21.	Mr. Eruchshaw F. Khambatta.	Hotel ..	The existing number of licenses were considered sufficient.
22.	Mr. Manecksha D. Bharucha.	Hotel ..	Do. do.

"B"

Statement showing names of persons who applied for Foreign Liquor Licenses from 1922-23 to 1926-27, whose requests were granted

	Names of applicants	Kind of license applied for	Reasons for the grant of the license
1.	Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda & Sons.	"Off" and "On".	An "On" license was granted as the refreshment room started by Messrs. Fanibanda was best suited to the class of people who are accustomed to the use of foreign liquor with their meals. As there were no available "Off" licenses, the request for one was refused.
2.	Mr. F. C. Athayde ..	"On" ..	The license which was withdrawn was restored to him.
3	Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda & Sons.	"Off" ..	A license surrendered by a licensee was transferred to their name, as there was a demand for an extra "Off" license in the locality.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT, AHMEDABAD : CLERKS ON TAGAVI ESTABLISHMENT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the names of some acting clerks of the Ahmedabad District, though actually working in time-scale revenue department, were entered by Government on the Tagavi Establishment for public convenience ;

(b) whether those clerks are debarred from receiving their due increments on account of that classification which was made only for public convenience ;

(c) the grounds on which those clerks have been made to suffer for no fault of theirs ;

(d) the amount of loss which those clerks have suffered ;

(e) whether Government intend to recompense those clerks for the loss which they have suffered, by counting that acting service towards increment of salary or by grant of advance increment of salary ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) to (c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the replies given to clauses (a), (b) and (c) of a similar question put by him on the 6th August 1926 : they are printed at page 803, Part X, Volume XVIII of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, 1926.

(d) Rs. 1,876-2-0.

(e) Orders have already been issued allowing the clerks to count their service on the tagavi establishment for increments in the time-scales of their officiating posts.

COUNTRY LIQUOR SHOPS, AHMEDABAD : QUANTITY OF LIQUOR SOLD

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state the quantity of liquor of 30° U.P., 40° U.P. and 60° U.P. strength sold in each of the seven country liquor shops of Ahmedabad City, viz., Market, Madhavpura, Railway, Chudiol, Raipur, Saraspur and Behrampur, during each of the five years 1923-24 up to 1927-28 ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Consumption of country spirit of the strength of 30° U.P. is not allowed in Ahmedabad City. A statement showing the sales of country spirit of the strengths of 40° U.P. and 60° U.P. at the shops in question for the years 1923-24 to 1927-28, i.e., to 31st January 1928, is placed on the Council Table.

MEHLOL ESTATE: TRANSFER OF HOLDINGS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Collector of Panch Mahals District issued notification No. 764, dated 17th December 1910, under his order No. 764, dated 17th December 1910, by which he permitted mortgages and sales of lands in Mehlol Estate on payment of certain transfer fees which were equal to the assessment in the case of an agriculturist and four times the assessment in the case of a non-agriculturist and so on;

(b) whether in pursuance of that notification many mortgages and sales of lands had taken place in Mehlol Estate and transfer fees received by the Government management from the cultivators;

(c) the amount of income that has accrued to the Mehlol Estate from those transfer fees during each of the years 1910-27, stating the amount separately for each year.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) The notification was issued by the Collector. It did not permit mortgages and sales, but specifically declared that they were illegal and would render the land liable to forfeiture. At the same time it gave the estate authorities discretion to regrant the forfeited land to the transferees on payment of certain penalties.

(b) The mortgages and sales have not taken place "in pursuance of" the notification, but rather "in spite of" it. The recovery of penalty was in pursuance of the notification.

(c) The amount received as penalty during each of the years 1910-1927 is as under :—

Year	Rs.	a.	p.
1910-11	112	1	0
1911-12	339	9	0

MAHALUXMI TRAINING COLLEGE, AHMEDABAD: STIPENDS TO LADY STUDENTS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state -

(a) whether stipends are being paid to the lady students who are under training in the Mahaluxmi Female Training College of Ahmedabad;

(b) if so, the amount of each stipend and the number of stipends in each class of the college ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Yes.

(b) The accompanying statement gives the requisite information. The question of awarding Provincial stipends to four students in the Senior First Year Class in the college is under consideration.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : The reply says " The accompanying statement gives the requisite information. " but the statement is not printed here, and it is not even stated that it is kept in the Secretary's office.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It is kept in the Secretary's office.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : It is not stated in the answer.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It is the printer's omission to state so.

MODASA HIGH SCHOOL : GOVERNMENT GRANT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Director of Public Instruction in his letter No. S-67-(c)-81-C., dated 10th November 1927 has informed the President of the Modasa Education Society that a grant of Rs. 3,376 for the year 1927-28 is due to Modasa High School, an institution managed by that society ;

(b) whether a similar grant was sanctioned during the year 1926-27 but nothing was paid to the said school at the end of that year ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, whether Government intend to show special consideration to the said school ;

(d) whether Government intend to make an attempt to give the full grant sanctioned by the Director of Public Instruction ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The communication made to the President (on 15th November 1927) was :—

" It is noted that a grant of Rs. 3,376 is due to the school. This amount, or any lesser amount which can be spared according to the funds being available, will be sanctioned to the school by the end of the current official year."

(b) A grant was provisionally sanctioned on the condition that it would be paid only if funds were available. No grant could, however, be paid owing to lack of funds.

(c) Owing to pressure of equally or more deserving outstanding claims and to financial stringency Government regret that no special consideration can for the present be given to the school.

(d) The claims of the school for its share of such funds as are available for grants-in-aid to secondary schools this year will be considered along with the other institutions which are similarly placed.

MODASA HIGH SCHOOL : GOVERNMENT GRANT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that Modasa is situated in the furthermost corner of Gujarat ;

(b) whether the Modasa Education Society has started a full-fledged high school there and has provided that high school with a fine building by public subscription ;

(c) whether the President of the Modasa Education Society has informed Government about the heavy loss it had to undergo in 1926-27 ;

(d) if so, what steps Government have taken to see that the institution receives the grant sanctioned for this year ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a), (b) and (c) The reply is in the affirmative.

(d) As indicated in the reply to a similar Council question in last October session and communicated to the President of the Modasa Education Society in October last with reference to his representation in the matter, the school has been registered for grant provisionally. The Director of Public Instruction has been asked to consider the claims of the institution for its share of such funds as are available for grant-in-aid to secondary schools this year.

REFORMS OFFICE : ESTABLISHMENT CHARGES

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a New Service, designated the Reforms Secretary and his establishment was brought into being during the official year 1927-28 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that that new service was not contemplated in the budget of the year 1927-28 and that no provision was made for it in the said budget ;

(c) the date on which the reforms secretary was appointed ;

(d) the date on which the other members of his establishment took charge ;

(e) the total amount spent on the office of the Reforms Secretary and his establishment during the year 1927-28 ;

(f) the reasons why the said expenditure was not placed before the Council as a supplementary demand in the budget session of 1927-28 though it was an expenditure on a new service not contemplated in the budget of 1927-28 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) 1st December 1927.

(d) Superintendent on 1st December 1927.
Stenographer on 21st December 1927.
Junior Assistant, One Clerk, and One peon } on 22nd December 1927.
Another peon on 1st January 1928.
One Naik on 6th February 1928.

(e) Rs. 12,996-9-0.

(f) As this item did not involve a large recurring expenditure nor involve a principle likely to lead to large recurring expenditure and as the expenditure could be met from savings under the same major head, no supplementary demand was considered necessary. Such items as the present one sanctioned by the Finance Department are ordinarily shown in the next year's Budget of the Government of Bombay (Blue Book) under the heading "Statement of new items sanctioned by the Finance Department during the year from savings." The present item has been included in Corrigendum No. 3 to the Blue Book.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: The reply is "As this item did not involve a large recurring expenditure nor involve a principle likely to lead to large recurring expenditure, and as the expenditure could be met from savings under the same major head, no supplementary demand was considered necessary." But here it is not a question of small or big expenditure, but it is a question of great principle, and it ought to have been put before this House in the form of a supplementary demand.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is the question?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Why was not the expenditure, whether big or small, incurred on the establishment of the Reforms Secretary incurred during the current year, not placed in the form of a supplementary demand before this House?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: The honourable member is aware that there has been a note attached to the budget showing that the expenditure has been incurred by Government.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Does not any expenditure which is incurred, and which is not contemplated in the budget of the last year require a supplementary grant from this House according to the rules?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: It does not.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. Before we proceed on to the next business, I have, as I promised, to make a reference to the point raised by the honourable member the Settlement Commissioner (Mr. Anderson). What he stated—and I am reading from the report taken of his statement, and I hope that report is correct—was this:

"A copy of my speech was handed to the press and has appeared this morning in the 'Times of India' in the form in which it was taken down by the official stenographers. In other words, it is not the report prepared by the representatives of the press, but it is the report borrowed from the Council office."

Naturally, when this statement was carefully examined, the office was very much concerned and, if I might add, resented it as it was not a fact to the letter. An enquiry was made from the "Times of India" office, and I have a letter from its greatest authority that no such thing has happened. What he says is this:

"With reference to the point of order raised in Council to-day by Mr. Anderson, regarding the report of a speech by him in the 'Times of India' to-day, I am informed by one of our reporters that the report was based on his notes, but that as they were not full enough for the purpose required, he compared his transcript with that taken by the official reporter. I am writing this to you as it is apparently thought that the official reporter supplied us with the report in question."

That is the chief point that I was concerned with, I mean whether the official reporter had really supplied, in toto, the report he had taken down to the press. If that were so, it was my duty to see that that does not happen again, but, as has been the custom of this office, as a matter of courtesy to the press, convenience is given to them to compare notes, and in this case also that was done. As to whether the report taken down by the official reporter was an exact report of the speech made by the honourable member, all that I can say is that sometimes the fate of the official reporters is worthy of sympathy, because of the special difficulties that the hall puts in their way, and it is further added to often by honourable members not speaking distinctly and loudly enough. But the point for me to bring to the notice of the House is simply this, that nothing of the nature of the allegation—I do not suppose it was an intentional allegation, but it was a matter which ought to have been brought to my notice—has happened, and the impression that has been created in the mind of the honourable member, that the official reporters supplied a copy of his speech to the press, is not the impression which he should carry.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : May I be permitted to say one word ? I desire most emphatically and in the most clear and distinct language to say that the statement made by the editor of the " Times of India " is not true.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I shall have to take that as a true statement coming from the gentleman of some responsibility, who is the head of a paper. I will not allow any further discussion. The thing assumes greater importance now particularly when the honourable member insists upon the statement he made yesterday, and repeats it to-day that it was the official reporter of this Council who supplied the report to the press. I have investigated the matter, and I find that the facts are to the contrary.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May we.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No more discussion on the point will be allowed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Statutory Motions.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, the next amendment that I move is :

> After Rule 10, insert the original rule proposed by the Municipality, number it as ' 11 ', changing subsequent numbers—it being :
> " If any person qualified to be entered in the said list in virtue of the provisions of Rule 8 is also personally qualified to be entered in the said list, his name shall be separately entered therein. "

Sir, this refers to plural voting. In the Act itself there is a provision for giving votes to an undivided family, a company or a firm. The municipality had provided the rule which I propose to insert. This rule has existed for the last twenty years, since 1908. The Municipality sent the rule to the Commissioner ; he admitted its existence but expressed a doubt as to the necessity of its existence. That is the only ground on which the Government has removed that rule. I only request that the old rule which existed for the last twenty years may be put in there.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I accept the amendment, but I want to put it in proper form.

Mr. BALAK RAM : Sir, the honourable member and myself can discuss the matter with each other and settle it in two minutes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Regarding all the following alterations, or only this one ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Only this one. Only the wording has to be changed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the wording that I have got to put to the House ? I think the suggestion ought to be accepted. I can then put them all to the House.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : The honourable member the Remembrancer of Legal Affairs can think over the wording. Meanwhile, I will proceed to another.

In Rule 11 (4) change " Municipality " into " Chief Officer of the Municipality. "

Rule 11 (4) reads :

" Notice of every application under sub-rule (1) and of every reference under sub-rule (3) shall be sent by the Municipality by post to a claimant."

All along, in the rules we have put in the Chief Officer. The Chief Officer according to the rules, is the returning officer, and being the chief executive officer he should send the notice and not the municipality.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, may I draw the attention of the honourable member to the fact that the acceptance of his amendment would mean the substitution of the words " Chief Officer of the Municipality " for " Municipality " occurring in the sentence " The Municipality, at its next meeting, shall consider and pass orders."

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I am not asking that the word " municipality " should be changed there.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The honourable member has proposed that amendment for the whole rule 11 (4).

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I have proposed that amendment only to change the word " Municipality " into " Chief Officer " where it occurs for the first time.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It is not so stated. The word " municipality " occurs at several places in the rule.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I will say " where it occurs for the first time."

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Then, I agree.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : That is agreed, Sir. Then, I move

In Rule 11 (5) and (6) change " Judge " into " Magistrate," wherever it occurs.

Sir, I will place before the Honourable Minister the difficulties of the situation. Up to this time, it is the District Magistrate (the Collector) who is always in touch with the municipality, who has been the special officer entrusted with the final authority to decide objections in connection with the first electoral roll. He being at usually at headquarters hears these objections in one day at one sitting, sitting from 3 o'clock in the afternoon till 10 o'clock at night, and disposes of the work expeditiously. Being an executive officer, he does not care for regular office hours and does not sit only from 11 to 5. During the last 20 years, since 1908, this authority has been exercised by the Collector. But Mr. Ewbank, the present Collector, thought that the Collector may be overburdened with this work, and therefore he recommended that instead of the District Magistrate the District Judge should hear these objections. I have no particular objection to the District Judge doing this work, but the case of Sukkur is peculiar. The District Judge at Sukkur has two sessions divisions, the Upper Sind District and the Sukkur District, and the work is so much that we have two or more judges working. The District Judge will have to hear these objections as a District Court but in his personal capacity as a Judge. The result will be that applications which have to be disposed of expeditiously—because the date for the publication of the electoral roll cannot be delayed, as it is fixed by the Collector—will have to be given precedence to the exclusion of every other work, including criminal sessions trials if their dates clash with this. This will put not only the people of the municipality but also the people of the district into difficulty who will have to go from day to day to the District Court. If the District Magistrate is empowered to do the work, he can sit from 12 noon till 9 at night and dispose of the objections. He is an executive officer and he is not bound by regular office hours. It may be that the District Judge will give better civil justice, but so far as this work is concerned, speedy disposal is necessary which the District Magistrate alone can give. The District Magistrate specially comes down to his headquarters and disposes of this work. That has been the practice of every district magistrate.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I am very glad, Sir, to learn from my honourable friend from Sukkur that our district magistrates and collectors enjoy his full confidence. I would have been glad to accept his amendment for that reason, but I am sorry I cannot accept it for other reasons. The whole country is crying for the separation of executive and judicial functions, but here is my honourable friend coming forward with a proposal to give powers to the District Magistrate to decide civil matters. I would point out that this is a retrograde step. In fact, throughout the whole presidency, he will find that election disputes are decided by the District Judge. My honourable friend said that these matters should be left to the District Magistrate because he can dispose of them expeditiously. But, Sir, he should remember that the District Magistrate is a very busy officer, and cannot be burdened with this additional work. All other municipalities in the presidency, including the most advanced municipalities like Ahmedabad, have accepted this principle. And wherever there has been a question whether judicial powers should be given to Revenue or to Judicial Officers the verdict of this House has been in favour of giving them to Judicial Officers and not to Revenue Officers.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I am sorry that he opposes. The same Minister has allowed this provision in the case of the Shikarpur Municipality.

Sir, I shall now move an amendment to rule 19. This is only a verbal change. If you permit me to move it in a better grammatical form, I shall do so. It should be:

In rule 19, the following alteration to be made:

Omit "appointed for the" and "Returning," and insert before the word "date" the word "appointed" and after the word "date" the words "and time the Nomination officer appointed under rule 16 shall hold a;" and after the word "of" insert the word "the;" and for the word "Returning" substitute the word "Nomination."

Then in rule 22, I propose the following:—

"In rule 22 change 'Returning Officer' into 'Nomination officer'."

So also in rule 19 "Returning officer" should be changed into "Nomination Officer."

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I accept this amendment to rule 19 and also to rule 22.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Then, Sir, I also move

"In rule 26 change 'may withdraw their candidature' into 'may withdraw his candidature'."

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I accept that amendment.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Sir, now I come to rule 36. There I move:

"In rule 36 omit the words 'or her' and 'or she' wherever they occur."

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Then, as regards rule 37, I move:

"In rule 37, omit the word 'which' occurring in line 1, and insert the word 'and' between the words 'officer' and 'shall' occurring in line 2."

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: I shall then come to rules 39 and 40. My amendment is as under:

"In rules 39 and 40 omit "'or the polling officer acting under his general or special directions'."

Sir, with regard to the last amendment, I may bring it to the notice of the Honourable the Minister that provision for presiding officer has been specially introduced in these rules with the object of creating a separate entity in the person of an independent officer, who may be able to determine disinterestedly questions between the parties. The Collector is expected to appoint for this purpose officers of sufficient responsibility, as he does in the case of Council elections. The duty of this presiding officer is to solve the questions arising at the election and for this purpose a man of some responsibility is required. The power of determining or deciding questions concerning election should not be delegated to the polling officer. I, therefore, submit that this responsibility should be thrown only on the presiding officer and not the polling officer. I, therefore, hope that this amendment will be accepted by the Honourable the Minister.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I would have accepted the amendment of my honourable friend, but I am afraid there are difficulties in the way. At the time of the elections, a large number of voters come to record their votes and at each polling station there are a number of booths. We have only one presiding officer and a number of polling officers working under him. As I have said, there are a number of booths, and it will not be possible for one presiding officer to manage the whole affair. So, this arrangement is in the interests of the people themselves. The polling officers have to work under the direction of the presiding officer, and the disputes are settled by them under his direction. Besides, even if the party is not satisfied with the decision given by the polling officer, then the presiding officer is there to give his final order. Therefore, it will be seen that this clause has been inserted in the interest of the people, so that disputes might be settled as early as possible....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: May I know from the Honourable Minister whether the polling officer is as competent as the presiding officer?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Of course, he is competent.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I may say that the polling officers are mere clerks drawing Rs. 40. Is it, therefore, fair that a clerk drawing Rs. 40 should be entrusted with the responsible work? Although that man has to work under the presiding officer, what happens is this. The presiding officer gives the general directions to these polling officers and they accordingly carry on their work. The Honourable Minister should just imagine what responsibility is thrown on these polling officers. At the time of election there cannot be a large number of disputes; only two or three cases would be coming for decision to the presiding officer and this work will be possible for him to do. At the time of last Council election, about 22,000 votes were recorded and out of that only 52 votes were challenged, which had to go to the presiding officer for settlement. I would specially bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister that this is a matter in which he may consider the point carefully. The presiding officer is usually of a deputy collector's grade, not less than a mukhtyarkar's grade, a responsible officer, who has a certain amount of responsibility on him. A polling officer is merely a clerk drawing Rs. 40 or so, absolutely a recording officer, and his discretion in the matter is certainly injurious.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member is very keen on this amendment, I will certainly accept it.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Then, as regards rule 40, the words to be omitted are the same as I have read out in regard to rule 39.

Then, as regards Appendix A, all these names that I have given you, which you will find in the Appendix, are names of areas existing before the barrage came to be started at Sukkur. Fortunately or unfortunately, the barrage happens to be within the municipal area, and according to the Municipal Act we cannot exclude the people living there from the franchise Bagh Hayatali Shah and Miani are within the limit of our municipal area. They happen to be on the west side of the town. But if this schedule is taken into consideration, "Lloyd Barrage" does not appear anywhere. Therefore, Lloyd Barrage must appear somewhere, as Lloyd Barrage is an extension town of ward No. 4. That is the western-most part, and the barrage is still further to the west. I have suggested that against ward No. IV the word " and " between " Bagh Hayatali Shah " and " Miani " should be omitted and after " Miani " the words " and Lloyd Barrage Area " should be added, and also that in the " Note, " after the words " 1921 Census " the words " In addition to the Lloyd Barrage area, which shall form part of Ward No. IV " should be added. I have no objection if this is not accepted because it does not come within Bagh Hayatali Shah and Miani, and the Lloyd Barrage would have no votes. But if they should have any votes, then, government must agree to my proposal.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Does it not cover the Lloyd Barrage area ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : No. It stops exactly where the barrage commences, what is called.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Very well ; the responsibility is on the honourable member who is the president of the municipality. I have no objection to the addition of the Lloyd Barrage Area.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Before I can put the whole thing to the House, I should like to have the correct form of the alterations which have been moved and which are proposed to be accepted. How long will the honourable member take to give it to me ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I will give it within half an hour.

LARKANA MUNICIPAL ELECTION RULES

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then, we may proceed in the meantime with the next item, rules of the Larkana Municipality.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I beg to move :

" This Council resolves that the Revised Election Rules of the Larkana Municipality sanctioned by G.R., G.D., No. 7030 dated 28th November 1927 which are laid on the Council Table be modified as follows :—

' In Rule 3

	alter 31 into 32
Non-Mahomedans	15 into 17
Mahomedans	10 into 11
Nominated	6 into 4'."

I am extremely sorry, Sir, to move this amendment, because my honourable friend the Minister on the opposite side yesterday evening drew a red herring, across the path of my amendment, of the communal bogey.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I never said a word about it.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : He read out an application to the Mahomedan members, which he need not have done. But this, unfortunately, raises that question and I think it will have to be decided in whatever way they like by this Council. The Larkana Municipality, Sir, has at present 6 nominated members, 14 non-Muhammadans,

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

10 Muhammadans, 30 in all. I am reading from the Commissioner's Resolution. The municipality under the new Act wanted to reduce the nominated to one-ninth, that is to say, nominated 3, non-Muhammadans 15 and Muhammadans 9, in all 27. That was the recommendation that was sent by the municipality to the Commissioner. The Commissioner was of opinion that the existing number 30 should not be decreased but should rather be increased and he proposed that it should be increased to 32. And then, Sir, after having increased the number to 32, he took the population ratio of the Hindus and the Muhammadans including the 6 nominated,—and there are no miscellaneous classes in Larkana,—Christians 10, Jews 9, others 1, 20 in all. Now, Hindus are 10,780 and "others" 20, in all 10,800. So the population of Hindus is taken as 10,800, and the Muhammadan population is 6,923. The Commissioner in Sind proceeds to observe:

"The Commissioner, however, considers that the reduction of the total strength of the municipality would be regarded as a retrograde step. If there were to be only three nominated members, only one official could be appointed. As, however, it is desirable that the Civil Surgeon of the place should be nominated as a member, the Commissioner considers that the total strength of the board shall be fixed at 32 of whom 4 shall be nominated and 28 elected. The elected seats distributed among the two communities, according to population, are as under:—

"Hindus 17·5 and Mahommedans 10·95, that is to say 17 and 11."

"The Commissioner will recommend a corporation of 32, —17 Hindus, 11 Mahomedans and 4 nominated. No community will then have any justifiable cause of complaint."

This is a very fair distribution of seats in which no special interests come in at all, no miscellaneous interests come in at all, no experts come in at all, none whatever in the Larkana municipality. According to his recommendation there will be 17 Hindu elected members, 11 Mahomedan members and 4 nominated members. This is in strict accordance with the proportion of the population, that is to say, 17·5 Hindus and 10·95 Mahomedans, equal to 17 and 11 respectively. When these matters come to Government, what do they do? They say that there shall be 25 elected councillors and six nominated councillors for the municipal borough of Larkana. Government say that the number of councillors to be elected by Non-Mahomedans shall be 15, by Mahomedans 10 and 6 shall be nominated, so that we have not got 17 and 11 as suggested by the Commissioner but we have 15 and 10 and they keep 6 for nominations although the Commissioner wants only four. The Commissioner is conversant with the local conditions; he does not want 6, he specially mentions two officers and yet Government bring down the number of elected numbers to 15 and 10 from 17 and 11, a proportion which no figures of population can justify, and I say that the only figures that are justifiable are 17 and 11 as recommended by the Commissioner. According to the unhappy position of the Non-Mahomedans—Hindus—owing to their having some excess of population of about 4,000, it is unfortunate for them that they happen to be entitled to two seats more and the Mahomedans to one seat more, i.e., Hindus will have 17 and Mahomedans 11, but the Mahomedans retain

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

10 but do not give more than 1 to the Hindus when Hindus get 15 instead of 14. I will put to the Honourable the Minister that if the population justifies—that is the only principle on which we have gone—is there any reason for departing from the Commissioner's recommendation ? Is there any reason for in any way interfering with the franchise rights of the Hindus (because there are no miscellaneous castes except 20 Jews and Christians) ? Is there any justifiable reason to reduce 2 from the figure suggested for the Hindus and 1 from the figure for Mahomedans ? It is unfortunate that Government by this action have produced this feeling there and have produced this feeling in our minds that Government is treating us unfairly. We were unwilling to refer to any communal considerations but when I saw the treatment given to the Larkana municipality in which the Commissioner strongly recommended 17 and 11 and Government cuts it down to 15 and 10, I am naturally constrained to say that the principle laid down by Government cannot at all be acceptable to us.

Question proposed.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO (Larkana District) : Sir, I rise to oppose the motion. It is unfortunate that the honourable mover (Mr. Pahalajani) should have brought before this House a controversial matter which certainly deals with the communal question and is bound to create communal feelings. I am very sorry indeed that he has put in entirely a one-sided case and has tried to mislead the House. The position is this that the population of the Larkana municipality is :—

Mahomedans	..	..	6,993
Non-Mahomedans	..	..	10,780

according to the census figures of 1920. According to the existing rules the Mahomedans get 10 and Non-Mahomedans get 14 seats and there are 6 reserved for nominations.

What has happened is that the Hindu members of the municipality a few months back, in the absence of the Mahomedan members, passed a resolution that the number of Muslim seats should be reduced from 10 to 9 and that the Non-Muslim seats should be increased from 14 to 15, without informing the Muslim members of this. No Muslim member of the municipality was present, not even the president of the municipality was informed of such a proposal, nor was it circulated among the members. An opportunity was taken to pass this resolution when no Muslim member was present and this proposal was moved and decided then and there without giving any opportunity to the other side to state their views. I have got the authority to say that the president of the municipality has actually written to the Collector that this resolution was passed without his knowledge.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Who is the President ?

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO : He is a Muslim. He had no information of any such proposal although he should have been informed of it and no such resolution ought to have been allowed to come before the meeting of the municipality in the absence of proper intimation to all the members of the municipality, precisely when it dealt with a very important issue which affected Muslims adversely. However, the municipality decided that there should be 24 elected seats (15 Hindus and 9 Mahomedans) and 3 nominated seats, making a total of 27. Now see what happens, when this proposal goes to the Commissioner. At present there are in all 30 seats. The municipality decides that that number should be reduced to 27, but the Commissioner on the other hand recommends that it should be increased to 32. I really cannot understand how the Commissioner came to that conclusion and I leave that to be imagined rather than described. Now, Sir, if you take the figures of population and work them out by distributing 25 seats (elected) between Hindus and Muslims, Muslims will get 9·77 and Hindus will get 15·22. 15·22 is nearer to 15 and, therefore, Hindus are entitled as a matter of fact to 15 elected seats, and Muslims are entitled to 10 because 9·77 is very near 10. According to this calculation, Government distribute the seats in the following manner :—

10 Muslims,
15 Non-Muslims,

and the number to be nominated remains as already fixed. According to the Act itself, the number of nominations has got to be not more than one-fifth. In the first place I do not know why the total number of seats should at all be increased. The population figure remains the same and yet Government have been pleased to give one more seat to the Non-Muslims, though according to the same population figures they have been getting 14 seats so far.

The honourable mover has stated that there are no other miscellaneous communities in Larkana. That is a statement which I challenge. Coming as I do from Larkana, I certainly know more about Larkana affairs than he does. Sir, at present, out of the 10,780 non-Mussalmans there are 20 Christians and Jews, and there are Sikhs who are not represented on the municipality, and approximately 100 must be the number of Sikhs. Then there are the Punjabi Hindus and Marwaris ; they must be about 100. Then there are the depressed classes, the Bhangis, who number at least 500 to 600. Now, the total number of all these put together will come to 800 or 900, and, according to the calculation they are certainly entitled to at least one seat, but so far as the honourable mover is concerned he does not want a single representative of these miscellaneous communities on the municipality. The reason why we do feel that the number of the nominated seats should not be reduced is this. Anyway, the number of officials will be 2 ; that will not be changed. The Civil Surgeon is to be there and one other Government servant will be there. Of the remaining 4 left for nomination, 2 will go to the Mussalmans and 2 to the non-Mussalmans. The Mussalmans get no extra concession in the nominated seats, so far. If the number remains the same, the other miscellaneous communities will have to get some representation. I think the Honourable Minister should realise this and see that the miscellaneous communities do get representation by way of nomination. The number of Mussalmans remains the same; they are entitled to get the enhanced number by nomination, and the interests of the minority should be safeguarded.

Sir, I do feel that the decision of Government in this matter, to fix the nominations at 6 and the elected members at 25 is quite justified. The Commissioner recommends the total should be 32, but the municipality recommends that it should be 27. In that case, the honourable mover cannot come forward and say that by moving this motion he is going to support the wishes of the municipal councillors. They have been trying to get the number reduced, but here the honourable mover has been trying to support the recommendation of the Commissioner, which has not been considered proper by the Government, the strong reason for that being that there is no justification to increase the number of seats. There should have been, as a matter of fact, the same number retained, but Government have increased one more seat and given it to the non-Mussalmans, according to the figures of population. Any alteration now made will be detrimental to the good feelings between the two communities. It is very well known that at this time the feelings between the two communities are not very good, and, therefore any change at this stage will certainly inflame communal feelings in Larkana. I therefore hope that the honourable mover will consider it proper to withdraw his motion.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) (Addressed the House in Hindustani): Mr. President, I oppose the motion, and I appeal to the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani to withdraw it. Let us see what the facts are. In the Larkana municipality there are 10 Mahomedan members and 15 Hindu members, and by reducing one of the seats given to the Mahomedans and giving it to the Hindus, it is not as if some very high privileges and rights are given to the Hindus and they are taken away from the Mahomedans. I do not at all think so. I shall give one instance.

The population of Karachi city is.....Mussalmans and..... .....Hindus including all other classes. There are 16 Mahomedan members and 19 Hindu members. The two representatives of the Indian Merchants' Chamber in Karachi are also Hindus. Nineteen plus two makes 21; in addition to that out of the six nominated members two are Hindus and one is a Mussalman. Now, the Mussalmans may have a grievance in this, and if it was considered such an important matter we also could bring up a resolution in this House, and we also can make speeches. But we think this is only a minor matter, and it is not necessary to bring it to this House. After all, what does it matter if there is one more Hindu or one more Mahomedan member? I will give the House another instance. In the Karachi district local board, almost all the members are Mahomedans, and the Hindus are in a minority. The president is a Hindu, but the Mahomedan members are not actuated by such a narrow vision as to trouble the Hindu president in the discharge of his duties. The work of the local board goes on very smoothly. In the same way, I hope the Hindus of Sind will go on smoothly with their Mahomedan brethren. The Hindus are clever, they are intelligent, and it is their duty to show their large-heartedness by giving a chance to the Mahomedans who have been very backward for years together. I think the atmosphere ought to be clear, and these communal feelings ought not to be imported. I feel sure that the honourable member will withdraw his motion, and put a stop to the exhibition of these communal feelings.

Mr. D. A. JANVEKAR (Bijapur District): Sir, I know nothing about the situation in Larkana. Still, on principle and on the figures given to us here, I want to say a word or two. Sir, much has been said that these are democratic days. In the case of the Larkana municipality, Government, instead of reducing the number of members, have come forward to increase the number, but the municipality, represented by the public which is asking for democracy, of talk and die, wants to reduce the number to 27. Originally, in the Larkana municipality the number of elected councillors was 24, and now Government have increased it to 25. According to the wishes of the Hindus it appears that the Larkana municipality proposed that the number of Hindu members should be raised from 14 to 15, and Government have agreed to the proposal, but so far as the Mahomedans are concerned, they have not increased the number of seats for them. Formerly it was 10 and now also it is 10. Even according to the proposal of the municipality, the number of nominated seats can go up to six because according to the Act Government have power to nominate up to one-fifth of the total number of councillors. But Government have kept the number of nominated councillors as it was before. According to the present rules under discussion, one more seat has been given to the Hindus and therefore I think there should be no complaint by the Hindus. The Mahomedans are not asking for anything more although Government have not given them anything more than what they had. I do not see why my Hindu honourable friends from Larkana should oppose this redistribution. Why should they oppose the present redistribution when they alone are benefitted by it?

As regards nominations, the Commissioner and the Municipality of course want the number to be decreased. But if one looks to these local bodies, one is inclined to say not only that the number of nominations should continue as at present but that it should, if possible, be increased. I know that the Commissioner is of a contrary opinion. But if one looks to the condition of local bodies—I do not like to say it—but if one looks to the condition of the Sholapur local board and to the enquiries that are being conducted in connection with the Nasik board, one is inclined to feel that it is necessary that the proportion of nominated seats should be more than is provided in the Act. I therefore strongly oppose this motion.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, so far as the proportion of elected members of Hindus and Mahomedans are concerned I have nothing to say. But certainly I have the strongest objection to the proportion that the number of nominated seats (6) bears to the total number of seats. I am expecting to hear from the Honourable Minister whether the administration of the Larkana Municipality, the head of which is Mr. Ameerali and the vice-president is our honourable friend Mr. Khuhro, is so notoriously inefficient that Government have got to make an exception in its case by having the fullest proportion of nominated members sanctioned under the Act. I think that since only 5 or 6 persons are being nominated out of 45 in the Hyderabad Municipality and even in the Sukkur Municipality there are only 6 to 40, it is hardly fair that Larkana should be treated in this manner.

I have heard my honourable friend Mr. Khuhro stating that there are Marwadi Hindus, Punjabi Hindus and 500 sweepers. I was rather surprised at the way he was trying to divide the Hindus and trying to show that there should be separate representation of Punjabis, Marwadis, Gujaratis, Sindhis, Cutchis and what not. Even as it is, India is divided into so many communities that I think that it is not proper that my honourable friend who talks of unity should come forward and advance such arguments simply because it suits his case for the present. I hope some better reasons will be put forward.

Coming to the question of depressed classes I was simply aghast when the honourable member mentioned that in a small municipality like Larkana there are 500 sweepers: if he meant that there are in all 500 members of the depressed classes, then I say that is all the more a case for the Honourable Minister to reduce the proportion of nominated seats and out of the six seats reserved for nomination to give one seat for election by the depressed classes, instead of keeping power of patronage in his hands. Sir, the Act clearly provides that wards should be constituted for Mahomedans, non-Mahomedans and depressed classes. Since Mahomedans and non-Mahomedans are given separate representation, I fail to see why depressed classes alone should have come by the back door of nomination and have to look upon Government as their patrons and not stand on their own legs. If there is any sincerity on the part of Government to make the depressed classes stand on their own legs, a start should be made by giving them the right to elect representatives from their own people. I would therefore suggest that if Government are anxious to provide seats for depressed classes, they should reduce the number of nominations by one and reserve that one to the depressed classes to be filled by election. That will satisfy my honourable friend Mr. Khuhro and also the honourable mover of the amendment.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Sir, I do not want to take up more than three minutes—probably less—and will condense my remarks as much as I can. Sir, with regard to the depressed classes, there are depressed classes in some towns in Sindh but not in all. With regard to Larkana, it is specifically stated at page 2 of the Government resolution,—I am referring to rule 4 (1)—"As there are no depressed classes within the municipal limits, no seat has been reserved for them; nor need any be."

Sir, the second point is with regard to the communal question. Talking of Larkana where there has been no communal feeling—it is a municipality in which, although the Hindus have got considerable numerical strength, they have selected a Mahomedan as President and a Mahomedan as Vice-President,—I do not think we should try to introduce references to other towns and create the impression that in Larkana there is so much of communal feeling that Hindus should not be given their due representation. Let us look at the result of the Government's final decision. We find that out of 31 members, the non-Mahomedans form a minority, because out of 31 members, 15 are elected non-Mahomedans, 10 are elected Mahomedans and 6 members are nominated. With regard to the six nominations, there is no guarantee as to who they will be, how they will vote and what they will do ; after all, it is never possible to say how the voting of nominated persons will go. I believe there are occasions when the majority in the town will find itself in a minority in the municipality. Had the Commissioner's recommendations been accepted, we would have had a fairer proportion between the communities. According to him 17 would have gone to non-Mahomedans, 11 to Mahomedans and that is according to the population as worked out by him. By changing the proportions the result has been that seats which should have gone to non-Mahomedans have been taken away from them....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : That is a wrong statement.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : This compels me to take a little more time of the House. Sir, what do we find ? The Commissioner recommended that looking to the times we should have an increase in the elected strength, and the proportion of elected and nominated seats according to him were 1 nominated to 7 elected, but Government have changed it into 1 nominated to $4\frac{1}{4}$ elected, which is practically the same as it is to-day. It is 1 nominated to 4 elected to-day, and our popular Minister wishes to increase it at 1 to $4\frac{1}{4}$. Even the Commissioner recommended that it should be 1 nominated to 7 elected. He felt that there was some ground for the municipalities to ask for further democratization. But because there is a little jugglery of figures in this, it was not felt desirable to maintain the proportion between nominated and elected members. The present proportion of 14 non-Mahomedans and 10 Mahomedans is not in accordance with population. A certain amount of injustice exists to-day. We find that the Mahomedan population is 6,923—I am reading from the census figures quoted in the resolution—out of a total of 17,723. Hindus are 10,780 and 20 are Christians, Jews and others. It is open to any one of these 20 to stand for a non-Mahomedan constituency. Out of a population of 17,723, thus Mahomedans constitute 6,923. That works out at 9·3 per cent. Out of a total of 24, which is the present elective strength, the Muslims have been given ten. The non-Mahomedans were entitled to fifteen seats and they have been given only fourteen and this injustice was corrected by adding one more seat and making it 15. Sir, if we take advantage of the present demand for increased elective strength, then we shall be able to distribute the seats more fairly between the communities.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I am very sorry to take part in this debate and but for the speech of the honourable member from Hyderabad (Mr. Jairamdas), I would not have thought it necessary to trouble this House with any observations.

Sir, if it comes to decimals regarding communal representation in the local bodies, I assure you that all the Moslems in the Bombay presidency have such a strong case that I can bring in this House 40 motions of the kind now before us for the rectification of Muslim seats. In the last session I asked a question regarding Poona suburban municipality. As you, Sir, well know living in that locality, there is a very large number of Mahomedans. The Moslems are given only two seats by election and none by nomination. There are hardly more than 100 Parsis in the whole of this suburban area. Three of them came by election and still the Commissioner and the Collector thought it necessary to give one seat by nomination to a Parsi. They also gave seats to Hindus but not a single seat was given to the Muhammadans. I brought this fact to the notice of the Honourable Minister and he told me that for the future he would draw the attention of the officers to that defect. Moreover Moslems were not nominated in a very large majority on the District Boards. On the other hand take the instance of the Malegaon municipality. Malegaon is the only place in the whole of the Bombay presidency where the Muhammadan population is more than that of the Hindus. Moslems have ten seats and Hindus six by election. Yet all the 4 seats by nomination always go to the Hindus and not a single seat is given to the Muhammadans.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: I challenge that it is incorrect.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I look to the Honourable the Minister to correct me, if I am wrong.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: You are wrong.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: If so will you correct me? If not, will you kindly keep silence, and allow me to go on?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. No direct reply to honourable members.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Will you kindly allow me, Sir, to go on? (Laughter). (The Honourable the President: Yes.) What happens at Malegaon is this. The large Muhammadan majority is reduced and brought to the level of the Hindu representation by this nomination system. Hence the Hindus always manage to have a Hindu president and thus a Muslim majority is placed under the domination of a Hindu minority by Government. If you want to convert this House into a court of appeal for municipal affairs, the House will have no time to attend to any other work. I think if such appeals are brought into this House, not only three days but even fifteen days will not be sufficient. I do not think that we should be asked to support complaints against our own elected Minister. I think, Sir, this is undemocratic. This is an indirect method of bringing in communal matters. This is communalism. We are told by the honourable member from Sukkur that he never brings in communal matters. Then what is this?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I did admit that this is a communal matter.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Is it so ? Then I ask : Is it reasonable to take the time of the Council in discussing such communal matters ? What I said yesterday has come to be true. I have nothing more to say, but I hope, as the Honourable Minister has given the honourable member, Mr. Pahalajani, a very crushing and pulverising reply yesterday, the honourable member will be convinced and will not press this matter.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I am sorry that none of the Mahomedan members have made out any case in their favour. The question is whether the seats by nomination should be six or four. If the six seats are by nomination, then the number of 15 remains as proposed. If there are four seats by nomination, then the number 17 would remain. If Hindus get two and Mahomedans one seat, the proportion of nominated members is to be maintained at four. My submission is that Hindus should get two and Mahomedans one only. It is the only way to get out of the difficulty. If Hindus get only one, then for Mahomedans there would be zero. So, the proportion would be one to none. The Honourable Minister has earned a good name from the Hindu community and he should, therefore, see his way to bring down the number of nomination to four. It is stated here that he has pulverised me by reading a number of applications from Larkana. Those applications will not pulverise me but they would pulverise some other person. I, therefore request the Honourable Minister to accept my proposal.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I am sorry that my honourable friend has attributed communal motives to me. But he has brought in this communal question simply for the purpose of vote-catching and nothing else. I would ask the Muhammadan members, if I am wrong in the distribution of seats, to give their votes against me. At the same time, I would also ask my Hindu brethren if they find that I have not given them seats according to their population, to vote against me. I think, Sir, that the honourable mover has already admitted what the demands of the municipality were. They wanted 27 members in all in the Larkana Municipality, and I might here give some idea about Larkana. It is a small place, as you can see from the population, and the municipality itself wanted 27 members.....(Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram : How many nominated and how many elected ? That is important.)..... In spite of their request for 27, I gave them 31 .....(Mr. B. G. Pahalajani : What does the Commissioner say ?).... .....When it suits my honourable friend he quotes the Commissioner. But when it does not suit him, he does not quote the Commissioner. Now, Sir, he talks about the municipality asking for three nominated members instead of six. But the honourable member, the Vice-President of the Larkana Municipality, has told us that the Hindu members of the municipality, with no Muhammadan member present, finding the field quite clear, moved the resolution which was sent to the Collector.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : That statement is wrong.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : There was not a single Muhammadan member present at the time, and the Vice-President of the same municipality sent a protest to the Secretary of the General Department against the " unity, " of which my honourable friend was making so much. Can any community, in fairness, when not a single member of another community is present, rush through such an important resolution, if their conscience is clear ? And yet my honourable friends tell us that the municipality of Larkana is working very well.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : The municipality is working smoothly.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It is certainly not working smoothly. There was, a short time ago, a question about the removal of the market. My honourable friend from Hyderabad (Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram), who hurriedly returns from some meeting, runs up to Larkana and writes about " Hindus in Danger, " and now he forgets that, and today he says.....

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Is it not a compliment to the Hindus that despite everything they elected one Muslim as President of the municipality and another Muslim as Vice-President?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : When it suits them, they say their life is in danger. Every one in this House must have read the proceedings in the riot cases. Even the Vice-President tells us that the general opinion is that the municipality is not working well. Now, Sir, when that is the position, when there are communal feelings running so high, is it proper to reduce the nominated members.....

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Nominated members belong to the same communities. How does the increase in nominated strength change matters ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Officials are also nominated. There are others too who are not Hindus ; there are Indian Christians, there are Jews, some of them very good people, who might be nominated ....(Interruption)....I do not want interruptions. Now, of 31 seats, 6 are nominated. These are necessary for the reasons I have already mentioned. Communal feelings have been running high. There have recently been riots between Hindus and Muhammadans. The Hindus have said that their lives were in danger. Under those circumstances, would Government be justified in reducing the number of nominations ? Even the Vice-President, whose speech you have heard just now, said the municipality is not working well. There is thus no case for reducing the number of nominations.

Then, we come to the distribution of the seats. There are 31 in all, 6 nominated and 25 elected. My honourable friend worked out just now the ratio in which these 25 seats were distributed according to the recommendations of the Commissioner, and the proportion comes to 15 and 10. Now, under the existing constitution, the Muhammadans have 10 and the Hindus have 14. I have now given them 15 without any change of population. Yet they are not satisfied, and they talk of injustice done to them ! But they have had more than their due share.

Question put and lost.

RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEES

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Before we go on to the next business, I have to announce the names of the honourable members who have been elected to the three Committees.

For the G. I. P. Railway Committee—

Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad secured 48 votes, Mr. N. R. Gunjal 38 votes and Mr. A. C. Owen 10 votes. Consequently Moulvi Rafiuddin is the elected member for the G. I. P. Committee.

For the B. B. and C. I. Railway Committee—

Mr. J. B. Desai, 50 votes, Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch 19 votes, Khan Saheb A. M. Mansuri 16 votes and Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan 12 votes. Therefore, Mr. J. B. Desai is the elected member.

For the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Committee—

Mr. D. A. Janvekar 41 votes, Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar 30 votes and Mr. M. D. Karki 28 votes. Mr. Janvekar is, therefore, the elected member.

BILL No. XXI OF 1927 (A BILL TO AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO THE UNIVERSITY OF BOMBAY)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The next business is the consideration of clause 5 of the University Bill, Bill No. XXI of 1927. Before I actually go on to the discussion where it was left, I should like to explain the position to the House and particularly to find out whether I am stating the position, as I understand it, correctly. The position is this, that there was an amendment to clause 5 proposed by the honourable member Mr. Chikodi which stands unfinished yet. In the meanwhile during the course of the discussion on that amendment the Honourable Minister asked for the postponement of the consideration of that clause 5 until this session, so that he would try and say, by consulting his own Government further if he could meet the wishes of the House in any way. The Honourable Minister has now to inform the House as to what he has done as a result of the postponement he had obtained.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I was thinking of requesting you to allow me to make a statement on the subject, on which you have invited me to make one. On the last occasion, namely, on the 8th October 1927, I requested you and the House that the further discussion of sub-clause (4) and (5) of clause 5 of the bill be put off to the next session in order to enable the Government of Bombay to negotiate with the Government of India with reference to clause 5, about which there were so many misapprehensions and objections. Thereafter, Sir, the Government of Bombay had negotiations with the Government of India, both officially and demi-officially, during the last three months and more. The result of those negotiations has been that the Government of India appear to be unwilling to omit the provision in the bill for the Visitor and his powers, and they informed this Government that they consider it necessary that there should be a provision in the bill for a Visitor and for his powers as such. They proposed to this Government that instead of the present clause 5 which seeks to vest visitorial powers in the Governor-General, this Government might act on the model of the Patna Act of 1917 as amended in 1923 which vested the powers of a Visitor in the Chancellor and restricted the general powers as expressed in sub-clause 5 of clause 5. On that account, eventually, the amendment which I have put before the honourable House was put forward and that amendment, I can only say in passing, vests the powers of a Visitor in an officer of the university itself and reduces the powers to a very large extent. Under those circumstances, I would request my honourable friend Mr. Chikodi whose amendment to clause 5 for the omission of sub-clause 4 is before the House part-heard, that he may be kind enough to withdraw that amendment and also the next amendment with reference to the omission of sub-clause 5 so that I may be able to put forward mine before the honourable House.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District): Sir, in view of the explanation given by the Honourable the Minister for Education and also in view of the amendment that has been tabled by my honourable friend, the member for the Bombay University, I wish that the House may kindly allow me to withdraw my amendment.

Question put and leave granted.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, the amended clause 5 has been before the honourable House since about the 13th of February last and all honourable members are aware of its provisions. Therefore, I need not read it as honourable members have already read it and some have even given notices of amendment. I beg to submit that this amended* clause does away with the vesting of visitor's powers in an outside officer.....

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): I rise to a point of order, Sir. When the bill went before the select committee there was no present clause 5 in the bill. It was inserted by the select committee and the Honourable Minister in charge of the bill subscribed to the insertion of clause 5 in the bill. He was a party to it and has never disagreed with the report of the select committee—in fact in the report of the select committee he has agreed that there should be clause 5 as it stands at present in the bill. Now, Sir, he never gave the notice required by the constitution that he disagreed with the clause that was inserted by the select committee. It has been laid down in our own Council that before a member can move an amendment if he is not agreeable to the select committee's recommendation he should give notice of his disagreement. In this case the Honourable Minister has agreed with the report of the select committee and has signed it. He never at any stage gave notice of his disagreement. This is the first time that the Honourable Minister comes forward to say that he disagrees with the report of the select committee, and therefore my submission is that the Honourable Minister in charge of the bill has got no right to put this amendment to the bill, as it emerged out of the select committee, to which he was a party and to which he has clearly agreed. In this case, the House has already agreed to the second reading and we are proceeding with the bill clause by clause ; and therefore this is not a proper occasion for the Honourable Minister to come forward and move an amendment for the change of clause 5. If he wanted to move the amendment that he has moved he should have done it appropriately by giving notice of it before you put the second reading to the House ; or he could have asked some other member to move it. The Honourable Minister has said that the amendment has been before the House from the 13th of February, but, Sir, the publication of the report of the select committee has got a special meaning, namely, that the general public which is interested in the enactment of any bill should have proper notice. The public has had no sufficient notice of this amendment of the Honourable Minister in charge of the bill and the sending of the notice of this amendment to the honourable members of this House is not proper publication and is not a notice to the public. If, you, Sir, allow a discussion of this amendment, it is a negation of the original clause. Therefore, my submission is that the Honourable Minister is out of order in bringing an amendment before the House that is completely a negation of the original clause which vested the visitorial powers in the Governor-General. The Honourable Minister by his present amendment vests the visitorial powers in the Chancellor. Therefore, this is a negation of the original clause and that he cannot do.

* Vide page 40 of this Volume.

Further, my submission also is that this is an alternative clause. By the original clause the visitorial powers were vested in the Governor-General. By this clause those powers are vested in the Chancellor of the University, who is the Governor of Bombay, which the Honourable Minister, I submit, cannot be permitted to do because it is a negation of the original clause.

Then, Sir, the select committee had agreed to a particular clause and the present amendment is certainly inconsistent with that original clause as agreed to by the select committee, and therefore my submission will be that the Honourable Minister has got no right to move this amendment as he is now trying to do. Moreover, the amendment of the Honourable Minister has the effect of giving visitorial powers to the Chancellor, which means the continuance of the spirit of the old clause. On that ground also, he has no right to bring forward the present amendment till the old clause as it stands in the bill has not been disposed of by the honourable House. Therefore, on all these points, I respectfully submit the Honourable Minister has got no right to bring forward this amendment. If he wanted to do it at all legally, he should really have asked some other honourable member, who was not a party to the report of the select committee to give notice of this amendment. Therefore, my respectful submission is that the Honourable Minister has chosen an incorrect and unheard of procedure in bringing forward the amendment in its present form, because, after all, it was he himself who introduced the visitorial powers in clause 5 of the bill. My submission, therefore, is that you would be pleased to disallow the Honourable Minister from placing this amendment before the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There is one particular point which I wish the honourable member who has raised this point of order to bear in mind. It was with the object of having everything clear before the House that I started by making a statement as to what the position was as I understood it. There was an object in calling upon the Honourable Minister to make a statement if he had to make any. If that is properly borne in mind, the situation would be clearly understood by the House that this particular amendment, in the form in which it comes and under the name of an amendment has a history attached to it. The Honourable Minister, when he asked for the postponement of the consideration of this matter, did so with the specific object of seeing whether he could meet the wishes of the House. The House agreed, and he was allowed the postponement. Therefore, he had gone out of this House with a distinct mission. He has come back to the House with the result of his mission in the form of this particular motion, which he calls an amendment. I therefore want to point out to the House that before I deal with the technical points raised by the honourable member as points of order, I should like the House to bear in mind that the motion before the House is the result of the postponement. I understand that the Honourable Minister is going to lay before the House what he proposes in the form of an amendment, because he has no other way of bringing his motion except by way of an amendment. Here is a clause, which is a remodelling of clause 5, which he wants the House to substitute for the original clause 5. If the House is agreeable, it may accept it or refuse to accept it. This is merely an explanation I wanted the House to bear in mind, while considering strictly technical points of order in connection with this particular amendment, which has a history behind it. I would like to hear the Honourable Minister.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: Sir, we have not been able to follow the point of order at all.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Why?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: I cannot understand why, if the Honourable Minister was a member of the select committee and he was in charge of the bill, he cannot move an amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There are other arguments also on which the honourable member has relied. I am afraid the Honourable Minister has not followed him closely.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: Not the Minister alone; I hear voices from the other side also.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I will put before the House the objections, if I have understood the honourable member rightly. The first point was that the Honourable Minister in charge of the bill cannot bring in an amendment to the clause to which he has himself been a party on bringing it into existence. The second point was that this is an alternative clause, and therefore constitutionally out of order. Those were the two main points on which the honourable member has raised this point of order.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: There are two more points, firstly, that this is a negation of the original clause, and secondly, that it is a continuance of some parts of the old clause in a different form.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: Sir, I would request your attention to Standing Order VIII, 10, which says:

"When a Bill is submitted clause by clause, any Member may move an amendment, not being an amendment of principle, of the Bill."

The order does not say that because the member happens to be the member in charge, or because he is a member of the select committee, therefore he is debarred from moving the amendment. The wording is explicit enough—"any member may move an amendment."

With regard to the second point which the honourable member has raised, in one and the same breath he said that this amendment was a negation of the original clause, and at the same time it is an alternative to the powers which are vested in the Viceroy. I do not understand how it can be both. It is either a negation, or it is not. But it is not a negation; the powers which are vested in a particular individual have been transferred to another. Where is the negation or contradiction? That is a thing which I cannot understand for a moment.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: As the Honourable Minister has been permitted to make a speech, will you permit me also to make a few observations, Sir?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If there is any argument to be placed before the House, let it be brief; otherwise I will stop the honourable member.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: The rules provide that members may address the House on points of order with the permission of the President.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No debate on points of order, except on my permission.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: I want to make one single observation, and it is this, that the Honourable Minister has moved his bill, and therefore the simple procedure in all constitutional assemblies is this, that the man who moves the bill cannot move an amendment. If I move a bill, or if I move a resolution, I cannot move an amendment to it.

An Honourable MEMBER: What is the honourable member's authority?

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: If a member moves a bill or a resolution in a public meeting or any other meeting, I would ask whether he is allowed to move an amendment to it. My main contention is that when a man moves a resolution he cannot move an amendment to it. It is somebody else who moves an amendment.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI: When the honourable member makes an assertion, the responsibility is on him to quote his authority for it.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South): I do submit, Sir, that the procedure adopted in this case is irregular, and in considering the result of that irregularity, you have got to consider not only the members of this House but the outside public also. Under the constitution, certain provision is made whereby the public may also have an opportunity to express their opinion and express their views. Standing Order VIII, 8 says :

"The report of the Select Committee on a Bill shall be presented to the Council by the Member in charge of the Bill; in presenting a report the Member in charge shall, if he makes any remarks, confine himself to a brief statement of fact. There shall be no further discussion of the report at this stage."

The Honourable Member in charge of this particular bill is the Honourable Minister of Education, and under Standing Order VIII (1) he shall present the select committee's report to the House. Now, if you look at the procedure that is adopted after that, you will find that an opportunity is given not only to the honourable members of this House to have their say, but to those who have got to say anything on legislation of this kind, an opportunity to have their say is given. Standing Order VIII, 8 (2) lays down :

"After the presentation of the report of a Select Committee on a Bill the Member in charge may move—

(a) that the Bill as reported by the Select Committee be read a second time either at once or on some future date to be then stated ; provided that no such motion shall be made unless copies of the report, of minutes of dissent and of the bill, if amended, have been despatched to each member 15 clear days before the date appointed for the session of the Council at which the report is presented....."

Now, Sir, before a bill is read a second time, the report of the select committee should have been despatched to each member 15 clear days before the date appointed for the session. The original clause 5 as passed by the select committee was before the public and the public and the Senate had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on it. But now this new clause has been sprung as a surprise upon the honourable House, upon the public and upon the Senate. The public and the Senate have not had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on it. This new amendment is practically an amendment of the select committee's report ; the public and the Senate have had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on the select committee's original clause 5, but they have not had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on this new amendment. ....

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, is this a point of order ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member will confine himself to the point of order.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, I am speaking on the point of order. The rules lay down that the report shall be despatched to honourable members 15 clear days before the date appointed for the session. If that had been done with regard to this amendment, the Senate would have had a chance of expressing an opinion.

Now, an honourable member has a right to move an amendment provided he does not agree with the original report. He cannot agree with the original report and disagree at the same time. The position is most anomalous. If he did not agree with the report, he could have put in a dissenting minute and moved any amendment. In this case, he agreed with the report and presented it; therefore it was his duty to present it to the honourable House. How is he going to move an amendment which is not consistent with the select committee's report which he has himself presented under the Standing Orders? I refer to Vol. XX, page 138, which says that the mover of a bill can only introduce an amendment if he does not agree with the original report. In this case, as the Honourable Minister has agreed with the report, he cannot, I submit, introduce an amendment now.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, as you very rightly said we have to consider this point of order in the light of the history which is behind this particular matter. Out of deference to the views of honourable members on the original clause 5, I requested the honourable House to let me have time, so that the Government of Bombay may negotiate with the Government of India and put before them the objections which were raised in the House. The result of those negotiations is the amended clause which I wish to substitute for the original clause 5. I, as a member of this House, have every right to move an amendment at the stage of the second reading when the bill is discussed clause by clause. It is not right to urge that it is not open to a member who has signed the select committee's report or who is in charge of the bill to move an amendment. My honourable friend Mr. Chikodi was one of the signatories to the select committee's report without a dissenting minute, and he had given notice of amendments as well as others.

The real point to be considered with reference to this amendment is whether it is barred under Rule 8 of Standing Order V as being not relevant to and within the scope of the original motion, namely, the original clause 5, or as being a negation of the original clause or an alternative to it. I submit, Sir, that having regard to sub-clause (5) of the original clause 5, the present amendment is not only relevant to but also within the scope of the bill. The gist of clause 5 is whether there should be a visitor for the University and what should be his powers. Who should be the visitor is a different matter and a matter of detail. The difference between the present amendment and the original clause 5 lies in matters of detail. The amendment also provides for a visitor as in the original clause, and the powers provided in the amendment are also far more restricted than the wider powers given in sub-clause (5) of clause 5. There is, again, hardly anything in the allegation that this is a negation of the original clause or that this is an alternative amendment.

The other point urged by the honourable member Mr. Nariman was with reference to the select committee's report being presented to the House. The select committee's report has been presented to the House long ago and the House has thereafter entered on the discussion. After the second reading is sanctioned, and the bill is being read clause by clause, under Standing Order, VIII, 10 (1), every member has the right to move an amendment. I do not think there is any force in the point of view which the honourable member Mr. Nariman put before the House. I, therefore, submit that there is nothing in the point of order.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District): Sir, I wish to point out a precedent. In the case of the Primary Education Bill, the select committee had changed the proportion of Government's share of the cost from two-thirds to three-fourths. The report of the select committee was presented to the House. In the meanwhile, the Governor took objection to the increase in the proportion, and the then Honourable Minister Dr. Paranjpye brought in an amendment to restore the original proportion of two-thirds. A situation similar to this arose at that time, and there was a ruling of your predecessor, Sir Narayan Chandavarkar. I think, therefore, this amendment of the Honourable Minister is in order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, I find that the two points of order have been raised by my honourable friend Mr. Nariman.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: He did not raise a point of order, but he has supported the point of order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I mean to say that the honourable member, Mr. Nariman, has brought forward two arguments. He said that under the rules a member of Government cannot move an amendment, if that amendment is in any way contrary to any of the clauses in the bill as decided upon and settled in the select committee, I submit, Sir, that there is no such rule in the Standing Orders. An honourable member of Government, as any other honourable member, can change his mind in this Council, even after any clauses have been agreed to in select committee. It is open to any honourable member of Government to accept any amendment moved by the other side also. It is open to the honourable member of Government to move an amendment to any of the clauses at any time.

The second argument is this. He said that certain public bodies who had been asked to express opinions, had not had the opportunity of expressing their opinion on the amended clause as moved by the Honourable Minister. I say that that is an argument for the adjournment of the debate and not a point of order. If this argument of the honourable member is used for the adjournment of the debate he is perfectly in order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. The point of order raised was a point which had struck me also, when the amendment of the Honourable Minister was sent in. I had therefore looked into the Parliamentary procedure on that point and I may point out to honourable members and refer them to May's "Parliamentary Practice," pages 380 down to almost 400. There I find instances after instances given to show that amendments have been considered at a much later stage than the present one. I may just quote one instance:

"Some time after the House has ordered the bill to be read a third time, this order is discharged and the bill has been reconsidered or amendment has been moved to the question for reading a bill in that particular form for the third time."

The stage at which this bill has reached is the second reading. All clauses have been gone through, except the clause 5, which is under consideration and it has been properly pointed out that the amendment to that clause 5 can be moved by any member, even if that member of the House happens to be the Government Member in charge.

[The President]

There is a confusion that has been made in asking two points in favour of the point of order. The honourable member, who raised the point of order, said "it is an alternative clause and a negation of the clause." I say that it cannot be both. If it is a negation, it cannot be an alternative clause. It is not a negation at all, and therefore it is a proper amendment because I find it is merely remodelling of the visitorial powers. So, it is not negation and it may be alternative clause. The real thing is this: that the Honourable Minister has come forward with some proposal and I think he has come forward with that proposal properly, legally and constitutionally. He is, therefore, right in moving the amendment. Whether the House should accept the one or other is left to the House. I, therefore, rule that the Honourable Minister is in order in moving his amendment and I now call upon him to do so.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I beg to move my amendment, copy of which has been given to honourable members. It runs thus:

(1) For clause 5, the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

"5. (1) The Chancellor shall have the right to make an inspection, or to cause an inspection to be made by such person or persons, as he may direct, of the University, of any institutions associated with the University and of any work conducted or done by the University, and to make an enquiry or to cause an enquiry to be made in like manner in respect of any matter connected with the University. The Chancellor shall in every case give notice to the Senate of his intention to make an inspection or enquiry or to cause an inspection or enquiry to be made, and the Senate shall be entitled to be represented thereat.

(2) The Chancellor may, by order in writing, annul any proceeding of the University or of any authority thereof which in his opinion is not in conformity with this Act and the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations:

Provided that, before making any such order, he shall call upon the Senate to show cause why such an order should not be made, and if any cause is shown within a reasonable time, he shall consider the same."

* * * * * *"

Sir, I shall now give my views in support of this amendment.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I rise to a point of order. In this connection I would refer you to rule V-8 (1) of the Standing Orders. It says:

"An amendment must be relevant to and within the scope of the motion to which it is proposed."

You will, therefore, see, Sir, that an amendment must be within the scope of the motion. In the present instance I submit that it is not at all relevant. At least sub-clause (2) which gives power of annulling the proceedings to the Chancellor is outside the scope of the original motion. The original motion referred to gave the Visitorial power to the Governor General and this has nothing to do with the power of veto. This was never contemplated in the original motion and so it is outside the scope of the motion.

If you read the whole of the bill, you will find there is a clause, clause 9 which states that the Governor shall be the Chancellor and the head of the University and clause 10 gives him power to appoint the vice-Chancellor. By clause 13 (1) II-B the Chancellor nominates forty fellows.

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

By clause 34 (2) the Chancellor sanctions statutes. By clause 43 (1) the Chancellor nominates honorary fellows. By clause 47 (1) the Chancellor interprets statutes in the case of doubt. You will, therefore, find that in no part of the bill there is any provision for the powers to annul the proceedings. This power of annulling the proceedings has nothing to do with the visitorial power and therefore it is outside the scope of the bill. I therefore submit that the sub-clause 2 is out of order, it not being within the scope of the motion. Therefore, according to Standing Order V-8 (1), the sub-clause (2) of the amendment of clause 5 moved by the Honourable Minister is clearly out of order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : May I ask the honourable member who has raised the point of order to explain one thing in clause 5 as it originally stood, as to what he understands thereby ? In clause 5, line 15, the words are " in respect of any matter connected with the University. " That enquiry that is referred to is " in respect of any matter connected with the University. " What does the honourable member take the scope of those words to be ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : The scope of those words you refer to refers to any matter concerning an inspection of institution, museums, libraries, etc. That is what I think.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI (Bombay University) : I only want to add one word, Sir, in regard to the contention of the honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan. The scope of the old clause 5 included both things intra vires of the Act and also ultra vires of the Act. The present one is only restricted to the intra vires, only a part of them. And, Sir, if necessary I may draw attention to a judicial authority that visitorial power includes the power of annulment as well as inspection. So, the clause before the House is within the scope of the visitorial power originally defined.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Mr. President, I submit, if you will please see sub-clause (5) of original clause 5, you will find the following :—

" The Chancellor may where action has not been taken by the University within a reasonable time to his satisfaction, after considering any explanation furnished or representation made by the Senate or the Syndicate, issue such directions as he may think fit and the University shall comply with such directions. "

" And the University shall comply with such directions. " These are absolute powers of ordering anything. When all the powers are vested in the Chancellor of issuing any direction, those powers will also include the power of veto. I cannot for a moment understand the honourable member who said that there was no such thing as a power of veto in the original clause. The clause gave absolute power to give directions in every possible way, and any direction issued by the Chancellor was to be obeyed. If such wider powers are given to issue instructions in any direction, in any way he likes, then, that also contains the power of veto. So, those wider powers also include the other power of veto and similar such powers of modifying, annulling, etc.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like to point out to honourable members, and I should like to hear some few honourable members on this point freely but briefly. What I should like to be satisfied about is this. I understand that the honourable member has raised a point of order, which may be summed up briefly this way, that in bringing in sub-clause (2) of the new amendment the Honourable Minister has not only incorporated in clause 5, as it stands, something new, but he has imported into the bill something which did not exist before. That is to say, it has given to the Chancellor in this new form, the power of annulling the proceedings of the Senate, which he contends did not exist throughout the whole bill and, indeed, certainly not in this clause. And I, under Standing Order V,8 (1), certainly will have to be satisfied that by bringing in clause (2) the scope of the motion before the House has not been increased.

Now, as to the point made out by the Honourable Minister for Excise, that clause 5—sub-clause (5) —gives absolute powers to the Governor. I am not prepared to accept that statement: for, sub-clause (5) of clause 5 is not a clause independent by itself; it has to be read with (4) and with (3). That sub-clause lays down the procedure to be followed by the Governor, as the Chancellor, to whom the orders of the Visitor are communicated, in case he is not satisfied that they are enforced. I do not so far,—though I am not committing myself to anything,— accept sub-clause (5) as an independent clause by itself.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: It is not an independent clause, Sir. But you have got to see the other portion:

"The Visitor may address the Chancellor with reference to the results of such inspection or inquiry and the Chancellor shall communicate to the Senate and to the Syndicate the views of the Visitor and may, after ascertaining the opinions of the Senate and Syndicate thereon advise the University upon the action to be taken."

Now, whatever action the Visitor may think necessary, that action may also include the vetoing.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No; the Visitor's powers, as pointed out, are limited in the above clause, (2).

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: As regards inquiry and inspection?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: Sub-clause (2) reads:

"The Visitor shall have the right to cause an inspection to be made, by such person or persons as he may direct, of the University, its buildings, laboratories, libraries, museums, workshops and equipment and of any institutions maintained by or affiliated to the University and also of the teaching and other work conducted or done by the University and to cause an inquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University."

The words are "any matter connected with the University." The inquiry may relate to the records; it may relate to anything. Then, under sub-clause (3), the Visitor addresses the Chancellor as to the course to be taken. Then, there is sub-clause (4), "The Syndicate shall, within such time as the Chancellor may fix, report to him," etc. So, sub-clause (2) gives the Visitor a power to start an enquiry into any matter connected with the University. These words are quite comprehensive.

[Mr. G. B. Pradhan]

Then, sub-clause (3) gives him power to communicate the result of the inquiry. Then, there is sub-clause (4) as regards the Syndicate. Then, sub-clause (5), under which, if those directions are not carried out, then the Chancellor says "Carry them out." So, I submit that there are absolute powers given, and if all the powers are given, then the whole contains the part. All the powers are there included. So, the power of veto is also included.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South): Sir, I do submit that the construction sought to be put by the Honourable Minister for Excise is quite wrong. As you remark, Sir, sub-clause (5) is not to be isolated but it has to be read along with other clauses, and if you read the other clauses, the function of the Visitor is quite apparent on the very face of it. The Visitor has got power to inspect, and then he can give certain advice. If that advice is not taken, then the Visitor has got power to issue instructions with reference to the advice in connection with the enquiry and the inspection made by him.

Sub-clause (2) goes far more than was originally intended. It is tantamount to the power of vetoing of anything whatever that may take place in the proceedings of the University. That clause gives power to the Chancellor of vetoing any resolution—it may not be an inspection or an enquiry but any ordinary resolution of the senate which may be in existence, and without any visit or any inspection the Chancellor can also annual anything whatever in the proceedings of the University. That power is quite different from the power given to him under clause 5. I submit it goes far beyond the original clause 5.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, the original clause 5 referred to the provision of a visitor; then, his power as to inspection and enquiry; then further as to what he was to do after receiving the report of the enquiry or the inspecting officer and finally, what orders he was to pass or what action he was to take as to the result of that enquiry or inspection and the report made thereon. That is the principle which underlies the original clause 5. The amendment which I have proposed has to be relevant to the principle of the original clause 5 and has also to be within the scope of that original clause 5.

Now, Sir, there is a provision in the original clause about the Visitor. There is a provision in the amendment also about the Visitor. So, the principle is common to both and no question has been raised about it. There is also a common factor in the original as well as the amended clause that the enquiry or the inspection may be ordered by the Visitor.

Then, after the inspection or enquiry takes place, a report would be coming and after he receives the report, the Visitor has to decide what action he is to take. In the original clause 5, we have got sub-clause 5 conferring on the visitor the power of deciding what action should be taken after the report is received and with reference to his powers to take action that sub-clause says "issue such directions as he may think fit and the University shall comply with such directions." His directions may be to annul provisions or orders or proceedings which are not in conformity with the Act. He may also say that a particular sort of action shall be taken further. He can impose upon the University more than what my amendment seeks to do, namely, he can not only interfere under the sub-clause 5 of the original clause 5 with reference to intra vires acts but also to ultra-vires acts. That is the point and the meaning of the words " issue such directions as he may think fit and the University shall comply with such directions " which appear in the sub-clause 5 of the original clause 5.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Issue directions consistently with the report mentioned in the sub-clause 4 of that clause 5.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I beg your pardon. Sir, No. The point is that sub-clause (3) of the original clause 5 reads " The Visitor may address the Chancellor with reference to the results of such inspection or inquiry and the Chancellor shall communicate to the Senate and to the Syndicate the views of the Visitor," (so that the advice or the views of the Visitor are there) " and may, after ascertaining the opinions of the Senate and Syndicate thereon, advise the University upon the action to be taken." Then comes the procedure as to how the Chancellor, who has been communicated with by the Visitor, is to act. Sub-clause (4) reads " The Syndicate shall within such time as the Chancellor may fix, report to him for communication to the Visitor such action, if any, as is proposed to be or has been taken upon such advice. The report shall be accompanied by the opinion of the Senate thereon." If that advice is not acted on to the full extent or to a partial extent, then sub-clause (5) empowers the Chancellor under the direction of the Visitor to issue such directions with reference to the report and the advice that was given as he may think fit and the University shall comply with such directions. These directions may refer to proceedings which may not be in conformity with the Act or may refer to proceedings which are in conformity with the Act that is, intra-vires and are within the power of the University. Therefore, sub-clause (2) of my amendment is quite within the scope of sub clause (5) of the original clause 5....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What I wish to be satisfied on is this, that I understand (I may be wrong) that under clause 5, as it appears in the printed bill, the Visitor's powers are defined and limited. Is that right ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They are absolute, except as regards inspection and enquiry, and then, as the result thereof, he can take any action....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I understand that first of all the principle of a Visitor has been introduced. That happens to be a certain great personage in the State. His powers are defined here. I understand that the Visitor's powers will be (1) " to cause an inspection to be made, by such person or persons as he may direct, of the University." Is the annulment of proceedings included in this ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No. This is only the initial stage..

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The annulment of the proceedings of the Senate is not included in the first part.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No, it is not.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then the clause proceeds " its buildings, laboratories, libraries, museums, workshops and equipment and of any institutions maintained by or affiliated to the University and also of the teaching and other work conducted or done by the University." Is the annulment included so far anywhere in this ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The clause then goes on " and to cause an inquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University." Is it included here ? I very pertinently asked the honourable member who raised the point of order to tell me how he interprets or what he understands the scope of these words in the clause to be. I should like the Honourable the Minister to help me here. The sub-clause runs further " and cause an inquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University." Does that include the annulment of proceedings ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It does.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The form in which the new clause has been brought certainly has all the appearances of bringing in or incorporating in the bill something which did not exist before because of the emphasis that is being given to the power of annulment of proceedings by a separate second clause. If that is the interpretation of the honourable member of the words " to cause an inquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University," that is, they include the annulment of the proceedings of the Senate, then what he should have done was to have indicated in his new sub-clause 2 that that was as the result of the inquiry and not put it so broadly and independently as it appears in clause 2 of this new amendment. I should like the Honourable Minister to connect it in such a way as to make it consequential on what has gone before.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If you compare sub-clause (2) of the original clause 5 with sub-clause (1) of the amended clause which I have put forward, you will see that they are practically the same.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : How ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I shall read the amended clause, and would request you kindly to look at the original clause. The amended clause reads :

" (1) The Chancellor shall have the right to make an inspection, or to cause an inspection to be made by such person or persons, as he may direct, of the University,..... "

[Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai]

So far, the wording in both is the same. Then, further in the amendment, the wording is shortened by saying :

" .....of any institutions associated with the University and of any work conducted or done by the University, and to make an enquiry or to cause an enquiry to be made in like manner in respect of any matter connected with the University. "

The amended clause goes on to say :

" The Chancellor shall in every case give notice to the Senate..... "

This wording also is in the original clause. Further it says :

" .....of his intention to make an inspection or enquiry or to cause an inspection or inquiry to be made, and the Senate shall be entitled to be represented thereat. "

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then the object of the Honourable Minister is fulfilled all along. The words are there. What is the necessity and the mystery of sub-clause (2) ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sub-clause (2) is substituted for sub-clause (5) of the original clause 5. I may also point out that the proviso to sub-clause (2) in my amended clause is also important. It says :

" Provided that, before making any such order, he shall call upon the Senate to show cause why such an order should not be made, and if any cause is shown within a reasonable time, he shall consider the same. "

Sub-clause (2) gives powers to him to annul any proceedings of the University or of any authority thereof which, in his opinion, is not in conformity with the Act and the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations. So that, that power, I submit is within the purview of sub-clause (5) of the original clause 5, because there the words are such as to vest complete powers of not only annulling ultra vires proceedings but even interfering with intra vires proceedings, and to issue such directions as he may think fit, which the University shall comply with. So, my submission is that, though the present amendment is not as long as the original clause, it substantially incorporates every provision which is in the original clause, and in scope, with reference to the powers of the visitor, is restricted.

Lastly, I may point out that my amendment provides for the visitor, for his powers of inspection and enquiry, and then it provides for how to deal with the report, that is, to call for the opinion of the Senate, and all that, and then how to take action. So, there are four points : the visitor, his powers of enquiry and inspection ; then how he has to deal with the report. Is he to pass orders without consulting the Senate or knowing its views ? No. Is he to have an inspection and enquiry without giving due notice ? No. Lastly, after receiving the report, and after receiving also the views of the Senate, what is he to do ? What action is he to take ? There restricted powers are vested in him of annulling what is not in conformity with the Act. I submit, Sir, that sub-clause (2) of the amended clause is within the scope of sub-clause (5) of the original clause.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, may I have your permission to say just a few words ? As so many legal luminaries have taken part in this point of order I rise with a very great deal of hesitation. It appears to me that the arguments that have been advanced now seem to miss the point which you, Sir, brought out when you put the question to the honourable member who raised the point of order. Sir, it appears to me that you struck at the kernel of the whole question when you referred to sub-clause (2) of the original clause 5, and you asked the honourable member to point out what those words " to cause an enquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University " meant. I understood the honourable member to fumble and to say that it may be " institution ", or " college ", or " library ", or some such thing. All those matters, as you will notice, are already provided for in the earlier part of sub-clause (2). The words " any matter " place no restriction whatsoever at all on the powers of the Visitor with regard to making enquiries. I trust, Sir, so far I have made the position clear. The point that you have to decide is whether the amendment is relevant to and within the scope of the motion which is proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is not the only thing. As I have said, these words may mean all that the old sub-clause means, and the Honourable the Leader of the House seems to take that view. That being so, these words are incorporated in the amendment put forward by the Honourable Minister, the words are: " and to make an enquiry or to cause an inquiry to be made in like manner in respect of any matter connected with the University ". If the intention of the old clause is incorporated into the amended sub-clause (1), then where is the necessity, or what is the mystery, I repeat, of sub-clause (2) of amended clause 5 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I do not suppose there is any question of mystery. The whole point really, as you seem to agree, is whether new clause 5 (2) is already included in old clause 5 (2) and 5 (5). If so, then surely it is relevant and within the scope. The point that the Chair has to decide, if I may respectfully submit, is whether the new clause 5 (2) is relevant to the amendment. The question whether the wording should be as it is relates to the merits of the question, and on that point the Council can come to any decision it likes. But as regards its relevancy and its being within the scope, I understand your question now to me to mean that the new clause is superabundant, that amended clause 5 (2) is not necessary and has been inserted by the Honourable Minister without any good reasons. He may have his good reasons for it or not. With that I am not concerned. I think there are good reasons, and if I am permitted to show them I will show them, but that is not the point at issue just now. The point at issue is, as I contend, if new clause 5 (2) is of less scope than old clause 5 (2) and (5) then it is in order. If, Sir, you are inclined to hold that new clause 5 (2) is of less scope than old clause 5 (5), then I will not pursue the other matter as to whether there are good reasons for using the words that have been used in new clause 5 (2).

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Sir, I shall try to submit what appears to me the criterion in the matter. In my view, the test is this: Do the powers, as given to the Visitor in the original clause, constitute or include the powers of annulment ? If the powers given in the original clause to the Visitor constitute the power of annulment or include the power of annulment, then the amendment does not go beyond the scope of the original clause. But if we read the provisions of the original clause, my submission is that those powers do not constitute or do not include the power of annulment. I invite your particular attention to the last sub-clause, sub-clause (5). What does it say ? It says that the Chancellor may " issue such directions as he may think fit and the University shall comply with such direction. " You will see, Sir, when the power of annulment is given, the act of annulment is the final act and there may be no further act than that ; whereas in the particular case all that has to be done by the Chancellor is to issue directions and the final decision as to carrying out those....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : " Final action ".

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : ....the 'final action' as to carrying out those directions rests with the University itself. In other words, however wide the powers may be as they were originally given to the visitor, they fall short of the power of annulment ; they do not include or constitute the power of annulment ; whereas in the new clause that is introduced the power of annulment is expressly given to the visitor, and it is further stated that that power of annulment can be exercised by him on his own motion. He may on his own motion annul any proceeding. So, I think that the powers that are now proposed go beyond the powers which were given in the original clause.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Will the honourable member explain to me what he understands to be the scope of the old clause in its wording " cause an enquiry to be made in respect of any matter connected with the University ? "

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : " Any matter " does not, according to me, include any proceeding or any decision arrived at by the University in accordance with its ordinances and regulations.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Why does it not ?

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : " Matter " can only be anything apart from any particular proceeding which has been committed by the University in accordance with its own ordinances and regulations. The word " matter " there is not so wide.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : It is " any matter ".

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : " Any matter " does not include what is now proposed to be included.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I am giving all this latitude because this is an important point of order ; but I wish it to be understood that I shall allow further discussion only on the point of order raised.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Sir, the whole of the old clause enables the Chancellor to issue directions to the University, which the University is bound to comply with. If the Chancellor says that a certain proceeding should be cancelled, then the University will say "it is cancelled." The difference between the old and the new clause is only a difference in wording. The whole dispute arises from the fact that sub-clause (2) of the amendment is detached and read independently of the first sub-clause. But it is really part and parcel of the whole clause 5. Sub-clause (1) says that the Chancellor may himself enquire or cause an enquiry to be made, and sub-clause (2) says that if as a result of such enquiry he finds that certain directions have to be issued, he can issue those directions. It is not necessary to put in so many words "if as a result of such enquiry," etc. Under the old clause an enquiry could be made and directions issued as a result of such enquiry, after calling upon the University to show cause. So also in the proposed amendment, if after the enquiry the Chancellor thinks that any proceeding is ultra vires, he can cancel that proceeding. So, sub-clause (2) is not an independent power irrespective of the enquiry that is contemplated in sub-clause (1). If this is conceded, the present amendment is not only included, but is only a smaller part of the whole.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North): Sir, the question is very simple. The point is this. In the old clause powers of inspection were given in respect of buildings, laboratories, museums, workshops and equipment and of any institutions maintained by or affiliated to the University and also of "any matter connected with the university." If "any matter connected with the university" meant its proceedings, then where was the necessity to detail buildings, laboratories, etc.? If it meant that, the whole clause was self-contradictory. The new clause is intended to replace the old clause. Let us compare these clauses. Sub-clause (1) of the new clause is intended to cover sub-clauses (2), (3) and (4) of the old clause 5. Sub-clause (2) of old clause 5 gave the power of inspection in respect of buildings, laboratories, etc. Sub-clause (3) stated that the University may be addressed on the result of such inspection and sub-clause (3) provided for an explanation from the University. Sub-clause (1) of the new clause is intended to cover all these three clauses. Sub-clause (2) of the present clause is intended to substitute sub-clause (5) of the old clause. Now, if the old clause provided for the power of annulment, as is contended, where was the necessity to change the wording? That knocks the bottom out of the argument and shows that what is now proposed was not included before. Therefore, this is an absolutely new proviso intended to include even appointment of professors and proceedings under the ordinances and regulations of the University. That is how it appears to my mind and to ordinary commonsense.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not want a debate. I have understood the point all right.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: My suggestion is that there are only twenty minutes now and the point is a very important point. I think, therefore, it would be much better if you postponed the decision on it till Monday.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Why?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, it will be noticed that in the clause there are words "as he may direct."....

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Sir, is the Honourable Minister entitled to address the House now?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I have given him permission.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I would submit that the power has been given to annul the proceedings, but there is also a provision that the Chancellor shall consider the cause submitted by the University.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That would be perfectly reasonable if those words only referred to the matters of inspection. An intelligent argument was made by the Honourable the Leader of the House that if I hold that these words "inspection of any matter" may mean to include the power of the Chancellor to annul the proceedings, then clause 2 in the new amendment is repeated or is redundant or is brought here for any ulterior or other motive is not a point of much consideration. My difficulty is this. Whether "inspection of any matter connected with the University" does include or does not include the powers of annulling the proceedings of the Senate. That is my greatest difficulty and unless I strain those words to that extent, I do not see that these words do really mean all that. Not being able to interpret those words in that light, I consider that clause 2 in the new amendment is beyond the scope of the amendment and hold it so.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, this is a matter of such great concern not only in connection with this bill but also other bills. The interpretation of what is within the scope and what is not is very important both for the Government and non-official benches.

I respectfully suggest that the opinion of the law officers should be taken. In the present instance no law officer has been consulted and I suggest that we be allowed to consult the Advocate-General before you finally rule that there are any other words which can be used which would not be outside the scope of the bill. As we have taken so much time, I respectfully suggest that you send for the Advocate-General if you so desire and take his opinion. To me, as a layman, it is not clear at all. Even the Legal Remembrancer has not spoken in this matter.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Legal Remembrancer had an opportunity to speak, but he did not do so.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: That is so, Sir. But I think that the opinion of the Advocate-General should be allowed to be taken by us.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: On the point of order, Sir. Is not the Honourable the Leader of the House discussing your ruling?

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Sir, may I know if the Honourable the Leader of the House can speak, once the ruling is given by the Honourable the President?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would have resented it first, if I were to feel that the Honourable the Leader of the House was discussing my ruling. I have given him permission to speak and he is not discussing my ruling but is making a suggestion.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, you yourself have also stated that the matter is of the utmost difficulty and it is not clear to you, much less it would be clear to laymen like me. Therefore, Sir, I submit that you may allow us to take the opinion of the Advocate-General whether there is any other way. I am not discussing your ruling at all.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The ruling has been given. I would have been very willing to reconsider that, if I were convinced by any one on this point. So, according to me, I think there are now two courses open, either to put the rest of the amendment or the original clause which stands being read a second time.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The amendment No. 1 is not out of order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No, it is not out of order.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Then the discussion on that clause should go on.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then we go on with the clause 1. The amendment has been moved and is before the House. I have held only one portion of it out of order.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Well, Sir, I am inclined not to proceed with this my amendment, but to request the Chair to put the original clause. On further consideration I would proceed with my amendment.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Does the Honourable Minister change his mind ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes : he is entitled to change his mind. Sir, now, with reference to the amendment minus sub-clause (2), it only refers to the appointment of the Chancellor of the Bombay University as a Visitor and gives him powers of inspection and inquiry, which were in the original clause 5, and even in the debate which took place with reference to the original clause no one took objection to the first three clauses. Consequently, Sir, I submit the honourable House will accept this part of my amendment.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : What is the question before the House ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The amendment.

(Mr. K. M. Munshi rose).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is the honourable member likely to finish in five minutes as the time is up ?

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI : No, Sir.

SUKKUR MUNICIPAL ELECTION RULES

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If he is not likely to finish in five minutes, then we shall proceed to the next business, I mean the Sukkur Municipality Rules. With reference to the statutory motion regarding the rules of the Sukkur Municipality, the alterations suggested by the honourable member from Sukkur are these:

In rule 10, add sub-clause (2) to this effect:

"(2) If any person qualified to be entered in the said list in virtue of the provisions of Rule 8 is also personally qualified to be entered in the said list, his name shall be separately entered therein in both capacities, and the provisions of clause 1(a) shall not apply to votes recorded on the strength of the two entries."

Question put and carried.

In rule 19, the following is the alteration to be made:

Omit "appointed for the" and "Returning", and insert before the word "date" the word "appointed" and after the word "date" the words "and time the Nomination officer appointed under rule 16 shall hold a"; and after the word "of" insert the word "the"; and for the word "Returning" substitute the word "Nomination."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: All these alterations being made, the rule would read to this effect:—

"On the appointed date and time the Nomination Officer appointed under rule 16 shall hold a scrutiny of the nomination papers. The candidates, one proposer and one seconder of each candidate and one other person duly authorised in writing by each candidate, but no other person, may attend at the appointed time and place and the Nomination Officer shall give them all reasonable facilities for examining the nomination papers of all candidates which have been delivered within the time and in the manner prescribed in rule 16."

Question put and carried.

In rule 22, omit the word "Returning" and add the word "Nomination."

Question put and carried.

In rule 26, substitute the word "his" for the word "their."

Question put and carried.

In rule 36, omit the words "or her" and "or she" wherever they occur.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The motion is that

In Rule 37, omit the word "which" occurring in line 1, and insert the word "and" between the words "officer" and "shall" occurring in line 2.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The motion is that

In Rule 39, omit the words "or the polling officer acting under his general or special directions."

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The motion is that

In Rule 40, omit the words "or the polling officer acting under his general or special directions."

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The motion is that

In Appendix A, omit the word "and" occurring between the word "Shah" and the word "Miani" against IV, and add the words "and Lloyd Barrage Township" after the word "Miani", and at the end of the Note, add the words "in addition to the Lloyd Barrage Township."

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The motion is that

In Rule 11 (4) change " municipality " into " Chief Officer of the Municipality."

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The next motion is :

In Rule 11 (5) and (6) change " Judge " into " Magistrate " where it occurs."

Question put and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned to 1-30 p.m. on Monday, the 19th March 1928.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Swearing in of new members.

The following honourable members then made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took their seats in the Council:—

Mr. T. A. ANDREW.
Mr. N. J. WADIA.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. Before we proceed to the next business before the House, I should like to refer to a matter of importance in connection with questions. I take this opportunity of doing so, because there is no question list to-day. I understand that the last list was the last one for this session.

I have found, particularly during this session, that a number of questions have been sent in, a number which cannot easily be counted by any honourable members, and most of them, the House will pardon my saying so, were not tabled properly, and it was a task for the Secretary and myself to see if we could help the honourable members in putting them right, but we found that that task was overpowering, and therefore we had to give it up. I must therefore draw the attention of honourable members to the Rules and the Standing Orders, which they should bear in mind in tabling their questions. If the directions laid down in them are not strictly followed, it will be my painful duty after this to disallow questions which fail to comply with them and honourable members will find that their questions are mostly rejected. The Rule regarding questions is rule 8 (1), which says:

"A question may be asked for the purpose of obtaining information on a matter of public concern within the special cognisance of the member to whom it is addressed:"

Now, the important thing to be borne in mind here is that "it must be a matter of public concern." Very often questions are put from which it is not clear as to whether they refer to any matter of public concern. The second thing is that it must be "within the special cognisance of the member to whom it is addressed." Much confusion has been caused, I have noticed, by honourable members not quite clearly understanding as to what is the import of the words "within the special cognisance of the member to whom it is addressed." Then Standing Order VI, 3 further refers to the form and contents of the questions. Now, sub-clause (2) of the Standing Order lays down:

"If it contains a statement, the Member asking the question must make himself responsible for the accuracy of the statement."

That is a very important matter. If I find that it is a statement for which the honourable member does not appear to be quite responsible. I may even have to go to call upon him to satisfy me as to how he is responsible. Then, Standing Order VI, 3 (5) lays down as follows:

"It must not contain arguments, inferences, ironical expressions or defamatory statements."

Particularly, a question must not contain arguments. I find that hundreds of questions are sent in which are really arguments rather than questions. Then sub-clause (6) says:

"It must not ask for an expression of opinion or the solution of a hypothetical proposition;"

Questions without number have been sent in, which ask for opinion or are hypothetical. And last, but not the least, sub-clause (8) says:

"It must not be of excessive length."

Very many honourable members have sent in questions which appear not to end at all. I, therefore, would now expect all honourable members to confine themselves strictly to these Rules and Standing Orders, and put their questions in the form in which they must be. Otherwise, it will be, I repeat, my painful duty to disallow them.

There is a change I have made, in consultation with a few leaders in the House, as regards the time allowed for correcting and returning speeches. So far we have been allowing four days for that. It was ascertained from other legislatures as to what time they gave for this purpose as a speedy return enables printed copies of the Debates to be issued earlier than it is possible now. It is found that in a good many legislatures only 24 hours are given. I am, therefore, curtailing the number of days for correction and return of speeches to 2, within which time the speeches will have to be returned from the next session. As regards the speeches of the last day of a session, the time allowed will be as it is to-day, that is four days from the date of despatch.

BOMBAY UNIVERSITY BILL

(Consideration of Amended Clause 5.)

Mr. BALAK RAM: Sir, I beg leave to move an amendment to the amendment moved by the Honourable Minister to clause 5 of the Bombay University Bill. If I have your permission, I will move it. I have given a copy of it to the Secretary.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. What is the amendment?

Mr. BALAK RAM: Clause (2) of the amendment moved by the Honourable Minister was ruled out of order. Now, there is only one clause to the principal clause 5 and my amendment is to add a second clause to be called sub-clause (2). My amendment runs as follows:

Add as sub-clause (2) the following:

(2) The Chancellor may, after such inspection or inquiry, by order in writing, cancel any decision of the University or any authority there of in respect of any matter which is not in conformity with this Act and the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations:

Provided that, before making any such order, he shall call upon the Senate to show cause why such an order should not be made, and if any cause is shown within a reasonable time, he shall consider the same.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: I rise to a point of order, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is the point of order?

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: Sir, this amendment of the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer is only a legal quibble to try to get round the ruling which you gave yesterday. If you look at the original sub-clause (2) you will find that there is no difference between the two. Even after you ruled that amendment out of order, the Honourable the Leader of the House tried to bring it up again by stating that proper legal opinion had not been obtained. If you look at the original sub-clause (2) it was as follows:

"The chancellor may, by order in writing, annul any proceeding of the University or of any authority thereof which in his opinion is not in conformity with this Act and the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations:"

Now, the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer has substituted the word "cancel" for the word "annul." That is the only difference between the sub-clause you ruled out and the sub-clause which the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer now wishes to add. I do submit that they are trying to circumvent the ruling of the Chair, which is not permissible under the rules. It is expressly stated that the ruling of the Chair shall be final. Rule 16 says:

"The President shall decide all points of order which may arise and his decision shall be final."

Now, I again call your attention to Standing Order V,6 (2) which says that a member while speaking must not:

"Discuss any ruling or direction of the President or any order disallowing a question or resolution."

My submission is that this is a very clumsy effort on the part of the Legal Remembrancer to deliberately, by means of a legal quibble, try to get round the ruling which you gave yesterday. I am surprised at the audacity of the Legal Remembrancer in trying to put a veil as to the real intention of what he wants to do. It will affect an important principle which is this. We may consider certain of your rulings wrong and Government may consider some of your rulings wrong.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am very sorry.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN: We do submit to your ruling, Sir, and observe better discipline than the members on the Government benches by not trying to circumvent the ruling of the Chair. This is nothing more than an effort to re-introduce the matter which has been already ruled out. This is quite against the rule, which says that the President's ruling shall be final. If this amendment is allowed by the Chair, the result will be that members will have to discuss practically the validity of the ruling of the Chair which has already been given on the same clause. I do hope that you will not allow Government by this crooked means to get round your ruling.

Mr. BALAK RAM: Sir, may I, with your permission, explain? The means we adopt are not crooked at all. Your ruling, I understand, Sir, was that the amendment moved by the Honourable Minister was not within the scope of the original clause 5 of the University Bill as sent up by the Select Committee. If you look at sub-clause (5) of clause 5, you will find a provision there....

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Sir, will the honourable member give us a copy of the amendment? We have not even that before us.

Mr. BALAK RAM: If any honourable member wants a copy, I can spare one.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM: He can read it out.

Mr. BALAK RAM: Sub-clause (5) of the original clause 5 gave the Chancellor the power of issuing such directions as he pleased as a result of enquiry made by the Visitor under the first four sub-clauses, and those directions were binding on the University. The University could not disobey them. This practically includes the provision that if the University had taken any illegal action the Chancellor had the right of annulling it, provided the order of the Chancellor was issued as a result of an enquiry made by the Visitor. That is the crucial point. In the amendment, put before the House by the Honourable Minister, sub-clause (2) was independent of sub-clause (1), and orders under sub-clause (2) annulling any illegal action could be issued without an enquiry taking place under sub-clause (1). You have ruled that this took sub-clause (2) out of the scope of the original clause 5. I am now suggesting the insertion of the words "after such inspection or enquiry." If this is done, sub-clause (1) and sub-clause (2) will be connected together, and we will merely get back to the original provisions of the bill, though in a very attenuated form: That is all. I submit, Sir, that my amendment is not beyond the scope of the bill in this respect.

I am suggesting another change also. In the amendment proposed by the Honourable Minister there were the words 'in his opinion,' which gave the Chancellor complete authority to override even the result of an enquiry. These words, I am suggesting, should be taken out. This course will bring the rest of the sub-clause within the scope of the original clause 5 and not beyond it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am glad the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer has added the last words to the statement he has made regarding his amendment. I know that there is a strong feeling in connection with this bill both inside and outside the House and on either side of the House, but I am not concerned with that. All that I had to consider on Saturday last was whether the amendment, as it stood then and brought by the Honourable Minister, was within the scope of the bill or not. Amongst other things, it struck me as, as has been admitted to-day, quite independent of sub-clause (1). Whatever the meaning may be of the words 'in respect of any matter connected with the University' in the original clause 5 (1), I considered that sub-clause (2) in the new clause, went beyond those words and included something which probably those words did not contemplate. The words were 'annul any proceeding of the University or of any authority thereof which, in his opinion were,' etc., etc. It was really a moot point for me as to whether those words in clause (2) did not go beyond the scope of the original clause 5. The statement now made by the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer openly admits that the words 'in his opinion' in sub-clause (2) of the clause, ruled out were significant and important words. That statement greatly supports my ruling that sub-clause (2) was not within the scope of the bill. The sub-clause as now amended connects it with sub-clause (1) and omits the former objectionable words. It now lays down, in the language it adopts, the procedure, in an abridged, and perhaps limited form, which was contemplated in the sub-clauses of the original clause 5 of the bill. The sub-clause is now as a result of the inquiry referred to in sub-clause (1) above, whatever the scope of the words 'in respect of any matter connected with the University.' The words 'in his opinion' which were new and distinctly outside the old clause, and even the bill, go out. I, therefore, do not see how this sub-clause (2) of the new amendment is in any way inconsistent with clause 5 (1) and different from the sub-clause (5) of the original clause 5.

[The President]

Whether that sub-clause was objectionable to the House or not is not the point before me. The question is whether the amendment now proposed read with sub-clause (1) of the amendment proposed by the Honourable Minister falls within the scope of the old clause 5. I hold it does, and I, therefore, hold the amendment now proposed to be in order.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I want to rise to a further point of order. This amendment which the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer proposes is not an amendment to the amendment before the House. It is an amendment to the original clause 5.

(At this stage a copy of the amendment proposed by the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer was handed over to the honourable member Mr. F. J. Ginwalla).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member may take time to examine it, and raise the point of order later.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South) : I submit, Sir, that so far as the Honourable Minister is concerned he has given up the original clause 5 by giving notice of an amendment. So far as the honourable House is concerned, the amended clause as given notice of by the Honourable Minister is in its possession, and for purposes of giving notice of amendments it is in the same position as the original clause 5. The original clause 5 is not before the House ; the only clause before the House is the clause as amended by the Honourable Minister. The amendment that the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer has moved is practically an amendment to the original clause. Therefore, I submit that it will be covered by the rule under which notice of seven days is necessary. Whenever an amendment has to be moved to a clause, seven days' notice must be given, and that is quite necessary under Standing Order VIII, 10 (2). Now, for the purpose of moving amendments the amended clause is in the position of the original clause, which has been given up by the Honourable Minister. Therefore, this amendment which is an amendment to the original clause ought not to be moved and cannot be moved in accordance with Standing Order VIII, 10 (2).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I am sure that the honourable member has not stated the case as the case really is. Before calling upon the Honourable Minister on Saturday, I explained the circumstances under which the Honourable Minister had to come to the House again. He came with a new proposal which he could not place before the House except in the form of an amendment to the original clause ; and I allowed it. That amendment was before the House. A portion of that amendment was taken objection to, and I ruled it out of order. Now there is the amendment to the original clause, in that particular limited form, which is before the House. This is an amendment to that amendment, and is perfectly in order.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN : Sir, may I know if seven days' notice is required ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: An amendment to the amendment, as I take this to be, does not require seven days' notice.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): Sir, if you would refer to the amendment of the honourable member, the Legal Remembrancer, you will find that he says: "add the following." It clearly shows that it is a rider and not an amendment. On Saturday you were pleased to rule clause 2 out of order; so there is absolutely no clause 2. Therefore this new clause cannot be an amendment to the amendment. It is only a rider and I, therefore, submit that clear seven days' notice is required. If you are pleased to allow this without that notice, you can do so, but I submit, in my opinion, it is necessary that seven days' notice should be given; and if you are pleased to dispense with the necessary notice, it may kindly be done in clear language, to the effect that you are pleased to do away with the notice.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member is not very clear in making the statement. The clause before the House is clause 1 that is moved by the Honourable Minister. This is distinctly an amendment to clause 5 originally included in the bill inasmuch as it makes a great departure and substitutes "Governor-General" by "Chancellor", the Governor of this Presidency. Further it makes certain alteration in the whole clause 1. Therefore that is really an amendment and clause 2 was found to be not within the scope of the bill and I ruled it out of order. Clause 1 before the House is an amendment to the original clause 5 (1) and the present one is an amendment to the amendment; call it rider or an amendment, as you like.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: Sir, my submission is that the Honourable Minister cannot move an amendment even to clause 1, because there is a relevant clause as originally put in his name. I, therefore, refer you to Erskine's Parliamentary Procedure, 'that when the mover of a bill has a clause standing against his name to be moved, unless that clause is disposed of, the mover cannot bring in an amendment to change the original clause.'

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That point of order was raised by the honourable member on Saturday and I have given my ruling on that. I have mentioned pages after pages of the parliamentary procedure and showed that there were many instances where a House has been compelled to reconsider a certain clause even at a later stage than the present one. I have given rulings on the various points raised by honourable members and I again repeat that the amendment is in order.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City North): Sir, I find that this amendment is the same amendment which was ruled out of order the other day.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is the point of order raised by the honourable member, Mr. Nariman. The honourable member is now submitting or trying to submit further arguments in support of the point of order raised by the honourable member Mr. Nariman, which is ruled out.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South): Sir, I want to raise a point of order with regard to the principle. I submit under Standing Order 10 (1) this amendment is not in order, this being the question of principle. The Standing Order 10 (1) says:

"When a Bill is submitted clause by clause any member may move an amendment, not being an amendment of principle, of the Bill."

I submit that this amendment of the honourable member, the Legal Remembrancer, is an amendment of principle so far as the original bill, as well as the amended clause, is concerned. If you look at the statement of objects and reasons, if you look at the whole bill, the principle of the new bill which has been introduced by the Honourable Minister is to democratise the University of Bombay. That is the principle of the bill. All the clauses from the beginning to the end observe the same principle that the University should be democratised. If you look at this clause which has been introduced to-day—the amendment to the amendment of the honourable member, the Legal Remembrancer—you will find that it is contrary to the very principle of the bill. You will find that the original bill gives power to the Senate and in no way is the power given to the Chancellor for direct action. The Legal Remembrancer is introducing a clause which has gone against the principle of the bill. Therefore, I submit that after the first reading is passed, this amendment cannot be brought forward here at the second reading.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the answer to the point of order raised by the honourable member is given by himself in his last sentence. The honourable member ought to have raised the question of principle when the original clause 5 of the bill was before the House. The point now before the House is that the principle of visitorial powers having been introduced in the bill, clause 2 is an amendment to the amendment brought in by the Honourable Minister, which deals with the visitorial powers which are before the House in clause 5 of the bill. The consideration of that clause 5 was postponed at the request of the Honourable Minister and agreed to by the House. That is the principle before this House and I cannot go beyond that. Whether this clause 5 should have been allowed by the select committee or should have been allowed by this House was a matter for the House at an earlier stage. The honourable member is too late in thinking of it now.

Mr. BALAK RAM: Then, I take it Sir, that I have your permission to move the amendment?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

Mr. BALAK RAM: I do not want, Sir, to make any remarks on the subject which has been discussed in this House at length, and I move the amendment which you have kindly allowed me to move.

Question proposed.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, under Standing Order IV, 4 (1), I move that the consideration of clause 5 be adjourned to July session.

Sir, I have to perform the painful duty of moving this adjournment because we thought that the harmful portion was taken away and only the first part of the amendment to clause 5,—the amendment of the Honourable Minister,—was to remain before the House to-day. But, again, Government have brought the same thing in a new form by means of a legal quibble. Sir, this is a very important matter. The Honourable Minister referred to the fact that he had brought forward this amendment on the 13th of February. As soon as he had brought forward this amendment, the public of Bombay, especially the graduates of Bombay University had considered this matter and meetings are being held all over the presidency and the graduates of the whole presidency are resolving that the amended clause is also against the independence of the University, and, therefore, the amended clause is such as is not acceptable to them. At the same time, a requisition of many Fellows has been sent to the authorities of the University for the purpose of calling a special meeting of the Senate, and I hear a special meeting of the Senate is to assemble in a few days (An Honourable Member: On the 31st)—on the 31st—for the purpose of determining and pronouncing its opinion of this clause, and I think it would be very unwise on the part of this House to rush this legislation before the Senate—the most important body that is to be consulted in this matter—is allowed to have its say in this respect. And, therefore, in order to give time to the Senate and also to the other graduates of the presidency who are very much interested in this particular matter, I wish that the consideration of this clause should be adjourned to July session.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I oppose this motion and beg to say that the question has been discussed threadbare by the public by this time, and the substantial objection to sub-clause (2) of my amendment was that there were words "in his opinion" which would give a finality to the orders of the Chancellor. Now, those words have been dropped in the amendment to my amendment which has been moved by the honourable member the Remembrancer of Legal Affairs. This question has now to be discussed once for all and decided by the honourable House. It has been sufficiently considered and sufficient time has been wasted after this, and I submit there is no reason why we should not proceed with the clause at present.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not think the discussion need go on. The motion is that the consideration of this clause be postponed till the July session of the Council.

Question put. House divided. Ayes, 13; Noes, 47. Motion lost.

Mr. K. F. NARIMAN (Bombay City, South) : Sir, before the debate on this matter proceeds, I want to make our position absolutely clear in order to avoid any misunderstanding in the future. We do submit to the ruling which has been given to-day, but at the same time, Sir, we do think that we have a right, which is a constitutional right also, to have this ruling tested at another place. Therefore we want our position to be made absolutely clear. We do not want it to be suggested that we have acquiesced in these proceedings either by not participating in the debate or taking further part in the proceedings of this House. With these words, I beg leave to withdraw from the House.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : (Made some remark which was inaudible).

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, I accept the amendment moved by the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer, to my amended clause 5.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South) : Sir, I am opposed to this clause. I regret that my colleagues on the opposite benches have taken the course of walking out, which to my mind is absolutely imbecile and puerile. As for myself, I am going to do nothing of the kind, and with due deference to honourable members on this (official) side, I propose to place my views, for what they are worth, before them in support of my opposition to this clause. Not being in the secrets of the party leaders, not being in touch with the mysteries of party politics, also not being in the confidence of Government benches and not being in the "know" of the intricacies of official voting, I always have failed to understand the mentality of certain honourable members here, both on the official and on the non-official side in regard to clause 5 in this bill. Sir, to my great surprise at Poona, those gentlemen who had come to bless this bill, all of a sudden began to curse it! and vice-versa—those who were bitterly opposed to it at first started showering benedictions on it. I was one of those who maintained a systematic opposition to the controversial clauses which were first proposed to be introduced into it. I had some inkling of what had transpired in the select committee, I had some idea of what was going on behind closed doors and behind cloistered conferences of Cabinet Ministers and party-leaders. But certainly I was not prepared for the tremendous change of mentality in certain honourable members of the opposition who seem to always think that any stick is good enough to beat Government with. To my great surprise, Sir, the staunch opponents of Government had somehow banded together and had for certain reasons of their own decided to support this clause. I was very keen to know the reasons for their changed attitude and after very great effort and heart-searchings I was able to find out that there were three reasons advanced. One is that if you do not support this clause, Government will drop the bill. The second is that this is what is called half a loaf, and half a loaf is better than no loaf. The third is that this is an extremely harmless clause which absolutely means nothing and therefore it may be accepted. Now, Sir, it seems to me that Government, in short, wants to hold a pistol at our heads and wants to say "you shall accept our will or we reject the whole bill altogether." The fact is that a vague fear lurks in the mind of some members here, viz., this democratic body has come to such a pass that our present Minister or some other future Minister of Education may, if this bill is allowed to drop, bring in a worse bill and something terrible might happen in the matter of increased nominated seats and therefore even some staunch Hindu oppositionists think it is better to accept the bill in its present form, though it may be far from the ideal. Yet another reason advanced by the supporters of this clause is that any member, any man in the street, at a pinch, can resort to the High Court under clause 47 and therefore, it does not matter a bit if you put this clause in; because the Senate can always take the Chancellor's decision to the High Court for revision? All these arguments are ridiculously absurd. I put it to this honourable House, Sir,—is this clause, indeed, so very necessary or is it so very harmless? I want to ask the honourable members and in particular the Honourable the Minister of Education, why he really must persist in going against the wishes of the whole graduate community and of the Senate, and why he should thus insist upon brushing aside the very emphatic opinion expressed outside this House—both in the press and on the public platforms. Sir, the adroit manner in which the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer has twisted and reshaped the clause is surprising. I do admit that, in case of emergency, we can go to the High Court. Then the safeguard sought to be vested with the Chancellor is really not necessary, as any man can stop the

[Mr. P. J. Marzban]

Senate from acting ultra vires in a court of law. I ask, Sir, that if the annulling powers of the Chancellor are, indeed, admitted to be unnecessary, then why insist upon it? Why insist upon the Senate or the University to stand confessed of its own incompetency? No self-respecting body would ever accept such a provision, however well-meaning it may be.

Now, about the scare and bogey that some honourable members seem to be possessed of about the distribution of nominated seats in case this bill is dropped and a worse one is brought forward, I say in all earnestness, let Government dare to bring forward a worse bill. We will then oppose it. The Senate will oppose it, a large section of this House will oppose it; let the public give its verdict. There is no reason, therefore, for accepting the present proposal, at the sacrifice of our vital principles.

Now, as regards the substitution of the Chancellor in place of the Viceroy, I tell you, Sir, that this is a much worse thing that has happened. I certainly would prefer the Viceroy to be the king log rather than the Chancellor, i.e., the Governor who would be the king stork. The Viceroy is always at a great distance from us and comparatively he can do much less harm than the Chancellor, who is much too near us, too dangerously near us. A Governor has local prejudices. Surrounded by his Ministers and his Executive Councillors, he has I repeat local prejudices, and he can be influenced by the Education Department. I would much rather prefer his Majesty to be the Visitor. He would be still less harmful. I will give you only one instance. The honourable House is perhaps aware how autocratic and how dangerously independent was a former Governor of Bombay, Lord Sydenham. We all know, that in his regime, he actually issued whips at certain junctures in the University, and compelled nominated and official members to vote on the official side. Sir, this was a question taken up in the University and it was challenged. Sir Pherozeshah Mehta whipped out a letter from his pocket and showed it to the members, and it did transpire that Lord Sydenham under his own signature had compelled indirectly certain members to vote in the way that he liked. That is the sort of thing that is likely to happen again. It may not happen in the regime of the present Governor, who is an excellent gentleman; but it may happen hereafter.

An Honourable MEMBER: What about the elected majority?

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: Excuse me; in these days our bitter experience is that an elected majority sometimes acts in curious ways too. (Laughter). A Governor is after all a powerful agency, and it is very dangerous to give him this power.

I urge, Sir, that the plea of our security under clause 47—the supreme control of the High Court—is chimerical. As a practical man I put it to you, is it feasible or practicable that every time the Senate will think of going against its own Chancellor and of trying the experiment of testing his decision in a court of law, at immense cost and trouble? Is it possible? I say, considering everything from the point of view of practical politics, this is an absurd proposition that we should be placed in such a position as to be compelled to contest the decision of the Chancellor in the High Court, at every turn.

As regards the right of veto, at present the Governor exercises it in conjunction with the Government, i.e., in conjunction with his Councillors. But, to my regret, I must say that Government have exercised that power of veto much too often lately and it is possible that when you make the Chancellor the sole arbitrator of all these questions, it will be more frequent than certain honourable members here would like.

Now, I would refer the House to what the present Vice-Chancellor, Sir Chimanlal Setalvad has said on this question. He says in his letter to the "Times of India," dated 11th November 1927, that unless Rs. 3 lakhs a year are forthcoming, he would rather not have it. Then he said that the independence of the University was at stake. But I now find to my surprise that the Vice-Chancellor—and I know I am not wrong—has given his blessings to this clause. That passes my understanding, and I should have been grateful to the Honourable Minister or to the honourable member representing the University for some explanation about this volte face. Now, I come to my friend, the honourable representative of the University. Mr. Munshi is a very warm supporter of this clause! I think I am inclined to agree with the Honourable the General Member that he is a new member in this House. He perhaps has his own reasons, and I shall be very glad to hear them. But one thing I find about the honourable member for the University is that he is always against the Government in every matter except where the Minister for Education is concerned. Sir, if I may put it very bluntly with your permission, it is nothing else but a question of saving the skin of the Minister for Education. He thinks that there will be a tremendous uproar and something dreadful will happen to the venerable Honourable Minister for Education if he (Mr. Munshi) did not go into the Government lobby on this question—Government lobby, Sir, where he would otherwise never dream of going. Sir, I will only put this to the representative of the graduates. I challenge him to-day openly to resign; I challenge him to seek re-election. Then alone will he be able to fathom the anger which surges among the graduates against this clause.

Sir, I have always tried my best to calculate the intentions of the Government at their true value. I have never been led into sentiment or politics, but this time I do feel strongly, and I assure the Indian Minister of Education that his step at present in introducing such a high bureaucratic clause in a democratic measure has greatly disappointed Indians who are having very lofty ideals about Swaraj. Sir, if it had come from any other official, not an Indian Minister, I could have understood it. Coming as it does from an Indian Minister, I cannot understand it. I know the fate of this clause, and I know that after the walking out of Mr. Nariman and party my opposition is bound to end in smoke, but I will stick to my principles and stand by my guns.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, the honourable member Mr. Marzban while speaking on the original clause 5 at the last session supported that clause.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Will the honourable member quote from his speech ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: On page 202 of the report of the proceedings of 30th September 1927, the honourable member says :

"I understand that in the select committee it was distinctly understood that the consent of the Governor General to the bill was given on the understanding that this clause is inserted to the effect that the Viceroy shall have the power of bringing any defect to the notice of the Chancellor and that it ought to be rectified. Now, Sir, if that is true and if the clause were to be deleted, the bill will hang fire. May I ask honourable members....."

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: On a point of order. The Honourable Minister is evidently reading out my speech on the clause vesting visitorial powers in the Viceroy. How can that be applicable to my present opposition ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member sat down having given expression in the latter part of his speech to the sentiment that the Minister was wrong as an Indian in incorporating something which was bureaucratic and against the principle of the autonomy of an institution. Whether it is the visitorial powers of the Viceroy or of the Chancellor is a different matter entirely. Therefore the honourable member is perfectly right in quoting from the speech of the honourable member.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: He goes on to say :

"May I ask the honourable members to say whether they are prepared for this contingency ? The plea was brought forward that it is dangerous to invest this power on the Governor General because in future you may have a Viceroy who, for political reasons, might hamper the University. I think it is a far-fetched and remote contingency and only likely to occur in a blue moon."

This is how the honourable member ended. The provisions of the original clause 5 were rather of a drastic character. Now, the amendment before the House is very narrow and confers very restricted visitorial powers on the Chancellor of the University. My submission is that the Chancellor of the University is not an outsider. He is the head of it; and as such he would ordinarily consider the local feeling before taking any action. I may inform the honourable House that the Chancellor in every matter consults the Minister of Education, takes his advice, and I believe a responsible Minister would not advise him to take any action unless the matter has so far advanced that an emergency has arisen to use these emergency powers. Secondly, the words 'in his opinion' as it stood in the sub-clause have been taken out. As a result, the fear of the public and some honourable members of this House as to the arbitrary exercise of the powers of the chancellor has been altogether discounted. My further sub mission is that this clause would remain ordinarily dormant. It is only for emergency purposes. If the university acts intra vires, there will be no interference. Under the existing Act all actions and all decisions of the University come up before Government and they are subject to the veto of Government. Under the present bill only statutes are to go before Government, and ordinances passed by the syndicate and regulations passed by the academic council are not to come before Government. Under these circumstances when the University has been democratised it is absolutely necessary to provide for residuary powers if the machine goes wrong. I submit that the fears entertained by some of my honourable friends are not well-founded, as these residuary powers are to be exercised only on occasions of emergency, and particularly when the senate itself would be sharply divided on a particular question. Ordinarily, it would continue to be dormant as at present.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The amendment proposed by the Legal Remembrancer has been accepted by the Honourable Minister. I shall therefore put the amendment to the amendment to the House.

Amendment to the amendment put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The whole amendment will read thus:

"5. (1) The Chancellor shall have the right to make an inspection, or to cause an inspection to be made by such person or persons, as he may direct, of the University, of any institutions associated with the University and of any work conducted or done by the University, and to make an inquiry or to cause an enquiry to be made in like manner in respect of any matter connected with the University. The Chancellor shall in every case give notice to the Senate of his intention to make an inspection or enquiry or to cause an inspection or enquiry to be made, and the senate shall be entitled to be represented thereat.

Visitor.

(2) The Chancellor may, after such inspection or inquiry, by order in writing, cancel any decision of the University or any authority thereof in respect of any matter which is not in conformity with this Act and the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations;

Provided that, before making any such order, he shall call upon the Senate to show cause why such an order should not be made, and if any cause is shown within a reasonable time, he shall consider the same."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I suppose no honourable member wishes to speak on it.

Clause 5 (as amended) ordered to stand part of the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If the House remembers clause 7 was left over to be disposed of by the honourable House. The honourable member Dr. Ambedkar had proposed an amendment to that clause, which was to come before the House after the consideration of clause 25 was taken up. Clause 25 was passed, Dr. Ambedkar was absent and his amendment could not be moved. But about that time the postponement on account of clause 5 was given and the consideration of clause 7 was left over. I therefore put clause 7 to the House.

Clause 7 (Authorities of the University) ordered to stand part of the bill.

Clause 1 (Short title)

1. This Act may be called the Bombay University Act, 192 .

Mr. BALAK RAM: Sir, I move the usual formal amendment:

In clause 1, substitute '1928' for '192 .'

Question put and carried.

Clause 1 as amended ordered to stand part of the bill.

The Preamble.

WHEREAS by Act XXII of 1857 a University was established and incorporated at Bombay;

And whereas the law relating to the said university was amended by the Indian Universities Act, 1904;

And whereas it is necessary to reconstitute the said University to enable it to provide greater facilities for higher education and to conduct post-graduate teaching and research in all branches of learning, including technology, while continuing to exercise due control over the teaching given by colleges affiliated to it from time to time; And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 80A (3) of the Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I beg to move:

In the preamble for the words ' of the Government of India Act has ', the words ' and the previous sanction of the Governor required by section 80C of the Government of India Act have ' shall be substituted.

Question put and carried.

The preamble as amended ordered to stand part of the bill.

Third reading.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I move that Bill No. XXI of 1927 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the University of Bombay) be read a third time.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Ask permission.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Permission has to be asked only if objection is taken. However, I request you, Sir, to suspend the provision of Standing Order VIII, clause 11, (2) (a).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I move now that the bill be read a third time.

Bill read a third time.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is read a third time and passed into law.

PRIVATE BILLS

BILL No. XXIV OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT, 1923)

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Sir, I am not moving it this time.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Not moving?

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: Not in this session.

BILL No. XXXVII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT, 1923)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I shall move the first reading in the July session. I am not moving it now.

BILL No. XXXVIII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE ACT, 1902)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): I shall move it in the July session. I am not moving it now.

A BILL TO REGULATE THE EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN IN FACTORIES SOME TIME BEFORE AND SOME TIME AFTER CONFINEMENT AND TO MAKE PROVISION FOR THE PAYMENT OF MATERNITY BENEFIT

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): Sir, I beg leave to introduce my bill, a bill to regulate the employment of women in factories some time before and some time after confinement and to make provision for the payment of maternity benefit. I have already submitted copies to the honourable House, and the object of the bill has been described in the statement of objects and reasons. I do not therefore wish to take up much of the time of the House now, when I only ask for leave to introduce. I hope the House will allow me to introduce the bill.

Question put and leave granted.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: Sir, I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LAND REVENUE CODE, 1879

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Sir, I beg leave to introduce a bill to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879. In the existing Land Revenue Code, Government have provided that the Commissioner can issue a commission by which special powers are given to superior holders against the inferior holders. There is no reason why we should give special powers to superior holders against inferior holders. In the matter of the recovery of their dues, courts are established for the purpose of enabling them to recover the dues from the inferior holders. There is no reason why special powers should be conferred on the superior holders. Under section 88 of that Code, special powers can be given to the superior holders against inferior holders. Therefore I bring this amending bill for repealing section 88 of Land Revenue Code.

Question put and leave granted.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY HEREDITARY OFFICES ACTS, 1874, 1886 AND 1923

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, I beg leave to introduce a bill further to amend the Bombay Hereditary Offices Acts, 1874, 1886 and 1923.

Honourable members are aware that the Bombay Hereditary Offices Act, 1886, was amended by this House in 1923, by which a mother and a grand-mother were placed on the same footing as a widow. Now, Sir, there are amendments which are necessary and my object in introducing the bill is to make those consequential amendments in sections 33 and 34 of the Act.

There is one more point. A mother or a grand-mother, having been placed on the same footing as a widow, has been given a power of adoption, but it has been found in a case, which went up to the High Court and which has been reported in the Indian Law Reports, XXVI, Bombay, that an adoption made by a grand-mother is valid for some purposes, but invalid for the purposes of the Vatan. In order to remove this defect, I beg leave to introduce the bill.

Question put and leave granted.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is duly introduced.

A BILL TO RESTRICT THE UNLIMITED RIGHT OF ADOPTION OF HINDU WIDOWS IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BOMBAY

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Sir, I beg leave to introduce a bill to restrict the unlimited right of adoption of Hindu widows in the Presidency of Bombay.

Question put and leave granted.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

A BILL TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL ACT, 1888

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Mr. S. K. BOLE: Sir, I beg leave to introduce a bill to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888. The bill seeks to do away with the fees that are given to members of the Standing Committee of the Bombay Municipal Corporation.

Question put and leave granted.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE REGISTRATION OF MARRIAGES AMONG THE HINDUS

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Sir, I beg leave to introduce a bill to provide for the registration of marriages among the Hindus.

Question put and leave granted.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: Sir, I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY HEREDITARY OFFICES ACT, 1874

(Motion for leave to introduce)

Dr. B. R. AMBEDKAR: Sir, I beg leave to introduce the bill further to amend the Bombay Hereditary Offices Act, 1874.

Question put and leave granted.

Dr. B. R. AMBEDKAR: Sir, I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

MOTIONS TO AMEND STANDING ORDERS

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The two honourable members, Rao Saheb D. R. Patil and Sardar G. N. Mujumdar, have been informed that their time has been extended. Now, there are certain motions to amend Standing Orders received from the honourable member, Mr. Bole. One runs thus:—

"Under Standing Order IX (1) of the Standing Orders of the Bombay Legislative Council, notice of the following amendment has been received from Mr. S. K. Bole, M.L.C.

"In Standing Order VI (1), after the word 'given' add the words 'before the day appointed for the session of the Council'.

(2) In Standing Order X (1) (a) between the words 'notice' and 'and' insert the words 'before the date appointed for the session of the Council' and delete sub-clause (d)."

Has the honourable member leave of the House to amend the Standing Order as proposed in the motion? I will put one by one. The first is:

"In Standing Order VI (1); after the word 'given' add the words 'before the day appointed for the session of the Council'."

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): I am taking objection, Sir. Just now we have got the right of sending questions even whilst the Council is pending. That is, we have to give only 10 days notice, while the amendment that is sought to be brought by the honourable member Mr. Bole restricts our right. Under it, we have to put a question only 10 days before the commencement of the session. Therefore, as the amendment seeks to restrict the powers of the honourable members of the House, I want to object to it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The procedure is, if there is an objection taken, I have to test the wish of the House by asking honourable members in support of the motion to stand in their places. Those who are for supporting the motion will stand in their places. (None stood up). Leave is not granted.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am sorry, Sir. But what is it exactly that you put before the House ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I shall read the procedure again. When an amendment of Standing Orders is before the House, the procedure laid down in Standing Order IX is this :

" When the motion is reached, the President shall ask whether the Member has the leave of the Council. If objection is taken, the President shall request those members who support the motion to rise in their places, and if more than 30 members rise accordingly, the President shall intimate that the Member has the leave of the Council."

No one stood up. Therefore, he has not the leave of the Council.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : But, Sir, some honourable members may not have understood the exact position.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : The procedure has been gone through and the decision has been given.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I suppose the honourable member has understood the procedure rightly. There is a motion which I read out for the amendment of Standing Order VI (1) by the honourable member. There was an objection taken by the honourable member from Ahmedabad, and, therefore, according to the procedure laid down I had to ask the House, if there are any honourable members to support the motion made by the honourable member, to stand up, and if 30 members stand up, I have to inform the honourable member that he has the leave of the Council. None stood up, not even the honourable member (the mover) himself !

Mr. S. K. BOLE : My impression was, Sir, that you were telling the House about the procedure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Very well ; if that is so, I will give him another chance. Those honourable members who wish to support the motion of the honourable member should stand in their places. (Some few, not 30, rose in their places.) So, the honourable member has not the leave of the House. The point of order would have been all right ; but the honourable member seemed to have been under a wrong impression.

There is another motion by the same honourable member, to this effect :

" In Standing Order X (1) (a) between the words ' notice ' and ' and ' insert the words ' before the date appointed for the session of the Council ' and delete sub-clause (d)."

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : I object to this amendment also, because it also restricts the right of the honourable members on this side for sending resolutions to 15 days before the commencement of the session only. Just now resolutions can be sent at any time. They may be placed in supplementary agenda. In the last case the restriction was sought to be placed on the sending of questions. In this case similar restriction is sought to be placed on the resolution. So I object to the amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Those honourable members who support the motion will stand in their places (A few honourable members stood up.) Leave is not granted.

MOTION TO PRESENT AN ADDRESS TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, the motion that stands in my name runs thus :

" That the following humble address be presented to His Excellency under Standing Order XII, 6 :

May it please Your Excellency,

We, the members of the Bombay Legislative Council, respectfully pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to so exercise the right vested in Your Excellency under Rule 6 of the Bombay Legislative Council Rules of allotting different days for the disposal of different classes of business as to enable the non-official business to be taken up between days assigned to Government business and not to allot all the days for non-official business after the completion of Government business. "

Sir, what has been done in this Council is this that some days are given, two or three or more, for non-official business and those days are given at the fag end of the Council, with the result that many members get tired and they leave the Council. So, the attendance is very poor but from the non-official point of view, the non-official business is very important and the attendance of more members is very essential. Therefore, instead of allotting a few days for non-official business at the end of the Council, I think it would be better if the days for non-official business are given in between official days.

Question proposed.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Sir, I rise to support my honourable friend Mr. Bole's motion. The present arrangement is very defective because by the time the days for non-official business are reached, many of the honourable members leave for their places and thus they do not get a chance of moving resolutions or bills or any other kind of non-official business. So, it is but fair to accept the suggestion made by my honourable friend Mr. Bole.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I also rise to support the address that has been moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole for the same reasons which have been quoted by him and also by the previous speaker. Our non-official business is always taken last when most of the non-official members generally leave for their own towns after getting tired of sitting in the Council for 25 to 26 days at a stretch. It is therefore proper that this House should accept the motion placed before it by my honourable friend Mr. Bole, in order to allow non-official business to be done properly and efficiently.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I can quite see the difficulty which the honourable members sometimes labour under in connection with the practice which we have followed ever since the Reforms of allotting days for private business at the end of the sessions. I think that there is a good deal to be said in favour of that practice. This Standing Order was considered very carefuly, I believe, by the committee of official and non-official members which deals with Standing Orders, and they came to the conclusion that the interests of the House as a whole and not merely of Government or of the non-official members, would be best served by the provision that exists in the Standing Orders now and which, I venture to think, has worked well for the last seven or eight years. It must be remembered that certain Government business has got to be done by a certain time. Let us take the case of the budget sessions of the Council. There, supplementary demands and finance bills and demands for grants have got to be gone through by a certain date so that we may be able to apprise the Government of India of our requirements. Now, if the days were allotted by His Excellency so that the private business could be taken up in the middle of Government business, very awkward situations can arise. In fact the honourable members will see that an awkward situation arose in this very sessions and it would be very difficult for us to alter any allotments of dates that may have been made by His Excellency the Governor. The point of the matter is that His Excellency the Governor, not only under the Standing Orders but under the Rules (which rules cannot be changed by this Council), has the power to allot so many days as may in his opinion be compatible with the public interests for the business of non-official members. I claim that His Excellency has allotted days compatible with the public interest and has always been careful to see that private business is given a fair chance. It will be remembered that it was by the agreement of the members of this House that the amount of private business and indeed of Government business in the budget sessions was to be limited to extremely urgent matters. We have followed that practice very closely and if this motion were to be accepted, after all it is a recommendation to His Excellency, then during the budget sessions dates may have been allotted which would prevent Government business being done within the time in which it must be done. I think it would be a very awkward procedure, and I think the House will realise that we have tried, as far as lay in our power, to meet the wishes of the House with regard to private business. I do not think the House can have forgotten that on several occasions where the matter was of very great urgency we have allowed it to be taken in hand. That was by agreement between the various sections of the House. That procedure has worked very smoothly so far and I do not think that this motion should be pursued as otherwise it may fetter the hands of His Excellency the Governor. I think no case really has been made out to show that private business has not received the attention from Government and from the non-official members that it deserves.

The practice of the Assembly was quoted, but the House will remember that the Assembly has two sessions usually and those two sessions are of very long duration and business has been so arranged that if any honourable members desire to leave the seat of the meeting of the Assembly, they can do so because the sessions are very long. With us, the practice is quite different. Except the budget sessions, the other sessions are not very long, and we have made it clear before that at least in one sessions (and probably in two) in Poona we should try and give as many days for non-official business as may be possible. I do not wish to stress the point that Government business is really very important, that bills and supplementary demands put forward by Government are of a nature which I should say, with due respect, is a little more important than resolutions which are mostly the business that non-official members bring forward. We shall be very pleased indeed to give due consideration to any request that may be made for the interspersing of private business when occasion arises, but I do not remember a single case where it was urgently required and where Government refused to accede to the convenience of the honourable members. We have worked throughout by consulting each other's convenience, and I do not think we should adopt the very unusual course that is suggested, namely, the presentation of an address to His Excellency the Governor. I personally believe that an address to His Excellency should be a rare occurrence and on really very important matters. In this case, I feel certain that amicable arrangements can be made and I do not really think that we should resort to the unusual procedure of moving an address to His Excellency. Sir, had the honourable member made out, firstly that private business does suffer very much, and secondly that Government had in the past shown an attitude of uncompromising opposition to any request that honourable members may have made for the consideration of particular private business, I could have understood the force of his contention. He has not done so, and all I can therefore infer is that the honourable member has really no specific or strong cases which he can put forward before the House in that connection. There is one other difficulty with regard to interspersing of private business. I do not know whether the honourable member desires that the whole of the private business should be taken in the middle of the agenda. I do not know whether he wishes that, for the first two days for instance, Government business may be taken, the next two days may be left for private business, and then Government business should continue for two more days, and so on. It is extremely vague, and it would be extremely difficult to work in practice. I recollect at the moment one case where it was proposed at one of the budget sessions, in order to fulfil the condition of the 7 days intervening between the presentation of the budget and the demand for grants, that private business should be taken up, but the non-official members themselves objected to that course. It is not clear as to whether the private business is to be taken in a block at any particular stage of the agenda, or whether alternate days for Government and private business are to be given. If either of these courses is accepted then it must happen that private business will have to be broken up. That is to say, a resolution or a private bill may be before the House and be considered on one of the days that are set apart for private business. Supposing it remains unfinished, then it is taken on to some other day; then again Government business may remain unfinished, and so on. It may cause a great deal of confusion, and will certainly cause a considerable amount of inconvenience. Honourable members must be more aware than myself of the effect of their speeches on the Government benches, and I feel certain that if the force of those speeches were to be broken up, during the interval of Government business, they may not probably carry the same effect as they do now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am sure the Honourable the Leader of the House is not ironical.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: No. On the contrary I am very serious—I think that that is a very strong argument, and if I were on the other side of the House, I should certainly like to have the decision of the House immediately after the speeches are finished, while they are within the memory of those whom I wish to impress. Surely, I could not do that if about 5 or 6 or 10 days were to elapse and the effect of all that anybody said had been lost. I think that is a point which ought to be considered by the honourable members.

In any case, my final contention is that, unless it can be shown, and shown conclusively that private business has suffered in the past owing to the arrangement, which I again say, we have made by harmonious agreement, I think there is no case for having such an unusual procedure as a motion for an address to His Excellency to exercise his discretion in any particular manner. I think His Excellency should be left free to exercise his discretion in any way he likes, and I repeat again, we should, as in the past, be glad indeed to meet the wishes of the House whenever it is possible. But I do not think we can have a hard and fast rule or a procedure laid down by His Excellency under that rule.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, while appreciating all that the Honourable the Leader of the House has said, I must say that non-official business has suffered, as we have seen, from time to time, owing to its being relegated towards the close of the session. Now, the official business is uncertain, and as an illustration of that we have the example of the present session. The days at the disposal of Government for Government business are unlimited. If Government business is prolonged, the time allotted for official business is automatically prolonged, but with regard to non-official business the number of days is fixed, say, 2 or 3 or 4, or whatever it is; it is certain. For instance, in this session two days have been allotted for non-official business immediately after the budget, and it will be over in two days. The difficulty pointed out by the Honourable the Leader of the House that in these two days the business may not be finished exists whether the business is taken in the middle of the session or whether it is relegated to the end.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: There may be 8 or 10 days allowed for private business.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Never.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I am not in a position to say whether private business is ever extended for so many days, but even if it were to extend for, say, eight days, we need not have the eight days consecutively. If the number of days for private business is increased, then we can so adjust the business that it may come in in two compartments.

Sir, the one point that strikes me is that when the non-official business is reached, most of the honourable members are tired, and they leave for one reason or another. If that be taken into account.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Then important Government business would go.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Government business is important, we admit. The importance of Government business is there, and if the measure is contested, non-official members will make it a point to stick on, even though the business comes at the end. If they really are serious in opposing as they are supposed to a contentious measure, Government will perhaps be not at a disadvantage. My point is, all the same Government members have to sit throughout the session, so that it is the look-out of the non-official members, if they are serious in opposing any contentious business, to stick on; such of them at least as care to watch the whole of the Government business will stick on. In my opinion, owing to the uncertainty that attaches to Government business, the days for non-official business are shunted on and on from day to day. As a matter of fact, last Thursday and Friday were expected to be non-official days; but they have been shunted on, and now we are on the eve of Tuesday, and I know how many honourable members are left here for non-official business.

In this connection, one thing that strikes me is that in the Legislative Assembly and also in other councils.....

An Honourable MEMBER: Madras.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Yes, and in the Central Provinces also the non-official business is taken up towards the beginning of the official business. The argument that was used about the Legislative Assembly having two sessions only hardly applies. It may be two sessions or three sessions. The reasoning is the same, that some members may like to be present for non-official business, and they may go and come back.

So, the argument advanced on the basis of the Assembly and the other provincial councils must certainly prevail with this Council also. The rule under which His Excellency allots days is rule 6, passed under section 72D of the Government of India Act. From the asterisk to that rule I find that it was passed on the 13th of August 1925. As we are in the dark as to what existed before, I should like to be enlightened on that point. Anyhow the only way by which the Council can communicate its wishes to His Excellency is by way of a motion like this. It may not be a very important matter, I agree, but there is no other alternative. This is not a question of standing order but it is a question of rules. The discretion of the Governor is there already.

Then a fear was expressed that official or non-official members may like this or may not like this. It all depends upon the circumstances of the session. After all, the Governor may be left to use his discretion. But now we simply want to communicate the wish of the House and for this purpose this motion will be very important.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I have always held the Honourable the Leader of the House to be a logical, clear and conscientious speaker. But his last speech is a serious deduction from that high estimate. You yourself were pleased to interject a remark that the Leader of the House was ironical. (The Honourable Sir Chunilal Mehta indicated dissent). The Leader of the House shakes his head. What is it that he objects to in this motion? It is only a recommendation to His Excellency. Why should he object to a recommendation to His Excellency? After all, His Excellency will consult his Cabinet before finally deciding this matter. The step that the honourable member has taken will prevent us from approaching the threshold of His Excellency. This is rather a very novel and not at all a sympathetic attitude; whether one moves a resolution or an address does not matter. All these are weapons at our disposal: whether we should make it an address or a motion depends upon the individual and the discretion, the wisdom and experience of the honourable member. Therefore I do not think that it is right for the Honourable the Leader of the House to suggest that we should not have recourse to addresses. I do agree with him that these should not be too frequent. When there is no chance of resolutions being reached, this is the only method by which we can make our recommendation. This is why the honourable member Mr. Bole has adopted this step. The Honourable the Leader of the House himself would have adopted the same steps had he been on this side of the House. In the House of Commons every Wednesday is allotted for private business; in the Assembly it is interspersed with official business; and the example of Madras is the same. I do not know why Bombay should stick to the present practice, which is exceedingly inconvenient to the honourable members on this side of the House. Take the present session. Half of the honourable members have left, and we have been deprived of the benefit of their experience and wisdom in the discussion of matters of great importance. I can understand that some inconvenience to Government would be caused at budget session, but I do not think that there would be any inconvenience in the other sessions at all. Even in the budget session if two days are allotted in the middle of the session I do not think Government would lose much; on the contrary we will gain a good deal. After all there can be no objection to such a course. I hope the Honourable the Leader of the House on a second consideration will be converted to our view. If he does not, I hope the House will pass this motion.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District): I do not understand, Sir, why the Honourable the Leader of the House is so very uneasy over this matter. Does he think that the Cabinet alone can approach His Excellency and not this House? On a former occasion on the representation of the official members of this House, private business was interspersed with Government business. But Government found out that it was to their disadvantage, and advised His Excellency to allot days for private business towards the end of the session. What I understand from the working of the Cabinet is that His Excellency is guided in such matters by the advice of the Government benches. So far as His Excellency is concerned, this Council and the Cabinet stand on the same footing. So, I think that if we send this recommendation to His Excellency, he will be pleased to grant days for non-official business interspersed with Government business.

[Rao Saheb D. P. Desai]

Sir, the Honourable the Leader of the House asked: Is this compatible with public interest? Does he believe that the plea of compatibility with public interests can only be advanced from Government benches and not from the non-official benches? We also believe that whatever the non-official benches bring before the House is always compatible with public interest. Not only that, but sometimes we actually find from experience that it is the Government benches who create trouble by bringing matters which are not compatible with public interest. For this reason, His Excellency the Governor should be approached with a request that as Government have had their innings, the non-official benches should be given some advantage. In this House the official benches are very favourably placed. In the first place they can shift their business, they can drop their business at any time and they can increase the number of days they require. The non-official benches are given a specified number of days and at the same time, those days are being allotted at the end of the session, when many of the members are absent. I think therefore that the honourable member Mr. Bole has done well in bringing this motion before the House. With these words I support the motion.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): Sir, I support the motion. I thought the Honourable the Leader of the House knew too well the difficulties of the non-official members to advance any arguments against this motion. But I am very sorry to see that he does not attach much importance to the difficulties that the non-official members perpetually feel in bringing forward motions, resolutions, or bills. His argument was that Government had done nothing in the past to justify the passing of such a motion. My reply to that is this. We have always found that Government had their days fixed in advance and if non-official members had wanted any of the Government days for non-official business, I am sure the Honourable the Leader of the House would have been the first to oppose. If Sind members had made a request for a day during Government business, I am sure the non-Brahmin members would have opposed stating that too much importance was being attached to Sind members; if the non-Brahmin members had asked a day for their business, the Coalition party would have objected; and if the Coalition party had asked for a day the non-Brahmin party would have objected. Therefore, such an arrangement could not have been made. Sir, the present rule 6 of the Bombay Legislative Council Rules was made in 1925, because experience showed that it was necessary to entrust the Governor with powers to allot days for different business. This rule was inserted in 1925 after the Reforms came into operation, because they knew.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is the authority of the honourable member for that statement?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: It is stated in the footnote that it was introduced in 1925.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: May I ask whether the honourable member contends that before 1925 there was no such rule and the Governor had no power?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member stated that it did not exist.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I want to know whether the honourable member contends that a similar rule did not exist before 1925.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: I certainly contend that any rule that existed before did not give His Excellency so much scope for deciding the procedure of business as this rule gives. The Honourable the Leader of the House contended that this motion is intended to restrict the power of His Excellency the Governor. This motion does not restrict the power of the Governor; it is only a recommendation. Therefore, that argument has not much weight.

I have always contended that this presidency is so situated that members from different parts of the presidency find it difficult to go to their headquarters during the pendency of the Council. It is difficult for them to remain here for a full month until the two days allotted for private business are reached. Therefore, I contend that the prayer contained in this motion should be conceded, as it will be advantageous to all members, whether they come from Sind or from other parts of the presidency; and the present arrangement of having non-official business at the end of a session should be done away with and non-official days should be interspersed with Government days. As it is, no private business is being done. I think the request is reasonable; and in making it we are not fettering the discretion of His Excellency the Governor in any manner; but are only pointing out the difficulties of the non-official members.

The other day when I made some remarks in connection with the University Bill being taken up at the end of the sessions, they were misunderstood, and the honourable members on the opposite side saw something bad in them. After all, we are here to protect our interests, to help our constituencies. An important bill like the University Bill was taken up when practically all the members from Sind were away. These are difficulties which we always experience in every session.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Was the University Bill a Government measure?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: The University Bill was a Government measure. It was not certainly a popular measure. I do say the University Bill was not a popular measure; it was a Government measure; and it was not in the interests of the presidency.

I therefore request the Honourable the Leader of the House to consider the difficulties of the non-officials. After all, he himself has been a non-official member and he has experienced the same difficulties as we experience to-day.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: More difficulties.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South): Sir, the Honourable the Leader of the House himself does admit that the number of days allotted for non-official business is certainly smaller than the number of days allotted for Government business. A suggestion has been thrown out, and I bring it to the notice of the Honourable the Leader of the House, that the budget session might be divided into two sessions. Instead of having one session for one month at a stretch, it could profitably be divided into one session of fifteen days in January for all Government business and one session of fifteen days in March for private business. That would be very suitable to members from Bombay and even for mofussil members. I see that a similar procedure obtains in other provinces. There we have a budget session purely for budget work, and the rest is taken up mostly by private business. This address is a very reasonable one, and I do not see how we can object to it.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, this is a matter in which, I hope, the Honourable the Leader of the House would not seek to win by the help of the official bloc against the non-official members. It is not fair for him to use that power of majority. This is a matter in which it is for the Government to concede to us and not for us to concede to Government. Government is stationary in one place, but the non-official members are in different places. We know that the non-official resolutions are taken at the end of the session and some of the honourable members are not able to move their resolutions. After attending the session for such a long time, some of the honourable members go to their different places and thus they do not move their resolution. In this way the object of the Government is achieved. We expect mutual accommodation in this matter. As it is, Government are treating the non-official business with contempt and it is, therefore, necessary that some mutual arrangement should be made.

(After recess)

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Sir, I would like rather to speak on the merits of this question. It is not a question of the convenience of the official benches or non-official benches.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Are not Government anxious to have their own way?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: I am putting the merits of the question before the House. Really, the essence of the question is: What do the non-official members consider is the most important business?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: May I interrupt the Honourable the General Member and tell the House—if the honourable member from Sukkur would follow me—that there was a suggestion thrown out by the Honourable the Leader of the House in his speech that he would be amenable to a sort of compromise or arrangement every session for the arrangement of private business and Government business, and that the address need not be pushed through? If that arrangement is acceptable to the House, the Honourable the Leader of the House may be asked to make a more definite statement in that respect and the whole discussion might end, and probably the honourable mover may feel inclined to withdraw his motion. I do not know what the wishes of the House are. But, if that is not so, the Honourable the General Member may address the House.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: If His Excellency has been asked to decide this matter, then he may decide it through the Honourable the Leader of the House.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Mr. President, I am only placing the facts before the House as they strike me, and I am trying to take the non-official point of view. The point is: Which is the more important business in the opinion of the non-official members? And that is to be seen from the attendance of the House. The argument is that because private business comes at the end of the sessions there are very few members on the non-official benches to support those who move resolutions, or, it may be, to oppose them. But, Sir, may I point out that if the order was reversed and non-official business came first and official business came afterwards, it is quite possible that we may start with an empty House? It may be that non-officials would not turn up at the beginning and would come later on in the sessions. Our experience now is that very often non-official members, who cannot spare the time—and let us fairly admit that they are busy men and have to look after their own affairs, and it is a great call upon their time to have to spend a month and a half in Bombay, and, therefore, because they happen to be absent, I do not think they should be unnecessarily attacked—try to suit their own convenience. It is not possible to suit the convenience of every non-official member. Some members may have got business at the end of the sessions in their own constituency or at their own homes. Some members may have business at the beginning of the sessions, and they may find it more convenient to come later during the sessions than at the beginning of the session. Therefore, I do not think it is quite a logical argument to say that because non-official members absent themselves at the end of the sessions, therefore, we should alter the procedure. As I just pointed out, it is quite possible that we may begin with an empty House, and non-official members who are interested in any resolutions may find the House empty when the non-official business is going on. Therefore, the suggestion is to put the non-official business between the two in order to compel the presence of non-official members when non-official business is being transacted. Now, I put it to honourable members on the other side whether they desire to compulsorily have non-official members on the opposite benches when private business is being transacted? That is what the argument comes to, that because some non-official members either at the beginning of the session or at the end of the session do not choose to be present, they should be compelled to be present for non-official business, and non-official business should be put in the middle of the agenda. Now, allow me to say, Sir, that non-official members will find a way out of it anyhow, and if they find that their presence is required at home for a certain number of days, they may make enquiries and find out which are the most interesting days in this honourable House when their presence is really necessary, and they will see that they are present here on those days. The only trouble is with honourable members who live at a great distance from either Poona or Bombay,—and I may specially mention the Sind members; they will be put to a considerable amount of inconvenience. We shall be compelling them to be present when non-official business is being transacted and perhaps we shall be having more of the instances quoted by my honourable friend Mr. Noor Mahomed, when an important Government measure was moved with empty non-official benches. Now, I ask honourable members: which is more important, a measure like the University Bill or a non-official resolution, the most important resolution, that any honourable member can move from the other side? The very instance given by my honourable friend Mr. Noor Mahomed is an exceptionally good example of what will happen very often if important official business is taken right at the end of the session. It may be that you may be giving Government considerable facilities. I only put that aspect of the case before non-official members. Important Government bills may happen to come at the end of the session and non-official whips may find that it is all they can do to bring even a few non-official members into the House. Is it not much more to the benefit of those benches and opposite benches that important Government business should be transacted when a large majority of non-official members are present and can be present in this honourable House? And, therefore, I contend that to express a definite opinion that all non-official business should, at every session, be given precedence over Government business is not a wise policy to adopt. The debate in itself will have some effect. It will all be printed; it will all be read. The opinion of honourable members will be considered and therefore I cannot see any useful purpose in non-official members committing themselves to the definite principle that the non-official business should always come in the middle of the agenda. I point out to non-official members that occasions may arise when they may have to regret this definite expression of opinion; and therefore, I would advise them not to commit themselves to such a policy, because it cuts both ways.....

An Honourable MEMBER: You can reconsider it then.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: It may be too late to reconsider. I point out to non-official members that they may very soon come forward to blame Government for having brought forward important Government measures at a time when Government and the non-official members know that the non-official benches will be empty, and it will not be then open to any honourable member on the opposite side to blame Government for doing so, and therefore when my honourable friends have spoken on this question with no uncertain voice, I would only ask them to reconsider their opinion and let them imagine occasions when they would like to see opposite benches full but find them empty due to the allocation of work as suggested to-day. They will have to remember the words they have spoken to-day—words that they will not be able to retract. It will be difficult then and remember that these debates are printed and can always be produced and then non-official members will not be able to turn round and tell these benches that Government deliberately brought forward an important measure with empty benches which required the close attention of non-official members. I can only say that the debate that has taken place will, I am sure, carry great weight not only with the head of the administration but also with honourable members on the front bench, and if an occasion arises in future when any important non-official business is tabled, and it is found that that non-official business should be given precedence, I see no reason why Government should not put in one or two days of non-official business in order to enable non-official members to discuss such business.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI: Has it been done in the past?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR: Has there been an occasion, I ask? My honourable friend from Ahmedabad asks "Has it been done in the past?" May I point out the difficulties? Sometimes a very important resolution may be tabled but in the ballot it may draw an unfortunate position,—low down: then, if Government do give one or two days in the middle of a session, it will not be possible for that resolution to be moved unless priority is granted and we have already experienced the difficulties honourable members have in being able to get priority for their resolutions, because there is bound to be a difference of opinion on the opposite benches as to the importance of that resolution. Each member will consider his own resolution the most important, naturally, and he will be reluctant to give way and not to claim the advantage that the ballot has given him. Therefore if one or two important resolutions are tabled, it may not be possible to discuss them, even if it is definitely decided that two days or three days should be allotted for non-official business in the middle of the agenda. I hope I have pointed out some difficulties honourable members will find in committing themselves to a policy which is not to their advantage.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District): Sir, I rise to support the motion moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. I am rather surprised to see Government Members showing so much solicitude for the convenience of the non-official side of the House. Such being the case, why should they not accept the motion which we consider to be more convenient than the arrangement they are proposing? Just now the Honourable the General Member told us that if this motion is passed, then it would be very difficult to retract. I cannot understand how such a statement can be made by him. Till now, during the last seven years we have tried one experiment. We have found that experiment to be most inconvenient and member after member from every section of the non-official side has told the House that the present way of allotting non-official days is inconvenient. We have tried one experiment and let us now try another. Why should not Government yield and why should they put up so many obstacles and opposition ? If it is inconvenient to have non-official days interspersed between Government days, then let us begin from the commencement of the session with non-official business and if we have to address empty benches, of course we can then modify our view and take suitable measures to see that that arrangement is changed, but is it not open to us to reconsider the matter and reopen it ? Why is it too late, as the Honourable the General Member says, to reconsider ? We have been experimenting all these years with one system. We know that the old rule No. 6 was changed after five years, that is to say, it was changed in 1925, and similarly, we can effect a change again if there be need for one. It is hardly fair to put forward such arguments and to oppose the motion that is unanimously demanded by the non-official side. Government show that they are very solicitous about the convenience of non-official members and profess that they are ready to adjust their own programme to the convenience of non-officials, but at the same time Government put forward all possible opposition. The Honourable the Leader of the House, although he spoke for half an hour and although I carefully and attentively listened to his speech, was unable to convince not only me but all other members on the non-official side. If Government are really very serious and anxious to meet the desire of the House in this matter of arranging business so as to suit the convenience of the non-official members, then they should accept the motion put forward by the honourable member Mr. Bole.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District) : Sir, I rise to support the motion brought forward by the honourable member Mr. Bole. I am surprised, Sir, at the opposition of the Honourable the Leader of the House and also of the Honourable the General Member. The point brought forward by the Honourable the General Member is that the present arrangement is a very good one and that if the private business is allowed to be opened at the beginning of a session, then it will have to be opened before empty benches. But, Sir, if we refer to the motion, it will be found that the prayer to His Excellency the Governor is that he may be pleased to so exercise the right vested in His Excellency under Rule 6 of the Bombay Legislative Council Rules of allotting different days for the disposal of different classes of business as to enable the non-official business to be taken up between days assigned to Government business and not to allot all the days for non-official business after the completion of Government business. The prayer is that some days in the middle of the session should be allotted, and not the days at the fag end of the session. What is the condition this time ? According to the original programme, the days allotted by Government for private business were the 16th and 17th of this month. But Government business could not be finished on the 15th, or the 16th, or even the 17th, with the result that private business has been shoved on and on, day after day, to the last day. This is the reason why the benches are so very thin. We have been sitting for more than a month, and it is but natural that all the honourable members will not be in a position to spare the time to enable them to remain in Bombay and neglect their business. So, it is very natural to find that, at the fag end of the session, the benches on this side are thinner and thinner. Therefore, it is but proper that some more convenient days should be allotted for private business. The Honourable the General Member has asked a question as to which is the more important business. I do admit that Government business is more important, but that does not mean to say that private business should be neglected altogether. Under the present arrangement, private business is wholly neglected, and therefore it is necessary that due consideration should be paid to it. In this long session, there are only two days allotted for private business. It would have been very convenient if the original arrangement of the 15th and 16th for non-official business had been adhered to, and Government business had been taken after the 16th. But private business is treated like the untouchables, who are not taken in a line with the higher communities, but are shoved.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Higher and higher.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Lower and lower. That is the treatment they are given, and that is what they protest against. I think the motion of my honourable friend Mr. Bole is reasonable. Private business should be allotted days in the middle of the session, where Government may find it convenient. I do not mean to say that any particular days at the beginning or at the end should be allotted, but some room must be made for it somewhere between Government business. It is not necessary that all Government business should be taken together. As a matter of fact, Government also cannot in this session finish legislation and had to go to the discussion of the demands. They took legislation first, then there was the discussion on grants, and then legislation that had been left over was taken up later on. In the same way, if private business is allotted a day or two in the middle of the session, I do not think Government business will be handicapped or greatly inconvenienced. The arrangement will be of great convenience to private business, and I think this motion should be adopted by the House.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association) : Sir, I am afraid the proposal is not likely to be very beneficial either to this House or to the individual members thereof. The present system, so far as I can see, is very elastic, and has proved satisfactory. Under the existing arrangement, members who may not be interested in private business, can easily, and do as a matter of fact, stay away. If Government business is intermingled with private business, you will practically compel people to listen to debates on subjects in which they may not be interested. On the other hand, such subjects may be discussed by the House as may have the effect of excluding important public work from the discussion and examination they may need. Again, suppose private business had been intermingled with Government business, say, during the current session, we could not possibly have avoided the resolution, which stands in the name of over a couple of dozen members, on ghee, and we would have had to listen to a lengthy debate on the resolution perhaps for days, to the detriment of other public work of a more important and pressing character. On the whole, I think that the present rule has worked very well and ought to be allowed to continue. It is elastic enough to enable Government whenever required to give precedence to any important and urgent private business, on which an early decision may appear to be necessary. It is not impossible to do that under the present arrangement; and I have no doubt in my mind that whenever a wish in that direction is expressed by the House, the Government would be prepared to accede to it. On the other hand, if you lay down a hard and fast rule, such as is proposed by the resolution before us, we would be irrecoverably tied down to it; and such a course would be impossible. Under these circumstances I think the present rule is very good and satisfactory and ought to be allowed to continue.

The THAKOR of KERWADA (Northern Division): Sir, I support the motion. Our experience of the past few years is that private business is always taken up at the fag end of the session, when the benches are empty. I quite agree with the Honourable the Leader of the House that Government business is of great importance, but, at the same time, the business of which the non-official members have given notice is also important. After all, they are the representatives of the people, and whatever motions they bring forward is in accordance with the wishes of the public. Therefore, their business should not be set aside to the last days of a session. That arrangement causes great inconvenience to the non-official members, and therefore I support the motion.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Sir, I rise to support the motion brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. Our experience of the last four sessions of the Council has proved that, as non-official business is taken at the very last, most of our resolutions which are of a very important nature, are not reached. Besides that, other provincial legislatures, such as Madras, the United Provinces and Bengal have their official and non-official business interspersed with each other, and they have not experienced any such inconvenience. I do not understand why the Honourable the Leader of the House and the Honourable the General Member entertain such apprehensions that Government business will suffer at the cost of non-official business. Sir, I think there is every justification for non-official members to claim that their business is as important as Government business and that non-official business should be taken first. If Government thinks that the allotment of time for non-official business in the middle of a session is likely to cause inconvenience, then precedence may be given to non-official business. The first two or three days of a session may be allotted for non-official business. With these few words I support the motion.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I support the motion. This question has been discussed in all its aspects, and I think this motion should be supported, simply because there are no points for Government to press the non-official members to stick to the old practice. If I correctly heard the Honourable the Leader of the House, he wanted to induce us to stick to the old rule simply because he said it is not a good thing to do away with the discretion of His Excellency. The discretion will be there in any case. According to the old rule also His Excellency is authorised to allot the days as he wishes. According to Standing Order XII, 6, this motion if carried by the House will be placed before His Excellency through the Leader of the House, and it will be carefully considered. I think the discretion is always with His Excellency. The Honourable the Leader of the House surely did not convince the House that we would be doing away with the discretion of His Excellency.

As regards the other points, the Honourable the Leader of the House said that if the non-official business is not finished on the day allotted for it, and it has to be postponed, the effect of the speeches will not remain, and honourable members will not be able to convince the House because the effect will have worn away ; that was his argument. But that, I think, is a fallacious argument because it applies to Government as well as to non-official business.

Sir, the motion is a very modest one, because the honourable mover does not wish that non-official business should be taken in the beginning of a session. What he desires is that in the middle of Government business non-official business should be taken.

Another argument was that of the honourable member Mr. Petit, that you should not commit yourself in any way by imposing these restrictions. There is no commitment of any kind in this. If this motion is carried, it will be placed before His Excellency, and it will be duly considered. We are not going to commit ourselves to anything by passing the motion. Supposing the arrangement proposed in the motion is inconvenient, we can bring in another motion, and pray to His Excellency to alter the arrangement, as we are now doing. In this way I do not see anything in the arguments of the Leader of the House or of some other speakers who tried to convince us that the old arrangement was good. Therefore, I think the House should not be misled by the arguments of the Leader of the House or some of the honourable members who opposed this motion ; I hope that this motion will be carried with acclamation.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I regret very much the refusal on the part of the Government to accept such a simple proposal by the honourable member Mr. Bole. A request is made : ' Do not give us all the days at the fag end of the session. Give us some days in the middle of the session so that proper justice may be done to us.' I have been here for the last four years and I have found that non-official business is always neglected, because members coming from long distances go away with the result that practically no attention is paid to non-official business, which is most important. A modest request is made here that days for non-official business should be allotted between days for Government business. I therefore think that this is a very reasonable proposal and ought to have been accepted by Government.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept the closure.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I think there is nothing left for me to say, as the motion has received full support from the non-official members except one who is a representative of the Millowners' Association. That honourable member has belittled the ghee resolution. He should have been the first to realise the importance of ghee. He need not be told that those who eat a good amount of ghee are fat and those who cannot afford to eat a sufficient amount of ghee are lean like myself. Then, Sir, this arrangement may not meet with the convenience of members who are directors in other concerns and who get fat fees for attendance. Their own arrangement would be inconvenienced and it is no wonder that they should oppose this motion.

As regards the address, I may assure the Honourable the Leader of the House that I do not want to give the least trouble to His Excellency. But under the existing Rules and Standing Orders, there is no other alternative left to me but to move this address to His Excellency : and that has been done. As regards the sympathy of the Honourable the Leader of the House, I must confess that he is very sympathetic and considerate. But with all that, he will not be able to alter the days unless the Standing Orders are changed. I have, therefore, made a request not to allot the number of non-official days at the end of the session, because non-official members find it very difficult to get support to their bills or resolutions. As Government members are very anxious about their own business, so also non-official members are very anxious that their resolutions which are very important from their own point of view should be discussed in a full House. If the non-official days are kept at the fag end of the session, then they are not properly discussed and they don't get proper support. I may quote one instance. I moved a resolution as regards unemployment in this very House but it was taken at the fag end of the session and very few members remained till the end. The result was that that resolution was not passed by the House. Had there been a full attendance of members, I am sure that the resolution would have shared a different fate. There are several instances like this. Therefore Government should be very considerate and come to some arrangement in order to satisfy the wishes of the non-official members in this connection. I do not say that the days for non-official business should be allotted at the beginning of the session. Do not do that but give us some days in the middle of the Government days or intersperse them as has been done in the Assembly and some other provincial councils. If Government wish to do that, they can do so. Where there is a will, there is a way. I do not in the least desire to complicate the position of His Excellency. I only want to communicate to His Excellency the wish of the non-official members and that is my intention in moving this motion. I hope the motion will be carried by the House.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I want to place a few facts before the House. The point was made by two honourable members—Rao Bahadur Kale and Mr. Noor Mahomed—that there had been a change made in the rule since 1925. That is not correct. I would like honourable members to refer to the Legislative Council rules before 1925. The rule then was substantially the same as the present rule. It stated :

"The Governor, after considering the state of business of the Council, shall, at the commencement of each session, "

These are the words which do not appear in the present rule but otherwise it is the same. It goes on :

"allot as many days as are in his opinion compatible with the public interests for the business of non-official members in the Council, and may from time to time during the session alter such allotment, and on these days such business shall have precedence."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The discretion of altering was there and it is not here.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Precisely. But, Sir, that is not the point at issue. The point made was that this was a new rule which did not exist before 1925. All that honourable members want now is that the Governor should so exercise his discretion as to place private business in the middle of the agenda.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That was possible under the old rule but is difficult under the present rule, unless he is approached.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : In every case there is the discretion of His Excellency. He can exercise it now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : He could alter it before but not now.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : It is not a case of the power of alteration being taken away from him. In fact I shall show that we have made alterations in the past. (Interruption) I will explain that. Please do not think that Government want to obstruct the wishes of the House or the interests of private business. It is entirely wrong to say that even in little matters like this Government are following the ways of obstruction. It is nothing of the kind. I want the House to consider what the effect of this proposal will be in actual practice, and I trust that the House will bear with me. First of all, the address deals with a request for allowing private business to be placed between Government business. Now, I want to ask the honourable mover and those who supported him to let me know whether they specially have in mind budget sessions or other sessions of the Council. There is a great deal of difference as I shall try to show. We have got three sessions of the Council. The first session, namely the budget session, lasts for about a month. By agreement it has been arranged that as little as possible of other business than budget should be done then, and consequently two days only for private business are being allotted. In other cases, where the session may last for 15 days, private business gets as much time as—in some case perhaps more than—Government business. I have here the number of days allotted for private business during the last two years. In the July session of 1926, eight days were allotted for non-official business. In the July session of last year (1927) nine days were allotted for non-official business. Now, it is quite conceivable—in fact it has happened before—that Government business in those two sessions may not take even as much time as private business. Does the honourable member suggest that three days should be first taken for Government business and then nine days for private business and then three days for Government business? I do not think that will at all be convenient to the House. I see the difficulty of the House with regard to the budget session. I think the difficulty has been expressed before that in the budget sessions only two days are allotted at the end of the session.....

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: Last year there were three days. This year there are only two.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: If I remember aright, it has been arranged that not more than a small number of days should be allotted during the budget sessions.....

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: One day is curtailed this year.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I do not remember that. But I think it was by agreement arranged that about two days should be allotted for private business.

I could not understand some of the arguments which honourable members who have spoken have used. It was said it is because private business has been put down at the end that many important resolutions are not reached. I think those are the very words used by the honourable members Mr. Bole and Mr. Syed Munawar.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Government business encroaches on private business.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: There is something to be said about that. But the objection raised was that private business was not reached. I cannot understand why private business cannot be reached. It may be that a certain amount of private business, several resolutions, which may not have drawn the ballot early, cannot be reached. But it is not possible that private business will not be reached on the days allotted for private business. I cannot conceive how an important resolution, say the one on unemployment, could not be discussed provided it drew a place in the ballot that was sufficiently favourable. I cannot see that position at all, and I would like really to be enlightened on that. I think I may assure the House that there is no desire whatsoever to inconvenience the House. If they show that any inconvenience has been felt and that their business is not reached, I will certainly be very glad to consider this proposal. But I want to point out now the inconvenience in the two sessions in July and September in Poona. The whole sessions may extend to two or three weeks, and out of these two or three weeks eight or nine days have been allotted for private business. What do honourable members want? Do they want that half the portion of Goverment business should be taken up first and half the portion relegated to the end? I do not think that will suit them. I think they have agreed that Government business is just as important as, if not more important than, private business. I think it is very desirable that Government business, which mostly consists of legislation should be passed when the House is more or less full. I think the House itself will like to have such an arrangement. It is no use passing legislation of a very important character when the benches are not altogether full.

Then, I would like to mention the point which has been made by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale, namely that Government business extends oftentimes from day to day. That, I admit, causes a considerable amount of inconvenience, and I am quite prepared to meet the wishes of the House in this connection. We shall, as far as possible, put down absolutely the days, and we shall give long notice and say private business will be taken on those days in the budget session. Then, except for very special circumstances, there cannot be any alteration of those dates, and honourable members will know fully when private business will be taken up and that will enable them to go away and come back if they so desire to do. I think that will meet most of the objections and the difficulties which I admit have been felt and which I think ought to be met. I want to say that during the last seven or eight years there has really been no occasion on which honourable members desired that a certain arrangement should be made for private business and Government refused it without good reason. Not one single instance of it has been pointed out, and I do not think it can be pointed out. Throughout we have tried to work in harmony and tried to meet the wishes of the House. I hope the honourable member will be content with this, that the dates for private business, not days only, will be fixed and that the House will have fairly long notice, if long notice is possible.

It was suggested that this desire of the House should be submitted to His Excellency. Well, I can assure the honourable House that the honourable member's motion was considered by the whole Government, with His Excellency; we discussed it in all its bearings, and we came to the conclusion that it was to the convenience of everybody if no change was made. It is not as if His Excellency is unaware of the pros and cons.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The only difference is that His Excellency did not know the authoritative opinion of this side of the House on previous occasions.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Then, the honourable member knows more than either His Excellency or ourselves. His Excellency did know. This question was considered several times before; this is not the only occasion on which it has been brought up; it has been brought up privately oftentimes before us, and we have, as I told you, fixed dates, giving notice of those dates and taken private business in between. But in view of the difficulties I have pointed out, I do not think it will at all be to the interest of the House itself to fix any definite hard and fast method. Certainly, in the two Poona sessions it will cause a considerable inconvenience, because this motion leaves no discretion to divide private business at all; it says you must take the whole private business in the middle of Government business.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: It is only a recommendation.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: If the honourable member is content with what I have suggested, I think the non-official members will find that their convenience and also that of Government is much better served at present.....

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: Under the present arrangement the private business is taken at the end of the session.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: It is only in the budget session that this difficulty arises. I am aware of that. I propose that we should fix the date for the private business so that honourable members will get sufficient notice of it...

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not know whether the Honourable the Leader of the House is right in his interpretation of this address. The honourable the mover means to say that the whole of the private business need not be taken together after the Government business. What he means is that the private business should be intermingled with the Government business. That is to say, Government business and private business should be taken on alternate days.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I do not know whether that is the intention of the honourable mover.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: Yes, it is so.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: If that is the intention, how shall we fix what private business should be taken at what particular time? The best way is to fix the days by agreement with the House. If there are certain days that honourable members would like to have between, we can certainly put them in, but it is no use making hard and fast rules.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: How does the Honourable the Leader of the House propose to consult the wishes of the House?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Just as we do now. I hope the honourable member does not object to consultation. The difficulty only arises specially in the budget session. We shall arrange two days for the private business, so that the honourable members will know well ahead that particular two days will be taken for the private business.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: But you shift those days.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I am suggesting that an arrangement can be made for fixing of these days and these days will not be shifted.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Government business is adhered to.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: The confusion is caused by Government business taking more days than anticipated. The present arrangement is that Government business goes on until it is finished, and the private business is shifted forward. I suggest that instead of private business being shifted, the days may be adhered to for the private business and the Government business can be taken up later. I trust in view of the discussion that has taken place and the express desire of the Government to make arrangements convenient to all sides of the House, I do not think that this is a matter which needs to be pursued further and address presented to His Excellency the Governor. The honourable House will do well to accept this suggestion and work in combination and harmony as I have always done.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Do you make these suggestions only for the budget session ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Principally, but not wholly.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) then (Addressed the House in Marathi):

Sir, I have got to make a suggestion to the Honourable the Leader of the House to the effect that there should be two sessions for the budget.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order; that is quite a different matter.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: In view of the assurance given by the Honourable the Leader of the House, I beg the leave of the House to withdraw my motion.

Question put and leave granted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like to ascertain the wishes of the House in one respect, and that is, if the House is desirous to end the discussion to-day, namely, whether the House wishes to end the Council session to-day, or continue it till to-morrow. We have taken up private business at 3 o'clock to-day and to-morrow at 3 o'clock would be one day. Besides, there are two holidays, Jamshed Naoroz on Wednesday and the Goodipadva day on Thursday.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Sir, can we not meet to-morrow at 12 noon ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Sir, I suggest that we meet one hour earlier to-morrow to make up the time.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Then the House must tell me definitely that it would be agreeable to proroguing the session to-morrow and not taking it over further.

Honourable Members: No, no.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is to say, that I should agree to give more hours. (Honourable Members: Yes.) I suppose the Honourable the Leader of the House is agreeable to this proposal. (Honourable Sir Chunilal Mehta: Yes, Sir.) It is absolutely no use if honourable members say to-morrow that they would take full two days and continue the session further.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : There is no such desire.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Then to-morrow at three o'clock will be the end of one day.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : To-day we can sit half an hour late and to-morrow one hour early.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : To-morrow we should begin at 12-30.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Am I to understand that the honourable House is willing to take only one day instead of two days for private business ?

Honourable Members : No, no.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : If we begin at 12-30 to-morrow and go on till 6-30, the House will be satisfied.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I take it that the House should sit to-morrow at 12-30 and go on till 6-30. That is the idea. I may say that an alternative suggestion has also been made to me and that is this. We should sit to-morrow early in the morning and finish the session at 2 o'clock so that the mofussil people may be able to get away by the afternoon train. If that is the wish of the House, I shall have no objection to that suggestion.

DISCUSSION OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District) : I beg to propose, Sir, that the resolution of the honourable member Mr. Jog be carried over to the next session. Mr. Jog is not here and at the same time it is a very important proposition, and the House is not full. So, I think it would be much better that the consideration of it should be postponed to the next session.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not agreeable.

Question put : " That the consideration of the incomplete discussion of the resolution of the honourable member Mr. Jog be carried over till the next session " and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Any honourable member wishing to address the House may do so.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Sir, this is a resolution which in my humble opinion is an important resolution, since the Government have in their resolution of May last adumbrated their general policy which they intend to pursue and also undertake legislation in pursuance of that policy. The House is aware that the question of this land revenue assessment and the enhancement thereof was mooted in this Council in 1924, when there was a resolution. Then, there was another resolution, which was carried by this Council, last year after the committee that was appointed submitted its report but before the report was properly considered by the various members.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Now, this resolution is passed by Government after the three events, first in 1924 when the question was mooted, the Land Revenue Assessment Committee's recommendations, and the resolution of this House carried last year. I now want to show, Sir, that it is surprising that the Government should have set aside even the recommendations of the majority report of the committee. That is to my mind giving the go-by even to the recommendations of their own committee, and in preference the Government have chosen to accept the opinion of the official members, and I may say principally the opinion of the honourable member the Director of Land Records, who, as I said on one occasion, is really the Director of the land revenue policy of the Bombay Government.

Now, Sir, the first point which I wish to deal with is this, namely, the question about the basis or the principles on which the land revenue should be assessed. With regard to that, it will be observed that the majority of the committee stated that profits of cultivation, that is, the net income, should be the principal basis, and when on the last occasion the debate was on, even the Honourable Sir Lalubhai Samaldas, who was the spokesman of the Government then,—he was also the Chairman of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee,—declared in most emphatic terms as follows. These are his words: "I fear that my honourable friends opposite have laid greater stress on the minutes of dissent by official members of that committee." We had said so, that the official members had regarded the rental value as the basis and we had laid stress no doubt on that. Sir Lalubhai in reply said that the non-official members had laid greater stress on the dissenting minutes of the official members than on the recommendations of the committee itself. Then, he went on to say:

> "I draw the attention of honourable members to the end of paragraph 33 on page 20 where the committee says that in fixing the assessment regard should be had to the 'profits of cultivation.' Rental value is not mentioned here, and though it is included in the list that follows it has not been put as the first item but as the sixth one. Those honourable members who stated that the committee had recommended rental value alone as the basis will now see that the basis recommended is the profits of cultivation."

These are the words of Sir Lalubhai Samaldas, Sir, and I think even the Government Resolution must have caused some surprise to him, because he rose and said that the non-official members are taking as if the Government's policy was to accept rental value, and he said "No; that is not so; that is the last thing that is to be taken into consideration. Profits of cultivation is the main and first thing which is recommended by the majority of the committee." And, therefore, he wanted to remove all the misunderstanding or misapprehension which he thought prevailed among the members. But our fears proved too true, because the recommendation of the majority of the committee has been given the go-by and the opinion of the official members of the committee has prevailed with Government. Now, Sir, I submit that this is the first point with regard to the basis of assessment, namely, Government having accepted the rental value as the basis it is a recommendation which really finds no support in the majority of the committee. Then, secondly, we proceed next to the point about the pitch of assessment, that is to say, the share of the State, what is the percentage, whether it should be 30, 40 or 50, or what? Here again, you will see, Sir, that the majority of the committee recommended 25 per cent., whereas the Government has even not accepted that, and they have taken 50 per cent. as the rate. So, it seems to me even in that case Government has failed to give effect to the popular view, the view of the non-officials as well as the view of the majority of the members of the committee, because they say "the committee were unable to make any recommendation of fixing a maximum percentage on rental value as assessment which the State is entitled to take and the committee decided by majority that the assessment should not exceed 25 per cent." That was the recommendation of the majority of the committee, viz., 25 per cent. of the gross profits, less all expenses. Government consider that the views of the committee on this question are inconsistent with one another, and they go on to say that they do not accept the maximum of 25 per cent. and they therefore take 50 per cent. as the pitch of assessment. That is the proportion of the State's share of the profits. Here, therefore, in this respect also the recommendations are set aside and an attempt is made, I must say, to take support from certain remarks in the report of the Taxation Committee. The time at my disposal is not much, otherwise I would have shown (honourable members will do well to read the report of the Taxation Committee as a whole) that really speaking they have neither regarded rental as the true basis nor 50 per cent. as the pitch of assessment. The Taxation Committee's recommendations must be read as a whole and it is half truth, I should say, to take a sentence here and a sentence there and then try to support the view as the Government have done.

Let us come to the third point. The third point is with regard to the recommendations of the standing or advisory committee of this Council. That recommendation is also disregarded, and it is very surprising to find that the resolution goes on to say that what they have done is nothing more, nothing less, than to give effect to the recommendations of the Joint Parliamentary Committee, and they quote finally at page 3:—

"Finally, there is the general consideration that the object of the legislation now proposed, as was indicated by the Joint Parliamentary Committee, is to give legislative sanction to the existing principles and practice of land revenue assessment."

I submit, Sir, that the word "existing" is doubtless italicised. I submit there cannot be a greater misreading of the recommendation of the Joint Parliamentary Committee's views. What the Joint Parliamentary Committee said was not about the existing principle. They referred to the main principles. They said that they were impressed by the large number of witnesses who gave evidence before their committee as to the inequality that prevails at present owing to the present practice which obtains in the matter of assessment of land revenue. They wanted therefore to say something about the main principles, whereas the Government resolution proceeds to say that it is only the existing principles and the existing practice that is to be legalised, that is to be embodied in the form of a statute. I submit, where was then the necessity of appointing a committee to make enquiry and to call for a report if the only work that was to be done was merely to give legislative effect to the existing principles and existing practice? That could have been done very easily, why make such a fuss and spend so much money over calling for evidence and calling for a report? I submit therefore that this is really giving a complete go-by to the real point at issue, and the attempt of the Government to say that that was the recommendation of the Parliamentary Committee and that therefore they have taken up that recommendation is, I submit, really not a correct reading but a misreading of the Joint Parliamentary Committee's recommendation.

Further, even supposing for argument's sake that Government had to do as, they say, they have done, I say they have gone back, that they have not given effect to the existing principles because in the Land Revenue Code as it exists to-day, the profits of cultivation are mentioned in section 107 of that Code as the first thing to be taken into account. By this legislation which is proposed and the policy which is laid down in this resolution, the profits of cultivation are relegated to the last; the other consideration, the main considerations are different, and the first consideration, the first principle is the rental, so that the policy, instead of being an improvement on the old state of things, is actually going to be a reactionary and a retrograde step in the wrong direction. I do submit that the attempt made in this resolution not only does not satisfy, really speaking, the requirements of the Joint Parliamentary Committee's recommendations, or the opinion expressed throughout the country, in this Council and also in the report of the Assessment Committee; but this policy is actually going to be reactionary and the consequences of this retrograde policy are, I must warn the House, bound to lead to very disastrous results. It will be conceded, I think that there exists at present great inequality in the way in which assessments are levied or enhanced, and hence it was that, after the lapse of so many years, it was thought necessary and desirable that the whole question should be reviewed and that once for all a policy of land revenue assessments should be laid down and that such a policy should be embodied in the form of a statute. If that is really the intention, (and I submit it ought to be the principle which should guide the revenue officers of Government) it seems to me that, to say that this is the policy and to wind up by saying that legislation will be introduced on these lines that are set out in this resolution, seems to me to be hardly consistent. Do Government hope that legislation that may be undertaken by Government on these lines will be passed by this House.....

(The Honourable Mr. J. L. Rieu indicated assent) I do ask honourable members opposite if they are really serious in taking the House into their confidence in framing legislation. If so, should they not make some attempt to lay down certain principles which are more equitable and which will certainly be an improvement on the old state of things?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: That is just what we are trying to do.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I submit, Sir, that in the present instance Government have gone back, they have gone further than that, they have taken a reactionary step. I know that the whole question is what is the basis? And Government have taken the rental as the basis. Very well, now, that was not the basis in section 107 of the old Land Revenue Code, and I would certainly think that if the matter is thrashed out (and that is the second part of the resolution) in a committee, I can show how the rental basis is wrong, even on the assumption of Government that the rental basis which they admit, is a basis that is based upon certain statistics. They themselves admit that the rents which prevail in villages cannot be taken into consideration; they themselves say that there are certain rent-notes which do not really represent the actual income; they also admit that there are various rent-notes which really show more rent than is really accepted; then they say there are certain other rents which, for instance, in the case of good crops, are much higher than in the case of other crops. It will be seen that rents in the case of crops like sugarcane or cotton or groundnuts are much higher, but here we must remember that the majority and the greater portion of the cultivators are not sugarcane growers or cotton growers, and hence the standard that can be applied to all landholders, all cultivators, which is based upon rent-notes, which take into account crops like the sugarcane or the groundnuts, must certainly.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Fifteen minutes is the time limit.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Very well, Sir, I will finish shortly. What I submit is that in this respect viz., in respect of the rental basis, I know that it is the easiest thing, because you can collect in a village certain rent-notes and you can say "Here are these figures, we can take them as something tangible." It is an easy thing no doubt, but is it equitable and is it the correct test to apply? That is the point. No doubt it may be said that there is no other mode and it has been said that it has not been possible for the members of the Assessment Committee to suggest any other mode. It seems to me that we can suggest other modes by which really the assessment can be fixed with due regard to equity and justice. It will take some time for me to go into this question fully. It has been stated by the honourable member, the Settlement Commissioner, that some precise ground must be found on which the land revenue can be based and in his opinion the rental basis is the only proper basis that can be found. It may in the first instance be observed that his comparison with the income-tax administration is not quite correct. When the income of any man is ascertained under the Act, you get at once the figure on which the tax is to be levied, while even the most accurate rental figures can only serve as a basis on which to make estimates of the normal income of the agriculturists. In those provinces of India where the land is held by big landowners and cultivated almost entirely by tenants the rent rolls are obviously the best guides on which to base the land revenue assessment. For in these cases the rent receipts are the actual income from which the land revenue is going to be paid. In a ryotwari tract, where the bulk of the land is cultivated by peasant proprietors, the small part let out on rent can only serve as an index of the probable income of the other agriculturists. The air of precision that the honourable member Mr. Anderson seeks to invest the rental basis with is, therefore, false. No doubt, rental figures are the most easily ascertainable but they can serve as precise guides only if the income from rent rises and falls in exactly the same proportion as agricultural incomes. It can easily be demonstrated that this is not the case. In the first instance, the instructions issued to settlement officers lay stress on their scrutinizing the rent entries very clearly; that whenever there is a previous debtor and creditor transaction between the tenant and the landlord or when it is a case of special facility, those particular rent entries are to be disregarded. Thus Government itself recognises that not all rent entries are reliable and that special care is to be taken when the rent statistics are compiled. Now, it must be clear to everybody that a settlement officer cannot be expected to scrutinize every rent entry of each village, and secondly, even if he is so conscientious, he could not possibly determine over a fifteen years' record of rent entries which entries are admissible and which are not, so that even if we admit that the rent figures are an exact index, as the honourable member Mr. Anderson maintains, of agricultural incomes, it is still humanly impossible to collect accurate rent statistics on which such absolute reliance can be placed as the Settlement Commissioner desires us to do. So, Sir, it will be seen that however easy it may be, it is not a sure and equitable guide on which to base the rental standard.

It is a truism of the statistical method that any figure which proposes to be an index of the movements in any group must be a representative sample of that group. Now, it is obvious that lands let out on rent are not representative samples of all the lands in cultivation. To note only one point, it is well known that usually a much greater proportion of the lands under industrial crops, i.e., cotton, sugarcane, etc., and such lands as grass lands, are let out on rent than lands under food crops. But as the vast majority of our cultivation is food crop cultivation, that fact itself would make the rental statistics unrepresentative. Let us take an instance. It is well known that during the war the prices of cotton reached unprecedented heights and also that in some districts near Bombay grass lands became very valuable, for example in the Surat district.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has very much exceeded his time.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: It is an important question. But if you, Sir, do not want me to go into this question further, I shall leave it open for further discussion if there is time for it. However, this is a very important matter, and I want to bring to the notice of honourable members on the other side that really it will not be difficult to find some other solution for this problem, which will give satisfaction to the people at large. That is my chief point. If you have your establishment, and the annewari is made every year, you can know in a village what the annewari of the crop is, and the assessment can fluctuate with such annewari in lieu of an inelastic annual revenue. If, therefore, such a method can be found out by an initial presidency settlement aiming at equality of taxation all over the presidency, it will prove to be truly scientific, and then alone there will be something in the policy which will be equitable. I know that the land is assessed low in some parts; that has been admitted. But such land should be brought under proper assessment, and Government should take their due share of the income from such lands. At the same time, where lands which are cultivated do not yield sufficient, I do not think it would be proper to give legislative effect to the present system. I can only say that the representatives of the people on this side and the Government are anxious for the welfare of the masses. The policy that has been laid down in the Government resolution is certainly not the correct policy, and those who vote for that policy will vote against the present resolution, and those who vote in favour of the present motion will vote against the policy that is adumbrated in the Government resolution.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Mr. President, I rise to support the resolution before the House. In doing so, I do not want to go into the details of the whole case, but I will dilate on two main issues, namely, the basis on which the revision assessments should be fixed and the maximum that the Government is entitled to claim from the cultivators. The Land Revenue Assessment Committee by a majority recommended that the profits of cultivation should be the main and principal basis for fixing the land revenue assessment.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Where is it stated in the report?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: It is stated:

"In revising the assessment of land revenue regard shall be had to the profits of cultivation."

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Where is it stated?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: It was resolved that the section 107 of the Land Revenue Code be amended as follows:

"In revising the assessments of land revenue regard shall be had to the profits of cultivation. The Settlement Officer shall take into account the following factors."

That was the recommendation of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee. It will be found from the report of the committee.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Where is it?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: It is also in the Government resolution of 13th May. The recommendation of the committee is given in that resolution.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: On page 20 of the report it is stated:

"In revising the assessments of land revenue regard shall be had to the profits of cultivation. The Settlement Officer shall take into account the following factors."

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: I am coming to that. The profits of cultivation is the main consideration, and the other factors to be taken into consideration are:

(i) the state of communications during the previous settlements,
(ii) the proximity of markets,
(iii) the trend of prices,
(iv) the general economic conditions and history of the tract,
(v) the results of crop experiments, and (vi) rental value.

It will thus be seen that the profits of cultivation is the main factor and the others are subsidiary. They further say that in order to ascertain the rental value years of abnormal prices should not be taken into consideration. Rentals should be taken for years excluding years of abnormal prices. That was the recommendation of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee by a majority. The minority report of the Government officers who were members of the committee recommended that rental should be the main and principal basis for fixing the land revenue assessment.

Now, Sir, on this question I have so often spoken in this House and I repeat it again, that rental basis cannot be a safe and correct guide for fixing land revenue assessment. First of all, the rentals are very few, and, in spite of the statement of the Honourable the Settlement Commissioner in his minute of dissent attached to the report of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee, I am not convinced that half the land in the presidency proper and nearly all the land in Sind is rented and cultivated by tenants. Not more than 5 to 10 per cent. in the presidency proper and especially in Gujarat I know is rented, and the rest, that is, 90 per cent. is generally cultivated by the owners themselves. The other point is this. Government say they are entitled to take a maximum up to 50 per cent. of the rentals as land revenue. The Land Revenue Assessment Committee recommended that there should not be more than 25 per cent. assessment on the profits of cultivation and this was supported by the recommendations of the Taxation Enquiry Committee. Government discarded these two recommendations and have adopted the recommendation made by the official members of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee that 50 per cent. of the rental should be the maximum limit for fixing the land revenue assessment. This is a very important question. 40 per cent. of the total revenue of the presidency is derived from land assessment. The resolution before the House simply asks that in amending the Land Revenue Code members on this side of the House also should be consulted. It is a very reasonable and a very moderate request made by this side of the House. Government are not going to listen to it. Not only that but before the Land Revenue Code is amended, Government have been revising land revenue assessments on rental basis, which I submit is not legal, according to section 107 of the Land Revenue Code. The honourable member the Settlement Commissioner in his argument stated that 33 per cent. are absentee landlords and they get high rents from the cultivators and therefore Government are entitled to receive one-half from those landlords. I will read one paragraph from the settlement report of the much discussed Bardoli taluka, in order to show how sometimes it misleads the public as well as this honourable House. The Settlement Commissioner says :

" Mr. Jayaker has collected rents for 42,923 acres of dry-crop and rice out of a gross area of 126,982. Thus it is clear that at least one-third of the whole Taluka and Mahal together are actually leased on cash rental and to this must be added the crop shares and rent area. I found in going through several villages even some additional areas thus cash leased beyond those he has noted. He had probably not included these rentals I found, because the transactions were open to some objection. However I think there is little doubt that at least half the total area is held by landlords who do not cultivate it."

Does the Settlement Commissioner mean to say that one-third to half the area is held by landlords and cultivated by tenants ? The fact is that these lease statistics were collected for seven years and added together. (Interruption). If you divide 42,923 acres by 7 it will come to 6,132. (Mr. F. G. H. Anderson : If you divide by 2, it will be 20,000.) May I know from the Settlement Commissioner that he means that it is an average for one year ? Is he prepared to reply to me ? This is for seven years and if 126,982 acres is divided by 6,132 it will come to 5 per cent. of the total area. (Mr. F. G. Anderson : And divided by 20,000 ?) The Honourable the Settlement Commissioner is smiling and makes some gestures but these figures are given on page 9 of the second revision report of the Bardoli taluka made to Government by the Assistant Settlement Officer and approved by the honourable member the Settlement Commissioner. It may be argued by the Settlement Commissioner that it is an average for one year. Against such an argument I give instance of village Bamroli, Bardoli taluka, in which the total area as shown in appendix H, is 680 acres while the area leased is 787. Take another village of Uttara ; total area 1,317, area leased 2,862. Take the village of Mota ; total area 4,825, area leased 4,015. The Settlement Commissioner was Collector in Surat and he has seen all these villages. Take the village of Wadhawa, total area 794, area leased 1,233. Take the village Miyawadi, total area 1,057, area leased 1,203. Take the village Bhensudla, total area 751, area leased 963. These figures show the absurdity of such an argument, if advanced, as the area leased can in no case exceed the total area. Therefore it is a misleading statement. If I have time enough, I shall give many other instances. As I have got no time, I shall come to the main point. The principle of rental, I repeat, is not a safe and fair guide for assessment. There is also a risk for Government if it be adopted. Suppose to-morrow the landlords and tenants—it is quite possible—combine as regards an actual lease of Rs. 200, showing in the lease rent of Rs. 100 and execute promissory note for remaining Rs. 100. Within ten years' time you will find that the least multiple is reduced considerably. I give you this warning. When you base the assessment on the rental and when people come to know that they are going to be taxed more than they can bear, they will possibly arrange among themselves (landlords and tenants) to put down half the rent in the rent-note and manage for the other half by payment in cash or by executing a promissory note.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

Again this 50 per cent. rental maximum is too high. There is no profit in agriculture. I have very often pointed it out to the House and the Honourable the Revenue Member. I already gave last year a statement as regards the cost of production per acre. The cost of production per acre of dry land comes to Rs. 32 and in the case of rice it comes to Rs. 52. I even challenged the honourable member to verify my statement through the Agricultural Department, but the challenge remains unaccepted as I know I had given the minimum cost. Then it may be argued how it is possible for agriculturists to live upon income from their lands. The reply to that is, that because the whole family of the cultivators work on the field, they get back most of the cost of production as their wages. It is how they eke out their livelihood. But when they have to perform any ceremonies or other festivities and to pay the Government dues, they have often to go to the sowcar for borrowing money. Now, you are going to tax 50 per cent. which would be practically a tax on labour. Further, if a man owns one acre, he has to pay the assessment at the same rate as the man who holds 100 or 500 acres. I crave your indulgence for two minutes more.

There is another argument of the Settlement Commissioner that one third or half of the land is owned by absentee landlords. I shall refute this argument from the number of holdings given in the report itself. In the Bardoli taluka 64 per cent. are holders below 5 acres and 33 per cent. are holders between 5 and 25 acres. Therefore, land between 1 and 25 acres is held by 97 per cent. of the holders who are peasant proprietors. They are all cultivators themselves, and only 3 per cent. may be called landlords. Now, are you going to base your assessment on the cultivation of having 50 per cent. landlords? In Chorasi also the same conditions prevail. The other day I instanced various talukas where 75 to 80 per cent. of the land is owned by cultivators having less than five acres. The maximum limit for fixing assessment should therefore be fixed at 25 per cent. on the profit of cultivation; Even that 25 per cent. would be high. In France it is only about 10 per cent; in Italy about 10 per cent. of the economic rent; and in Japan it is only ¼ per cent. of the capital value. Of course they have to pay income-tax in addition. If Government want to base the assessment on the principles of income-tax they can do it, as is done in other countries, but to take 50 per cent. of rentals which is more than the economic rent is not right. I would like to hear from the honourable member the Settlement Commissioner how the officers will be able to find out the increase in rentals caused by improvements made by the landlords themselves.....

(At this stage the bell was rung).

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Sir, the resolution the Government have issued on the report of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee is rather amazing. Those recommendations of the committee which are supported unanimously are accepted by Government; but in other places only the recommendations made by Government officers are accepted, while the recommendations made by the majority of non-official members have been thrown out. That is what the resolution comes to. I will give one or two instances of how the recommendations of the non-officials have been thrown out.

"12. Himayat assessment: This proposal is entirely outside the Committee's terms of reference, and Government see no valid ground for making any such general enquiry as is proposed."

This is the general trend of the report. Because non-officials made that recommendation, it is stated to be outside the terms of reference. In another place, it is stated :

"In this paragraph the non-official members of the committee propose that the Settlement Officer shall have the assistance of two representatives of the cultivators elected by the taluka local board in preparing his settlement. Government agree with the argument of the official members against this proposal, and regret that they cannot see their way to accept it."

With regard to limits of enhancement of assessment, Government say :

"Government note with approval and endorse the views of the committee contained in this paragraph on the right of the State."

Here they endorse the views of the committee because the views of the non-officials are supported by the officials. But wherever the views of the non-officials come in conflict with the views of the officials, the views of the officials have been accepted and the views of the non-officials thrown out.

I come now to the question of rental values. I completely endorse what fell from my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik. There is hardly any definite data before the Government to ascertain exactly the rental value of every land. I may tell you that only 5 to 10 per cent. of lands is rented ; the rest, at any rate in Satara district, is cultivated by the owners themselves. Besides, which of the rental values are Government going to accept ? That has not been stated. I may tell you that the rents are in many cases only as much as the assessment ; in some cases they are double the assessment ; and in a few instances they are three or four times the assessment. Wherever the rents increase, there are special conditions. I shall detail these conditions. First of all, the owner has to make certain improvements in the land ; he has to bund it ; he has to manure it and till it for a number of years, and show that his land has a good yielding capacity, and has yielded a fair outturn for a number of years, before a tenant will pay a higher rent for it. On the one hand Government say that improvements made by the owner will not be taken into account ; on the other hand, you want to take advantage of the improvements which he makes. This is quite in contrast with the spirit of the Code. You want to take advantage of small improvements that the landlord makes at his own cost. Sir, there are two or three difficulties in the way of finding out the rental values. The first difficulty is that only a limited number of lands are rented. Secondly, all lands are not rented at high rents, and the few cases where high rents are paid are due to improvements made by the owner. Which of the rents are you going to take in fixing the assessment ? You say :

"the real rents paid in open competition by tenants to landlords during five years immediately preceding the revision settlement, excluding years of abnormal prices, shall be taken into consideration."

[Mr. L. M. Deshpande]

But in actual practice, we see from the instances quoted by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik, you have taken the rent notes from 1918 to 1925. The year 1918 was the year in which food prices rose very high. In the case of bagayat crops, like sugarcane and turmeric, the prices increase in abnormal years by 100 per cent. and 500 per cent. respectively. When those rent notes are taken into account in fixing the next revision, I say it is nothing but assessing the ryots to a very undesirable degree. Besides this, there are some rent notes which correspond to the interest. There are many sowcars who get the lands mortgaged to themselves and then lease them to the owners as tenants. Here the question of yielding capacity is not taken into consideration, but only the interest that the sowcar has to receive is taken into consideration, and the figure mentioned in the rent note represents interest on the loan and not the yielding capacity of the land. So, these rent notes which are more or less always registered will show not the real state of things, but an unreal state of things. Therefore the only basis which Government have in their mind for fixing the assessment at a revision is faulty; there is strong objection to it on the part of the non-officials, and therefore it should not be resorted to.

There is one other point. In paragraph 4 of the resolution it is stated: "Government agree with the view of the committee that no distinction should be made between cultivating and non-cultivating landlords in fixing the assessment," while in sub-paragraph (2) of paragraph 7, it is stated: "to take its share in the unearned increment derived from land." I do not understand exactly what is meant by these two statements. In the first place Government say they are not going to make any distinction between cultivating and non-cultivating landlords, while in another place they say that Government know and endorse the views of the committee to take its share in unearned income. Do they mean to make any distinction between the land cultivated by the owners themselves and land rental to others? This rental income of land is supposed to be an unearned income.....

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Are the words "unearned income" there at all?

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: The word "rental" does appear there.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: There is not the word "income."

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: The unearned increment is there. I hope the honourable member, the Settlement Commissioner, will make it clear to me as to what he says and means thereby. The statement "unearned income" means "unearned share" which rental gets from the income. There is another thing also. Government now claim their half share, that is, 50 per cent. The question is whether Government are the owners of the land and the ryot only tenant. We find that the tenant gives away about 50 per cent. to Government. Therefore, it is necessary that the question of ownership should be settled. The Taxation Enquiry Committee have shelved this question and even the committee appointed by this House has also shelved the question.

[Mr. L. M. Deshpande]

All along Government by their action go to show that they claim ownership over the land, though the land system is the ryotwari one, and to give it at their pleasure to a tenant who may be coming forward to take those lands in open competition is not what the ryot wishes Government to do. They call Government as their Ma-bap. But Government takes away half the share of the ryot. It is really most astonishing that Government should come forward and ask for this 50 per cent. from the poor peasants.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Where has Government ever claimed 50 per cent. of the produce ?

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: They say that 50 per cent. of the rental. I therefore say income and this is the same. I do not think there is any difference at all between the two. The Joint Parliamentary Committee stated that there should be some guiding principle on which Government should base their assessment. But Government have not based their assessment on any income of the kind. Joint Parliamentary Committee have stated very definite means but now Government want to introduce an altogether new system of assessing on the rental value. Government say now that they have to meet their increased demand.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has only one minute now to finish his speech.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: I have stated that Government have to meet their growing demand from the land revenue and therefore they want to take only a very large share in the land revenue. The previous Government record would show that they did not want to take any more from the land revenue than a very low share. But to-day we find quite a different thing. (Bell rings.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Before any further business goes on, I have to announce to the House that a reply has been received from Lady Vidyagouri, widow of the late Sir Ramanbhai in answer to the condolence letter sent by us. It is this:

"I am most thankful to the President and the members of the Legislative Council for their sympathy in our sad bereavement. Myself and family are deeply obliged for the reference by the Honourable the President and the members of the Council, which we appreciate much."

I understand that there is a desire of the House that it should be prorogued this evening.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: Sir, you have already stated that you are going to prorogue the House to-morrow. That was the desire of the House and as this question has been decided, many of the honourable members are not present now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Well, I may tell the House that I have a note in my hand expressing the desire that the House should be prorogued to-day and I have to deal with the House, as it is at present.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI : Sir, it is the desire of some honourable members that the Council should be prorogued to-day, provided one more day is given to us at the next session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is that the desire of the House ?

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Sir, it is the desire of some of the honourable members that the business as it stands here be adjourned to the next session. The non-official business should be carried on, as it is.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It should not be the desire of "some" of the honourable members. It should be the desire of most of the honourable members. Those, who wish that the Council should be prorogued to-day, will stand in their places. (After a count) I find that it is not the unanimous wish of the House.

I, therefore, adjourn the.....

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I think you wanted to know whether an extra day can be given in the next session. I can quite understand that the time allotted for the non-official business is being curtailed in this session, if the Council is prorogued to-day. I submit, Sir, that we on the Government side will have no objection to give an extra day in the next session. I think, Sir, the House will be well advised to accept this suggestion. It is very thin to-day and to-morrow it is bound to be very thin and, therefore, many of the important resolutions will not get discussion they deserve. We shall be agreeable to give an additional day at the next session beyond the number of days that would otherwise have been allotted.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI : Sir, if an additional day is given at the next session, we are agreeable that the session should be prorogued this evening.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Honourable members who are against the proposal of proroguing the session to-day and getting a day added to the private business in the next session will stand in their places.

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : Sir, the matter has already been decided by you and you have already stated that the House would be adjourned to-day.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No, that is not so. I was going to say it but I had not finished.

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : Sir, I may say that an express understanding was given to the honourable members that the House would be prorogued to-morrow.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Nobody is forcing honourable members to accept the suggestion. Therefore, those who are against the suggestion should stand up.

(Very few honourable members who were against the suggestion stood up.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Those who are in favour of the suggestion, should stand up. (After a count) I take it that the general sense of the House is that it should be prorogued this evening. I may make it clear that honourable members should not think that this suggestion has been forced on them. Honourable members cannot have the whole agenda carried over to the next session.

[The President]

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, we are agreeable that this unfinished resolution should be carried over to the next session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I then take it that honourable members are agreeable to the suggestion that the Council should be prorogued this evening (Honourable Members: Yes, Sir.) I have now to intimate to the House that I have received a commission from His Excellency, directing me to announce that he is pleased to order that the present session of the Legislative Council should be prorogued. Accordingly, by virtue of this commission of His Excellency, I declare this Council prorogued until the date of which due notice shall be given.

This Council is prorogued.

APPENDIX 1

BILL No. II OF 1928

A Bill further to amend the Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1922

(As published in the " Bombay Government Gazette " of the 26th January 1928)

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1922, in manner hereinafter appearing; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 80A (3) of the Government of India Act and the previous sanction of the Governor required by section 80C of the said Act have been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Bom. II of 1922. 5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61.

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act, 192 .

2. Amendment of section I (iii) of Bom. II of 1922.—In clause (iii) of section 1 of the Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1922, the words " and shall be in force for six years thereafter " shall be repealed. Bom. II of 1922.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1922, was passed to enhance the Stamp Fees in certain cases for the purpose of increasing the revenue of Government. It was to remain in operation for four years in the first instance from the 1st April 1922, and if at the end of that period the financial position still made it necessary its life was to be extended. Bills making the Act permanent were introduced in the session of the Bombay Legislative Council, which met in February 1926 and in February 1927, but each time the Legislative Council agreed to an extension of the Act by one year only. The result of six years' experience has proved the necessity of the retention of the revised scale of Stamp Fees which is enacted in the measure; and it is therefore proposed to continue the Act. This will bring the Act into line with similar Acts in Madras, Bengal and the Punjab.

APPENDIX 2

BILL No. III OF 1928

A Bill to amend the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1926

(As published in the " Bombay Government Gazette " of the 26th January 1928)

Bom. III of 1926. 5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61. Whereas it is expedient to amend the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1926, in manner hereinafter appearing; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor required by section 80C of the Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 192 .

2. Amendment of section 1(3) of Bom. III of 1926.—In sub-section (3) of section 1 of the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1926, the words " and shall remain in operation for two years " shall be repealed. Bom. III of 1926.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1926, was passed to enhance the Court-fees in certain cases for the purpose of increasing the revenue of Government. It was to remain in operation for two years from 1st April 1926, and if at the end of that period the financial position still made it necessary, its life was to be extended. A similar Act was passed in March 1922 and remained in force for two years ending 31st March 1924. The result of the last two years' experience has proved the necessity of the retention of the revised scale of Court-fees which is enacted in the measure of 1926: it is, therefore, proposed to continue the Act.

APPENDIX 3

BILL No. IV OF 1928

A Bill to provide for the grant of loans by Government to non-agriculturists for the relief of distress or other calamities and for the recovery of such loans

(As published in the " Bombay Government Gazette " of the 16th February 1928)

Whereas it is expedient to provide for the grant of loans by Government to non-agriculturists for the relief of distress caused by floods or other calamities and for the recovery of such loans in manner herein after appearing :

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by sub-section (3) of section 80A and the previous sanction of the Governor required by section 80C of the Government of India Act have been obtained for the passing of this Act ; It is hereby enacted as follows :— 5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61.

1. Short title.—This Act may be called " the Bombay Non-Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1928."

2. Extent.—Section 1 and this section extend to the whole of the Bombay Presidency. The rest of the Act may be extended by the Local Government by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette to any part of the Presidency from such date as may be specified in such notification.

3. Purpose for which loans may be granted.—Subject to such rules as may be made under section 6, loans may be granted under this Act for rebuilding or repairing houses or for the relief of distress to any person to whom a loan under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884, cannot be granted. XII of 1884.

4. Loans already granted to be deemed to have been granted under this Act.—All loans granted after the 1st day of August 1927 to such persons as are referred to in section 3 for the purpose mentioned therein shall be deemed to be loans granted under this Act.

5. Recovery of loans.—(1) All loans granted or deemed to have been granted under this Act, together with all interest (if any) chargeable thereon, and costs (if any) incurred in making or recovering the same shall be recoverable at the discretion of the Collector in any one or more of the following modes, namely :—

(a) from the borrower—as if they were arrears of land revenue due by him ;

(b) from his surety (if any)—as if they were arrears of land revenue due by him ;

(c) out of the assets left by a deceased borrower or surety or out of the property comprised in the collateral security (if any)—according to the procedure for the realization of land revenue by the sale of a defaulter's moveable or immoveable property other than the land on which that revenue is due ;

(d) if the loan is for the benefit of a house, out of such house,—as if it were arrears of land revenue due in respect of the land on which the house stands.

6. Power to make rules.—(1) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette, make rules to carry out the purpose of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may be made for the following matters, namely :—

(a) the manner of making applications for loans ;

(b) the officers by whom loans may be granted

(c) the nature of the security, if any, to be taken for the due application and repayment of the money, the rate of interest at which and the conditions under which the loans may be granted and the manner and term of granting loans ; and (d) the instalments by which and the mode in which loans shall be repaid.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to enable Government to advance loans for the relief of distress caused by such calamities as the recent floods in Gujarat and Sind to persons to whom loans cannot be granted under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884, and to provide that such loans shall be recoverable expeditiously as arrears of land revenue without recourse to the civil courts. It is also proposed to give retrospective effect to the Bill, so as to apply its provisions to loans granted since 1st August 1927, for the relief of distress caused by the floods in Gujarat and Sind.

Temporary appointment of an Assistant Judge in Sind

Because of the increase of judicial work in Sind it was found necessary in 1924 to create a temporary appointment of an Assistant Judge in Sind. The appointment came into existence in October of that year, and has been continued ever since on a temporary basis. It was thought that temporary appointment would not be needed after the end of June 1927 and provision for the extra expenditure was therefore made in the current year's budget only for four months. It proved however that the state of the judicial work in Sind would not permit of the temporary post being discontinued, and the appointment will have to be continued throughout the year. This involves an extra expenditure of Rs. 7,205 which is proposed to be met by reappropriation from the Reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department.

Fees in Criminal Cases.

The provision of Rs. 1,71,200 made in the current year's budget on account of fees in Criminal Cases under the head " 24—Administration of Justice—Law Officers—Mofussil Establishment " has proved insufficient owing to heavy expenditure in all the districts. This item is a very fluctuating one and it is very difficult to make an exact estimate of the year's requirements. An additional grant of Rs. 45,000 has therefore been sanctioned to cover the anticipated excess expenditure up to the end of the current financial year. The sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the grant of Rs. 1,71,200 under " 24—Administration of Justice " being increased by Rs. 45,000 by reappropriation from the Reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department.

Grant-in-aid to the District Local Boards, Hyderabad and Thar Parkar, for repairs to roads

The Commissioner in Sind after visiting the affected areas in the Districts of Hyderabad and Thar Parkar reported to Government that the damage caused to communications owing to floods was both serious and widespread and it was impossible for either District Local Board to carry out the essential repairs without special assistance. The Commissioner also pointed out that it was absolutely necessary both from the administrative and public points of view that main roads connecting taluka head quarters be put into order before the river rises next year. The Commissioner gave each of the two District Local Boards a sum of Rs. 17,000 in excess of their usual allotment from the sum of Rs. 4,36,500 placed at his disposal by Government Resolution No. 1570 dated the 1st September 1927, for distribution among District Local Boards as Government grant-in-aid for the repair of roads but this he thought would be quite inadequate to meet the exceptional situation created by the floods. As no savings were available under "41-Civil Works" to which the charge is debitable, a grant-in-aid of Rs. 75,000 to the District Local Boards, Hyderabad and Thar Parkar, was sanctioned by Government, in anticipation of the sanction of the Legislative Council, in November 1927 by reappropriation from the Finance Department Reserve.

Stipends to Graduates in Civil Engineering

A certain number of stipends are awarded to graduates in Civil Engineering. The provision on account of this expenditure is being made under "41-Civil Works—Provincial." The Accountant General has, however, pointed out that such charges are in the nature of scholarships and are correctly debitable to "31-Education" instead of to "41-Civil Works." In view of this, the requisite provision in next year's budget estimates is being made under "31-Education." The current year's provision (Rs. 11,000) is, however, made under "41-Civil Works—Provincial." As a transfer of funds from one grant to another is not feasible, the amount of Rs. 11,000 has been allowed to lapse and a supplementary grant of equal amount under "31-Education—Transferred" is now asked for against the earmarked saving of the same amount under "41-Civil Works—Provincial." The Director of Public Instruction has, in the meantime, been authorised to incur the necessary expenditure on account of the stipends debitable to "31-Education" in anticipation of the sanction of the Legislative Council to the supplementary grant under that head.

Extension of the Nasik Distillery water works for the supply of water to the Nasik Central Jail

A new central jail will shortly be opened at Nasik Road, and in the interests of economy it has been arranged that it should receive its water supply from the Nasik Distillery in charge of the Excise Department on payment of a suitable rate for the consumption of water. This arrangement has necessitated the extension of the water works at the distillery by the addition of a settling tank, filters, etc., at an estimated cost of Rs. 68,200. As arrangements for the supply of water to the jail had to be made urgently so that water would be available when the jail was opened, sanction was accorded to the necessary works being carried out although no provision of funds had been made for them. As the distillery is now treated as a commercial concern the expenditure is debitable to the head "6-Excise—Investment in Government Commercial Undertakings." There are no savings in the grant under 6-Excise to meet this expenditure. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a supplementary grant of Rs. 68,200 under that head by a re-appropriation from the reserve with the Finance Department.

Transfer to the head " 8-A, Forest Capital Outlay charged to Revenue " of the expenditure initially recorded under " 52-A, Capital Outlay on Forests "

The current year's budget provides Rs. 3,15,000 under the head " 52-A, Capital Outlay on Forests. " When the budget was framed it was intended to meet the entire expenditure under this head from loan funds. The Secretary of State has, however, laid down certain general principles which are to be followed in debiting capital expenditure to heads outside the Revenue account. A limit of Rs. 5 lakhs has been fixed below which loan funds cannot normally be obtained from the Provincial Loans Fund. This limit is not applicable to capital expenditure (a) on productive works, or (b) in a commercial department which is working at such a profit as to fulfil the test of productivity imposed by the Secretary of State (i.e., a return of 6 per cent.), or (c) on commercial undertakings the accounts of which are maintained on a commercial basis. The projects for which provision is made under " 52-A," do not in most cases involve an outlay of Rs. 5 lakhs and technically, considering each scheme by itself, the schemes are unproductive. Government have come to the conclusion that the system of commercial accounts is not suitable for adoption in the Forest Department as a whole. As matters stand at present, all forest capital outlay must therefore be met from revenue and be finally debited to the head " 8-A, Forest Capital Outlay charged to Revenue." Against the provision of Rs. 3,15,000 the expenditure at the end of the year is expected to amount to Rs. 2,93,000. It is therefore proposed with the sanction of the Legislative Council to allow the provision of Rs. 3,15,000 under " 52-A " to lapse and to provide Rs. 2,93,000 under " 8-A. "

Increase in the amount of provisional payment to be made to the Sangli State for the lease of its abkari revenue

The Indian States whose abkari administration is managed by the Bombay Government are as a rule paid a provisional sum fixed with reference to the average revenue of the three years preceding the commencement of the current lease. This payment is subsequently adjusted with reference to the actual revenue realized if this is in excess of the provisional sum paid, the adjustment taking place at the end of the third, sixth and tenth year of the lease. The amount of provisional payment to be made to the Sangli State for the lease of its abkari revenue for ten years commencing from 1st August 1924, was fixed at Rs. 1,15,000 per annum. The State has asked that this amount should be raised to Rs. 1,24,000 in round figures in view of the average annual revenue for the last three years of the lease which expired on 31st July 1924 being Rs. 1,23,702. Government having accepted the principle of fixing the amount of the provisional payment on the basis of the average annual revenue of the three years preceding the renewal of the current lease, have therefore decided to fix the amount of provisional payment to be made to the State for the period of the current lease at Rs. 1,23,700 per annum. The extra amount payable to the State in the current year as a result of the increase in the amount of its compensation with effect from 1st August 1924, is Rs. 30,450. There are no savings in the grant under "6, Excise" to meet this expenditure. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a supplementary grant. Payment of ' Gain on liquor ' to Indian States whose abkari administration has been taken on lease

In the case of those Indian States whose abkari administration is managed by Government the entire excise revenue collected within the State limits is made over to them. The principle adopted in renewing the abkari leases is that the States are guaranteed during the period of the lease the payment of an amount which is provisionally fixed on the basis of the average revenue during the last three years of the preceding lease, subject to adjustment at the end of the third, the sixth and the tenth year of the lease, so as to bring the total up to the actual revenue realised. If in any case the average annual revenue of the last three years is less than the amount of the provisional payment during the preceding lease, the latter amount is repeated in the new lease.

2. The country spirit consumed in the Indian States is supplied at the rates charged to retail licensed vendors in the neighbouring British districts. These rates are higher than the actual cost to Government. The difference between the rate of supply charged to retail vendors and the actual cost to Government, which is known as the ' gain on liquor ' has hitherto been credited to Government. In connection with the renewal of the abkari leases which expired on 31st July 1924, some States have claimed this ' gain.' Government have admitted the claim and have decided to grant the revenue from this source also to the States with effect from 1st April 1925. They have further decided that in the case of those States for which the provisional payment has been fixed at an amount higher than the average annual revenue of the preceding three years, the gain on liquor shall be reduced by the difference between the amount of the provisional payment and the actual receipts.

3. The amount for the years 1925-26 and 1926-27 due to the Indian States whose abkari administration has been taken on lease is Rs. 57,000 in round figures. There are no savings in the grant under " 6, Excise " to meet this expenditure. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a supplementary grant of Rs. 57,000 under that head by a reappropriation from the Reserve with the Finance Department.

Law Charges

The provision of Rs. 5,750 made in the current year's budget under the head "24-Administration of Justice—Law Officers—High Court Pleader—Contingencies" has proved insufficient owing to unforeseen heavy expenditure on appeals in Khoti suits. This item is a fluctuating one and it is very difficult to estimate exactly the requirements for the year. An additional grant of Rs. 15,000 has therefore been reappropriated from the Reserve at the disposal of Government to cover the anticipated expenditure on court-fees on memos of appeal in 76 Khoti suits. The sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the grant of Rs. 5,750 under "24-Administration of Justice" being increased by Rs. 15,000.

This expenditure of Rs. 15,000 on buying court-fees stamps means that the revenue of Government from court-fees has increased by Rs. 15,000. The expenditure is thus nominal and more or less of the nature of a book-transaction, the net effect on the finances of the province being nil.

Allotment to meet the amount of damages awarded in the remanded Khoti suits

Nearly half the villages in Kolaba District are Khoti villages, that is, villages managed by khots or farmers of the revenue. The khots were originally required to pass annual agreements or kabulayats defining the conditions on which they were permitted to manage their villages and these conditions have been revised and altered from time to time. In February 1914, Government prescribed new forms of kabulayat for the district. Certain khots refused to pass the new kabulayats and their villages were consequently attached in 1916. They thereupon filed suits in the District Court of Thana against the Secretary of State praying inter alia for a declaration that they had a permanent right to hold the villages as khots and to levy rents from the tenants at the rates prevailing before the orignal revenue settlement, and that they could not be required to enter into the agreement sanctioned by Government (or any agreements). The suits were dismissed by the Joint Judge, Thana, on 9th June 1920, each partly being ordered to bear its own costs. The khots then appealed to the High Court, and the appeals were decided against Government. The High Court awarded damages from the date of attachment to the date on which management was restored. The attachment of the villages has since been removed. The suits were remanded by the High Court to the District Court for ascertaining the amount of mesne profits due to the khots in respect of Khoti faida. The District Court awarded the following damages :—

	Rs.	a.	p.
Amount of faida	2,51,396	2	11
Japti expenses	24,209	9	4
Government's share in the fee ordered to be paid by the Court to the Commission appointed for calculating the faida and japti expenses	50	0	0
Forest damages	25,814	11	11
Total ..	3,01,470	8	2

Of this total, claims for the following amounts have been admitted by Government and the requisite payments have been made into Court :—

	Rs.	a.	p.	Rs.	a.	p.
Faida	89,481	10	2
Japti expenses	24,209	9	4
Government's share of the fee to the Commission ..	50	0	0	1,13,741	3	6
Forest damages	25,814	11	11
Total ..	1,39,555	15	5

Rs. 1,13,741-3-6 for faida and japti expenses were paid out of the provision of Rs. 2 lakhs in the current year's budget under the head " 5, Land Revenue " for payment of damages in these suits and Rs. 25,814-11-11 for forest damages were paid out of the Forest grant. The balance remaining amounted to Rs. 1,61,914-8-9. This balance carried interest at 6 per cent. per annum from 1st August 1927 till the date of payment into court.

2. Appeals have been ordered to be filed against the decrees of the District Court in respect of the balance still due. But in order, to prevent the running of interest against Government to the extent of about Rs. 810 per mensem, it was considered desirable to pay into court the balance of Rs. 1,61,914-8-9, together with interest up to 31st January 1928, the total amounting approximately to Rs. 1,66,774. The Court has been requested not to pay the amount to the decree-holders unless they give security for the re-payment of the money. To meet this charge of Rs. 1,66,774, a sum of Rs. 86,258-12-6 was available from the provision of Rs. 2 lakhs referred to above after the first payment of Rs. 1,13,741-3-6 for faida and japti expenses had been made, and a further sum of Rs. 80,515 approximately still remained to be provided. As this sum was urgently required, the necessary allotment has been sanctioned by Government. The sanction of the Legislative Council is now requested to the transfer of Rs. 80,515 from the Reserve with Government (Finance Department) under the head " 47-E-Miscellaneous—Miscellaneous and unforeseen charges " to " 5, Land Revenue."

Taluka Development Associations have been formed for Agricultural propaganda. Their main object is to demonstrate the utility of various implements, seeds, manures, etc., to the cultivators. Government bear half the annual cost per taluka on account of the pay and travelling allowance, leave and pension contribution, etc., of the fieldman or kamgar working under these bodies, distribution of the seed and manure, field demonstration, etc., up to a maximum of Rs. 1,000, on condition that the other half is borne by the Association. In the current year's budget a grant of Rs. 30,000 was sanctioned for subsidies to these Associations. This amount has fallen short of the actual requirements as the number of associations is steadily increasing. There are at present 74 such associations. An extra grant of Rs. 21,000 is accordingly required from which to pay the subsidies to the newly formed associations. Of this amount Rs. 30½ lakhs have already been paid. No provision for the balance could be made in the current year's sanctioned estimate, because the exact amount had not been settled. Additional funds required for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Scheme

In the current year's budget the voted provision under the head "55-Construction of Irrigation, Navigation, Embankment and drainage Works" is Rs. 2,01,45,000 and it includes a sum of Rs. 1,86,23,000 for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Project as shown below :—

	Rs.
Works	1,53,33,000
Establishment	24,78,000
Tools and Plant	6,16,000
Suspense	1,96,000
	1,86,23,000

The Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction's demand under "Works" was Rs. 1,78,33,000 but in view of savings on his grants in previous years, a lump deduction of Rs. 25 lakhs was made by Government from his demand and the grant was fixed at Rs. 1,53,33,000. This was done with the view to avoid accumulation of interest charges on unspent balances of Government money.

The total probable expenditure (votable) anticipated on the project in the current financial year is, however, Rs. 2,00,92,000 as shown below :—

	Rs.
Works	1,64,88,000
Establishment	24,86,000
Tools and Plant	1,77,000
Suspense	5,12,000
Pensionary charges	4,29,000
	2,00,92,000

Thus an excess of Rs. 14,69,000 is anticipated over the voted grant for the project, which is due to excesses under Works, Establishment, Suspense, and Pensionary charges, partly counter-balanced by savings under Tools and Plant. The reasons for the excesses under the above-mentioned minor heads are explained below.

2. (a) Excess of Rs. 11,55,000 under 'Works'.—This is mainly due to the following reasons:—

(i) Greater progress than anticipated has been made on works in the Lloyd Barrage Circle.

(ii) Greater part of the work done on the head regulators in the last year has been paid for during the current year.

(iii) The cost of the arch centres and cills and grooves for the regulators, which was provided for in the last year's budget, will be paid for during the current year. No provision for this was made in the current year's demands as it was expected at the time of preparing the budgets that they would be paid for during the year 1926-27.

(iv) Some works, e.g.. downstream left guide bank, pitching the upstream side of the first apron of the regulators, are proposed to be done during the current year for which no provision was made in the budgets.

(v) The cost of constructing and maintaining cofferdams has been heavier than that provided in the budget.

(vi) Construction of third batch of 30 coolie lines, the necessity for which was felt long after the preparation of Schedules of Demands for 1927-28.

(vii) Revised requirements of plant in the Power Supply Division.

(b) Excess of Rs. 8,000 under 'Establishment'.—This is due to greater expenditure than anticipated on leave and deputation salaries of officers payable in England.

(c) Excess of Rs. 3,16,000 under 'Suspense'.—This is due to the reasons explained below:—

(i) Transfer of the total up-to-date expenditure in the Quarries Division from "Works" to "Suspense" for the purpose of capital block account which is classified under 'IV-Suspense.'

(ii) Revised requirements of spares, etc., for dragline excavators the cost of which is in the first instance debited to the head 'Suspense' before they are issued for works.

(iii) Additional funds required for the composite concrete blocks which are being manufactured for the head regulators and Barrage works and are not likely to be issued before the close of the current financial year. They will be used after April 1928 and their cost charged to 'Works' after that date.

(d) Excess of Rs. 4,29,000 on account of pensionary charges.—When the budget for 1927-28 was framed, the rules in force required that pensionary charges on account of establishment employed on irrigation works should be wholly provided for under the head '15-Other Revenue Expenditure financed from Ordinary Revenues' at the rate of 9 per cent. of the total cost of Irrigation establishment. According to the modified rules since prescribed by the Government of India, these pensionary charges are now to be provided for under the irrigation major and minor heads concerned at the rate of 14 per cent. of the cost of establishment. As these revised orders were issued after the current year's budget was passed by the Legislative Council, no provision could be made therein for these charges under the head ' 55 '.

3. Out of the excess of Rs. 14,69,000 mentioned in paragraph 1 above, a sum of Rs. 50,000 is covered by savings to that extent on the provision for other irrigation works in Sind and the Deccan made in the voted grant under the head ' 55 '. The net excess on the voted grant under this head is, therefore, Rs. 14,19,000. A supplementary grant for Rs. 14,19,000 is, therefore, required and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested thereto. To cover this amount, loan savings under ' Other unproductive works ' will be temporarily utilised during 1927-28 and an equivalent amount will be borrowed from the Government of India next year to cover the expenditure permanently.

In October 1926 Government gave permission to Mr. T. Harvey, late Superintending Engineer in charge of the Industrial Housing Scheme, to institute a criminal prosecution against Mr. K. F. Nariman, for defamation in connection with certain statements made by the latter in his evidence before the Committee appointed by the Government of India in the year 1926 under the Chairmanship of Sir Grimwood Mears in connection with the Back Bay Reclamation Scheme. Under Rule 24 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules, Government has, in granting sanction to a Government servant to have recourse to a Law Court for the vindication of his public character from defamatory attacks, to decide in each case whether it will itself bear the costs of the proceedings, or whether the Government servant shall institute the proceedings at his own expense, and if so, whether in the event of a decision in his favour, the Government shall re-imburse him to the extent of the whole or any part of the costs. In accordance with this rule, Government decided that the suit against Mr. Nariman should be instituted at their cost, but subject to the condition that in the event of the complaint being dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, the cost should be borne by Mr. Harvey. The Magistrate has decided on this case that Mr. Nariman preferred the charge against Mr. Harvey in good faith before a competent authority although it appeared to the Magistrate on consideration of the evidence before him that Mr. Harvey did not act corruptly in regard to the indent for the excessive number of mild steel bars or in placing the contracts with the several firms referred to by Mr. Nariman in his cross-examination of Mr. Harvey. In view of this decision, Mr. Harvey is not liable to bear the cost of the case, in accordance with the condition mentioned above under which Government have agreed to bear the cost. The whole charge must therefore be borne by Government. The total expenditure incurred by Government on this case amounts to Rs. 60,800 in round figures and sufficient savings to cover the cost of this case are anticipated in the current year's voted budget grant under the head "59-Bombay Development Scheme," as increased by the supplementary grant voted by the Legislative Council at its last September-October Session. In view of the importance and magnitude of this item of expenditure, it has been treated as a new service, and accordingly, although there are sufficient savings within the grant to which the charge is debitable, a supplementary demand is submitted to the Council.

Additional grant for " refunds " under " 9-A-Schedule Taxes "

The average amount refunded out of the Entertainment Tax paid in Bombay City is Rs. 3,000 per annum, but during the current year Rs. 5,500 are required as various entertainments have taken place during the year in aid of charitable objects such as the Sir Leslie Wilson's Hospital Fund, etc., and large refunds have been granted. As there was no provision for refunds for Bombay City in the current year's budget under " IX-A-Scheduled Taxes, " it is proposed to meet the expenditure of Rs. 5,500 from the reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department. The proposal is placed before the Legislative Council for sanction.

Repairs to deras in the Thar Parkar District

Remarks.—The heavy floods which occurred last year in Thar Parkar District caused considerable damage to deras. This rendered the immediate execution of repairs necessary in order to prevent further damage being done to these buildings. A sum of Rs. 9,500 was therefore placed at the disposal of the Collector for carrying out the repairs. There are no savings in the grant under 5, Land Revenue, from which the expenditure can be met. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to an additional grant of this amount. Additional grant under 8-Forest

In the revised estimate under the head " 8-Forest " there is an excess of Rs. 1,22,000 under " voted " expenditure. This excess is due mainly to the (a) cost of several revenue yielding departmental timber works in the Southern Circle, e.g., extraction of timber from the Nagzari valley, (b) carting of increased quantities of timber to sale depôts, (c) payment for contracts continued from previous years in addition to new ones of the year, and (d) payment of khoti shares in the Kolaba Division according to the decision in the remanded khoti suits. On the other hand there will be a saving of Rs. 69,000 in the provision for " non-voted " expenditure under this major head. The net excess comes to Rs. 53,000, and it is proposed to reappropriate this sum from the Reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department under " 47-Miscellaneous Transferred." The sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the voted grant of Rs. 36,90,000 under " 8-Forest " being increased by Rs. 1,22,000, of which Rs. 69,000 will be from the earmarked saving in the non-voted provision and Rs. 53,000 will be by reappropriation from the Reserve.

Entertainment of tagavi establishment in the Bijapur District

In the Bijapur District much care and enquiry are required to be bestowed upon the selection of suitable tracts for well works and wad works and the selection in those tracts of suitable ryots and suitable fields so that the works undertaken may prove profitable. In order that the work of granting tagavi loans may be carried on uniformly and systematically throughout the district and for accelerating the execution and development of new tagavi schemes the Collector of Bijapur submitted proposals for the entertainment of the following additional staff for a period of one year from 1st July 1927 :—

Five Special Circle Inspectors on pay of Rs. 40 per mensem each in the grade of Rs. 30-5/2-80.

Permanent travelling allowance to the Special Circle Inspectors at the rate of Rs. 15 per mensem each.

Contingent allowance of Re. 1 per mensem to each of them.

Five Peons on Rs. 14 per mensem each.

The extra cost during the current year of the above proposals amounts to Rs. 2,960. Government sanctioned the above proposals, and the extra cost was proposed by the Collector to be met from savings under the head " 22-General Administration." As the establishment in question however is employed on purely revenue work, the charge thereof is correctly debitable to the head " 5-Land Revenue. " There are no savings in the grant under the head " 5-Land Revenue " from which the expenditure of Rs. 2,960 can be met. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to an additional grant of Rs. 2,960. The savings shown by the Collector of Bijapur under the head " 22-General Administration " will not be utilised.

Contract for the printing, publishing, etc., of school wall maps

On the expiry of the contract with Messrs. Datar and Sons of Poona, for the printing, publishing, storing and selling of Departmental school wall maps in December 1927, the Director of Public Instruction invited tenders for a new contract. The Manager, Government Photozinco Press, submitted a tender, and it was accepted by the Director. In accordance with the terms of the agreement between Government and the outgoing contractors, the Manager took over the entire stock in hand with Messrs. Datar and Sons, and in accordance with the terms of the tender he has to pay the cost of this stock, i.e., Rs. 26,829. As the expenditure on account of the Government Photozinco Press is debitable to " 5, Land Revenue, " the extra charge on account of the cost of the maps will be debited to that head. There are no savings in the grants under " 5, Land Revenue " to meet this expenditure which is obligatory. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a supplementary grant of Rs. 26,829 under that head against equivalent savings in the non-voted grants under " 31, Education Transferred " which will not be utilised.

Grant-in-aid to the Kambar Municipality towards the construction of a new dispensary

Since 1912, the present building of the Kambar Municipal dispensary has been reported by the Revenue, Medical, Sanitary and Public Works Department Officers to be very old and ricketty, and all of them have since been recommending the construction of a new building for the dispensary. For want of sufficient funds for constructing a new building the Municipality has been carrying out substantial annual repairs but these do not last even for a couple of months. In 1924 the Municipality asked the Executive Engineer to examine the building and report whether it could be substantially remodelled to serve for a decade more. He, however, reported that the building was very old, that the walls which were kacha were hollow in some places due to water leaking through them and that any sum spent on additions and alterations would be money wasted. The Medical Officer also stated that the building appeared to be unsafe especially during the rains and that the rain water pouring through the hollows of the walls was damaging medicines on some occasions. The Municipality therefore applied for a grant-in-aid towards a new building, and on the recommendation of the officers concerned, Government agreed in March 1926 to give a grant of Rs. 19,296 equal to one-half of the cost of the building. It has, however not been found possible up to now to sanction the grant for want of funds, nor could Government make any provision on that account in next year's budget estimates. The Commissioner in Sind has, however, in the meanwhile reported that if funds were not forthcoming at a very early date, the dispensary would cease to exist, as the present building is positively dangerous. The Municipality has again reminded Government in the matter and has expressed its readiness to pay its half share of the cost at any time. The Kambar Taluka has a population of 77,446 and it would indeed be a hardship to the people if the dispensary which is the only grant-in-aid dispensary in the Taluka were to be closed for want of a building. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a supplementary grant under the head " 32, Medical " for the dispensary building to be met by reappropriation from the Reserve with the Finance Department.

7, Stamps

A total demand of Rs. 4,96,000 (Rs. 1,58,000 for ordinary expenditure and Rs. 3,38,000 for refunds) was voted by the Legislative Council in March 1927 under this head. A Supplementary grant of Rs. 1,11,500 was also made in October last to cover expenditure on account of refunds of the value of stamps embossed on cheque and draft forms in view of the abolition of stamp duty on those documents. The total grant under " 7, Stamps " therefore amounts to Rs. 6,07,500 against which the following expenditure is anticipated in the nine-monthly revised estimate :

	Rs.
Ordinary expenditure	1,43,000
Refunds	5,15,000
	6,58,000

There will thus be an excess of Rs. 50,500 over the grant. The excess is due to abnormal refunds of probate duty, which are partially counterbalanced by a decrease of Rs. 15,000 in the ordinary expenditure. The Legislative Council is therefore requested to sanction an additional grant of Rs. 50,000 under the head " 7, Stamps. "

Grant-in-aid to 5-H Week Fund equal to the receipts on account of the Totalisator Tax and Entertainments Tax in connection with the extra Race meeting of the Western India Turf Club.

The 5-H Week was organised for the benefit of the Bombay Hospital Nursing Associations and the Sir Leslie Wilson Hospital Fund, Bombay. The Stewards of the Western India Turf Club have kindly agreed to donate the proceeds of a day's racing, provided that Government will remit the taxes derived from the Entertainment Tax and Totalisator Tax for the benefit of 5-H Funds on this particular day. The proceeds will be ear-marked for the Nursing Associations of Bombay. An extra-Race Meeting is therefore to be held on the 14th March 1928 and it has been agreed that Government should make over to the 5-H Fund all moneys received from the Western India Turf Club as Totalisator Tax and Entertainment Tax. The total amount that is likely to be recovered is estimated at Rs. 45,000, but the actual payment will be equal to the figure of receipts of the day. The receipts, have, however, to be credited in the first place to provincial funds and cannot be expended without the necessary provision in the budget estimates, and the amount to be paid to the 5-H Fund has to be treated as a grant-in-aid to the Fund and debited to "32-Medical." As no savings are available under that head, it is proposed to reappropriate Rs. 45,000 from the Reserve under "47-Miscellaneous-Transferred" and therefore this demand is presented to the Legislative Council for sanction.

DISCUSSION OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST:

Resolutions by Mr. B. T. Desai, M.L.C.

1. " This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that he be pleased to convey to His Excellency the Viceroy and to His Majesty's Government this Council's sense of acute and profound dissatisfaction at the appointment of the Statutory Commission excluding Indians and this Council's indignation at the calculated affront offered to India by the exclusion of Indians from the Statutory Commission."

2. " This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to give total or partial remission of land assessment in respect of the lands affected and washed away by floods and wherein there is a total or partial failure of crops and to return the land assessment collected in such cases to the owners of such fields."

3. " This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the official members of this Council should not be allowed to vote on any motion to elect a Legislative Committee to assist the Statutory Commission."

Resolution by Rao Saheb D. P. Desai, M.L.C.

1. " This Council recommends to Government that the revised land revenue assessment in the Chorasi and Bardoli talukas of the Surat District, sanctioned by Government, shall not be collected."

Resolutions by Mr. Shankarrao Jayaramrao Zunzarrao, M.L.C.

1. " This Council recommends to Government to give to the local boards of every district in the Presidency one-eighth of the net income accruing from the Forest and Excise revenues of such districts."

2. " This Council recommends to Government to construct a direct road from Kalyan to Ahmednagar via Junnar by opening up the Nane Ghaut and to treat as Provincial roads all the local board roads merging into the new trunk road."

3. " This Council recommends to Government that the local authorities (both Municipal and Local Board) in the Presidency be directed to submit to Government within one year a complete scheme for the introduction of compulsory primary education in their respective areas."

Resolutions by Mr. H. B. Shivdasani, M.L.C.

1. " This Council recommends to Government that the work of Revision Settlement of the Olpad Taluka, Surat District, be suspended till the principles of Revision Settlement are put on a statutory basis."

2. " This Council recommends to Government that the Revision Settlement which they propose to introduce in the Chikhli Taluka of the Surat District be not given effect to until the principles of Revision Settlements are put on a statutory basis by the amendment of the Bombay Land Revenue Code to be brought before the Legislative Council shortly."

3. " This Council recommends to Government that the recovery of Land Revenue at the rates of assessment fixed at the new Revision Settlement of the Bardoli and Chorasi Talukas be postponed until the principles of Revision Settlements are put on a statutory basis by the amendment of the Bombay Land Revenue Code to be brought before the Legislative Council shortly and that till then Land Revenue be recovered at the old rates."

4. " This Council recommends to Government that the work of Land Revenue Revision Settlements should be entirely suspended till the principles of Revision Settlements are put on a statutory basis by an amendment of the Bombay Land Revenue Code and that till this is done no fresh Revision Settlements should be introduced anywhere in the Bombay Presidency."

5. " This Council recommends to Government that an amount of Rs. 8,66,400 which represents the difference between the receipts from Himayat assessment on tanks in the Surat District for the years 1913-14 to 1922-23, viz., Rs. 4,37,166 and the amount spent on the repair of those tanks in the same period, viz., Rs. 70,766 be spent in the next three years on the special repair of tanks in the Surat District."

6. " This Council recommends to Government that in future the amount spent in any year on the repair of tanks in a district should not be less than the amount realised as Himayat (Water-rate) assessment from the tanks of that district."

7. " This Council recommends to Government that for the better conduct of the Criminal and Revenue administration of the Bombay Presidency the following changes should be made :—

(a) Revenue officers should exercise no powers under the laws relating to Crimes;

(b) The Prant officers, that is Sub-Divisional Officers, should be abolished, the Collector being given a personal assistant where necessary."

8. " This Council recommends to Government that Revenue Commissionerships should be abolished."

9. " This Council recommends to Government that a committee with a three-fourths non-official majority be appointed to consider and report on the following matters :—

(a) what cottage industries are best suited to the conditions prevailing in this Presidency (including Sind);

(b) what are the best means of introducing such cottage industries and of encouraging their growth and expansion so as to bring them within the easy reach of every villager."

10. " This Council recommends to Government that in view of the agricultural, commercial and industrial importance of Gujarat and Ahmedabad and in view of their contribution to the Provincial and Central exchequer a Provincial road be constructed from Bombay to Ahmedabad by completing all the gaps in this road and by constructing bridges and causeways over all the unbridged rivers and channels within the next five years."

11. " This Council recommends to Government that the portion of the Provincial road from Sisodra to Matwad (Chikhli Taluka) which is entirely Katcha should be metalled immediately."

12. " This Council recommends to Government that a bridge be constructed over the river Auranga near Bulsar, district Surat, in the near future, as there is very heavy traffic across it and it is held up for several hours at every tide."

Resolutions by Mr. G. A. D. Wasif, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government to introduce legislation for the registration and licensing of moneylenders with a view to restricting the exorbitant rates of interest prevailing in the Presidency and to free the poor and labouring classes from their heavy and life-long indebtedness."

2. "This Council recommends to Government to appoint at an early date a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to enquire into the condition of cottage industries in the Presidency and to suggest measures for their development."

Resolution by Rao Saheb R. V. Vandekar, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends Government to appoint a small committee, consisting of two non-official members of this Council and one official, to enquire into the causes that lead to the rapid decline of population in the Kanara District as has been shown at the last three censuses, and to suggest suitable measures to arrest it."

G. S. RAJADHYAKSHA,

Acting Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.
